The county mill tax is levied on all property and is distributed to the districts in the county according to the number of pupils attending school at least forty days during the term.

The special levy is levied on the valuation of the real and personal property and goes directly to the local district.

The State Loan levy goes to liquidate bonded money that has been received from the state.

In dollars and cents, these different levies raise the following sums:

Special levy of 44.5 mills	$79,941.71
One mill levy	2,538.41
State Loan, 6.2 mills	11,137.95
Total levy	$93,618.07

In a following issue will appear a table setting forth the aid received by our district from the state.

Undergoes Operation

Harold Provencher, who has been employed as steward at the Northern hotel at Devils Lake for about six months, returned home last Saturday night, and on Monday morning was operated on for appendicitis at the Physicians hospital.

Mr. Provencher is in the hands of the vocational training board, being a former service man, and entitled to medical treatment at one of the Minneapolis hospitals, but his case was urgent and it was thought best to bring him back to his home in this city. He is recovering nicely.

Vapors reach deep colds
When the cold "goes down" get after it by the rubbing and vapor method.

Obstinate colds that go down into the chest can be reached by the combination rubbing and vapor-inhaling method with Vicks VapoRub.

Apply Vicks over throat and chest. Rub well in, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of flannel. At night arrange bedclothes loosely, like a funnel, so the arising vapors will be breathed all night, right into the lungs.

Quick relief should be had from the tightness, soreness and cough with rapid loosening of the phlegm, abating danger of pneumonia or influenza.

Vicks contains the antiseptic, healing vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Oil of Turpentine and is the standby in millions of homes for congestions of nose, throat, and chest; skin hurts and itchings, and various bodily pains.

Once tried, Vicks becomes a stand-by in the medicine cabinet.

Just rub it on and breathe in the vapors

THE DEPENDABLE STAND-BY.

The co-operative creamery has proven itself a rescue station for the Northwestern farmer during the past two years. While this is true of every year to a greater or lesser extent, the fact has never been so thoroughly demonstrated as in the recent past. The man with the cream check is the one to whom merchants and even bankers defer. His is the one branch of husbandry out of which the bottom has not dropped.

While it is true that prices for butterfat took a mighty tumble from the high plane reached during the war, yet they have been maintained at a point that meant a profit for the producer. Creamery figures for the year are down somewhat as compared with those for 1920, but the increase in volume has taken up the slack to such an extent that the total is not far below the last-mentioned year. This means that there are more cows and better cows in the state and section than ever before.

The Thief River Falls Co-operative creamery has kept abreast of its neighbors at all times and has often been in the lead. The amount of butterfat received is greater than ever before in its history and the demand for its product constantly increasing. In fact the plant has never been able to make all the butter it could have sold and the probabilities are that it never will.

Six hundred dollars and more has has been paid out to the cream producers in the region served by the creamery every day during the past year, Sundays and holidays included. For the month of July the amount distributed among the milkers averaged $1,280 per day, while during December it fell to $405 per day. The average, however, was a little over $600.

It is without question the greatest industry in the county. Not only is it important to the man who owns the cows and consequently receives the check, but it is of almost as great importance to the business man with whom he does his trading. The latter is dependent upon the milch cow to a far greater extent than he sometimes realizes. She has never failed him so he does not know just how badly she would be missed. She is the one dependable standby in northern Minnesota when other things fail in coming up to expectations.

The farmer who decides to make this branch of industry his main dependence is wise. He will find those who are ready to help him get a start and under conditions which will make his success certain. The matter is largely up to the man on the farm. He can continue in the haphazard manner followed by so many at the present time or he can make the right beginning and embrace the one opportunity open to him for achieving contentment and prosperity.

FARMERS TAKING A HAND.

(Crookston Times.)

Why all the excitement about the "farm bloc?" Why all the objection on the part of what is known as the "capitalistic press" to the farmers taking an interest in government or pretending even to have rights in it?

From reading some of this comment one would almost be led to believe that the farmers were committing a crime by their attempt through united action to influence legislation favorable to the agricultural interests.

There are some who seem to believe all the farmers are expected to do is cultivate the soil, pay taxes, produce the sons and daughters that do the successful work in the cities, then feed the entire nation at less cost than they can produce the crops that constitute the real national wealth.

When they have done that, according to some city folks, they have fulfilled their mission and are in no way justified in playing any really important part in government.

But the farmers themselves and those who realize to what an extent the prosperity of the nation depends upon their success look upon this thing differently and hereafter the man who goes to congress from this state will have to show that he has a real interest in the farmers' welfare all the time instead of only at election time.

OBSERVATIONS

(W. T. Noonan in Baudette Region.)

It looks as if the disarmament conference isn't even disarming suspicion.

Minnesota liquor sanitariums are closing up because of lack of patronage. We're not surprised. Moonshine drinkers go straight to the cemetery.

The Biwabik Times favors amputating the "Lieut." from Lieut.-Gov. Collins' title. You won't have to live many years to see that operation performed.

"Girl shows clean pair of heels to man who tries to rob her," says a city daily. She must have been from the country. With present styles a city girl would show him a clean pair of knees.

Woman Preacher Here.

Mrs. Clinton Cook will deliver the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. Mrs. Cook is a regularly ordained minister and the wife of the Presbyterian Sunday school missionary in this field. The public is cordially invited to come and hear her sermon.

Martin Langseth Sick.

Word has been received in this city of the serious illness of Martin Langseth, who is attending the university of California under the vocational training provision of the government. This young man was among the first to enlist from Pennington county at the outbreak of the war and served up to the time of the armistice. He was gassed in action while a member of the 151st field artillery.

To Select Debater.

A declamation contest for the purpose of selecting the district debater to be sent to the regional meeting at Crookston, held in connection with the winter crops show, will take place in this city on Friday evening. In the district with Thief River Falls are St. Hilaire, Lancaster, Holt, Greenbush and Red Lake Falls.

New Instructor Here.

Stanley W. Pawley, formerly of Flint, Mich., has joined the local high school staff as instructor in commerce. This is the division in which commercial arithmetic, commercial law and a number of other advanced branches are taught. Mr. Pawley is a young man of wide experience in these subjects, which are now days considered of very great importance.

Should Be Enrolled.

Supt. I. T. Simley requests that all parents who have children coming of school age at the beginning of the present semester send them for enrollment at once in order that they may join the beginners' class. The weather has been somewhat against school attendance by primary pupils since the opening of school, but they should be sent if this can possibly be done.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The W. C. T. U. will meet next Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 31, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Bishop. Every member is asked to come prepared to pay the yearly dues. Lunch will be served.

Entertains Informally.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson entertained a company of friends at her home Sunday evening.

Sleighride Party.

About 25 of the oldest pupils in the music class of Miss Doris M. Halvorson were netertained by her Thursday evening at a sleighride party. Later the guests were invited to Miss Halvorson's home for a taffy pull. Much of the time was taken up with games and music. Light refreshments concluded a most pleasant evening.

REGARDING RED LAKE DRAINAGE PROJECT

Editor Times:

Some time ago there appeared in the Minneapolis Journal an article or letter written by Mr. Berg from Erskine, Minn., in regard to the drainage of the so-called Red Lake basin and the consequent lowering of Red Lake and Clearwater rivers.

To anyone who is familiar with the subject and knows the condition of the territory to be affected by the project, the viewpoint put forth by Mr. Berg appears to be entirely absurd and misguiding, and without basic facts. To those who are directly concerned or live in this territory, an article of that nature has little or no influence, but to those who are less familiar with the true situation it may mean a false impression of the proposed work.

Mr. Berg acknowledges that he is only "somewhat acquainted with the territory and settlers who are supposed to benefit by this project," and judging by the general tone of the letter, even that must have been an exaggerated statement.

A survey of this territory—not only the swamps around Red lake (which were laid so much stress on) but also the fine farms of great potential value along the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers—would reveal the absolute necessity and feasibility of such improvement. It is not doing justice to this territory to say that it is largely covered with tamarack swamp which it would be of little or no value to drain or develop. On the contrary, a large part of the will-be-benefitted section is composed of land which, in many instances, is fully as good, and in some cases even better, than that found around Erskine, if it only were developed to its full capacity of production. This is proven by the fact that when destructive floods or unfavorable weather have not destroyed the promising crop, the returns have been highly favorable. This can be verified by farmers who have tilled the soil along the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers for a number of years.

The settlers are progressive and thrifty farmers who, in most instances, are unsuccessful, not because of inefficiency but on account of being handicapped by the seemingly inevitable floods. This is especially true of those living in the immediate vicinity of the rivers. Is there any reason for not assisting them in their efforts to increase production and make a living? The only relief in their present distress is the drainage project, which will benefit them to the degree that they will be able to utilize their land. And they have no fear of the drained tamarack swamps near Red lake which Mr. Berg predicts will be such a menace when the tamarack dries. At that rate, few developments of that kind would have been made for fear that the drained forests would become dangerous "firetraps." It is true that work on the project should have been done before, but it isn't yet too late. Many settlers have "stuck through it" merely in the anticipation that the long proposed improvement would finally be accomplished. Now they have put it in the hands of a board which, with Mr. Selvig as president, is doing all in its power to materialize the proposed project in the most favorable manner—not as it would concern engineers and contractors, but the residents of the river basin. Their work should not be hampered by interpretations put forth by persons who show little familiarity with the enterprise.

The three hundred who started the project at a mass-meeting had their own good at heart and knew what was necessary. From bitter experience they had learned that the numerous ditches were not sufficient, but that the two rivers eventually must be dredged to bring the desired results.

Since the work is wanted and expressed by those concerned, their cooperation in immediate action upon the work can be assured. They are willing to support it, at least so long as they are "hanging on" and not forced out due to the lack of the necessary aid. Now that it has been well begun let us help to promote as rapid progress as possible.

STILL TIME To Start WINNING

In the Thief River Falls Times Salesmanship Campaign

MAKE YOUR START TODAY

The advantages of starting now are many. While a few have enrolled, there is still plenty of time for YOU to enroll and win. No one has accomplished anything that you cannot duplicate now while subscriptions earn more "Credits" than they will later in the campaign. There isn't any excuse why you should hesitate. Don't lose any more valuable time making up your mind. Remember he who hesitates is lost. The few who have enrolled can under no circumstances cover the territory The Times reaches over. Remember new and old subscriptions earn the same number of "Credits." Make your start today—NOW.

EARN OVER $200 A WEEK FOR EIGHT WEEKS

Just think! You are offered the opportunity of earning over $200 a week for the next eight weeks. This is more money than some people save in a lifetime. The Buick Beauty Six, which is offered to the person finishing with the highest number of "Credits" in the Thief River Falls Times Salesmanship Campaign, sells in this city for $1,595. Nominate yourself and make the Buick "your Buick" and receive the $25 offered for nominating the winner of the first prize. You can make your start today by sending in the enrollment blank. And in eight short weeks win the Buick, also the $25, or better than $200 a week for the eight weeks of the campaign. Is there any logical reason under the sun why you should not win just as well as the next one? Make your start today.

10% COMMISSION

Will be paid on all subscription money turned in by Contestants not winning a prize.

EARLY BIRD GETS THE WORM

If you have hoped, dreamed or longed for an auto of your own you had better make up your mind right this minute to enroll in this campaign. It doesn't make any difference where you live, you have an equal chance to win.

Subscriptions to the Thief River Falls Times are to be had for the mere asking any place you go. Subscriptions earn free "Credits" and free "Credits" will win the prizes. The general impression is that to enter and win in a campaign of this kind it takes "plenty" of money, time and experience to win. This is a mistaken idea. No experience is needed and it is not necessary that you spend one red cent to win. Free "Credits" will win and the way to obtain these "Credits" is by gathering subscriptions to The Times. You can do that just as well as the next one. You will be surprised how easy it is once you have made your start. You will never regret it when you go sailing home in your brand new Buick.

The American people are great "faddists."

One day they are all wild over some popular expression and the next day it is something else.

A few years ago somebody, probably unknowingly, said impatiently, "Oh, let George do it!" After that whenever anyone wanted to avoid doing some work they said with a wink, "Oh, let George do it."

But the joke was on them instead. Letting "the other fellow" do things is all right if you want to save your energy. But in the end, who benefits? George, of course.

It is surprising that so many people who have been reading the announcements of the Thief River Falls Times Salesmanship Campaign have adopted the old saying of "Let George do it."

Don't let "George" or anybody else win the Buick Six right out from under your nose. You still have time to jump into this campaign and give a big "hurrah" for yourself that will awaken your friends and neighbors to the fact that you are out to win. Study the list and see for yourself that you are not "out of the running" by enrolling now. Don't think that you have no chance of winning. No one on the list has accomplished anything that you cannot duplicate.

These days of the first period are the "Golden Days" of the entire campaign. This is not only true because the subscriptions earn more "Credits" than they will later, but it gives you the opportunity of piling up a reserve that will make winning later a "snap."

Now is the time to get busy and stay busy. February is a short month. In a few short weeks the first period will be over and then come the final weeks of the campaign. You wouldn't pass up the opportunity of winning this Big Buick Touring Car if you realized how easy it is to pile up the "Credits" that can win it for you. Wishers are never winners, but hustlers are.

Don't be guilty of letting George do it. Show all the Georges that you are the right kind of a hustler by getting an early start now before it is forever too late. One wallop doesn't win a prize fight, one shot didn't win the war, and one subscription will not win the Buick, but everlastingly plugging away at gathering subscriptions will win and win big for you.

Greenbush Man Commits Suicide; Leaves Family

C. A. Carlson of Greenbush, committed suicide by hanging at his home on Thursday night. He was engaged in sawing wood with two other men when he left work and went into the house. Failing to return within a reasonable time his companions became suspicious that something was wrong and went in search for him. They came upon his lifeless body suspended from a beam in the basement.

The dead man leaves a wife and three children. Financial worries during the past year made him despondent at times, but his previous actions had not been such as to give cause for alarm. It is said that he had lost considerable money in a number of financial ventures entered upon a short time before his death.

ALL BANKS IN CITY ARE DEPOSITORIES FOR PUBLIC FUNDS

Deposits to Be Prorated According to Amount of Capital and Surplus of Each.

All banks in the city were named depositories for municipal funds by the city council on Tuesday evening, the division of deposits being prorated according to the capital and surplus of the institutions, as follows: The First National and the First and Peoples banks, 28 per cent each; Citizens State and Farmers and Merchants banks, 22 per cent each.

It was decided to have the books of the city audited by the public examiner and a request was ordered sent to that official requesting that a competent accountant be assigned to the job as soon as possible. While there was a doubt in the minds of some of the councilmen concerning the necessity for this audit, it was thought best to have the work done in order that a verified statement might be made to the taxpayers.

H. A. Brumund, president of the city council, announced a number of changes in the makeup of standing committees for the coming year. The committee of finance remains the same as heretofore, Mr. Brumund being chairman with councilmen Brandon and Froseth as the other members. The health committee also remains the same, Dr. Biederman being chairman, with councilmen Ness, Froseth and Ihle as associates. The poor committee is changed entirely, councilman Dahl being named chairman and Ihle and Brandon associates. This comittee was formerly made up of Froseth, Ness and Dahl, with the former as chairman. Brandon heads the committee on roads, streets and sidewalks, the other members being Dahl and Brumund. The committee on license, printing and municipal buildings remains the same—Dahl, chairman, Brandon and Ness. Ihle heads the committee on electric lights and water works, of which he was formerly also a member; Ness replaces Brandon and Brumund remains.

TRIAL OF GUMMER MAY BE POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Illness of Attorney For State Makes Resumption of Hearings Uncertain.

The trial of William Gummer on the charge of murdering Miss Marie Wick was not resumed on Monday at Valley City. It seems likely that that the case will be delayed at least another week and probably two weeks.

Judge Charles M. Cooley, presiding in the case, in conference with W. H. Barnett, chief counsel for the defense, and C. C. Wattam, assistant state attorney for Cass county, has indicated his willingness to recess the case for at least another week to permit the complete recovery of William C. Green, state attorney, who was forced to quit the case because of illness that has confined him to his room in a Valley City hotel for several days.

Baby Swallows Staple; Is All Right Thus Far

June, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Benbow of Holt, is at the Physician's hospital in this city with a fence staple in her stomach. The child stuck the staple in her mouth and before anyone could get it away, had swallowed it. She was rushed to the hospital and an x-ray picture taken. This discloses the double pointed wire holder as lodged in the stomach with the points away from the direction in which it must travel in order to be expelled. The doctors are watching the case closely as they hesitate in resorting to an operation on so small a baby.

Ford Announces Cut of $230 in Fordson Tractor

The McFarland Auto company this week announces a cut of $230 in the price of Fordson tractors. This is without doubt the most sensational reduction made at one time in gasoline or kerosene power machinery in the history of the industry. The Fordson is now $395 f. o. b. factory. Mr. Ford explains that the move is made in order to reduce the stock now on hand and keep the factory going at full speed to provide employment while business is readjusting itself.

Mr. McFarland advises all who may be contemplating the purchase of a tractor to do so at the present low price as there is no guarantee that it will not advance with the same suddenness that it went down.

OVER 20 THOUSAND DOLLARS PAID AS AUTO TAX IN 1921

This is Pennington's Share of $5,600,000 Total Collected in Entire State.

Pennington county owners of motor vehicles paid registration fees amounting to $21,604.42 during the year 1921. In the state a total of $5,616,113.60 was collected from this source and of this amount the three counties of Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis paid nearly $2,000,000.

Northwestern Minnesota counties, outside of Pennington, paid the following amounts: Clearwater, $12,604.42; Kittson, $24,060.78; Marshall, $41,569.63; Polk, $78,770.74; Red Lake, $12,446.31; Roseau, $16,779.92. Besides Clearwater, Red Lake and Roseau counties the following paid smaller amounts than Pennington: Aitkin, Cass, Cook, Hubbard, Koochiching, Lake, Mahnomen and Traverse.

From 1,000 to 20,000 letters were received each day requiring opening, examination, and in many cases, a reply. From 100 to 300 sacks of mail were sent out daily during the rush period. Double shifts were put on and the work was carried on night and day to accommodate the public and expedite business. In the height of the registration period from 10,000 to 12,000 pairs of plates were mailed out each day weighing between five and six tons, each set bearing two kinds of postage and the registration certificate in a separate envelope.

Almost 200 tons of steel were required to make the total supply of plates and the statistician has calculated that, if the plates were laid end to end, they would make a line reaching almost from St. Paul to Duluth.

Secretary of State Mike Holm and his assistants are coming in for much merited praise for the manner in which the business was handled. It was the first year of the tax and the machinery for taking care of the extraordinary demand was not perfected. In spite of this fact the work was accomplished in a manner highly creditable to the secretary and his force.

OLD RIVALS MEET TONIGHT TO PROVE CLAIMS AS CHAMPS

Game to Be Played at Crookston Expected to Be Greatest of Entire Season.

The greatest basketball contest of the season will take place at Crookston this evening when the Thief River Falls Athletics meet the Independents of that city. Both aggregations are confident of victory and it is a foregone conclusion that the contest will be spirited from the outset. Sometimes it is of value to get the other fellow's viewpoint and a slant at the situation as it appears to Crookston people may prove of value. The correspondent in that city of the Grand Forks Herald has no doubt of the outcome, evidently, to judge from his version, but he gives some interesting and reliable basketball history and his writeup is as fair as can be asked when his position is realized. He says:

"The objective game of Crookston's highly successful independent basketball season will be played here Thursday when the Crookston quintet meets Thief River Falls in the first of a series of games which will practically decide the basketball championship of the entire northwestern part of Minnesota. A second game will be played at Thief River Falls Feb. 16, and by winning both games Crookston will have undisputed claim to the Independent championship. The games with Thief River Falls are expected to be attended by record breaking crowds as it is known a deadly sport feud exists between the two cities. The rivalry in basketball is especially keen on account of the dispute last year when the Crookston-Thief River game played at the Falls city broke up in a row with the tennis tied.

"Crookston has built up one of the best teams in the state with the original intention of having a team ready to beat Thief River Falls. As the situation now stands Crookston has the edge, having beaten teams which have defeated the Thief River quintet but overconfidence is not going to cause the local five to be unprepared to play its best game of the year next Thursday as it is realized that Thief River Falls will come to Crookston at that time with the strongest team it can possibly secure."

The Thief River Falls team has never been in better shape to take on their ancient rivals than at the present moment. Holzknecht is back in the lineup and is going better than ever. Carlson and Kiland have recovered from their injuries and Brown is rearin' to go. Penny and Hadrath are in condition to go in at a moment's notice. Roy Louden will be with the bunch, having decided to finish the season here. While it is fully realized that the Crookston game will be a stiff proposition, the boys feel confident that they can carry off the victory. They have not had a great deal of experience on strange floors and this will give the down-river team the edge, but anyone who is of the opinion that the contest is going to prove a walkaway for the Crookstonites is due for a surprise.

Dr. Swedenburg Returns.

Dr. A. W. Swedenburg, who has been the chief medical officer at the Veterans' bureau of the sub-district office in Sioux Falls, S. D., arrived home the first of the week on a ten day leave of absence. Sickness in his family hastened his visit as he had intended remaining at his post until after March 1, after which time he expected to make other arrangements. Just what his future decision will be as regards this post he has not yet fully determined. Dr. Abram Shedlov, who occupied his offices here and looked after his practice in his absence, has decided to move back to Gully permanently, his successor in that town returning to Minneapolis. Dr. Swedenburg says the work at the Veterans' bureau is very interesting and has proven a valuable experience.

Hotel Changes Hands.

The Rex hotel at Baudette was this week taken over by Fred Harmon, the former manager, who purchased the furniture from Ed. Russell. Both these men are well known in Thief River Falls and the transaction is of interest to the many traveling men whose headquarters are in this city and who make Baudette on their trips.

CLUB OFFICERS LAY PLANS FOR GREAT ACTIVITY

Dr. H. W. Froehlich Elected to Head Local Commercial Club During Coming Year.

New Officers All Men of Energy and Fully Awake to Possibilities of Organization.

Thursday Luncheons to Continue, Having Proved Helpful in Holding Interest.

Dr. H. W. Froelich was on Thursday afternoon elected president of the Thief River Falls commercial club, succeeding W. A. Hall, Jr., who has efficiently served in that capacity during the past year. E. M. Bennes was elected vice president, and Albert Lonson treasurer. In addition to the officers the following were elected as a board of directors: Math. Barzen, Hans Anton, Carl Christofferson, W. B. Fuller and the retiring president Mr. Hall. This board will meet later to elect a secretary for the club.

It is expected that at the luncheon today President Froehlich will have something in the way of a program to propose to the members. After expressing his appreciation of the honor confered upon him last Thursday he spoke briefly on topics of general interest but stated that as nothing was farther from his expectation than being chosen to head the club he had very little in the way of suggestion to offer at that time.

DR. H. W. FROEHLICH

Progress During the Year

As is the case with practically all organizations of a similar character, the Thief River Falls commercial club is under the influence of the unsettled conditions prevailing throughout the country and has not struck it's pre-war stride. The new president is of the opinion that this lethargy should now be taken off and the organization enter upon a period of active work. The past year has shown much progress in this direction in spite of adverse conditions. Interest has been kept alive and quite a number of important undertakings either organized or supported. It has not been the fault of Mr. Hall or the other officers that things have not moved faster. Rather it is greatly to their credit that the club is still a live and functioning organization.

To Continue Luncheons

President Froehlich is highly in favor of continuing the Thursday noon luncheons. He has already taken steps to see that everything is in readiness at 12 o'clock sharp in order that busy members may loose as little time as possible. It will be the aim to provide something of interest for discusion every week and many matters not yet touched upon will be introduced. It is realized that there are a large number of activities in which the club should take an immediate interest and the idea of the officers will be to keep these prominently to the front.

The new president says he will devote all the time possible to the advancement of the club and feels certain of the co-operation of not only his fellow-officers but of the membership as a whole in his efforts to bring the organization back to the prominent place it occupied in the life of the community before war conditions upset all calculations. Dr. Froehlich is an energetic citizen and takes hold of things with a will. That his administration will prove a success is something of which everyone feels convinced.

It is expected that the forthcoming report of Secretary G. L. Sterns will show that the club during the year has made consistent if not always rapid strides in many important directions.

TIME EXTENDED—PENALTY WAIVED UNTIL FEBRUARY

As permitted by law, Mike Holm, secretary of state, announces that the penalty for delayed registration will be waived for the first fifteen days in February. In other words, motor vehicle owners will be allowed until Feb. 15 in which to make application without penalty for delayed registration.

Dr. Paulson Promoted.

Dr. A. J. Paulson, for many years a practitioner in this city, has been appointed chief of staff of the Lutheran hospital at Watertown, S. D., which city has been his home since he left Thief River Falls. There are six physicians and surgeons on the staff of which Dr. Paulson becomes the head, the institution being one of the largest in South Dakota. This recognition of Dr. Paulson's ability as a surgeon will be pleasant news to his many friends in this section of the state.

PENNINGTON WILL HAVE DIVISION AT BIG VALLEY SHOW

Whole Section of Poultry and Carload of Guernseys Form Only Parts of Exhibit.

Pennington county is going to be well represented at the Midwinter Farm Crops show at Crookston next week. There will be a carload of Guernsey cattle from the farms of Albert Johnson, F. B. Conklin and H. C. Woelson and individuals from these will be selected as a county exhibit. Mr. Conklin will also exhibit Shropshire sheep and it is probable that there will be others.

Exhibitors from this county aim to clean up the poultry division and have been alloted one entire section for themselves. Those who have signified their intention of entering birds for competition are Olaf Neses, Rhode Island Reds; David Gustafson, Plymouth Rocks; H. L. Schuster, Leghorns and Ed Battenfield, Orphingtons. W. A. Westphal of St. Hilaire, will also be represented in the Leghorn division of the exhibit, which will be the only one at the show occupying one entire section.

James Dreckind of Wylie, will have a carload of prize-winning Poland China hogs on display, and William Novak of the same place, will again try for first place with his Red Polled cattle.

County Agent McCann is of the opinion that the Pennington county exhibits will carry off the blue ribbons in whatever class they are shown. The stock will come in competition with the very best there is in the entire valley, but those best able to judge state that there is every chance of Pennington carrying off the high award when it comes to deciding on the best general livestock display.

Potato and grain growers will also be in evidence. The county can more than hold its own when it comes to spuds but is liable to yield to Kittson when it comes to small grains. At least that is the concensus of expert opinion.

Inflammable Celluloid Comb Causes Death of Baby Girl

The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Johnson of Mahnomen, was brought to the Physicians hospital last Wednesday evening suffering from burns from which she died two hours later. She was playing near a stove with a celuloid comb in her hands when this caught fire which instantly enveloped the child. Her body from the knees up was burned to such an extent that there was no hope of saving her life.

Ditch Bonds Disposed of at Very Reasonable Figure

The board of county commissioners on Tuesday sold $50,000 worth of ditch bonds to the Northwestern Trust company of St. Paul, the price being 5¼ per cent. The money will be used in the construction of judicial ditch No. 30 in Silverton and North townships, the contract for which was let last October to the Union Drainage company of Crookston. This is the ditch project to which there has been a great deal of objection, particularly by persons living across the line in Marshall county, a section calculated to be greatly benefited by the new outlet.

Work on the project will be begun as soon as weather permits in the spring.

COURT CONVENES TUESDAY MORNING FOR WINTER TERM

Twenty-Eight Civil and Three Criminal Cases on Docket. Grand Jury is Called.

The February term of the Pennington county district court convenes next Tuesday morning with Judge Andrew Grindeland presiding. The calendar is the longest for some time, containing a total of 28 civil and three criminal cases, the latter as well as five of the civil cases being continued from last term. Two of the criminal cases to be heard charge illegitimacy, one being against James Pareteau and the other against Elmer Larson. Moonshine Eats Varnish Off Judge Tarrant's Desk

John Severson was brought to this city on Friday from Crookston by Deputy Sheriff Frank McGinnity on Friday to answer to a charge of selling intoxicating liquors, preferred by John Hoyum. County Attorney Theo. Quale on direct examination of the complainant elicited the allegation that the liquor was purchased some time last September; that it was contained in a quart mason jar and that it had produced intoxication. The price paid was alleged to have been $2. Severson acted as his own attorney and put a number of questions to his accuser. The answers evidently failed to satisfy Judge Tarrant as he bound Severson over to the grand jury in $200 bail, which was furnished.

Concerning the potency of the evidence there was no doubt. While being handled in the court room a little was spilled on the judge's desk with the result that the varnish disappeared, leaving an unsightly white blotch. White rings also indicate the spots where the jar stood while being the object of discussion, some of the liquid having trickled over the sides. Samples of the stuff have been sent to a laboratory for analysis.

This is the first criminal case coming before Judge Tarrant in the year 1922. There have been a few civil actions of minor importance but as a whole the municipal court room has been a place of dignified peace.

To Help the Blind

The tag sale carried on during two days of last week by the ladies of the city under the leadership of Mrs. A. S. Sapero to raise funds for helping the blind of the state netted $36, which sum has been sent to state headquarters. The ladies are very much pleased with the amount collected, no attempt being made to secure a large sum. All offerings were voluntary and the bulk of donations ranged from 10 to 50 cents. The result indicates that a very thorough canvas was made.

ACQUIT KIRBY ON ONE CHARGE; DROP THE OTHER

Grand Forks Jury Finds Him Not Guilty of Practicing Medicine Without License.

Indictment For Manslaughter is Ordered Quashed Upon Advice of State's Attorney.

More Than Five Hours Needed to Decide Guilt or Innocence of the Accused Man.

S. R. Kirby of Northwood, formerly of Thief River Falls, was declared not guilty of practicing medicine without a license, by a jury in the Grand Forks county district court Tuesday night.

As a result of this verdict, State's Attorney T. B. Elton announced that he would move at once for the dismissal of the manslaughter charge on which Kirby was to have been tried beginning Wednesday morning.

The jury brought in its verdict of not guilty at 10 o'clock Tuesday night after having been out slightly more than five hours, the case having been submitted to the jurors at 4:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

The entire afternoon and part of the morning session Tuesday was taken up by the arguments of the attorneys, the state having rested its case shortly after 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. Neither Kirby, himself, nor any other witnesses were put on the stand by the defense. The trial of the case began Monday.

Used No Witnesses.

One of the counts in the information against Kirby was dismissed by Judge M. J. Englert on the motion of J. F. T. O'Connor, chief counsel for Kirby. This was the charge that he had maintained an office at Northwood for the practice of medicine. Mr. O'Connor also moved for the taking away from the jury of several of the other counts in the information, and for an instructed verdict of not guilty, but these motions were denied by the judge.

Mr. O'Connor then announced that the defense would rest without putting any witnesses on the stand and the final arguments of the attorneys began.

Englert Thanks Jury.

When the jury returned its verdict Judge Englert thanked the jurors, and congratulated them on the conclusion reached, saying that it was the proper verdict under the evidence submitted in the case.

Drop Manslaughter Charge.

Commenting on the verdict State's Attorney T. B. Elton said that it would be useless to try Kirby on the charge of manslaughter on which he was also held to the district court and for which the selection of a jury was scheduled to begin at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning.

To try Kirby on the more serious charge after he had been acquitted on the minor charge of practicing medicine without a license would be, he said, simply a useless expense to the taxpayers. For this reason, he said, he would ask for a dismissal of the manslaughter charge when court convened.

The court room was crowded throughout the day Tuesday, large numbers of would-be spectators being unable to gain admittance. The crowd included a number of Kirby's friends from Northwood and the surrounding territory.

Kirby's case was handled by J. F. T. O'Connor of Grand Forks, assisted by V. E. Anderson of Wheaton, an old friend of Kirby's. Both took part in the arguments to the jury which resulted in the defendant's acquittal. State's Attorney T. B. Elton appeared for the state.

Came From Minnesota.

The defendant came to Northwood from Thief River Falls at the request it is said, of the Northwood Commercial club. His arrest on the charge of practicing without a license arose from his alleged treatment of large numbers of patients suffering from various ailments. His usual method of treatment, it was said, consisted of painting some portion of the patient's anatomy, usually the throat, with a combination of chemicals.

The death of one of the men he was said to have treated in this manner resulted in a charge of manslaughter being preferred against him immediately after his arrest on a charge of practicing medicine without a license.

He was given preliminary hearings on both charges and was bound over to the district court.

All Bids Too Low.

The school board refuses to sell what remains of the old Knox building and a small shed for $150, which was the best bid received for the property when offers were considered at the meeting on Monday night. It has been decided to readvertise the sale in the hope that it will attract a larger number of bidders. The matter will be taken up again at a meeting to be held on Feb. 10, the main building only being offered at that time. The shed will be used by the district as a storage room.

B. O. Norby, superintendent of the Goodridge schools, spent the week-end with friends here.

Thief River Falls Man May Be M. R. S. H. President

Daniel Shaw of Thief River Falls is among the men prominently mentioned as the next president of the Mississippi River Scenic Highway association. The Central states have had the honor of providing the chief officer of the association up to this time and there is a general agreement that it should go either to the extreme North or extreme South. The other northern possibility is Mayor Mathews of Port Arthur, Can. In case of the selection of either one of these it would probably mean Davenport or Dubuque for International headquarters and Burlington for the next convention.

When Mr. Shaw's attention was called to the above he disclaimed any knowledge of the matter. That such a contingency as his being elected is looked upon seriously, however, is evidenced by the prominence given his name in newspaper discussions of the subject. He has been prominently associated with highway improvement in this section for many years and was active in having the M. R. S. H. routed through the city.

The committee in charge wishes to thank the citizens for their liberal support of this undertaking. When everything is taken into consideration it was one of the most successful campaigns of its kind ever launched.

Gopher Legion Battle Hymn.

Legionaire J. B. Murphy of Rushford has contributed the following, dedicated to the Gopher Legion:

Onward Minnesota, marching as to war,
Van Dyke, King and Rossberg,
March on as before.
We will eat Corned Willy,
Bring the bacon home,
Like our Gopher buddies
Did across the foam.

American Legion Corner

A. C. Hanson Post, Tyler, has received a letter from Advertising Manager Cushing of the American Legion Weekly thanking Tyler Legionnaires for the manner in which they helped secure Legion Weekly advertising by sending in the coupons clipped from the Legion Weekly, urging the manufacturers of their favorite brands of goods to advertise in the Legion's national publication.

National Commander McNider's declaration that "The Strength of the Legion is in it's posts," is daily being demonstrated by scores of Gopher Legion posts. Minnesota Legionnaires are proving that quality and not quantity counts most in Legion affaires as in every other worth-while endeavor. Some of the smallest Gopher posts are the most virile, most helpful, most aggressive. They are always up to their ears in worthy community enterprizes. As a result they have their local citizens back of them—have won for themselves a place in the esteem of their communities.

Strathcona is a little town of 200 people, in Roseau county, bordering on Canada. Last week when members of the Strathcona Co-operative Creamery association held their annual meeting, Strathcona Legionaires served a hot lunch at noon to all who attended, without charge, the Legion Auxiliary preparing the cake, sandwiches, doughnuts, coffee, etc. and the Legion boys standing the expense and furnishing cigars. The creamery men publicly thanked the Legion for their helpful co-operation. Not long ago, when members of Strathcona post challenged local citizens to a whist turnament, the whole town stayed up till 3:30 a. m. to watch the finish, the Legion boys winning.

Minnesota added two more Legion posts to its roster last week—one at Garvin and the other at Wrenshaw. The Legion Auxiliary is booming too. Get out the Gopher gang. Over the top for 1922. Let's go! Minnesota leads where others follow.

When members of Alfred Lockman Post No. 53 of Breckenridge wrote to Commissioner C. M. Babcock of the Minnesota Highway System, urging him to use his influence to help former service men get work on the various Minnesota trunk highway projects, Commissioner Babcock replied: "I will be very glad to urge the contractors who do this work to employ former service men wherever possible."

Members of the city council of Eveleth gladly accepted the invitation of Eveleth Legionnaires to attend their community celebration in a body. Two hundred citizens had a good time at this Legion gathering. For the last week in January the Eveleth post and Auxiliary will hold open house for the citizens. At these community gatherings the Legion provides the hall and the orchestra and the Auxiliary members serve tasty refreshments.

Lake City Legionaires last week invited three Wisconsin Legion posts to a "buddy" party. Sixty-five Legionaires from the Wisconsin posts at Malden Rock, Stockholm and Pepin came over to see what their Gopher neighbors had to offer and received a fine demonstration of Minnesota hospitality. Among other projects, Lake City Legionnaires are forming a drum corps to take to the next state convention. Establishing a community skating rink was another successful enterprise of the Lake City boys.

Legionaire George Standinger of New Richland, who operates the home bakery and comes in handy as caterer for numerous Legion feeds, declares: "By the Gods of War, I belong to the Odd Fellows, the Firemen, and the Legion, and any time they need eats I'm the fall guy who has to get it ready for the gobblers."

Get out the Gopher gang! Let's go!

(Official Paper, Pennington County)

MUST RESCUE THE FARMER.

That President Harding realizes agriculture in the United States faces a crisis and is anxious that something be done at once for the relief of the industry is evidenced by his address at the opening of the farm conference now being held in Washington. He spoke of the situation as a "grim reality" and said if the nation fails to provide ways and means for the immediate relief of the farmer it will "precipitate a disaster that will affect every industrial and commercial activity."

The president made seven specific recommendations to the 325 leaders of agriculture and related enterprises attending the conference, these being along the following lines:

Extension of farmers' co-operative marketing organizations. President Harding indorsed indirectly legislation now pending in congress to exempt these organizations from the working of the anti-trust laws.

Provision must be made for much greater "working capital" for the farmers. Means must be taken by the government and private business to insure that "turnover capital shall be generously supplied to the farmer and on as reasonable terms as to other industries."

The government must place more essential and scientific information at the disposal of the farmers.

To aid both the farmer and consumer, measures must be taken to prevent violent price fluctuations which result from "unorganized and haphazard production."

The farmers will be benefitted by far seeing and wise transportation policies. In this connection, the president recommended a greater use of waterways and suggested that eventually nearly all of the railroads of the country be electrified. He also risked arousing the ire of eastern republicans by giving unqualified indorsement to the Great Lakes waterway project.

The fullest development of national resources through increased reclamation of arid cutover and swamp lands.

The nation must obtain a new conception of the farmer's place "in our social and economic scheme" and must realize that the farmer of today is a combination of the expert scientist, the business man and the worker.

All of which is gratifying. The advice aims at the correction of fundamental troubles instead of suggesting makeshifts that in the end will help the farmer not at all and provide but temporary relief at best. The fact that the head of the government realizes the plight in which agriculture finds itself is alone a matter for congratulation by the entire country. That something of value will result from this conference is possible, but it will be hard to convince the farmer of its probability. He has become a sceptic on the subject of conferences and no one can blame him. However, the president has laid down a program of helpfulness if followed out, the only trouble with it being that it promises no immediate relief. But lasting benefit and immediate relief are not always done up in the same package. It is often necessary to forego the one in order to obtain the other. Everything urged by the president will help get matters finally straightened out, but what is the farmer to do in the meantime?

The demand for a price guarantee is becoming more and more insistent. With all its objectionable features it looks like the only plan that will give the northwestern farmer the immediate relief of which he stands in need.

A TACTLESS PROCEEDING.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is being criticised rather freely for having adopted an emblem closely resembling the service flag of the American Legion. This emblem, like that of families having sons in the service of the country during the war, is to be displayed in windows of homes, stores and shops to indicate that the persons holding forth therein approve of the eighteenth amendment and are abiding by its provisions. The device of the temperance union is a white star on a blue background, while that of the soldiers has the colors transposed, the star being blue and the background white. That this would be confusing is very evident.

American Legion men all over the state have protested against the carrying out of this idea by the women. Some go so far as to call it an insult, not only to the men who fought in the war, but to their families as well. They maintain that for a number of years this flag has had but one significance in the minds of the American people and the adoption of a similar emblem for any other purpose is almost sacrilegious.

Whether or not the ex-soldiers have the right view does not greatly matter. The temperance union is pursuing a policy that cannot help but make it unpopular if not ridiculous. If it is advisable to have an emblem of this kind placed in windows, why not go a step farther and make its application more general? It might be suggested, for instance, that such inscriptions as "This Household Observes the Laws of the United States," or "We Believe in Most of the Ten Commandments," be displayed in order to prove to the casual passer-by that the place is not the rendezvous of bootleggers or other law-breakers.

The eighteenth amendment is as much the law of the land as any statute applying to murder, arson or smuggling, and the person who disregards it is a criminal. Is disregard of the law so common that it is necessary or advisable to single out those who may live up to its provisions by pinning onto them some specific device or emblem? Very few will agree with this view.

The members of the Woman's Temperance Union admittedly mean well but their attitude in this matter is wrong. They are opposed by the ex-service men, gold star mothers, state and city officials, and the public generally. They cannot afford to maintain their position in the face of this opposition.

The Great Northern railroad program for 1922 includes the expenditure of $11,000,000 for improvements. A considerable share of this amount is to be devoted to double tracking the road in Montana and Washington as the entire sum will not be needed for that new depot at Thief River Falls.

Over a million and three-quarters pounds of cream were converted into butter in Thief River Falls last year and fully as much more passed through this city to points farther south. This in spite of the fact that prices here were better and returns quicker. The capacity of the local creamery is simply not up to the demand made upon it and the stockholders as well as the dairymen are letting a great chance for more profit slip by. They need a large modern creamery plant and the sooner they get at building it the better it will be for the industry.

The Ninth District Contest.

(Warren Sheaf.)

With the announcement by Congressman Steenerson that he is a candidate for re-election, followed closely by Senator Sageng's announcebent of his intention to try for the nomination, and C. G. Selvig's candidacy coming on the heels of Sageng's, the congressional campaign in this district may be said to be open.

A nomination, or rather endorsement, by the Moorhead convention does not make its beneficiary the Republican candidate for congress in the Ninth district—that candidate will be chosen by the voters at the June primary election. However, a nomination by that convention is expected to give a lot of strength and prestige to the one who receives it. In this connection an interesting question arises, viz: Is the delegate who attends that convention under a moral obligation to support its nominee during the primary campaign? The answer to this question would appear more simple if all the three "S's," Steenerson, Sageng and Selvig, had declared their intention to abide by that convention's action. Sageng and Selvig have done so but Steenerson, as we understand it, will not even be a candidate for the convention's endorsement. He has no objection to the convention's endorsing him, but, whether it does or not, he will run at the primary.

Mr. Steenerson never favored the convention law passed by the 1921 legislature and some of his staunchest supporters in the legislature opposed the Benson bill when it was under consideration.

The situation may develop unpleasant complications. If the Moorhead convention endorses a new man and both he and Steenerson make the race the way may thereby be opened for a Socialist, masquerading as a Republican, to file against them and, backed by a solid reactionary minority, cop the nomination.

Brotherhood Men Issue Warning Against Faker

In a letter sent to Elmer F. Ohm, secretary-treasurer of the local lodge, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the public generally and merchants in particular are warned against one E. J. Elbury who is traveling through the country purporting to get out a time book which he calls the Official Big Four Railroad Record. He is in no way connected with the brotherhood in an official capacity and has been expelled from the order. Merchants are asked to be on the lookout for this chap and give him no business of any kind on the strength of his representing the organization. He is making a thorough job, it being claimed that he has several agents out in different sections of the country. Advertisers are requested to apply to local officers of the order regarding the credentials of any person representing himself as the agent in the soliciting of business of any kind.

BIGGEST SCORE OF SEASON PILED UP AGAINST GRAFTON

Crack Flickertail Basketeers Go Down Before Athletics Tuesday Evening, 74 to 15.

An extra coach will be attached to the Great Northern passenger train leaving at 3:20 this afternoon for Crookston for the accommodation of those who wish to attend the basketball game. Those who do not wish to spend the night in Crookston can return by the way of Erskine, arriving in Thief River Falls at 2:40 Friday morning.

The Grafton All-Stars failed to shine in the basketball game played against the Athletics here on Tuesday evening. They were so clearly outclassed in every department of the game that it was hard for the crowd to maintain its enthusiasm, even though the home team kept on piling up the baskets. The contest ended with a score of 75 to 15.

The game should have been played against a much stronger outfit as at no time were the locals forced to exert themselves. Their defensive work made it next to impossible for the visitors to get into scoring positions while on the other hand the basket shooting of the locals was the best yet seen this season. Roy Louden payed his first game as a fixture on the team and did excellent execution. He is credited with a total of nine baskets during the fracas. Carlson, who played opposite the new man in forward position, garnered ten and only played in parts of the game. Penney, substituting for Carlson during a part of both halves, proved a cyclonic performer, caging ten shots. Kiland, who spelled Hadrath at center for a part of both terms, is credited with four baskets. Brown and Holzknecht were not out to make scores, their particular aim in life seeming to be to prevent the opposition from scoring and getting the ball into the proper focus for their team mates. Thief River Falls piled up 36 scores during the first half and 38 in the last.

There is little to be said for the Grafton team as none of the players were given an opportunity to show what they might be able to do against opponents less clearly their superiors. Garvey and Cronky, forwards, secured only three baskets between them, while Johnson, center, caged four and made one free throw.

In spite of the one-sided result the game was interesting throughout. The crowd was particularly good-natured and cheered everything worth while, no matter who the performer might be. Guy Johnson, referee, must have traveled about nine miles during the entertainment, the ball being in rapid play every moment. Hermanson officiated as timekeeper and Mostue as scorer. The lineup was as follows:

T. R. Falls		Grafton
Carlson	rf	Garvey
Louden	lf	Cronky
Hadrath	c	Johnson
Holzknecht	rg	Newguard
Brown	lg	McGuire

Substitutes, Penney for Carlson, Kiland for Hadrath.

Gilbert Proves Easy.

The Gilbert team may be champion of the Mesabe range but has no call to invade the dairy districts of northwestern Minnesota. The Athletics defeated the quintet representing the St. Louis county village in two games last week and did the trick easily. On Friday night the score was 20 to 10 while the following evening the visitors went down to defeat to the tune of 42 to 18. The lineup in the first game was Carlson, Penney, Kiland, Hadrath and Brown, with Hermanson and Larson substituting. The visitors played Conners, Erchul, Fritz, Bonkosky and Domonasky, with Downing substituting for Fritz. In the second game Holzknecht was back in his former position, while Stenhoff was seen on the floor as a player for the first time as a substitute for Carlson during a part of the game. Kiland relieved Hadrath at center for a short period.

Neither of these games furnished the thrills to which basketball fans in this city have become accustomed, although both were good average exhibitions.

Breaks Leg in Two Places.

Tom Walle of Kratka, who had two bones in his leg broken when his team became unmanageable on Monday, is getting along nicely at the Physician's hospital. The horses became frightened at a passing oil truck and backed into the ditch. Mr. Walle was unable to jump and thus save himself as the sleigh was covered by a hood. Two bones were broken just above the ankle and will cause him to be laid up for a considerable time. The horses were unhurt.

Iowa Farmers Have Their Troubles, Visitor Finds

County Auditor T. P. Anderson returned last week from St. Paul where he had been attending the meeting of auditors with the state tax commission. He states that several resolutions were adopted looking toward the simplification of the tax laws of the state and these will be presented to the legislature which convenes the first of next year.

Mr. Anderson says that Pennington county seems to be getting along very well with its taxing problems when compared with some of the older communities. Officials representing these had by far the greater number of grievances to present to the commission.

The Pennington county auditor made a short visit to his former home in northern Iowa while on the trip. He found conditions down there decidedly unsatisfactory from the farmers' standpoint. The high price of lands which prevailed two or three years ago in that section are now bringing their inevitable reaction. Buyers find that they cannot meet payments and the lands are reverting to the original owners, the buyer in most cases losing everything he has invested.

Omitted From List

Secretary Englestad states that in the annual report of the Thief River Co-operative creamery, published in The Times last week, two names were inadvertently omitted from the list of those having received checks for more than $500 during the past year. Both parties missed are residents of Rosewood and among the most progressive farmers of that neighborhood. John Bloom's receipts from the creamery last year totaled $722.44, while those of Ole A. Dahl amounted to $761.81.

Freshman Class Song.

Tune—"Peggy O'Neil."

This Freshman Class is the very best class,
That a school anywhere could find;
And if you'll pay attention
I maybe will mention.
Just what makes this class so fine.
Sure they're smiling all the time,
This Freshman Class.
When there's work they're right in line,
This Freshman Class.
They're not afraid of what other folks say,
They do what they have to do in the right way,
Excellent scholarship
Jolly good fellowship
In this Freshman Class.

Beginning Again.

The semester has started. Once more classes are organized and the work is progressing. Because of the large enrollment in high school it was found necessary to employ two new teachers for this semester. Thirty-four students from the eighth grade enrolled in the high school and in addition several other students have just started school.

Commercial geography, commercial law and sociology are among the new courses offered this semester. Miss Stavig now has classes in English I and English III besides her regular subjects.

The classes previously were much too large to be satisfactory and with the addition of the new pupils it was found necessary to form quite a few new divisions. The school is so crowded now that some rooms are in use eight periods of the day. If we have as many new students next year as we have had this year, our school will surely be taxed to its utmost.—M. J. '25.

The New Semester.

One semester of school has now been completed. How do you feel about it? Have you anything to regret?

There are a few exceptions but a majority of the failures are due to carelessness. They think they are "slipping one over" on the teacher when they do not hand in a paper. They do not even feel regret when they get D's, E's or F's on their report card. "It was the teacher's fault," they say, and not theirs.

Some who have low marks are working hard to pull their marks up, but they are in the minority.

Those who have failed the first semester should realize that it is to their benefit to start the second semester right. The year is not yet lost and they may easily make this year a success by hard work.

Work, work, work! Maybe it seems dreadful to you to think about it, but you can easily get into a habit of studying, as well as to get into the habit of not studying or not handing in your work. A poor beginning is not always a sign of a poor ending but a poor beginning may result in an excellent ending. Try for it and if you don't succeed at first try again.—Bernice Erickson, '25.

The Greatest Thing in the World.

The greatest thing in the world is a true friend. To a friend you can confide all your troubles and heartaches. He or she can share your joys and pleasures. If misfortune has befallen you a true friend will stay by you no matter what other people say. A good example of a true friend is a friend who remains loyal even though you are thought to be implicated in some crime.

A make-believe friend is a person who says he is your friend but leaves you as soon as some mishap or misfortune has befallen you. Make-believe friends may be compared to children. Have you ever noticed the flock of friends which the child with a candy sack has? As long as the candy lasts, they pledge their allegiance, but when the candy is gone—so are the friends.

Are you a make-believe friend or a true friend? There is no go-between in friendship. You are either a true friend or a make-believe friend; a sham, an impostor, or a consistently loyal friend. Are your friends true or make-believe friends? If they are not true friends, do not go with them any more, for they are not rightly called friends.—Allan Sorenson, '25.

Friends.

Eleanor Burns was studying her lesson one day in the assembly when Professor Bailey came to her desk and told her that she should go to Miss Hoffman's room. She followed him, wondering why Miss Hoffman wished to see her. She entered the room and was told to sit down.

"We have noticed that your test paper is written exactly like another girl's. Did you copy from anyone?" asked the professor.

"No, I didn't," truthfully replied Eleanor.

After being cross-examined she was told to return to the assembly.

At noon Lucille, her best friend asked her what the professor wanted and Eleanor told her about the affair.

While talking about it, they did not notice the gossip-loving student behind them. This girl listened eagerly and as soon as she finished dinner, returned to school and told the other girls that Eleanor Burns had copied from another girl's paper in the test.

For four days no one talked of anything else and no matter how many times Eleanor denied it, they would not believe her. The girls gathered in little groups which broke up as soon as Eleanor approached.

Some girls were so insolent as to gather their skirts about them so that they would not come in contact with Eleanor's clothes. Oh! how Eleanor regretted the day she was born.

But in spite of everything, Lucille was always trying to cheer her up. If she was not with Eleanor, she was sure to be scolding some of the girls because of the things they said.

She was often ridiculed but still she remained true to Eleanor.

At last, on the fifth day, Professor Bailey came to her and told her that they had found the guilty girl. As soon as he left, Eleanor began to cry. She cried and cried and cried. During those four wretched days she had been too wretched to cry, but now all those tears began to fall.

After the storm she looked up and around the room and sighed her relief as she noticed that nobody was looking at her.

The next day the teacher gave the girls a short talk on friendship. Her talk included the story of Eleanor. She told them that they ought to be ashamed of themselves for talking against her. She praised Lucille for her friendship and at the end of her talk told them that Eleanor had not copied the paper.

That noon many of the girls came to her and apologized for their conduct.

When evening came Eleanor sat by the fireplace and thought of a poem she had memorized:

"Well-chosen friendship, the most nobel
Of virtues, all our joys makes double
And into halve divides our trouble."

—Evelyn Buringrud, '25.

New Teachers.

With the opening of the second semester, two new teachers were added to the high school faculty and one in the grades. Mr. Stanley W. Powley has taken a position in commerce. He comes to us from Flint, Michigan, and is a graduate of the School of Commerce of the University of Michigan. Mr. Powley is well qualified for the position he holds with us and he has already gained a lot of friends in the high school.

For the opening in mathematics Mr. Goodwin T. Westlund, a graduate of the North Dakota Agricultural college, was engaged. He found it necessary, however, to sever connections at the end of the week. In his stead the board hired Mrs. Kaia Stearns Dahl, who assumed her duties on Monday morning. Mrs. Dahl is a graduate of St. Olaf college and has done a year of graduate work at the University of Minnesota.

Due to the overcrowded condition in some of the rooms at the Knox, it was found necessary to reorganize and build a new department. To this department the board elected Mrs. Julia Costello Lacey. Mrs. Lacey is unusually well qualified for her work as she has been a successful Normal Training teacher for many years. She had charge of the department in our own high school for several years.

Red River Valley Declamation Contest.

The preliminary for the Red River Valley declamatory contest was held in our high school auditorium Jan. 27. The program was as follows:

Music, High School Orchestra.
"A Few Bars in the Key of G," Ruth O'Brien, Greenbush.
"An Interview Between Aaron Burr and Mary Scudder," Allie Norbeck, Holt.
"The Necklace," Ella Krohn, Thief River Falls.
Selection from William Pitt, Donovan Salley, Red Lake Falls.
"As the Moon Rose," Edith Holmquist, Lancaster.
"Mollie's Boy," Blanche Robson, St. Hilaire.
Music, High School Orchestra.

The judge was Miss Anne Bowman of the University of North Dakota. Miss Blanche Robson of St. Hilaire was awarded first place and will represent this group of schools in the final contest which is to be held at Crookston Feb. 6. The contest was very good on the whole and Blanche has reasons to take delight in having been adjudged the winner. Congratulations and best wishes to St. Hilaire.

Freshmen Possibilities.

Backward, turn backward,
Oh, Time, you old freak!
Make me a Freshie again
Just for this week.

Thus does a senior wish himself back in the rank of the freshman class. And why shouldn't he? Haven't we everything to look forward to and very little to regret, so far, in our high school career?

There are some seniors who are taking six subjects this year and many who are taking five. It is no wonder that they wish themselves freshmen again as they have only this year in which to finish, and for some it will mean hard study.

Take the freshmen, they have nothing to regret as yet, for they have only begun high school, so if they are careful and do what they are supposed to do they will get through without having much harder studies than now.

But it all depends upon how they start. As yet their beginning is good. At least in most cases it is. So if they only keep on the way they have started, it will all turn out fine.

For those who have not a very good beginning, now is the time to change your course for a better one.

Nothing is better than to have a good start in school. Then you can look forward to the rest of your school life without dreading it.

So we freshmen can all be thankful that we are only freshmen and that it is not too late to do better.—A. H. '25.

Annual Talks.

There is in progress at the present time a drive to arouse more interest in the "Prowler." It is a boom for a bigger and better 1922 Annual. The staff has been having trouble in getting contributions from the sub-staffs and the sub-staffs in turn can get nothing from the individuals. For this reason we have met with the sub-staffs and set aside the week, Jan. 30 to Feb. 3, as "Annual Week."

This should arouse more enthusiasm and stimulate contributions. Everything is ready but the material. Therefore we leave it to you. The sooner the material, the sooner the annual will come from the press. Let's go—and make your contributions good and of a wide variety.—W. A. '22.

Freshman Alphabet.

A stands for Algebra, a Freshie's delight,
And "A" you won't get, unless you are bright.
B stands for Bernice, a girl who has fame;
For each month on the honor-roll you'll see her name.
C stands for Craik, our self-luminous light,
Who in appearance seems rather bright.
D stands for Dorothy, so big and tall,
Wouldn't she look funny if she were small?
E stands for English, that language so old,
Which long ago our forefather fought to uphold.
F stands for Freshmen, so young and small,
Who really are, in our minds, the brightest of all.
G stands for Gjerstad, our basketball star,
Who outclasses the others by ever so far.
H is for Helen and Halvorson, too,
A girl who her lessons always doth do.
I stands for Irene, I've heard people say,
Around whom no one can their temper display.
J stands for Jessie with her lustrous dark eyes,
You would like her much more if she were not so shy.
K stands for Kenneth, a bright little lad,
Who is not very good nor yet very bad.
L is for Liv, a very short name,
It's pronounced like leave but means not the same.
M is for Maxine, who makes an excellent boss,
For words to condemn you she is never at a loss.
N stands for Nason, so quiet and shy,
Who for a girl would not raise an eye.
O is for Olive, you all know her well;
Some writer of Norse, I beg leave to tell.
P stands for Penney, who sounds mighty small,
But really, in size, he isn't that way at all.
Q stands for Quammen, that Freshman so quiet,
She always avoids any signs of a riot.
R is for Ruth, of jovial mien,
In school work and sport she's equally keen.
S is for Shanahan, our Irishman, small
Who couldn't make a better president even though he were tall.
T stands for Thelma, our sociable member,
She'll entertain you from June to December.
U is for Umland, the shark of the class,
Wouldn't it be nice to be smart like this lass?
V is for verdant, so they all say,
Green means we're growing, we haste to repay.
W stands for Warner, both Faith and Gail,
Who in their lessons never do fail.
X is the unknown in algebra so deep,
That is surely one class in which we can't sleep.
Y stands for you, the remaining Freshmen so green,
Together we make quite a verdant scene.
Z is for Zeh, Richard if you please,
Who with the girls is always at ease.

The physical training classes have been divided into two, a class for girls and a class for boys. The pupils enjoy it much more this way because of the difference that may be made in the exercises.

Many excellent essays were written. Those of Leigh Anderson and John Mostue have been selected as the best and have been submitted to the committee to represent our school. Those written by Lois Nicholson and Margaret Roark have received honorable mention.

The pupils and teachers of Central school in particular will be much interested in learning of the outcome of the contest.

Notice to Parents.

Occasionally it happens that school is dismissed ten or fifteen minutes late at noon because of our "General Assembly," at which the students are either entertained by outside talent or addressed by people of note who are secured from time to time. Sometimes on account of late dismissal it becomes necessary to call school a little later in the afternoon in order to give the students time to go home for their dinner. Should you see the high school students on the way to school at 1:20 or thereabouts the above is the reason for it.—M. P. R.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We find it necessary to announce to the public that conditions beyond our control have altered our plans for going out of business in Thief River Falls and make it imperative that we continue our business here. The main reason for this is that under present financial conditions we have been unable to dispose of our store building. Banks today have no money to loan for the purchase of real estate or business property and this condition has frustrated all efforts of ours to sell our building. For these reasons we have decided to continue our business here.

Now that conditions have forced us to make this decision we have concluded to fill our store with a stock of merchandise that for quality and price will have no equal in the northwest. At the present time our stock is reduced to a very low point, which gives us the opportunity of going on the market and buying a "spic and span" new stock of the very best to be had from top to bottom. Mr. A. S. Lieberman is now in the East purchasing our new stock and upon his return we will have a store full of the best to be had in merchandise that it will be a pleasure to show to the public.

We will continue to handle the many dependable lines that we have heretofore featured and the business policy of the store will be unaltered. Our customers will find us with the same service and accommodations that have always made our business relations a pleasure.

For future announcements watch The Times.

SAME OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY CREAMERY ASSN.

Hans Anton is Angain Chosen President and Others Retain Present Board Places.

Reports Show Past Year Was Most Successful in Entire History of Institution.

No Mention is Made of New Creamery Building but Need is Generally Admitted.

At the annual meeting of stockholders and patrons of the Thief River Falls Creamery association held at the commercial club rooms on Saturday afternoon the present officials were elected for another year without opposition. They are: Hans Anton, president; Henry Pope; vice president; Peter Englestad, secretary; O. S. Lee; treasurer; T. K. Rynestad, director.

The meeting was one of the best ever held by the association, the turnout being something of a surprise to to the officers who expected to see a falling off in attendance due to the fact that the dinner heretofore given had been omitted. The keenest interest was shown, however, indicating that matters pertaining in any manner to the dairying industry are of importance to a large number.

Close Successful Year

In his annual address President Anton expressed his pleasure in seeing so many present to hear the reports of their officers concerning the business of the creamery. He said that the year just closed was without exception the best in the history of the association, both as regards quantity and quality of output. Dairying, he maintained, has proven itself to be the one dependable industry for this part of the country and the fact is coming to be generally recognized. He sounded a warning, however, against taking too much for granted in this connection. While the cow would amply repay all the care and study expended, success in dairying is only to be had at the expense of constant study and hard work, said Mr. Anton. The result will invariably repay the care bestowed, but a year or two should be spent in preparation by anyone going into the business on any extended scale. Moving forward slowly, said Mr. Anton, would prove vastly better than making the transition in one leap.

Stick to One Breed

One of the greatest mistakes made by dairymen, according to the speaker, is turning cows out in poor shape in spring and expecting them to pick up quickly because of the new pasture available. Very often it is midsummer before cattle can get back into any kind of shape where they have been neglected thru the winter months, and this cut into their productiveness to such an extent that no profit from them is possible. The better cows are treated through the winter the more money they will make for their owner during the summer, said Mr. Anton.

He urged sticking to one breed. Nearly every man has a preference and this should be followed. Some have greater success with one kind of cattle and some with another—it all depends on the man and on the study he gives the subject.

No Cheese Factory Yet

Mr. Anton reported for the committee appointed last year to look into the subject of a cheese factory for Thief River Falls. He said the opinion was unanimous that such institution would not be a paying proposition at this time. The future held out every promise for the success of a venture of this kind but at present the milk supply is not sufficient to warrant its consideration.

W. W. Prichard, Sr., who built the creamery now owned by the co-operative association, told of the early struggles of the institution and recounted some of the difficulties the pioneers had to overcome. Cows were few and roads in many cases in such condition that even where milk was produced in sufficient quantities it was impossible to get it to market. He said the creamery had been operated at no profit whatever to the owners simply as an encouragement to those who were trying to get a start in the dairying business.

Secretary Englestad explained some of the items in the annual report and told of the steady increase in the demand for the creamery's products—both milk and butter. No mention was made of a new creamery building, although this was one of the most interesting subjects coming up at the annual meeting a year ago. The general impression seems to be that a new plant will have to be provided within another year if the cream offered is going to be taken care of. At the present time no attempt is made to extend the territory served as it is impossible to handle a greater supply. This is a situation that cannot long be permitted to continue, in the opinion of many creamery patrons, as it means a loss to both manufacturer of butter and producer of cream.

Fred Wheaton Dead.

Fred E. Wheaton, Minnesota Democratic leader and candidate for governor in 1918, died at Eitel hospital, Minneapolis, on Monday, the funeral taking place yesterday afternoon. He was born in Machias, Washington county, Maine, in 1862, and came to Minneapolis in 1881. He was a member of the Democratic National committee and for 12 years supreme keeper of records and seals for the Knights of Pythias lodge. Mr. Wheaton was well known in all sections of the state and a most highly respected citizen.

Past Exalted Rulers to Be Elks' Guests of Honor

Members of Lodge No. 1308, Order of Elks, are looking forward to a particularly good meeting on Friday night. The occasion has been designated Past Exalted Rulers' night and it is expected that a majority of those who have occupied the principal office in the order will be on hand as the guests of honor. Lunch and entertainment will be provided and the evening is expected to be one of the most enjoyable of the season. Out-of-town members are particularly invited to be present.

On Monday evening, Jan. 13, Hon. Frank E. Reed of Minneapolis, district deputy grand exalted ruler for Minnesota, will be in the city for the purpose of observing the initiation ceremony for a class of candidates. A term of the Hennepin county district court makes it impossible for Judge Reed to be here on any other date and this special meeting has therefore been called. This will be the big initiation of the year and it is expected that at least 20 new members will take the obligation at this time.

Commercial Travelers Are Guests at Enjoyable Stag

A musicale, luncheon and card party was given to members of Minnesota Council, United Commercial Travelers, at the Hotel Evelyn on Saturday evening, Julien Provencher, A. H. Dorn and C. E. Hobbs being hosts. It was one of the most pleasant affairs of its kind held this season. About 50 traveling men and invited guests were present.

Card playing was the principal diversion, those enjoying games of various kinds nearly filling the large dining room. The musical program was without doubt the feature of the evening. John Ward's famous Hungarian Goulash mixed quartet, composed of five tenor singers and one squeaky falsetto, sang everything from the Holy City to Comin' Thro' the Rye, all to the same tune. They were accompanied by Art Granum at the piano and Mr. Ward himself on a tin whistle. The latter does not sing, knowing nothing whatever about music, and contents himself with leading his famous quartet. When this outfit breaks loose in earnest all children in the neighborhood are hurriedly put to bed and the dogs muzzled.

The evening was broken in two by the serving of a particularly fine lunch, after which the cardplayers were again forced to put up with the agonizing noises emitted by Ward and his gang of irrepressibles. The party wound up about 1 o'clock, all the grub being gone and the quartet hoarse. But it was a lively party.

Move to Minneapolis.

A. G. Halseth and son, Roy, left Sunday night for Minneapolis, where they intend engaging in the paint and wall paper business. They will try to find a desirable location in the Lake street district and intend being ready to open in the early spring. As soon as suitable quarters can be secured the families will follow with the intention of making the larger city their future home.

Much Interest Shown in Presbyterian Bible Class

The Men's Bible class held a most interesting meeting last Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church, there being an attendance of 12. These meetings have been held every week since Dec. 18, at which tim the class was organized. The purpose is a comprehensive study of the Bible, comparing the facts as related therein with the writings of the foremost theologians and scientists of the present day.

The class started with the first chapter of Genesis and has now progressed to the fifteenth chapter under the able direction of F. F. Haynes as instructor. These study periods of one hour are very interesting, the discussions often holding those present for a much longer time.

H. M. Rhodes, who is the class secretary, says that more men are wanted to become members. Creed or church makes no difference. The beginner will be made welcome, no matter what his religious affiliations may be. Mr. Rhodes suggests that anyone desiring to join read Genesis from the fifteenth to the eighteenth chapter this week and then come to the church next Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, this time being set so as to enable class members to attend the regular services wherever they may wish. The aim is to make the organization an influence for good in Thief River Falls and any assistance will be welcomed.

Excellent Attendance at Meetings of Potato Men

A considerable increase in the potato acreage of Pennington county is assured for next year. Last week three important meetings of potato growers were held in the county, at Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire and Goodridge. More than 50 interested farmers attended the first meeting here, 22 were present at St. Hilaire and 60 at Goodridge. It was decided to raise the same standard varieties as last year.

At the Goodridge meeting a request was made for another gathering of growers during the latter part of February, preferably during the Pennington county farmers' institute. At that time the variety to be selected for production in that vicinity will be discussed. The matter of organizing a local association for eastern Pennington county will also be taken up.

Farmers attending these meetings indicated their intention of increasing their potato acreage next year while quite a number who have not previously gone into potatoes to any extent will be added to the list of producers.

Big Poultry Show

The annual exhibition of the Douglas County Poultry association will be held in the new Armory building at Alexandria on Feb. 14, 15 and 16. This is one of the biggest poultry exhibitions in that section of the state. Further information can be obtained by addressing Charles O'Brien, secretary, Alexandria.

The time between now and the close of the first period of the Thief River Falls Times Salesmaship campaign can mean much or little to you.

Just take a look at your calendar and you will see that in two weeks the first period will come to a close. In these two weeks you can make a wonderful change in the "credit" standing list. You who have been watching and wishing that you could win the Buick, CAN WIN. While it is true that some of the contestants have made a start, if you will but take your pencil and figure for just a minute you will readily see that you are not out of the running yet, even if you have not gathered a single subscription.

There is no use in talking, these are the "bargain days" of the entire campaign. These are the days that will count. If opportunity ever smiled on you in your life, she is "laughing" now. If you hustle she will laugh with you; if you do not take advantage of this opportunity she will laugh at you.

Let's suppose that you had a barn full of wheat and you knew that the price was $2 per bushel. Now comes a notice that on Feb. 22 the price of wheat would drop. With positive assurance that it would not rise again, what would you do?

You know what you would do. It's a safe bet that you would drop everything else and get that wheat to market as quickly as possible. You would get your friends and neighbors to help you. You would not leave a stone unturned until you had all the wheat you possibly could to market before the price was reduced.

The same situation exists now in The Times campaign, only instead of wheat it is subscriptions that now earn more "credits" than they will after Feb. 22.

If you will take advantage of these "golden days" of larger credits on all subscriptions, it is a safe bet that you will be the one to park the Buick in front of your home.

Do the same thing that you would do with the wheat. Hustle every "sub" that you or your friends and relatives can lay their hands on.

If you could roll back the curtain concealing the future and see the small amount of actual subscription hustling that has been reported so far, nothing in the world would stop you from winning.

Don't be one of the many that will say in a few weeks: "If I had only known how easy it was going to be I would have gone into that campaign and won." It isn't too late to do any winning. Don't hesitate any longer. Will you pass up the pleasure of the moment and hustle now and later step into your Buick? It is for you to decide.

ELKS TO INITIATE MANY CANDIDATES ON MONDAY NIGHT

Judge Reed of Minneapolis Will Be Present For Purpose of Observing Work.

Thief River Falls lodge No. 1308, B. P. O. E., will hold the most important meeting of the year next Monday evening when a large class will be initiated. There are 25 candidates waiting to have their horns attached and it is expected that most of them will be on hand for the ceremony. The initiation will take place in the lodge room, which has been especially fluffed up for the occasion.

Added interest attaches to this event by reason of the fact that Judge Frank E. Reed of Minneapolis, district deputy grand exalted ruler, will be present to see the work put on. Judge Reed is making a tour of all lodges for the purpose of picking out one degree team in the northern section and one in the southern as representatives at a competitive exhibition to be held in Minneapolis later in the season. He is one of the best-known Elks in the West and will have something to say of interest to every member of the order.

Particular efforts are being made to secure the attendance of members residing outside the city. A day coach will be attached to the Soo freight arriving from the north in the afternoon in order that all Elks residing in the towns along that line may have an opportunity to be present. The important part of the work will also be postponed until after the arrival of the local from Minneapolis for the benefit of those coming in on that train.

The Elks meeting on Friday night was a particularly interesting event. It was past exalted rulers' night and the principal chairs in the lodge were turned over to the men present who formerly held the chief position. F. H. Herrick officiated for Exalted Ruler H. W. Protzeller, Andy Anderson took the place of Leading Knight L. G. Larsen, L. R. Johnston replaced G. W. Connell in the loyal knight's station, and G. Howard Smith performed the duties of Lecturing Knight John Bratrud. Lunch was served at the close of the business session.

COURTS TO DECIDE FINAL OWNERSHIP OF MUD LAKE LAND

Action to Quiet Title Brought By Government on Behalf of Indians and Settlers.

An action to finally settle the status of ownership of certain lands in the Mud lake basin will be heard before the United States district court in Minneapolis on March 1. The government asks the court to grant the right to acquire title to the lands in question on behalf of the Indians and the settlers who have complied with homestead regulations in making settlement. The case was started in 1920 and has been on the court docket ever since.

When this section, which was formerly a part of the Red Lake Indian reservation, was thrown open to homestead entry the lake was left out of the lands designated, being regarded as meandered water. Fractional pieces along the shore were secured by speculators who, after the lake had been drained, claimed the new-made land as far as the center of the lake as natural accretion to their original holdings. "Squatters" had taken up their residence on the land. In 1916 it was formally opened to settlement by proclamation of the Interior department and a second crop of settlers took up the land. For a while there were three sets of claimants for this land.

Some of these latter had been residing on their claims for two or three years and had made a considerable showing in the way of improvements. As the government claimed the land originally for the Indians and had later thrown it open to settlement those who moved there for the purpose of making their homes thought they had a right to remain. The department of the interior has so ruled, holding that the shore owners could not lay claim to lands made available by the drainage of the lake as these were the property of the Indians and must be paid for at the rate of $1.25 an acre. The homesteaders who had complied with the homestead laws in making settlement were therefore left in possession.

It is for the purpose of quieting the title of shore owners to lands not originally in their holdings and taken up in good faith by homesteaders that this action is brought. Theo. Quale of this city appears as attorney for the present occupants of the lands. The present action is in the name of the United States but for the benefit of the settlers.

STEENERSON SENDS LETTER TO VOTERS

Admits He Would Be Pleased to Receive Distict Convention Endorsement March 18.

Congressman Halvor Steenerson has issued a letter to his Ninth district constituents, announcing himself a candidate for re-election. He declines to pledge his support to the choice of the Republican district convention March 30, and says that Senator Ole O. Sageng, one of his rivals, has violated the spirit if not the letter of the law in doing the same thing. He declares his intention to put his case before the convention, however.

"I should consider it a great honor," he says, "to receive the indorsement and in that event would do my best to achieve victory at the polls."

Mr. Steenerson notes that Mr. Sageng has pledged himself to support any other candidate who may be indorsed by the Republican convention.

Annual Meeting Held By Oakland Park Directors

Dr. O. F. Mellby was re-elected president and P. O. Myhrum secretary of the Oakland Park Sanitorium board at the annual meeting held on Monday evening. Dr. M. Geo. Milan was appointed medical director by the unanimous vote of the directors and Miss Karen Knudsen remains in her present post as superintendent. Both these officials received his commendation from the board members for the excellent manner in which the institution has been conducted since they have been in charge.

Reports showed that the sanitorium has made a fine record during the past year, a fact which goes to prove that the people of the four counties served are beginning to realize the importance of an early appeal to the medical director of the institution when anything of a suspicious nature in the way of pulmonary troubles manifests itself. Dr. Milan has been unceasing in his efforts to get people to apply for an examination and opinion at the first sign of danger and he has in a large measure been successful. He has tried to impress upon the people the advisability of early action, conducting clinics regularly for the accommodation of those who may desire his services.

East on Buying Trip.

H. O. Loken left Saturday night on a buying trip to eastern markets. He will visit Chicago, Washington and New York, making his longest stay in the latter city. Before leaving Mr. Loken stated that while merchandising conditions are such as to keep a business man guessing, he is going to make his purchases very much as usual and will have an array of wearing apparel for the women and children of this vicinity that will be even better and more varied than in former years. Mr. Loken will be gone about two weeks and when he returns the big store will have something of particular interest to announce.

LOOKS MUCH LIKE TOUGH WEEK FOR BASKETEER SQUAD

Superior Comes For Two Games Friday and Saturday—Next Thursday Crookston.

DEFEATED BY BEMIDJI

The Thief River Falls Athletics were defeated in the games with Bemidji in that city last evening, the score being 40 to 22. The team was unable to play its usual game by reason of not being accustomed to the larger floor. McGinnis, star forward for the Superior team, played with Bemidji and was responsible for seven of the baskets made. He will be seen in action here Friday and Saturday.

The Thief River Falls Athletics are scheduled to play three hard basketball games within the next few days. The crack Superior Legion team will be here for a series of two contests on Friday and Saturday nights, and on Thursday night the big event of the season takes place. That is the date on which Crookston invades this city and there is much interest in both towns over the outcome.

The Superiorites have been cutting quite a swath throughout the northern part of Wisconsin and on the iron ranges of Minnesota. They are said to be a fast, snappy organization, composed of good fellows who ask no favors and extend none. It is impossible to secure a very reliable line on their work as they have played very little in this section of the state, but it is safe to say that the game will be fast and interesting from the start.

On Thursday night, Feb. 16, the game for which we all have been waiting will come off. Crookston comes on that date to try and repeat the trick pulled off in that city a week ago when Thief River Falls was defeated by a score of 18 to 14 in one of the fastest and cleanest games ever seen in this part of the state. The visitors will have their best men in line and Manager Connell is putting the home defenders through a course of preparation that should send them onto the floor with a keen edge. It will be the game of the season for both teams and neither is going to jeopardize its chances of winning by being out of condition.

Thief River Falls players and people were treated with every consideration at the Crookston game and it is certain that nothing will be permitted to happen here to mar the excellent feeling now existing. Both teams want to win and will have their rooters and supporters, but it is certain that no such outcome as that which made a disappointing fizzle of last year's game will be permitted by either side.

Livestock Shippers Will Elect Officers Tuesday

The Thief River Falls Livestock Shippers association will hold a meeting in the Farm Bureau office on Feb. 14, at 2 p. m. Officers will be elected for the ensuing year and the question of joining the state shippers association will be taken up at that time. Emil Griebstein, manager of the local organization, will read his report for the year of 1921.

Court Term Postponed.

The convening of the February term of the district court, which was announced for last Tuesday, has been postponed until Friday, the 17th. Judge Grindeland is in Minneapolis under care of an eye specialist and was not permitted to leave so as to open court on the date set. All attorneys and jurors were notified of the change and none were on hand Tuesday.

STATE MAY PAY PART OF PAVING COSTS IN CITIES

Main Avenue Property Owners to Receive Refund Under Babcock Road Law.

Expense of Paving Eighteen Feet in Center of Street to Be Borne By State.

Makes Possible Improvement of Road to the Fair Grounds Comparatively Cheap.

Residents along Main avenue in Thief River Falls will have a considerable refund on their paving costs coming from the state, according to a decision handed down by the supreme court on Friday. Should it be decided to pave Sixth street to the fair grounds and Riverside avenue south of the Great Northern tracks the same rule will apply.

It was understood at the time the Babcock road law was under consideration that where a trunk highway traversed a city street the cost of its improvement would be borne by the state, but only to the width of ordinary state roads—18 feet. Should a wider surface be paved, the property owners would have to stand the difference. It is also stipulated in the law that the paving must be of a kind acceptable to the highway commission in order to be included under this provision. There is no doubt but that the pavement laid down along Main avenue in Thief River Falls will meet all the requirements and that property owners within the paved area on that thoroughfare will have a considerable portion of that cost refunded to them. The decision was written by Judge Hallam and applies specifically to a case wherein the city of Waseca was concerned.

It is specifically ruled that Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth will not be entitled to reimbursements for highway construction on trunk highways running through those cities.

Many Cities May Benefit.

Only cities and villages entitled to reimbursement from the counties will be benefited, it was said at the attorney general's office. Waseca, according to the decision, has a claim for reimbursements of $20,867; Litchfield, $67,310, and Albert Lea, $49,944.

At the highway department it was said that Anoka, Farmington, Luverne, Worthington, Alexandria, Redwood Falls, Marshall, Crookston, Tracy, Spring Valley, St. James, Madella and about ten other cities and villages probably would be entitled to reimbursements. In this list Thief River Falls would be included. Red Wing also might have a claim.

State May Reimburse City.

"The state legislature may require a county to improve at its own expense," the opinion reads, "roads within the territorial limits of the county. The state legislature may require a county to reimburse a city or village for expenditures made by them after Feb. 1, 1919, in carrying out the road building program outlined by said article, and may reimburse the county for the amount so paid.

"There seems no question but that the state may with propriety pay for the construction of the normal width of trunk highways where they run through villages and cities, and if the city of Waseca had not paved these roads, the state might authorize the improvement of the very streets in question.

Judge Homer B. Dibell dissents, holding that the legislature is without authority to reimburse municipalities other than counties out of the trunk highway fund, even by indirection.

Grocers Will Now Deliver Orders Amounting to $1

Leading grocers of Thief River Falls have somewhat extended their free delivery service. In order to have deliveries made it has heretofore been necessary that the amount of the purchase total at least $2. This has now been reduced to $1. In other respects the rules remain the same. Customers must have their orders in before the hours specified in order to insure delivery the same day. These hours are: North and west, 9:30 a. m.; south and east, 3:00 p. m.

The agreement is signed by Oen Mercantile Co., Carl Christofferson & Co., H. K. Strand and Bredeson & Co.

MECHANICS ELECT AND HAVE BANQUET

Mutual Benefit Association Officers All Chosen For Another Term.

The annual meeting of the Mechanics Mutual Benefit association was held in the Commercial club rooms in this city on Thursday afternoon. It was the best meeting of the organization yet held, nearly every town in which it is represented having one or more delegates present.

The following officers were re-elected: William Woelk, Crookston, president; Andy Craik, vice president; H. L. Larsen, secretary; C. C. Gulrud, treasurer, all of Thief River Falls. The members present were: E. D. Travers, A. D. Langlett, J. J. Aga and J. J. Richter, of Thief River Falls; John LeFluer, Fargo; Osias Vian and E. Stien, Crookston; Andrew Lodoen, Warren; O. M. Johnson, Kennedy; John Emanuelson, Radium; R. W. Koepp, Bemidji.

Considerable business of importance was transacted and the members, who are all blacksmiths, figure that within a very short time their organization will be one of the largest of its kind in the state. The aim of the association is the urging of laws that will protect the trade in the future.

The following wholesale houses were represented at the meeting: Williams Hardware company, Minneapolis, by John LaFluer; Kelly-How-Thompson company, Duluth, by E. D. Traver; Nichols, Dean & Gregg, St. Paul, by H. L. Larsen. All made short addresses dealing with business conditions generally, and more particularly as these apply to the blacksmithing industry.

After the meeting the annual banquet and smoker was held at the Brumund hotel. J. J. Richter acted as demerits of this project, well known expressed themselves as having had a particularly pleasant visit and congratulated the Thief River Falls blacksmiths on their ability to furnish entertainment. It was unanimously voted to hold the next meeting in this city. A vote of thanks was given the Commercial club for granting the use of the club rooms for the meeting.

SAPERO COMPANY'S STORE HERE UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

A. S. Sapero Promoted to General Buyer For All Stores. Succeeded By Brother.

A. S. Sapero, manager of the Thief River Falls store of the Sapero company, has been made buyer and general financial head of the concern and will make his headquarters at Chisholm in the future. He leaves on Monday for New York and other Eastern points for the purpose of making spring purchases for the three establishments, the other being located at Hibbing. He will return directly to Chisholm from this trip.

The retiring manager will be succeeded here by his brother, Cyril Sapero, who arrived in the city Tuesday. The latter has been in charge of the store at Hibbing since its opening, the senior Mr. Sapero having active management of the Chisholm institution. The changes now made are necessary by reason of the retirement of the founder of the business, who has removed to California, leaving the two sons in sole control.

It will be six years this coming summer since Mr. Sapero arrived in Thief River Falls and purchased the present business from John Wold. He immediately set about improving the store and has brought it to a point where it has no equal in this part of the state. Handling wearing apparel for women and children exclusively, Mr. Sapero has aimed at providing the best and latest at all times and has succeeded to such an extent that the fame of the store extends far beyond the natural trading territory of the city. He has been active in every project for the advancement of the community and his enthusiastic support of all worth-while enterprises could at all times be taken for granted. Both he and Mrs. Sapero will be greatly missed by a large circle of personal friends and business acquaintances.

Cyril Sapero is a young man who has grown up in the line of business which he now comes here to manage. He is a wide-awake citizen of most pleasing personality and promises to maintain the high standard established for the store by his brother.

Large Attendance Marks Parents'-Teachers' Meet

The attendance at the Parents'-Teachers' meeting held at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Tuesday evening was the best of the series thus far. There were between 400 and 500 people present, the hall being taxed to its utmost to accommodate those who wished to gain admission.

"Recreation and Amusement" was the general topic for discussion and the talks proved both of interest and value. Those who spoke included Miss Maude Frissell, Mrs. L. G. Larsen, Mrs. George Nicholson, E. A. Saltau, Mrs. C. T. Christianson, Mrs. T. L. Melgaard and A. W. Jardine. The recreational exhibit staged under the direction of Miss Carrie Trogan was a feature of much interest, while the piano solo by Miss Doris Halvorson added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. The business of the evening was concluded with the serving of a fine lunch by the women of the West side.

First County to Report Result of Russian Drive

The Pennington county division of the Minnesota Russian Relief committee is the first in the state to make a complete report on the outcome of its drive. Mrs. J. M. Bishop chairman, this week received acknowledgement of the receipt of the sum raised from Ludvig L. Bruhn, state secretary, who says:

"This committee is heartily and cordially grateful to you as chairman of the Pennington County Russian Relief committee for the energetic and successful campaign for funds for relief and for the check for $647.65 received yesterday from Mr. John Bratrud, secretary.

"Your committee is the first to make a complete report on its drive and this prompt action will mean the saving of many lives as we shall be able to make another shipment of flour soon.

"We extend hearty thanks to each member of the committee and to each contributor to the relief fund, in the name of the starving people on the Volga."

Attend Officers' Banquet.

Dr. H. W. Froehlich returned the first of the week from Minneapolis, where he attended the annual banquet of officers of the United States army reserve corps, of which he is a member. The meeting was in honor of Col. J. Mayhew Wainwright, assistant secretary of the navy, was held at the Hotel Radisson and attended by about 500 persons. Col. Wainwright responded to the toast, "The War Department," and there was a number of other prominent speakers on the list.

CONNECT WARROAD WITH THIEF RIVER BY AUTO BUS LINE

Car Making Round Trip Daily Will Be Put on Soon as Weather Permits.

As soon as road conditions permit in the spring an auto bus line will be established between Thief River Falls and Warroad. A concern known as the Power City Transportation company has been organized and the motor busses already purchased in Minneapolis. These are of high power and the latest design and have accommodations for 16 passengers and the usual amount of baggage.

As a starter but one bus will be put on, it being the intention to make the round trip in one day. Leaving Thief River Falls at 7:45 in the morning it is figured that the run can be made in five hours, reaching Warroad at 12:45 o'clock. A halt of one hour will be made at the northern terminus to allow for dinner and the start back made at 1:45, the scheduled time for arrival in Thief River Falls being 6:45.

The minimum rate of fare will be 50 cents but according to the rate card now being worked out the cost of making the trip by bus to the more distant stations will be below that charged by the railroads.

The new line will prove of particular value to traveling men who are now dependent on the one train a day to reach the points to be touched. If the venture proves a success another bus will be added. Following is a list of the points at which the bus will touch: Steiner, Holt, Middle River, Strathcona, Greenbush, Badger, Fox, Roseau, Mandus, Salol, Warroad.

Brought Back to Answer For Failure to Provide

Lionel McMahon was brought back to this city from Grey Eagle, Minn., by Sheriff W. J. LaBree the first of the week to answer a complaint for failure to support his child, preferred by his former wife. The McMahons were divorced some time ago and the mother given the custody of the one child with the stipulation that the husband should contribute toward its support. All parties concerned left the city shortly afterwards. Mrs. McMahon returned a while ago and complained that the father was not living up to the orders of the court in the matter of providing support. He was located at Grey Eagle and held until the arrival of the Pennington county officer.

The matter came on for hearing before Judge Tarrant in municipal court yesterday and was postponed until this morning, when McMahon gave bonds to insure his providing for the child.

Fence Staple Swallowed By Baby Does No Damage

June, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Benbow of Holt, who last week swallowed a fence staple and was brought to Physicians hospital in this city, is none the worse for having taken aboard this unusual article of diet. The staple worked its way out without causing any difficulty and was expelled through the bowels. The child's case attracted much attention among local physicians who say that only the fact of the intruder having found lodgement in the stomach with the points turned backward made its further progress possible. The child was taken home by her father on Saturday.

Wheat Hits Highest Point of Year in Minneapolis

Wheat prices in the Minneapolis chamber of commerce trading pit reached a new high point for the year on Tuesday. May option sold for $1.35½, this price being 6¼ cents lower than on the corresponding day a year ago.

Threat of a shortage of wheat in the northwest and prospects of a winter wheat failure were the main bullish factors behind the advance which set in early last week when May wheat was around the $1.25 level.

GUMMER TRIAL NEARING CLOSE; STRAIN EVIDENT

Defendant is Nervous When Appearing After Two Weeks Adjournment of Court.

Chambermaid Testifies to Having Heard Noises in Room Occupied By Miss Wick.

One Witness States Accused Was Not Behind Hotel Desk at Hour of Murder.

The trial of William Gummer, charged with the murder of Miss Marie Wick of Grygla in a Fargo hotel on the night of June 7, 1921, was resumed at Valley City on Monday morning after having been adjourned for two weeks because of the illness of State's Attorney William Green.

Gummer was nervous when brought into court and showed the effect of the strain he has been under during the past two weeks. He has remained in the Barnes county jail during the adjournment. The forenoon was taken up by the reading to the jury of a transcript of the greater part of the testimony taken in the trial thus far.

Miss Mary Melaas, chambermaid at the Prescott hotel where the murder was committed, was the principal witness on Tuesday morning. She occupied a room directly underneath that in which Miss Wick was murdered and said she heard noises which seemed as if someone jumped from the bed to the floor several times, walked around the room, opened and shut the door and walked down the hall to the front stairs. The state maintains this happened immediately after Miss Wick had been murdered.

H. J. Hagen, former president of the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo, who occupied the room next that of the murdered girl on the night of the crime, was called for further cross examination. Replying to the question, "Did you kill Miss Wick?" he replied energetically, "No, sir." He further stated that neither on the night in question nor on any other night had he been in Room 30. He also said he had never seen Miss Wick.

Involves Room Mate.

Thomas J. Caton of Minneapolis, a handwriting expert, testified that in his opinion Andy Brown, Gummer's room mate, wrote the name "James Farrel, Willmar," on the hotel register on the night in question. Farrel is the only person registered at the Prescott at that time who has not been accounted for and it is the contention of the state that the signature was placed on the register by Brown to throw the authorities off the track.

Gummer Was Absent.

Leo O'Brien, who resides next door to the Prescott hotel, stated that on the night of June 7 he was passing the hotel and looked in through the window for the purpose of noting the time by the office clock. He stated that the place was somewhat dark but that one light was burning on the switchboard behind the desk. He is certain that Gummer was not in the office at that time. The state regards this testimony as of great significance as going to prove that Gummer was not at his post in the hotel office at the time the murder was committed. O'Brien said this was at 12:15 o'clock, the hour fixed by the state as approximately that at which the crime was committed.

Damaging Evidence.

Admissions said to have been made by Gummer to Fargo officers prior to his arrest figured largely in the trial on Tuesday. These admissions dealt with Gummer's alleged relations with other women who had stayed at the Prescott hotel, the circumstances surrounding Marie Wick's arrival at the hotel and Gummer's conversation with her.

Although a large part of these statements were of an unprintable nature their reading was listened to by a crowd which jammed the court room to the doors, many of those present being women who remained throughout the session. Gummer's attorneys objected to the introduction of this testimony, claiming that other offenses of the defendant were not admissable as evidence in the trial of this case. The court ruled, however, that the greater part of these statements might be admitted as showing the state of mind of the accused, but ordered that the statements so far as they referred to women other than those who had been staying at the Prescott hotel should be stricken out.

It is likely that the case will go to the jury by the end of the week.

Dress Club Moves.

While an announcement of the removal of the Thief River Falls Dress club to the quarters formerly occupied by Bredeson & Co., for Feb. 15, has been made, Manager Holbrook finds that the place will be in readiness at a somewhat earlier date and the work of moving will therefore be done on Friday and Saturday of the present week. Business intended for the club should therefore be delivered to the new location beginning next Monday.

A. S. Sapero leaves on Monday for Chicago, New York and other Eastern points to make purchases of spring goods for the three Sapero stores. When his mission in the East is completed he will go to Chisholm, which city will hereafter be his headquarters.

Mr. Sapero states that he expects to find a decided improvement in ready-to-wear conditions, particularly as regards the ability of merchants residing at a distance from the fashion centers to secure the more desirable goods. The lowered demand for the coming spring will throw a large quantity of high quality goods on the market at a considerable reduction in price and he figures to be on the ground for the purpose of taking advantage of the situation. As soon as the goods begin arriving he will have something of interest to announce.

Vapors vs. Bronchitis
Old-fashioned remedies are absorbed and inhaled by effective new method.

You get immediate action two ways by applying Vicks VapoRub to the chest for bronchial congestions. Rub Vicks well in and a warm glow follows. Not only are the ingredients absorbed, but their healing vapors, released by the body heat, are taken with each breath right into the inflamed passages.

Thus, externally and internally, you get the beneficial effect of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus Thyme, Cedar Leaf and Pine.

Vicks is a truly remarkable remedy for congestions of nose, throat or chest. Its worth is well appreciated. Over 17 million jars are used yearly for all kinds of colds, for skin hurts and itchings, for neuralgic pains.

Once tried, Vicks becomes a standby in the family medicine cabinet.

Just rub it on and breathe in the vapors

(Official Paper, Pennington County)

AS IT SHOULD BE.

The Thief River Falls basketball team was defeated by Crookston in a rattling good game, yet strange as it may seem, no one here claims that the referee was a robber, that the floor was unfit to play on or that the hostile crowd made it impossible for the visitors to get a square deal. On the contrary, the universally expressed opinion is that it would have been impossible to be accorded better treatment than was given our team and citizens by the people of Crookston.

That's nice. Outside of a few hotheads who do not matter much anyway, everybody will approve the attitude of our representatives at that game. It will go far toward eradicating the ill feeling which has existed since the two teams met here last year, when the session broke up in a row.

Crookston and Thief River Falls have too much in common to permit of anything in the shape of an antagonistic feeling existing. This is most decidedly the case when the question ance than the outcome of ant ishrdlu at issue is nothing of greater importance than a basketball game. A friendly rivalry is stimulating, but when a feeling of actual hostility toward one another is harbored by people of neighboring communities, both are bound to be the losers.

Now that the sport atmosphere has been cleared, would it not be a good plan to extend the movement still farther? There are so many things it would be better for the two communities to agree upon that there is but little left to fight over. Anything which benefits Crookston must in some degree benefit Thief River Falls and the entire northwestern corner of the state. The same thing applies the other way about. It is time we all looked at this matter in a sensible light.

"DON'T FORECLOSE."

The Minnesota Farm Bureau federation's request that banks do not foreclose on farms against which they have placed loans may be intended in good faith but the manner of its presentation creates a wrong impression. It leaves one to gather the inference that foreclosing on farm mortgages is the one thing in which banks take particular delight. Such is not the case, particularly in this section of the state.

It is safe to say there is not a banker in northwestern Minnesota who would not greatly prefer that every farmer who has a loan at his bank was able to pay up. In many instances the banks have gone the limit in loaning money to men who have had hard sledding, hoping that in some manner the borrower would be able to meet the obligation. There have been many instances where money has been advanced or loans extended when a cold-blooded application of foreclosure rights would have deprived the farmer of everything he has in the world. In many cases the banks have encouraged the debtor to keep on trying even after he himself has been willing to be closed out. Industrious and honest men have been given every opportunity by their banker creditors, even after it has looked as if further extensions would prove a poor business risk.

Some folks are of the opinion that banks loan money to farmers in the hope that the latter will be unable to meet the obligation when due, thus throwing the farm into the hands of the bank. This is true only in rare instances. In this part of the country particularly the money is loaned in the hope that the farmer will make good and become a permanent producing factor in the upbuilding of the neighborhood. The farmer does not always look at the matter in this light but it is a fact nevertheless.

As a rule no bank will foreclose a farm mortgage if there is any other way in which to protect itself against loss. If the Farm Federation can devise some plan by which foreclosures will not be necessary it will be doing as great a service to the banks as to the farmer.

NOONAN FOR THE HOUSE.

William Tecumseh Noonan of the Baudette Region announces himself as a candidate for the house of representatives from the Sixty-second district, composed of Beltrami and Koochiching counties. Besides being one of the brightest newspaper men in the state, Bill is booster extraordinary for all sections of northern Minnesota, but particularly for the Rainy river district. He has a deep and abiding faith in the future of that country and sings its praises eloquently and unceasingly. Mr. Noonan knows his district and understands its needs. He has a wide acquaintance among old members of the house, many of whom will be returned for the next term, and he would be a strong, influential member from the outset. Bill can be most awful serious when he chooses, even if he does make a playground of his editorial page. He is a clear thinker and talks to the point.

If the voters of the Sixty-second are alive to their own interests they will give Bill the biggest vote of any man on the ticket.

Fiction Readers Lead By Big Margin, Report Shows

Over 3,000 books of different classes were borrowed from the public library during the month of January. Of this number adult fiction works represented about one-half, the exact number being 1,517. BE RID OF THAT ACHE

If you are a sufferer with lame back, backache, dizziness, nervousness and kidney disorders, why don't you try the remedy that your own neighbors recommend? Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. Peter Eberhardt, 211 Atlantic Ave., Thief River Falls, says: "I suffered with my back and kidneys. My back was weak and lame and ached badly. When I would wash or do any heavy work I suffered the worst. My kidneys were weak and annoyed me. I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and it wasn't long before they rid me of all the trouble."

Mrs. Eberhardt gave the above statement Jan. 16, 1914, and on Aug. 6, 1921, she said: "I think Doan's Kidney Pills are the best remedy for kidney trouble. I recommend Doan's for the cure I received years ago and I gladly confirm that statement."

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Volume 3. Thief River Falls, Minnesota, Thursday, Feb. 9, 1922 Number 18

HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Published by The Thief River Falls High School

Sophomore Issue.

Following the policy of giving each class a chance to show its reportorial ability, this issue of the Progress is put out by the Sophomore class. Although this is but our second year in high school, we hope that our efforts along journalistic lines will find favor with our readers; and if such is the case we shall feel amply repaid for the work which must necessarily be put into an issue of our school paper. If you find that the paper is not up to its usual standard, do not judge too harshly, but remember that perfection cannot be attained with one trial, and that we are still in the early part of our school career.

The Sophomore Class.

In Mr. Hay's speech he mentioned the fact that if any community or organization had anything to be proud of, it was up to them to boost it and tell others about it, because no one else would. That is what we sophomores are going to do; we are not going to brag or boast about our class, but we are going to boost it and tell others about it.

It is true that we are not at the head of any of the school organizations, but we are IN all of them and are assistants. The fact that we are assistants now means that we are fitting ourselves to be at the head when we are juniors and seniors.

For example, look at Albert Stengelsen, our class president. He is not at the head of the Progress staff but he is the second associate editor. He is in the Boys' Latin club and the Dramatic club; he is one of the three members of the debating team, and has been on the honor roll each time—besides carrying six subjects and being sophomore class president. We all feel that we have a president to be proud of.

If you do not happen to believe the sophomores are doing their share in partaking in the various school organizations, we will prove it to you by these statistics:

Look at the Girls' Glee club. There are 34 members in all and nine, or one-fourth of them, are sophomores. Out of the 17 in the Boys' Glee club, four are sophomores. Then look at the Girls' Superior Latin club; there are seven sophomore sout of the 18 in the club. In the Boys' Latin club over one-third, or four out of the 11 are sophomores. Albert Stengelsen, Kermit Anderson and Math Barzen are our representatives in the Dramatic club. In the orchestra Halber Evenstad, Kermit and Math do their share for our class. One-third of the members of the Bread club, or 11 out of the 33 members, are sophomores. In athletics we more than hold up our end with such boys as Ernest Barzen, Math Barzen, Robert McGinn, John Sether, Herbert Keene and Clifford Sorenson. Though our class is the smallest in high school, we have made the best showing on the honor roll.—Margaret Melgaard '24.

Which is the Best?

I wonder which of the classes at school
Can be said to be the best?
Of course there is but a single one
That is better than all the rest.

To begin with the freshmen; they're fairly good;
Those pretty girls and dashing boys.
But you know experience counts a lot
And they have been playing with dolls and toys.

The Juniors, too, are fairly bright,
Although they're getting bold.
They are learning a few of the tricks of the trade,
And do not mind when the teachers scold.

And as for the seniors, they mean it well,
But they seem to be growing old,
And you know what happens, I needn't tell,
When the hair falls off, and the head turns bald.

And now I've been modest with the sophomore class,
As I've left it to the very last:
But that was just so I could say:
"You are better, by far, than all the rest."—Henry Waale '24.

The Importance of Sophomore Work.

The work of the sophomore class is just as important as that of the upper classes. In fact, it is more important, for without this year we are not ready to become juniors and then seniors. By sophomore work we not only mean earning our four credits, but also taking part in all high school activities. This means joining the different clubs in school, showing the real class spirit, attending basketball or football games, and supporting our high school in whatever it undertakes. In every class there ar group of people who may be ca slackers. These are the o generally push the work on th or say, "Let somebody else work, I haven't time." help these students by ge interested in class doings.

Another reason why t year is important is th time in which most p future career. The te like to start the freshm finite course. They ne take just such subje quired for all courses. is a sophomore, the decide just what bus would be best to ta enrolls for his sub that plan. Some pupils decide on a commercial course, some on a classical course—while others on a scientific or mechanics course. Each person decides on the course he likes best and would be best suited for. If a person takes up a mechanics course he might intend to be a civil engineer. If a commercial course suits him, a business career may be his view. In a classical or scientific course, the person may have the intention to be a doctor, lawyer, or have some other profession in mind. All these things will develop out of a student's decision. All of a student's thoughts, hopes and plans for the future are influenced by his sophomore year of high school.

The chickens and horses he daily has fed.

She wears her hair in a cute little curl.

If we neglect our work and go down to E.

No hard task ever made her afraid.

She gets her lessons, one, two, three.

No duty she will ever shirk.

Prowler Week.

The members of the Prowler staff are working hard getting material for the 1921-1922 annual. They want it to be a good annual and in order to get that they need the support of everyone in high school. Last week was Prowler week. Monday was Literary day; Tuesday, Social day; Wednesday, Music day; Thursday, Kodak day, and Friday, Joke day. This was planned so that the students would contribute articles, jokes and kodak pictures to these different departments. The results were not as satisfactory as was expected but nevertheless the Prowler is going to be the best one ever published by the Thief River Falls high school.—Esther Lunsetter '24.

The Letter Men.

Friday during the assembly period, the football men received the T. R. F. monograms. Mr. Stenhoff read the list and the men came to the platform. Then Mr. Simley made an appropriate speech and presented the monograms. He said that the right to wear the school letter was no slight honor, for it signified not only football ability but also character and required scholastic standing. The following received the monograms: Russel Anderson, Ernest Barzen, Math Barzen, Bernard Bischoff, Craig Halvorson, John Hendry, Charles Herron, Roy Holmgren, Milford LaBree, Robert McGinn, John Sether, Fred Paulson, Stanley Sorenson and Henry Vorlicky.

The Newfolden Game.

The game started with a snap and stayed snappy all the way through. It had been reported that Newfolden had a fast team, and they surely did live up to their reputation.

Our second team began the game and stayed until the end of the first quarter. About half a minute after the opening whistle blew, McGinn made a basket which started the scoring for us. At the end of the quarter the score was 8-1 in our favor. Soon after the second quarter started Newfolden got two field baskets, but they did not keep the lead long. The quarter closed 10-8 in our favor. The sec of the game was even more so that near the end the on eir breath, for it look den would win, but le blew the score r.

impression of being industrious, yet they get nowhere. Others laze their way through school putting everything off for tomorrow what they should do today. A good motto for these is "do it today." Still other students have style as the heighth of of their ambitions. The young men have the most modern cut in clothes and the young ladies the newest and shortest of dresses. And then there are those who believe in bluff; they try to bluff their way through school. They may be able to fool their teachers but in the end they are the losers. People can never attain success without honesty. It is said today that men cannot be honest and live, but this is wrong; men cannot be dishonest and live.

We enjoyed Rev. Sweger's talk very much and hope that we may have the opportunity of hearing him again.—Harriet Morgan '24.

Argyle Defeated, 22-11.

The game was a fast one from start to finish, our boys showing a great improvement. Good team work and basket shooting were the big features of the game. McGinn and Ralston at forward positions were easily the stars of the game. The guarding of Herron and Sorenson was commendable.

Pfiffner played best for the visitors. Coach Stenhoff used good judgment in the use of substitutes.

Summary:

T. R. Falls		Argyle
C. Sorenson	f	R. Parent
R. Shetler	f	J. Bedard
C. Herron	c	S. Nelson
L. Arnold	g	H. Pfiffner
S. Sorenson	g	E. Greene

Substitutes: T. R. F., Ralston for Sorenson, McGinn for Shetler, Keene for C. Sorenson, Sether for McGinn.

Two Boys.

Along the road to school one day,
Walked little Herbert Keene,
He walked so fast the houses past,
They hardly could be seen.
Some asked him, "What's the matter?"
Said he, "I have no time
To answer any questions,
For the clock is almost nine."

Along the road to school that day
Walked little "Bob" McGinn,
He walked so slow "Jack Frost" though "Oh!
I'll play a little scheme."
Some asked him, "What's the matter?"
Said he, "I do not know."
But when he heard nine bells he said,
"I'm late! I'm late! Oh! Oh!"

Teacher Training Notes.

The blackboard borders for February were completed last Friday. The committee in Miss Perry's room brought out the patriotic significance of this month, while the committee in Miss Stapleton's room did not forget that St. Valentine's day also comes in February.

Last Friday the course in Hot Lunch work was completed. This course includes the study of the purposes and necessity for hot lunches in our rural schools. In connection with this work the girls made Hot Lunch booklets which included menus for the preparation and serving of hot lunches and a definite course of study for the presentation of a course in cooking in the three upper grades. This course is planned so that much of the application work is done through the home project method.

An elementary course in drawing was commenced this semester. Miss Stapleton and Miss Perry are in hopes that they will develop some real artists before the course is completed.

The girls began their manual training work last Monday under the direction of Mr. Jardine. This will, however, be a very simplified course but will prove useful to the girls in their rural schools.

Mabel Bjorness is absent this week due to the recent death of her sister.

The following students of the teacher training department are on the honor roll for the first semester: Alpha Bishop, Alice Bredeson, Bertha Hastad, Celia Morissey, Clara Orzechowski, Merville Thompson.

about 12 books on vocational guidance, about 15 biographies, about 19 or 20 histories of various types, books to help in Latin clubs, books on debating, books of declamations and recitations, and books on poetry and science. There are only four or five on fiction.

A person certainly can have plenty of help for his school work by going down to the library and looking up what he wants to know. And I think the teachers were very kind in selecting such a fine set of books. So I think the whole student body should thank the faculty for their ability in choosing books for the high school and show their appreciation by reading them.—Ella Johnson '24.

Northrop News.

Mrs. C. B. Bradley visited Miss Adams' department Wednesday, and Mrs. Fred Dablow visited Friday.

Gordon Johnson and Harriet Liden were absent from the third grade because of illness.

Milton Bergstrom has been transferred from the Northrop fourth grade to the Knox fourth.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hanson visited our school on Monday afternoon.

The Studebaker arithmetic exercises are now being given in the fourth grade. These exercises furnish the child the kind and amount of practice most needful to him.

Mrs. Hellquist visited the fourth grade Friday morning.

Mrs. G. Hanzen visited school on Monday.

Several children have brought educational playthings that they use at home to school. They are to be shown at the P. T. A. meeting Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Hellquist visited in Miss Murat's room Friday forenoon.

Many of the second graders have been absent this week on account of colds.

Mrs. Dablow visited the fifth grade Friday afternoon.

The best marching in the upper grades resulted in a tie this week, Miss Berg's and Miss O'Neill's pupils being the winners. Miss Trojen's room was awarded the banner in the lower grades.

Milk was sold to the amount of $9.56 this week.

"Profitable Vocations For Girls."

The book written by Miss Bertha Weaver named, "Profitable Vocations for Girls," is written to benefit girls just about to leave high school, helping them to choose the subjects they are most interested in and best adapted to.

Girls should not choose a piece of work just because they want to be with friends or near home unless they are interested in it, because they will not enjoy it and as there

The New Library Books.

The new library books are certainly worth reading. They are a choice selection and the teachers were very thoughtful when they chose books for this year. Of course there are many books that have to go to the other schools that we would like to keep, but anyway I think that if the students make use of the ones we have they can be well satisfied. There are will be very little time for other activities the work will seem as a drudge to them. A girl who is not interested in her work will naturally not be very careful how she does it.

Miss Weaver also advises a girl not to leave for some large distant city; she ought to first look over the list of occupations open to her in her own locality and choose her work from there if possible.

If a girl finds she is not suited to her present occupation, she should choose some new work for which she can prepare herself during her spare time before she gives up her present position.

There are many fields of work open to girls and a girl can be almost certain to succeed if she studies herself and then chooses the work that really attracts her and that she believes she is best fitted for.—Freda Blackberg '24.

Jokes and Personals.

Kladys Kolden is missing a good deal of school on account of illness. We hope she soon recovers.

In mechanical drawing, Mr. Jardine was checking Roy Langseth's plate: "And, Roy, don't forget to put your over-alls (meaning over-all dimensions) on top."

Miss Gormley: "Why did the people in Rome elect 80 emperors in 90 years?"

Bob: "They wanted to give everyone a chance."

How to Study Effectively.

Among the collection of new books which has been added to the high school library, there is one entitled "How to Study Effectively," by Whipple. Although it is a small book it contains a great deal of information. One of the requirements given in this text is, "Health." To study effectively one must have good health. It then gives the correct method of studying, pointing out the incorrect, which is not only a handicap but a waste of time. In regard to the habit most students have of wasting time at the beginning of a study period, the book suggests to get everything necessary ready in the shortest possible time and "settle down" to hard study; to concentrate in order to get results. In short, it is a book which every high school student should study for they would profit by following the suggestions given in it.—Halbert Evenstad '24.

Atheletics in Lead at One Time But Opponents Manage to Nose Out in Long End.

Could Not Connect With Basket Although Playing the Better Game on the Floor.

One thousand fans, about 90 of whom were from Thief River Falls, witnesed one of the best basketball games played in the northwest this year when the Athletics of Thief River Falls met the Crookston Independents in that city on Thursday night. Crookston carried off the long end of an 18 to 14 score, but only after one of the hardest fights to which the team had been subjected.

Unbiased spectators state that the men on both teams gave evidence of nervousness during the first half and missed an unusually large number of opportunities to score. Had the Athletics played the kind of basketball in the first half that they uncorked in the closing period there would have been a different story to tell. Their floor work was of the very highest order but they simply could not get the ball through the hoop. Crookston fared somewhat better in the first session, which closed with the score 8 to 3 in their favor.

Coming back strong in the second, Thief River Falls made the score 12 to 12 with about half the period left to go. From then on it was anybody's game, but the Crookstonites had the better shooting eye and nosed out by a lead of four points.

Everyone praises the treatment accorded Thief River Falls by the Crookston players and fans. The Independent's manager, Major Rosberg, is particularly commended for the strict rules laid down to his charges and to the spectators as well. The referee, Melvin Hodge of Fargo, allowed nothing to get by which might be regarded as an infraction of recognized basketball rules, penalizing both teams impartially when occasion demanded. The game was fast and hard from the outset, both sides striving with every once to win, but no underhanded tactics were attempted, the result being one of the finest games of basketball seen in this section. Mr. Hodge has been engaged to referee the return game to be played in Thief River Falls on the 16th.

In its writeup of the game the Crookston Times has the following to say:

Men Fight Hard to Win

"Every man on both teams, despite the close air caused by the packed mass of humanity watching the struggle, gave all he was worth to win. Weber was mixed up in nearly every play and time after time he would go into a jam and come out somehow dribbling the ball towards the basket. Haaven started up many of Crookston's plays and played his usual bang up game. Raines and Sampson, alternating at center for Crookston, furnished much of the speed in Crookston's plays. It was Raines who scored the first basket for Crookston and it was Captain Sampson who scored the last. Miller and Nelson for Crookston and Brown and Holzknecht for Thief River played a similar style of guarding. Miller at standing guard broke up play after play in his territory while Nelson covered the floor and managed to hold Carlson down to one basket. Hadrath showed up well for Thief River and while Lowden at center lead his team mates in basket shooting the mainstay of the Thief River team and the pivot of their plays was Carlson. Carlson is fast and dangerous at all times and Crookston was lucky he did not have his shoting eye last night."

Game in Detail

Both teams started out strong and striving desperately for the first basket. Close guarding, however, kept the ball in the middle of the floor although several times Thief River had the ball under their basket but were unable to locate the hoop. After three minutes of play Carlson shot a free throw on Crookston's foul. He repeated soon after and the score was two to nothing in favor of the visitors. Lowden was playing a good game for Thief River Falls and several of his shots missed their mark by a fraction of an inch. Haaven tied the score by two free throws one after another. The game was nine minutes old at that time. Thief River continued to miss a number of shots and then allowed Raines to stand unguarded under his basket when the ball went out of bounds. A quick pass from Haaven to Raines and Crookston was in the lead four to two. It was the first field basket of the game and took 13 minutes to accomplish.

Two minutes later Captain Sampson went in at center replacing Raines and Penney went in for Hadrath. Thief River scored the next point when Carlson shot a free throw. Weber, who previously had had difficulty locating the basket, figured in a pretty play with Sampson, Weber taking the pass and scoring. A minute before the first period Weber again scored on a long side shot, the ball bobbling on the lip of the basket before dropping through the netting. When the first half ended the score stood Crookston 8; Thief River 3, Thief River having failed to secure a field goal.

Second Period

Both teams seemed to be playing off form in the first period. Carlson opened the second half with a foul shot. Sampson made a free throw for Crookston and again Carlson scored from the foul line. Carlson scored the first field basket for Thief River by a clean shot from the center and side of the floor. Brown repeated for Theif River and tied the score 9 to 9. Carlson took his team into the lead with another of his deadly foul shots. Haaven tied the score by negotiating a free throw for Crookston but Lowden again sent Thief River ahead with a long shot from the center of the floor. Nelson who had been making a number of long unsuccessful shots all evening made the feature shot of the game when he shot a fast ball direct for the basket. The shot was made from deep center, the ball taking scarcely any loop in its fight for the basket. It struck square, however, and dropped through the netting tying the score 12 to 12. In a toss up following a held ball near Crookston's basket Haaven flicked the ball through the hoop putting Crookston into the lead for the remainder of the game. Weber made it 16 to 12 by a long range basket. Lowden, slipping in behind his guard, was all alone under his basket when he received the ball and twisted it in for a counter. Carlson had a chance to tie the score by a similar easy chance and Brown also missed an easy shot for Thief River. Sampson added two points more for Crookston's score by a pretty side shot and the time keeper announced 50 seconds were left to play. The game ended with the ball in Crookston's territory, the final score being Crookston 18; Thief River 14.

Heavy Cut in Price of International Tractors

C. Gustafson & Son, local agents for the International Harvester company's products, announce a great cut in the price of tractors for delivery on or before the first of May. The 8-16 International tractor with regular wheels, clutch pulley and angle lugs, is now offered for $670, while [illegible] regular wheels, friction clutch pulley and angle lugs sells at $700. This is a flat reduction of $200 on the last-named machine and $230 on the International.

This is an unusual cut in machinery of this class, but the Harvester people go even farther in their efforts to reduce the cost. To each farmer who purchases a tractor for delivery before the above date will be given free of charge one two-furrow P. & O. tractor plow with an International tractor and a three-furrow plow with the Titan tractor. This offer, however, is limited to May 1.

40% Increase in Receipts of Butterfat at Creamery

Cream receipts during the month of December at the Thief River Falls creamery were 40 per cent greater than for the corresponding period a year ago, according to the report just submitted by Secretary Peter Engelstad. Three producers residing near Thief River Falls are found in the $200 class, but the list takes a sudden drop when these are passed. When this fact is considered in connection with the increased receipts it indicates that the number of patrons is steadily increasing. Those who received more than $50 for their butterfat during December are:

Jens Kierk, $273.78; Hans Anton, $268.85; Peter Engelstad, $252.73; M. T. McFarland, $171.00; L. O. Stenseth, $133.77; Waldie Christensen, $99.90; R. M. Johnson, $91.80; S. E. Hunt, $83.11; H. T. Waale, $82.15; Gust Wilken, $74.39; Christ Nelson, $73.05; C. Beiswenger, $68.30; Mrs. J. J. Berg, $67.72; W. P. Willudson, $66.10; A. C. Simonson, $64.32; E. Edman, $63.98; O. G. Gunderson, $63.05; Wm. Mehrkens, $62.52; Swan Wiberg, $61.10; J. H. Hardesty, $60.41; Frank Kainz, $54.94; H. C. Woolson, $54.20; Paul Engelstad, $53.44; Henry Pope, $53.40.

Will Assist in Making Out Income Tax Returns

A. T. Theilan, deputy internal revenue collector, will be in the city from Tuesday, Feb. 28, to Saturday, March 4, inclusive, for the purpose of assisting those who so desire with the making out of their income tax blanks. Mr. Theilan will be at the Commercial club room from 9 o'clock on each day of his stay and anyone who is not clear as to what is required by the government in the matter of tax returns is urged to see him. This year even those who have sufficient exemptions to make the payment of the tax unnecessary are compelled to make a return.

Fake Livestock Salesmen Have Invaded the County

President Hans Anton of the Pennington County Holstein Breeders' association has issued a warning calling attention to the fact that during the past two weeks a number of so-called livestock salesmen have been touring the country advertising and selling animals said to be purebred. These animals were selected from scrub herds and have no pedigree back of them whatever. Such stock as this is picked from the culls of the county herds and will never make dairy cattle. The county Holstein association wishes to warn other breeders against purchasing such stock.

Meeting of Encampment.

Riverside Encampment, I. O. O. F., will put on the work in the Golden Rule degree next Saturday evening. This is the second degree of the encampment section of the order. Refreshments will be served and it is desired that all members be present.

At the meeting of the subordinate lodge Tuesday evening eight members were taken into the order and given the initiatory degree work. This is the largest class for some time. The first degree will be exemplified next Tuesday night.

NEW PLANT OUT OF PROFITS ON CREAM SHIPPED

Almost as Much Butterfat Goes Through City as is Converted Into Butter Here.

Profits on This Neglected Supply Would Amount to at Least $10,000 Yearly.

Committee of Dairymen Gathering Data to Prove Need For New Building Now.

Nearly as much cream passed through Thief River Falls for points farther south as was manufactured into butter in the city last year. The amount received at the creamery was 1,794,495 pounds while the total passing through the city, according to the express company reports, was 1,360,000 pounds.

These figures were secured last week by a committee of dairymen for the purpose of emphasizing the need of a larger creamery in Thief River Falls. The present plant is working to capacity in order to take care of the one and three-quarters million pounds of butterfat now being received and can make no effort to retain and turn into butter the almost equal amount going to creameries located at a greater distance from the source of supply. If the amount going to centralizers is added to the above it will be found that more cream is being shipped through the city than is turned into butter here.

New Creamery Needed.

While it has been realized in a general way that a large sum of money which of right belongs to the producers in Thief River Falls territory is being lost to them every year by reason of the inability of the creamery here to take care of their product, the size of the loss proved rather startling to the investigators. They began doing some figuring and discovered that the butterfat which should be turned into the finished product right here but is being allowed to get away because of lack of facilities for handling it, represents 418,000 pounds of butter annually, or an amount equal to two-thirds the total output of the creamery last year. The profits on this quantity of butter would pay off $10,000 every year on the cost of a new creamery. The plant would be paid for out of the profits of new business and the stockholders would not be called upon for the investment of one cent.

Is Absolute Necessity.

Not only is a new creamery necessary in order to secure this added output but it will only be a short time until the more modern plants in the neighborhood will make competition more keen for the business it now holds. Creameries are springing up all over the state, the building activities in the northern counties being particularly noticeable. Roseau last summer put up a $40,000 plant and its competition is being felt. As building costs are reduced others will enter the field. The cost of erecting and equipping a modern creamery is now about one-third less than two years ago and it is not likely to go much lower. This is the reason for the present activity on the part of the dairymen who have the future of the local plant in mind. They realize that once a producer has formed business connections with another institution it will be a difficult matter to get him to make a change. The dairying industry is taking the lead on northern Minnesota farms and the creameries are compelled to keep pace with this development.

High Prices Paid.

There are hundreds of cream producers in this section who would ship their product to Thief River Falls if it could be handled. The average price paid here during the past year for butterfat was five cents higher than that received for butter scoring 92 points in New York city, which is the highest market in the world.

A new creamery has been talked of for a long time but because of the high cost of everything needed in a modern plant the stockholders have hesitated in making the plunge. Now that this objection has to a large extent been removed the matter has been taken up in earnest and there is every prospect of something in the way of an extension program being announced in the near future.

Reception For Departing Merchant Last Evening

About 50 business and professional men gathered at the Hotel Evelyn dining room last evening for the purpose of tendering a farewell reception to A. S. Sapero, who will leave shortly for Chisholm, which city will be his headquarters as general buyer and financial head of the Sapero company. W. B. Fuller officiated as toastmaster and called upon a number of those present for remarks appropriate to the occasion. Mr. Sapero was presented with a smoking set by his friends, the presentation address being made by J. S. Arneson, who predicted that it would be but a short time until the store in Thief River Falls would be the most important unit of the Sapero chain and that the evening's guest of honor would find it necessary to return to this city in order to properly attend to its expanding business.

Mr. Sapero thanked those present and the people of the community for the many kindnesses of which he had been the recipient during his five years' residence in the city and stated that nothing but the imperative demands of his new position dictated the change he was making. At that he was not severing relations completely as it would be necessary for him to make frequent trips to this city. Mr. Sapero said he would always cherish the friendships formed here and, no matter what the future might have in store, he would always look back at his residence in Thief River Falls with the keenest pleasure.

Other speakers were C. L. Hansen, Mayor Bratrud, W. J. Brown, E. O. Mogensen, G. Howard Smith, Dr. H. W. Froehlich, L. L. Cohn, Chris Storholm, H. F. Booren and others.

SEASON'S HARDEST BASKETBALL GAME PROMISED TONIGHT

Crookston Coming With 300 Fans in Attempt to Take Athletics' Measure.

Tonight, at the auditorium in Thief River Falls, another "battle of the century" will be staged. The Crookston basketball team, admittedly one of the best aggregations of its kind in the state, is coming for the purpose of repeating, if possible, the trick turned when the Thief River Falls Athletics were defeated by a close score in the neighboring city a couple of weeks ago. A special train will carry about 300 fans from the down-river town and one entire side of the auditorium has been reserved for their accommodation.

All games heretofore played have been practice events for the purpose of getting the Athletics into shape for this great contest. Crookston fans admit that their team would rather defeat Thief River Falls on the floor than discover a gold mine at the edge of their town. They are coming determined to make the fight of their lives and as the locals are just as determined that the visitors shall be sent back defeated there is every indication of a decidedly interesting session.

Houser, the star forward of the Crookston team, who is a student at the university of North Dakota, is expected to be in the lineup. He was not in the game played at Crookston. The visitors will place a great deal of dependance on him as he is regarded as one of the best in the business. The locals, however, have the advantage of playing on their own floor and as Crookston won by only four points in the last game the dopesters figure the chances of Thief River Falls as being particularly bright. Melvin Hodge of Fargo, who refereed the former game, will officiate in the same capacity tonight.

The game will be called at 8:15, but anyone hoping to get a seat will have to be on hand long before that hour. Standing room will be at a premium as a record crowd is assured.

Dr. G. A. Penney, president of the Athletics, has called attention to the fine treatment with which the Thief River Falls team met at Crookston from players and audience alike, and hopes that the crowd tonight will bear this in mind. It doesn't help a town's reputation to have its sport fans behave like a bunch of roughnecks. It is also a well-known fact that referees work as well without a lot of saphead advice from the sidelines.

District Court to Convene Tomorrow—Long Calendar

The February term of the district court will convene Friday morning, the opening of the session being postponed from the 7th. Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren will preside.

There are 28 civil and three criminal cases listed on the calendar, the largest number for a long time. It is also probable that the grand jury will add to the criminal actions to be tried, there being several alleged violators bound over by the municipal court and out on bonds awaiting action by the indicting body. There are also five personal property tax cases to be heard.

Pastor Will Be Selected By Presbyterians Sunday

The congregation of the Presbyterian church will meet immediately after the close of the morning services next Sunday for the purpose of selecting a pastor. The congregation has been without a resident minister since the departure of Rev. R. L. Barackman for Lincoln, Kas., some months ago.

Rev. W. H. Evans of Red Lake Falls will preach in the church Sunday forenoon and evening at the regular hours.

Gonvick Newspaper Plant Destroyed; Loss $8,000

The building and plant of the Gonvick Banner was totally destroyed by fire which broke out about 5 o'clock Sunday morning. The publisher, W. W. Jones, with his family lived over the office and so rapidly did the flames gain headway that nothing in the way of furniture or personal effects could be saved. The loss is $8,000 with insurance of $2,000.

Yes, sir, the unexpected has happened. Some of the "credit" gatherers who have seemingly been asleep have taken life and have begun to interest their friends in their campaign to win the Buick, the Ford and the other Grand Free Prizes that are to be distributed at the close of The Times Salesmanship campaign.

But remember that a chain is as weak as its weakest link. Any chain, no matter how well forged it may have been, will GIVE IN at the WEAKEST link when pressure is placed on it.

One single link can ruin all the strength possessed by the rest of the chain.

There are six links in the chain of extra "credits" between now and the close of the first period on Feb. 22 that will have more than ordinary pressure placed on them. They are the six days that remain of the first period.

Every day that you forge a SOLID link you are making yourself that much safer for the Buick. What if you do not do your best? Then you are weakening the other links that are perfect.

Stay busy. Fight hard. Hustle. Now is the time when you should be "on your toes" doing your level best to finish the first period at the head of the list.

The wise campaigner who thinks he or she has a few reserve "credits" not turned in and can afford to take a rest is making a mistake. Remember the old saying that "when you feel the safest you are in the greatest danger." It is far better to be safe than sorry in a campaign of this kind. It is better to have too many "credits" than not enough. Now is the time to lay your plans to "steal a march" on the other contestants. A small fortune is within your grasp and it is for you to decide if you want it or not. Words will never be able to express the regret and sadness you will have if you do not perfectly forge every link in your chain of success.

Maybe you feel you could have done better in the past two weeks if you had the time to live over. Don't worry about the past. Make the future pay you well in "credits" by hustling every minute. A big fine Buick Beauty Six isn't to be picked up every few weeks. A sure winner never stops to congratulate himself until the race is over.

Red Lake Elevator at Badger Burned Monday

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the elevator of the Red Lake Milling company at Badger last Friday night. The elevator was well filled with grain, a large part of which will be a total loss. A car of wheat consigned to the Crookston Milling company, just sealed up and ready to be pulled out, was burned to the trucks, but another car, loaded with corn, was pushed out of danger by the fire department. The main track of the Great Northern was left in the clear but one wall of the elevator fell across the sidetrack and it was some time before the work of clearing could be begun because of the smoke.

Bound to Grand Jury on Charge Preferred by Girl

Martin Hanson, who was recently arrested on a charge of having carnal knowledge of a female child under 18 years of age, was bound over to the grand jury in the sum of $500 by Judge N. W. Tarrant in municipal court Saturday. The warrant was issued on Oct. 19, 1919, but Hanson had left the city and could not be found. The girl's family, who were formerly residents of Deer Park township, also moved away after the alleged offense was committed, returning only recently. The complaining witness has a child about three years of age of which she maintains Hanson is the father. The latter in the meantime married and has a wife and baby.

Asked by Attorney H. O. Chommie, who appeared for Hanson, why she had not informed her father of her troubles while the defendant was still here and in a position to afford some reparation, the accuser replied that her folks would be opposed to her marrying a Norwegian, they being Bohemians.

POLITICIANS KEPT BUSY GUESSING AT NAPLIN'S POSITION

Report That He Will Not Again Be a Candidate is Unauthorized, Says Senator.

State Senator O. A. Naplin states that any report to the effect that he will not be a candidate for re-election is unauthorized by him. He has not to date declared himself on the subject in one way or the other as he has not definitely made up his mind. He also disclaims any present intention of entering the race for judge of the district court, leaving it to be inferred that in case there is a demand for his candidacy among his friends the matter may be favorably considered by him. He has been assured of considerable support in case he decides to make the race, much of it coming from people in Thief River Falls who might be expected to oppose him on political grounds did he again make the run for the senate.

While no formal announcement of such intention has been published, it is expected that both the present representatives from this district, W. E. Day of Clearwater county, and A. J. Hemstad of Red Lake county, will be candidates for re-election. In such case the senatorial nomination will go to Pennington county with every prospect of Mr. Naplin's winning out if he is a candidate. Should he decide to try for judicial honors there will likely be a scramble for his seat in the senate, there being at least two citizens of Thief River Falls who are said to have ambitions in that direction.

Gay Halvorson of this city is also understood to have been sounding out his friends with a view to getting a line on his chances as a candidate for district judge. He claims to be meeting with considerable encouragement, particularly in Crookston, where he formerly resided.

UNUSUAL BOOKINGS OF ATTRACTIONS FOR FIRST NATIONAL WEEK

Pictures of the Very Highest Order Only to Be Presented at the Lyceum During Week of February 18 to 25.

February 18 to 25 is First National Week at the Lyceum theatre and Manager H. A. Brumund has booked an unusual array of pictures for every night of the period. The complete program appears in another part of The Times today and is without exception the most varied and interesting of any presented druing a similar period in the theatrical history of the city. John McCormick, secretary of the Independent Screen Aartists' guild, of which all the foremost performers and producers are members, has written a personal letter to Mr. Brumund in which he says:

"We desire to extend to you our hearty thanks for your splendid cooperation in the national exhibition of our personal productions and the celebration of First National Week, Feb. 18 to 25, marking our first demonstration of artistic independence.

"It is an ideal for which we have worked hard and the achievement of that ideal opens the way to us for the creation of motion pictures greater still in the art of the cinema.

"That is our pledge to you and our other good friends, your patrons. Their support has encouraged us, and through our pictures we hope to convey to them our gratitude."

The Independent Screen Artists' guild is composed of men and women whose aim it is to place the motion picture industry on a plane which will commend it to the American public. They deplore the adverse criticism recently made possible through the action of a few individuals and are anxious that the people be turned from an inclination to judge the entire industry by a few isolated cases. They have joined with managers of the better class of theatres throughout the country in an effort to give the public only such plays as will stand any test to which they may be subjected from either artistic or moral viewpoints.

MANY PRIZES AT WINTER FAIR GO TO PENNINGTON

Exhibitors From This County Fare Well in Distribution of Prizes at Crookston.

Orton Olson Wins Sweepstakes For Best Wheat and Finest Hog Entered at Show.

Guernsey and Poultry Men Score Heavily and Boy Submits First Prize Essay.

Pennington county exhibitors at the midwinter farm crops show at Crookston last week fared very well in the distribution of prizes. The exhibit as a whole was the best ever shown by the county at Crookston and an object of general interest on the part of visitors.

The Guernsey herds exhibited by Albert Johnson of Burr Oaks farm, H. C. Woolson of Silverton Guernsey farm, and F. B. Conklin of Chippewa Stock farm, took all the premiums in this division. There was keen competition for honors among Guernsey men, animals owned by the university of Minnesota and exhibited by the Northwest School of Agriculture, being entered. In spite of this fact the Pennington county cattle carried off all the prizes. After the show a number of animals were sold to parties outside the county who selected the stock in preference to any they had seen.

Boy Wins Sweepstakes.

Orton Olson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Olson of Thief River Falls, was a winner in two divisions. In the open class on pigs he won sweepstakes and first on an individual admitted by everyone to be of a class fit for exhibition in the very best company. The intelligent care and management in feeding this hog showed clearly in the smoothness and general fine condition of the animal.

Sweepstakes on wheat were also won by this young man, whose entries kere judged in competition with numerous samples of marquis and macaroni wheat from the leading grain-growing counties in the northwestern part of the state. The cash premium on wheat amounted to $50.

Great Showing of Poultry.

One entire section of the show was devoted to the exhibit of Pennington county poultry breeders, these being represented by H. L. Schuster, White Leghorns; Olaf Neset, Rhode Island Reds; C. M. Buoen, Buff Orpingtons; C. D. Battenfeld and C. D. Gustafson, Barred Plymouth Rocks. All these exhibitors won numerous premiums in their class. Mr. Neset carried off the silver loving cup as the sweepstakes prize on the highest scoring pullet at the show. The same poultry men are this week exhibiting at Alexandria with every prospect of carrying off a large share of the premiums.

Besides the above, Leigh Anderson, a pupil in the eigth grade, Thief River Falls public schools, won the prize for his essay on the subject: "The Future of the Red River Valley."

Cancel Engagement.

The Olson Sisters, entertainers, who were scheduled to appear at the Lyceum theatre on Friday night, yesterday notified the management that they could not reach the city at the time specified and would therefore have to cancel their engagement. Manager Brumund announces that the program for that evening will be "My Lady Friends," featuring Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven, and a Pathe Slow Motion picture.

Three Day Gathering of Free Church Pastors Here

A district meeting of pastors and laymen of the Lutheran Free church will be held at Zion church in this city beginning Friday and continuing over Sunday. Pastors in the Fosston district as well as those in the Thief River Falls district will take part in this meeting. The sessions are open to the public and all are invited to attend.

Hearings Postponed.

Judge Grindeland has notified Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund that there will be no naturalization hearings in Pennington county on Feb. 26, the date originally set, a postponement having been ordered until the date for the next semi-annual hearing—July 28. There are but three applicants to be heard and it is hardly considered worth while to have the government agent make a special trip to Thief River Falls for the purpose of examining them.

Creamery at St. Hilaire Closes Successful Year

The St. Hilaire co-operative creamery manufactured over a quarter millions pounds of butter last year, the exact amount being 255,606 pounds. The total amount of butterfat received was 206,597 pounds, the overrun being 49,000 pounds. Patrons received a total of $81,816 for milk and cream delivered. The average price paid for butterfat was 42.56 cents and the average price received for the butter sold 37.55 cents. The cost of making butter was 3.15 cents per pound.

Ed. Aubol was elected president of the association, succeeding J. S. Roy, and John Maakerud succeeds O. L. Larson as vice president, F. S. Erdman, secretary, and F. P. Wilson, treasurer, being re-elected. The creamery has enjoyed a very good business and starts the new year in excellent financial condition.

Dr. Vistaunet Leader.

Dr. P. L. Vistaunet was chorus leader for the Norwegian singing societies appearing at the mid-winter shows at Crookston last week. He was accompanied by 18 members of Braga Men's chorus from this city and according to reports the organization acquitted itself with credit. There were 150 singers at the show and their part of the program proved one of the most popular features.

SOLEMN CEREMONY MARKS ATTACHING OF HORNS TO ELKS

Good Sized Class Initiated Into Order in Presence of State's Highest Official.

More than 250 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks attended the initiation ceremony at the lodge room in this city on Monday night. A class of about a dozen joined the order and their reception was of the impressive character for which this organization is justly famous. According to those present the secret work has never been so well exemplified in this city.

Judge Frank E. Reed, deputy grand exalted ruler of Minnesota, was present for the purpose of witnessing this initiation. He stated that Thief River Falls was the seventh lodge he had visited since taking office and that in the presentation of the ritualistic work as well as the appointments surrounding the ceremony he considered Thief River Falls as standing at the head of the list, so far as his observations have extended.

Judge Reed delivered an inspiring address at the opening of the lodge to which the candidates, who had not at that hour been initiated, were permitted to listen. He gave a short history of the organization from the time of its institution and explained the principles for which it stands. He told how for many years the order had functioned chiefly as a social organization and how it has since broadened out until at the present time its principal purposes are the relief of distress of whatsoever nature, either in collaboration with other organizations or on its own hook; the upbuilding of the communities in which the lodges are situated, and above all the inculcating of a better understanding of the advantages and responsibilities of American citizenship. It is the one purely American order, said the speaker, and as such has a work to perform differing in many respects from that of other lodges. The speaker said that the goal of one million members by the first of next July, set by the grand lodge officers, would be attained, there being now more than 800,000 men entitled to wear the antlers. He complimented the officers and members of No. 1308 on the splendid progress made in the past and urged that the good work be continued.

Harry E. Ives, the first exalted ruler of the lodge in this city, who is now a resident of Brainerd, briefly stated his pleasure at being able to be present on such an occasion. Little did anyone think when the first meeting was held in 1913, he said, that there would today be a lodge with nearly 600 members in Thief River Falls, with a membership extending from the south boundary of Mahnomen county to the Canadian line. He was proud, said Mr. Ives, to be counted as a member of such an energetic body of men, representative of the highest citizenship in the community.

Other speakers were Frank E. Johnson of Mahnomen, and W. L. Peterson of Lancaster, who spoke for the members from out of town, expressing their pleasure at being present and hearing the inspiring talk delivered by the chief officer of the lodge in the state.

At the close of the meeting an appropriate, substantial and wholly satisfying lunch was served under the direction of Julien Provencher of the Hotel Evelyn. The evening was voted by all one of the most enjoyable in the history of the lodge.

Warroad and Thief River High School Game Friday

The Thief River Falls high school basketball team will meet Warroad in a game at the auditorium here on Friday evening. The locals have won four games and lost four, while the Warroad bunch has won three and lost two. The teams are evidently quite evenly matched and the game should be a good one.

The Delinquent Tax List.

The Times is this week printing the delinquent tax list for Pennington county. The number of descriptions is about one-third greater than last year, showing the effects of the general business depression. The increase is about evenly divided between the city and farming sections, proving that the shortage of cash is as keenly felt in one place as another.

DID NOT FORGE FARRELL NAME, GUMMER CLAIMS

Man Accused of Murder of Marie Wick Maintains Innocence on Witness Stand.

Testifies He Did Not See Her From Time She Retired Until Discovery of Body.

Case Nears Close and Expected to Be in Hands of Jury Late This Afternoon.

William Gummer, charged with the murder of Marie Wick of Grygla, at the Prescott hotel in Fargo on June 7 last, testified on Wednesday that he had not seen Miss Wick after her retirement to her room about 11 p. m., June 6, until he found her body the next morning.

Gummer was called to testify in his own defense as the presentation of evidence neared a close. He sketched briefly his life, saying he was 23 years old and that he had been employed as a clerk in the Prescott hotel on one occasion prior to the time of his employment when Miss Wick was killed.

Tells of Mystery Guest.

Gummer testified a guest registered in the hotel about 2 a. m. under the name of "James Farrell," and that he, Gummer, did not place that name on the register, nor did Andy Brown, his roommate.

The state has contended that there was not, in fact, a guest by the name of "Farrell" in the hotel the night of the murder, but that such guest was created to divert suspicion from Gummer.

Gummer appeared thoroughly self-possessed while on the stand. He was somewhat paler than usual, but answered questions asked of him by his counsel very deliberately and in a low voice.

Gummer made no direct denial of the various statements he has been quoted as making to officials, except to indicate that some of the statements credited to him were in fact statements that officials had made to him and that he had only agreed with them, particularly as relates to what he said the officials told him Brown had stated.

Denies Making Advances.

During the conversation with Brown in the hotel lobby the night of the murder, Gummer said Miss Wick was not discussed, except that he, Gummer, told him "a good looking girl" had registered in, this statement being made while he was giving Brown a list of all the guests who had checked in.

Officials have testified concerning a lengthy conversation with Brown concerning the girl who was murdered.

Gummer also denied he made improper advances to Miss Wick when he talked to her over the telephone about 11:15 p. m. after she had gone to her room in which she was found murdered the next morning.

Andy Brown, the roommate of Gummer, was a witness late yesterday.

Brown gave his version of his movements the night of the murder of Marie Wick, the girl being slain in room 30 of the Prescott hotel in Fargo on June 7 last.

Chum Denies Registering.

Brown declared he did not write the name of "James Farrell, Willmar," that appears on the hotel register, the night of the crime, and which the state has maintained was placed there by Brown.

Brown denied that on the occasion of a meeting he had in the county jail with Gummer that he told Gummer to stand pat, and that Gummer told him to stand pat. The witness said he went to his home about 1:15 a. m. on June 7 and remained there until 7 a. m., that he was in no other part of the Prescott hotel the night of the murder than in the lobby, and that he was not out of his room after going there, following his visit to the hotel.

Brown denied he had come into the back door of his rooming house at 6:30 a. m. the day following the murder, or that he had gone to a telephone then and called somebody, asking if everything was all right.

Statements that officials have quoted Gummer as making concerning conversations with Brown in the lobby of the Prescott hotel between 12 and 1 a. m., the night of the murder, were denied. He said that if Gummer told the officials such statements had been made, then Gummer lied. He denied telling another prisoner to tell Gummer not to "squawk," till the last minute, "and not let anybody hear you when you tell them."

It was expected that Gummer would finish his testimony late yesterday afternoon and the state at once call its witnesses in rebuttal. State's Attorney Green stated that while there would be a number of witnesses called, their examination would be short. The pleas of the attorneys will probably take up the greater part of Thursday with prospects of the case reaching the jury some time this afternoon.

C. M. Carlson returned last evening from Minneapolis, where he had been attending a convention of the building contractors of the state.

Goldie Gunderson, Harold Anderson Spelling Champs

The elementary school spelling contest for Pennington county took place at the court room in this city last Wednesday afternoon, with the following sections represented: Numedal township, Miss Ruth Bergquist, district 127; Wylie, Harold Anderson, district 2; Hazel, Goldie Gunderson, district 154; Thief River Falls, Edel Jordo, district 29; Silverton, Alpha Gausen, district 42; Kratka, Ruth Omdahl, district 35; Goodridge, Arnold Aaker, district 57; Errie, Annie Rindahl, district 65; Rudell, Halvor Sannes, district 9; Wyandotte, Marie Peterson, district 51. The St. Hilaire and Rhoda districts failed to send representatives.

Miss Dora C. Perry of the normal department, who was to have conducted the contest, could not be present and County Superintendent G. M. Gunderson took her place. Miss Cora Hanson and Miss Rose Johnson of Thief River Falls officiated as judges. They reported Goldie Gunderson of district 154 the champion speller in the county, with Harold Anderson of district No. 1 in second place. These pupils represented the county at the farm crops show in Crookston on Feb. 10. The contest consisted of 100 written words, 50 oral words, a dictation exercise of 15 words and a spell-down.

According to the judges, individual papers ranged 79 to 88 per cent, which goes to prove that the contestants were well trained in spelling difficult words as many of these were selected from lists containing the demons of the American language.

SUPERIOR DEFEATED BY CROOKSTON IN LOOSELY PLAYED GAME MONDAY

The Superior Legion basketball team is not doing well out here in the dairy district. Defeated by Thief River Falls in two games last week, the Badgers went to Crookston and had the dose repeated on Monday night. The score was 46 to 35. The figures will give the fans something of a line of what may be expected in the game between Thief River Falls and Crookston here this evening. The locals defeated Superior in two games, the score in the first being 44 to 26 and in the second 61 to 14.

Minister Masquerades as Devil; Now in Hospital

The devil is lying critically ill at a hospital in Hutchinson, this state, shot through the abdomen by a 14-year-old boy. His satanic majesty lately received more than the usual amount of notice by reason of his appearing in person at dances of a questionable character in the vicinity of Hutchinson. Owners of dancing pavilions and their patrons offered a reward of $5,000 for anyone who would shoot the devil and thus put a stop to his visits. A boy took the dare and shot the visitor from the nether regions on his next appearance. It was found to be a man dressed up to represent the devil, his costume being a wonderful affair, equipped with electric batteries to give the effect of fire. His usual mode of gaining entrance was through the cupola and he spread terror wherever he appeared. The man who took this method of discouraging the dances, which have gained a bad reputation in the neighborhood, is said to be a Methodist minister.

New Woodmen Secretary.

At the regular meeting of the Woodmen of the World, held last Friday evening, E. A. Saltau was elected clerk for the remainder of the year. Those wishing to pay their dues hereafter will find Mr. Saltau at 118 LaBree avenue north, next door to The Times office. All members are urged to give this matter prompt attention to avoid lapse of policy. There is a good deal of interest being shown in the work of the lodge in this city and it is enjoying a steady growth.

Notice to the Public.

This is to notify all concerned that on and after this date I will not be responsible for bills contracted by Mrs. W. E. Baker.

Dated Feb. 16, 1922.

After the Storm!

During a winter snow or sleet storm or after a summer thunder storm, your telephone service may be cut off.

Often a windstorm breaks off many telephone poles. And sleet not only breaks off poles but interrupts telephone service by tearing down the wires. Lightning, too, plays havoc with the wires.

While your telephone is out of order, remember that linemen are working in the midst of the trouble, striving manfully, without regard for their personal comfort, to restore your service.

At the time of a storm, every available repairman is on the job. And not for a minute do they relax their efforts until telephone service is fully restored.

Three years ago in early fall
A class appeared in Lincoln hall,
A freshman class both green and shy
But freshman weaknesses soon pass by;
And now, in nineteen twenty-two,
The juniors present themselves to you,
A most marvelous class, as all admit,
Noted for brilliance and wit.
Our president, Craig, we're proud to present,
And James Votava, the vice president.
Allison Stitt of our wealth has control;
And Nella Knutson calls the class roll.
As to what we do, who could question at all,
With a picnic, a play, Junior Progress and all?
We're a wonderful class; we cannot be beat.
If anyone doubts us, let him read this week's sheet.

Rowing, Not Drifting.

A clean motto, as applied to the class as a unit only does not mean much, as the class has no common thought. Of course the motto can, and should, influence the policy of class officers, who direct its various activities. But we can also apply our motto to ourselves. How many students are there not who drift aimlessly through school? They go through high school, and often through the sea of life, without even attempting to reach a port. They are drifters. They may lead an enjoyable carefree life, but society would be as well off if they had never been born.

Contrast the usefulness to society of these with that of the rowers. The latter may not be exceptionally strong oarsmen, but they set out to reach a certain destination and they do not give up until they get there. When they dock their boats, they can feel that they have accomplished something and the world is a just a little better off than when they started. They have not lived in vain.

Are you a rower or a drifter? You may say that high school encourages drifting rather than rowing. Perhaps it does. But remember that the hero of the big seas is he who braves the storm and fights his way through the wind and waves to the port of his destination.—O. H. '23.

Rowing, Not Drifting.

In analyzing the motto of the junior class, let us first look at drifting. Does this word not seem lazy to you? You usually think of some people caring not whether they get any place or not; just idly drifting down the stream. And so it is in the ocean of life. If you let yourself drift you may gain a little but you will again float farther back and thus change with the current, having no one big aim in life.

But now look at the other outstanding word in our motto. When you think of rowing you usually think of working against a strong current with many billows and waves to pass and go through. In rowing in a lake you always think that the "rower" must be a strong, able-bodied person in order not to drift back. But it is not only thus in rowing in water. It is exactly the same in rowing through life. Everyone in order to be able to succeed must have a very strong will power to be able to stand the knocks of life. But the one who is able to row and pass the billows of life will be all the better for it. For each milestone in life passed means easier rowing and more ability to pass the next until finally you have gained your destination and have become so strong from enduring knocks that you will easily stand the rest of the tide.

From this our motto, "Rowing, not Drifting," you may know which side we, the juniors, take and what we intend to do. We will try our best to do well as a class, to live up to our reputation as the best class in high school and to row bravely against all obstacles, hoping the other classes will follow our example.—P. W. '23.

Oh, How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning.

Me and Jim, we live together That is, we are rooming together in the same room and in the same house. We get along like all boys, having so many tussles and quarrels per day, but we have the worst time in the morning.

You see it's this way. Jim, he's big and fat, and I'm skinny, and, the bed being pushed against the wall, I have to sleep next to the wall. Then, too, we're both bad sleepers and in the morning we usually find the bedding or pillows on the floor.

We both awake about the same time, and you know how dark it is during the winter. Well, neither of us can see the alarm clock which I place on the dresser and we can't reach it because the dresser is too far away from the bed and us. So I says, "Jim, are you awake?" and gives him a poke. He lets out a yell and I says, "Get up and turn the light on and see what time it is."

"Aw, shucks," says Jim. "Get up yourself. I'm going to sleep another ten minutes."

"I won't," says I. "It's easier for you to get out of bed than me and I don't intend to move till you do."

"Well, I wouldn't advise you to wait. You know it takes you longer to dress, having to 'spiff' up and look nice for the girls. If you wait for me you'll probably get left out," says Jim.

What's the use of arguing, thinks I to myself. But oh, how I hate to get up! And then I remember how we forgot to turn the heat on last night, and that the room will be especially cold. And then that cold tub I have to take every morning! Oh, how cold! But what's the use.

So I throws back the covers, and, jumping over Jim, lands on the cold floor, and, grabbing my bathrobe and slippers, runs for the bathroom.—D. L. C. '23.

Gum Chewing.

Horrors! I awoke from my reverie almost with a cry of fear. I had been watching the little freshmen running to and fro from their classes and it brought back to me thoughts of the stories which I had read then. As I started from my seat at that awful crackling snap behind me and turned around, I half expected to see fire and smoke issuing from a dragon's mouth.

What I saw instead of this terrifying spectacle was the boy behind me. He was evidently taking physical training because the muscles of his face worked so rhythmically that I thought only Mr. Stenhoff could have produced such a satisfying result.

I gazed spellbound. His eyebrows and several muscles of which I had never heard were moving mechanically. His eyebrows twitched spasmodically, and at short intervals as his jaws met over that long-suffering gum, I heard a sharp snap, much like a sneeze. Suddenly he stopped chewing and put his hand to his mouth, pressing the gum against his teeth. At the crack that sounded then, I jumped, and to cover my confusion, left the room.—V. B. '23.

Otta's Letter to Steena.

Lincoln High School

Dear Steena:

Vell, today I was on the school agan, notting much hapened except that somebody's alarm clock bells kep ringing and we pased in and out the rooms staeing only a litle while at each place. I winked at a girl this P. M. The girl she wasn't quiet as good looking as you, only she was awfully homely. She began to laff and I feeled funny. I winked agan and the teacher man he went to the girl and he scolded her. Then the kids laffed and the teacher man did too. The alarm clock rang and I went to another room. A boy told me the teacher man's name was Mr. Rapacz and I think the way he keeps strutting up and down the floor and looks at me, specially, is crazy. Last Friday we were told to go out to our singing seats. Vell, I vent and sat down in the first one I ran into. Next a lady with a stick cam in. The lady told us to keep still and pay attention, & listen. The noise quit but I could not hear them seats sing. Last wednesday a preacher man came up on the platform and talked. I think it was foolish that we didn't sing as we usually do in church. Today I righted a ticket for the librario and Mr. Teacher man righter "M. P. R." I sposed that meant "Mamma's poor rag-muffin." The fellas kinda showed me how to do that. When I came back the other teacher wrote "VRW." I guessed it meant "very rude woman." I heard a boy say the first hundred years are the hardest to a girl, but I guess they are so to a boy and I wisht I was a hundred. Ach himmel, there it is time to get up and stretch again, the clock rang.

Most affectshuneat,
OTTA S.

P. S.—The kids hear are so small they reach up to where my belt holds my shirt in.—L. D. '23.

H. S. Loses Two Games.

McIntosh 21, Thief River Falls 19.
Fosston 25, Thief River Falls 17.

On a strenuous two-day basketball trip the local high school team dropped two games to the fast quints of Fosston and McIntosh. The boys were greatly handicapped playing on small floors and feel confident that they could beat either team on a larger floor. Both games were hard-fought throughout, both Fosston and McIntosh playing in top form to win. The Fosston game was marred by poor refereeing, fouls being called only on the local team, which broke up their team work and aggressiveness time after time. With a little more equality so far as the calling of fouls is concerned the outcome of the game might have been different.

The McIntosh game was as fast a game as has ever been witnessed on the McIntosh floor and victory came to the home team only after the hardest kind of a fight. But for a technical foul Thief River would have come home with a victory. The officiating on this game was of the highest order and not a word can be said against it. McIntosh has defeated the fast Crookston team on the same floor by a score of 18-9, so comparatively speaking Thief River Falls has a stronger team than Crookston.

Thief River Falls' diminutive forward, Bob McGinn, was incapacitated during the entire trip and his absence from the lineup was keenly felt.

No single Thief River player could be picked out as a star on the trip as each man held up his end creditably. The boys played together and all did their parts as one.

The Sophomore Party.

On Friday evening the sophomores were hosts at a joyous party in the gymnasium of the high school. The stormy weather which kept so many people away had no effect on the cheer that reigned within.

A lively grand march, in which everybody was required to join, broke all restraint and prepared the guests for the games which followed. Dignified faculty members attempted to balance peanuts on slippery knives, and tried to whistle after having eaten numerous crackers, while lively sophomores discovered who could blow up paper bags most quickly and with the noisiest result. And then the whole assembly was divided into two opposing factions, each person representing a letter of the alphabet. As words were called, each "letter" in the word dashed to the front, amid wild excitement, and the winning side cheered lustily.

The guests' memory was tested by a very clever series of nursery rhyme tableaux, including Jack Horner, the Queen of Hearts, Little Polly Flinders, Cinderella, Curly Locks, and King Cole.

One of the most important events, of course, was the lunch, which proved to surpass expectations.

From beginning to end the party was an unqualified success, and Miss Leavitt and her sophomores are to be congratulated upon their industry and cleverness.

Craig Et Al.

We've a junior president named Craig
Who's occasionally known to plague
Anyone who's embarrassed
Or easily harassed;
But anyway, he's quite the rage.

And then there is Allison Stitt,
Who's really rather a wit.
He travels in style
Every once in a while,
And invariably makes a great hit.

There was a young lady named Pearl
Who sported a cute little curl,
If a pianist you seek
Any day, ask this Weeks.
She's a clever one, I'll tell the world.

There was a young lad named Stephen
Who never would listen to reason.
He went without earlaps
And froze up his earflaps,
Because he misjudged the season.

Of course you know our Eileen,
I'll say she's a regular queen.
She's stately and tall,
And ever since Fall
Of Math she's a student most keen.

A dramatic star, Lorrayne C.,
Played opposite Cleon B.
The play worked its spell,
And I have heard tell
That a Romeo still he would be.

"Limericks."

O-o-o-Olive,
Darlin Olive,
You're the only girl that
Allison adores.
When the moon shines
Over the Library,
He'll be waiting with his wheelbarrow,
At the doors.

A faculty member, how shocking!
Found she had a hole in her stocking.
It made her so mad
That she scolded a lad
Because she thought he was mocking.

A worldly-wise person named Kermit
Was sent to Rapacz for a permit.
Said he "Please write O. K."
But Rapacz said, Nay, nay,
You must write out your lesson and learn it."

On the farm, one bright summer day
Friedolph said while raking the hay,
"I'm a strong, healthy farmer
And no lady charmer,
No more life in the city, I say."

There is a young fellow named Rusty
Whose brain I am sure must be dusty
For he often acts queer
Tho' the girls think he's dear,
And now he is growing a "mouchtee."

Lloyd Alnes, arrived in St. Paul,
Thought the place looked "goofy" and small.
So he threw back his head
And painted it red,
And now you'd not know it at all.

Bright Tommie of our freshman class
Winked his eye at a pretty young lass,
Said, "Be mine, Rosy, please!"
But she said, "You're a tease,
Run along, I'll take none of your sass."

A girl of our dear Lincoln High
Often colored her tresses with dye.
But they gave her white paint,
Now she looks like a saint,
A dead one, and that is no lie.

Handsome Milford LaBree of Thief River,
Took his aunt for a ride in a flivver.
But the car took a skid,
Down a steep bank they slid,
And his aunt pulled him out of the river.

On the arm of her chair one sweet night,
Math sat gently, in perfect delight,
When off came the arm;
Math met with no harm,
But they say that the chair was a sight.

MISSING AN OPPORTUNITY.

It will no doubt come as a surprise to most people living here to learn that as much butterfat is going through the city for points farther south as is being manufactured into butter in Thief River Falls. Over a million and a half pounds were transferred at the stations here and sent to other points last year.

This would not be at all surprising if higher prices were paid for butterfat in other places, but such is not the case. The creamery at Thief River Falls stands near the head of the list when it comes to prices paid and there would besides be a considerable saving in shipping expenses if it were possible to churn the cream in this city.

What, then, is the trouble? It is simply that the capacity of the plant has been reached and no more cream can be handled than is under ordinary conditions being shipped here.

This condition is bad for the city, the cream producer and the creamery. It means that the manufacturing end is not keeping pace with dairying developments and that the producer must look for other outlets for his supply. This is not employing the best means available for encouraging the extension of dairying.

A larger creamery is needed. This fact has been recognized for some time. Figures gathered by dairymen themselves prove that the profit on the butterfat now going through the city would pay for a new plant at the rate of $10,000 every year without in any manner interfering with the income or profits of the present creamery patrons. As a business proposition it would seem as if the stockholders would at once take steps to remedy this situation.

Now creameries are going up all over the state, many of them in this immediate neighborhood. If the Thief River Falls co-operative plant is to retain the position it has gained through years of excellent service it will be necessary to make immediate provision for taking care of all the butterfat that may be offered.

AND STILL THEY COME.

Knud Wefald of Hawley, former representative in the legislature from Clay county, is the latest aspirant to shy his hat into the ring for the congressional nomination in the Ninth district. His particular sponsor is J. B. Thormodson, candidate for congress on the nonpartisan ticket two years ago.

Mr. Thormodson evidently has the thing figured out to his entire satisfaction. He says Steenerson has been in congress long enough; that Sageng is persona non grata with the nonpartisans of the district, and that Mr. Selvig, while admittedly excellent timber, is not sufficiently well known to get very far. This should leave an excellent opening for a dark horse and Thormodson is of the opinion that Wefald is of exactly the right shade.

This last development makes things all the more interesting. Sageng will undoubtedly have the backing of Otter Tail county, and indications are that Selvig will make serious inroads on the Steenerson forces in Polk. Now if Wefald enters the race with Clay solidly at his back there is going to be all kinds of fun. These are the three largest counties in the district and combined will have more than one-half the votes in the delegate convention. With a candidate from each and with none having a very marked advantage there should be some interesting developments. A divided opposition is bound to work to the advantage of Steenerson and as the elements composing this opposition are not such that a fusion of interests is likely, this last move should not prove particularly alarming to the veteran. Should a combination of the forces seeking his overthrow be effected, however, and the opposition unite on either Selvig or Sageng, the outcome would be such as to cause him considerable concern.

FAITH IN THE FUTURE.

The number of prizes carried off by the Pennington county exhibitors at the winter crop show in Crookston is naturally a source of much satisfaction to all our people. It is highly gratifying to know that we have here the best Guernseys, biggest hogs, finest chickens, and wheat of a very superior quality. In all these directions did the exhibits of Pennington county excel, even when placed in competition with products fostered at experimental stations backed by the state university.

It is probable, however, that we should take even a greater pride in the fact that one of our school boys won the essay contest on the subject, "The Future of the Red River Valley." This was read before a gathering of distinguished men, including a number of state officials, and was by all regarded as a remarkable expression, considering the age and experience of the writer.

In order to visualize in any manner the future it is necessary that one study the past and have also a clear understanding of present conditions. Confidence, enthusiasm and vision are elements essential to the production of an article such as that which received the commendation of the judges at Crookston. If boys are being turned out of our schools with these essentials ingrained in their mental makeup we need have no fear for the future of the section.

Conditions in the Valley will change only as fast as the viewpoint of the men and women constituting its citizenship changes. If we turn out of our schools boys and girls who are satisfied to do the best they can with what they find at hand, there will be no progress. On the contrary, if these have been taught to look forward to better things and given a grounding in the best methods of bringing about the needed improvements, no section of the country will move forward at a faster pace.

This prize-winning essay indicates that the youth of the land is giving some thought to serious matters, and just at present this is of even greater importance to our future progress than the raising of prize pigs and premium wheat.

CASHIER PRAISES BUSINESS SCHOOL

A Fargo (N. D.) citizen, visiting the Peoples Bank of Kansas City, was surprised to get the "glad hand" from P. D. Hodge, its cashier. "I got my start in your city," explained Hodge, "and if I were back on the farm tomorrow, I'd do just as I did 10 years ago—go straight to Dakota Business College. There is no school in the country that surpasses it." Consider: Hodge is only one of 226 Dakota-trained men who became bank officers.

CAN ALL WORK TOGETHER.

(Crookston Times.)

The Thief River Falls Times in an editorial comment on the recent basketball game participated in between Thief River Falls and Crookston commends the good feeling that had been re-established between the two communities. Anything that benefits Crookston must in some degree benefit Thief River Falls and the entire northwestern corner of the state, and vice versa. The Times states and suggests a spirit of co-operation and fellowship rather than one of antagonism. That's the right kind of talk and Crookston's hand is out, you bet.

Public Forum

Prefers New Party.

My dear Editor:

Will you kindly permit me to occupy a little of the valuable space of your valuable paper for a word of suggestion to the people of this part of the state who are members of the Nonpartisan League. In a short while we shall in all probability again be having our precinct meetings, county conventions and state conventions. Important questions in regard to the League's position in the coming campaign will no doubt come up at the state convention. I would suggest that the Leaguers and their friends talk matters over carefully at home, and let your delegates know what you think should be done. Put your ideas into the form of a resolution and send to state headquarters. Also write in as individuals and let them know what you think ought to be done, and instruct your delegates.

In the first place, should the League continue to put up its own candidates, or should it simply wait until those who want the office have all filed and then endorse the best one of the candidates? This is Mr. Townley's idea with his "balance of power" plan. The question is simply whether we shall endorse the best man of the candidates of the other parties, or if we shall continue to put up our own candidates as we have been doing in the past. Talk this over and let your delegates know what you think about it, and also write in to the state office.

Another question to come before the Leaguers this year will be this: Shall the League quit all the old parties and start a new progressive party of its own? Many of the members think it would be best to start a new progressive party of our own and keep out of the Republican and other parties entirely. Personally I think we should either start a new party of our own, or else adopt the Farmer-Labor party. My idea is that we need a new progressive party that will carry out the ideas of the League program, as well as other progressive legislation. We would be much stronger in that way. We have been weak in the past because we have had no party of our own. But of course to be a success the new party will have to be established right. It will have to be such that it can take in the progressives of all the old parties. Can we hope to get the progressives of the other parties with us if we start a new party, or come out as the Farmer-Labor party? If we cannot unite all, we of course had better stay in our old party. We have too many small parties as it now is.

To my mind we have a fine prospect if we come out as a new progressive party. It seems to be the best and only logical way. But the question now is: What do the members of the League as a whole think should be done? It is really up to you to decide this matter, for it will be your work that will have to carry the campaign. Discuss these matters carefully among yourselves, as well as in your meetings and conventions. Let your delegates know what you think about it. Write to state headquarters and tell them how you feel. These are important questions and it is up to the members of the organization to find the right solution.

Yours very truly,
H. O. BERVE.

BONUS FOR SOLDIERS BY RAISING TAXES OPPOSED BY PRESIDENT HARDING

President Harding is unalterably opposed to enactment of the special taxes suggested to finance the soldier bonus or to return to taxes which have been repealed, it was stated officially Monday at the White House.

It was also indicated that the executive was very much in doubt if it would be possible to raise the required sum to finance the cash feature of the bonus under an issue of bonds without an appreciable advance in interest rates and destroying the financial tranquility which is sought.

The president, it was said, was disposed to be favorable to bonus but his attitude had to be that of finding sane and sensible conditions for the fulfilment of the promises made on one hand without disturbing the desired return to financial stability.

"Wine of Pepsin" Has Too Much Kick, Court Decides

The conviction of Harry A. Brown of Warren for taking orders for "wine of pepsin" was last week upheld by the supreme court of the state. It is held that the concoction is a disguised sherry wine, contains 22 per cent of alcohol, and a conviction of a person dealing in it is therefore justified under the state prohibition laws.

It is claimed that this wine is sold openly throughout the rural districts of the state and has been responsible for many brawls, some of a very serious nature, at country dance halls. The supreme court holds that the pepsin content is so small as to be of no value.

Commissioners' Proceedings

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 30, 1922.

Pursuant to adjournment the County Board for Pennington County met in regular session in the office of the County Auditor in the City of Thief River Falls, at 2 o'clock P. M.

Meeting was called to order by Chairman Oscar J. Peterson. On roll call all members reported present.

The matter of opening bids for sale of $50,000.00 drainage bonds for construction of Judicial Ditch No. 30 of Marshall and Pennington Counties was duly taken up by the County Board. The following bonding companies were present with bids:

Northwestern Trust Company, Minneapolis.

Lane, Piper & Jeffray, Minneapolis.

Wells-Dickey Company, Minneapolis.

The bid of the Northwestern Trust Company for 5½ per cent was the best bid received and the same was accepted by the Board.

Commissioner McGinn offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Whereas, in pursuance and in full compliance with the provisions of Chapter 230, General Laws, Minnesota, 1905, and the several state acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, such steps have been duly and legally taken that a certain public drainage ditch has been duly located and established, with certain branches and laterals, located partly in the County of Pennington and partly in the County of Marshall, in the State of Minnesota, and known as Judicial Ditch Number 30, Marshall and Pennington Counties, Minnesota, and

Whereas, it has been definitely ascertained and determined in accordance with the provisions of law applicable thereto, that the expense incurred and to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing so much of said Judicial Ditch Number 30 as is located within the County of Pennington, Minnesota, or in such relation thereto as to affect lands therein within the terms of said legislative act, will be at least the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), and

Whereas, there is not sufficient money in the treasury of said county of Pennington to defray the expense incurred and to be incurred in so locating, constructing and establishing so much of said Judicial Ditch Number 30, as is located within said County of Pennington, or in such relation thereto as to affect lands therein within the terms of said law,

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, by the County Board of Pennington County, Minnesota, that it is necessary, for the purpose of defraying in part the expense incurred and to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing so much of said Judicial Ditch Number 30 as is located within the said County of Pennington, or in such relation thereto as to affect lands therein, to raise at this time the sum of fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), and for that purpose the negotiable coupon bonds of said County of Pennington be issued in the aggregate amount of $50,000, that said bonds shall be fifty (50) in number, numbered from one (1) to fifty (50) inclusive, shall bear date the first day of February, 1922, shall be in the denomination of one thousand dollars ($1,000) each, shall bear interest at the rate of five and one-half per cent per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of August and February in each year, and that both principal and interest shall be payable in gold coin of the United States of the present standard of weight and fineness, at the First National Bank in the City of St. Paul, Minnesota.

That said bonds shall mature as to principal as follows:

Bonds numbered 1, 2 and 3 on February 1, 1927, three bonds in the order of their numbers, lowest numbers first, on February 1st in each of the years 1928 to 1940 inclusive, bonds numbered 42 to 46 inclusive on February 1, 1941, and bonds numbered 47 to 50 inclusive on February 1, 1942.

Resolved Further, that said bonds and the interest coupons thereto attached shall be in substantially the following form with the necessary variations as to numbers and maturities, which said form is hereby approved and adopted:

No.......... $1000.00

This Bond is issued by said County of Pennington for the purpose of defraying, and is for an amount necessary to defray in part the expense incurred and to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing so much of a certain public drainage ditch, known as Judicial Ditch Number 30, Marshall and Pennington Counties, Minnesota, as is located in said Pennington County, or in such relation thereto as to affect lands therein, and is issued by authority of and in strict accordance with the provisions of Chapter 230, General Laws, Minnesota, 1905, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and pursuant to a resolution of the county board of said County of Pennington duly adopted and recorded.

And it is Hereby Certified and Recited that all acts, conditions and things required by the Constitution and Laws of the State of Minnesota to be done precedent to and in the issuance of this bond, have been done, have happened and been performed in regular and due form and time as required by law, that the total indebtedness of said County of Pennington, including this bond, does not exceed any constitutional or statutory limit, and that the public drainage ditch for which this bond is issued has been duly established for public use and is conducive to the public health, and that the full faith, credit and resources of said County of Pennington, Minnesota, are hereby irrevocably pledged for the punctual payment of the principal and interest of this bond at maturity.

Whereas, said bonds have been duly advertised for sale and awarded to the Northwestern Trust Company of St. Paul, Minnesota, on its bid therefor, which bid was par and a premium of $...., and has been and hereby is accepted.

Resolved, That on the execution of said bonds they shall be placed in the custody of the treasurer and shall be by him delivered to said Northwestern Trust Company or its order on the paying into the treasury of said county the amount of its bid therefor.

Be It Further Resolved, That said bonds and the interest coupons thereto attached shall be paid out of any available funds in the county treasury when the funds on hand in the general ditch fund of the treasury of said county are insufficient to meet the payment of the interest or principal of said bonds when the same respectively matures, and the county auditor and county treasurer of said county are hereby authorized and directed to pay the interest and principal of said bonds in such event, and to take all necessary steps to that end, but the funds from which such money may be so taken or used for the payment of the interest or principal of said bonds, when the same respectively matures, shall be replenished with interest from the collection of unpaid assessments for said Judicial Ditch No. 30 as such assessments are collected and received.

WIN TWO AT HOME BUT MEET DEFEAT AMONG STRANGERS

Local Basketeers Trounce Superior and Get Licked at Bemidji and the Forks.

The Thief River Falls basket shooters must have been off their feed when they permitted Bemidji to win by a score of 40 to 22 last Wednesday evening. As near as can be learned there is nothing much to be said about the game except that the Athletics did not play in their usual form and fell below the expectations in every department. The floor at Bemidji is long and narrow, requiring a style of play to which the boys are not accustomed, and this was undoubtedly one of the reasons for the disappointing showing made.

The Bemidji Pioneer, in its story of the game, says:

"Carlson, heretofore Thief River Falls' star player, scored only one basket at the right forward position, although he led the scoring for his team with six out of nine free throws. R. Louden, formerly Cambridge city team star, led in the number of field baskets for the visitors, he making good on three. Kiland, who substituted for Louden when Louden went to center in place of Hadrath who took the place of Holzknecht at right guard, scored two field goals. Holzknecht and Brown, guards, each scored one basket from the floor.

"There was no outstanding star on the Bemidji team, every man playing a 'whale of a game' from start to finish. Bemidji's team work surprised even the most ardent followers, and both the offensive and defensive plays showed the result of thorough training and ability. The Thief River Falls outfit is considered among the best in the northwestern part of the state, but Bemidji had it all over that squad last night."

Superior is Cleaned.

The Athletics took two games from the Superior American Legion team on Friday and Saturday of last week. The boys from the head of the lakes are fine sportsmen and good, consistent players, but they were outclassed in both offensive and defensive work. Friday night's game ended with a score of 44 to 26, with Superior at the short end.

Saturday night's game was a gallop for Thief River Falls. The boys made baskets from every angle of the floor, a throw in the general direction of the cage seemingly being sufficient to secure a goal. Carlson's sensational basket shooting in the second half was easily the feature of the game, while Louden, Holzknecht and Penney also scored heavily. Carlson made 14 field baskets, Holzknecht seven, Louden six, Penney three, and Hadrath, Kiland and Brown each one. The score stood 61 to 14 at the end of the game.

There was no particular star in the Superior team, Duff and Johnson securing two baskets each and O'Neill and Bradley one.

Never has the Thief River Falls team showed to such good advantage and the manager of the Superior outfit stated after the game that if the boys would put up the same kind of a fight in every contest there is not a team in the state could defeat them. They fairly romped away with everything in spite of the stiffest kind of opposition. The score might indicate that Superior is weak, but such is not the case. The visitors played a very good game, but nothing could stop the locals that night.

Lost to Grand Forks.

After outplaying the Grand Forks Legion team in the first half and holding its own in the second, Thief River Falls was defeated on Monday evening in the extra period in the Dakota city by a score of 32 to 26. Losing this game was the hardest kind of luck as it should have gone to Thief River Falls on general principles. The Grand Forks Herald says that their team was "outplayed in every department of the game in the first half but came back strong in the second and tied the score with two pretty goals early in the period." A basket by Louden put Thief River Falls in the lead, which they held up to the last minute of the second half, when a long shot by Ferguson, left guard, tied the count, the score standing 24 for both teams when time was called.

From the results it would seem as if the Athletics were outclassed during the second period. The Herald says they were unable to get their team to working and only tried a few long shots that failed to register. Patton and Shiver for Grand Forks each caged two baskets.

Louden was easily the star, according to reports, being responsible for more than half of the baskets made by Thief River Falls.

A small crowd witnessed the game.

THE FUTURE OF THE RED RIVER VALLEY

By LEIGH ANDERSON
Eighth Grade, Thief River Falls
(Awarded First Prize in Essay Contest at Crookston Mid-Winter Show.)

The mists of the past are slowly being lifted, and now a beautiful, fruitful valley, and having as bright a prospect for the future as any place in the world, is brought to our view. The sturdy, thrifty inhabitants of this region are weaving it into the greatest industrial center of all the world, and it already ranks among the first in the production of grain and dairy products.

The cities have ideal location, as they are situated both on railroads and waterways. With a little dredging these rivers and lakes could be made as important for shipping as they are for water power. Highways will continue to be improved and will be another milestone in the growth of the cities, as truck shipping and transportation are coming to the front and are bound to build up an important commercial industry.

There soon will be railroads threading their way from town to town over the valley, and each town will in a way be a railroad center in itself. Over these railroads all of the products of the valley will be shipped and the rails will also constitute a method of obtaining the very best and fastest mail service. Then, too, in time the finest automobile highways in the United States will be found in our valley, and these will be constructed of the most durable substances, such as concrete, bitulithic and tarvia. Automobile trucks will traverse these highways carrying articles of trade, as also will tourists, and an additional business will spring up and help make our cities flourish.

Mills will spring up in the towns, as will also manufacturies, so that the people will be able to construct their own useable articles without shipping their materials out of the valley. The dams and falls will be put to the use they were intended for, and water power will furnish an economical method of operating these factories. Cereal and cheese factories will rank among the most important of these, as will also milk condenseries. The manufacture of tractors and other farm implements will also be carried on extensively in the valley, which will enable the farmer to secure them at a much lower cost. Out of these factories will come the best and finest articles of furniture, clothing and other goods. The grass lands of the valley can and will be used to advantage in the dairying industry, and it is already seen that the fate of the valley depends largely upon this, and it is already one of the most profitable industries. In many instances the plains are dotted with thoroughbred stock, as many of the far-sighted farmers have seen that graded stock means a sure and substantial viling. Wheat is now being raised extensively in most parts of the valley, and its importance will continue. Potatoes, corn and sugar beets also have proved to be profitable crops. In the southern part of the valley fruit raising can be done with astonishing results; also the raising of poultry will make a fortune for somebody.

Another thing on which the future of our valley depends is the education of "Young America," for in their hands lie the industries of tomorrow and examples show us every day that it is the educated man that runs his factories and farms on and in a scientific basis. The children should have the best schools, libraries and other educational institutions that can be afforded, with all modern conveniences and the most able of instructors. The government may put in some of its fine institutions, such as a flying school or a military training school if the other schools come up to the standard.

The cities should show that they are not in a backward state by keeping their places of amusement, such as parks, swimming places and pavilions in the finest and most artistic condition as possible, and tourists always judge a town by its scenery and its ability to accommodate.

Thinking of so great a project, and knowing that it will come true makes it seem like a dream, but this is not so, as everything, as crudely stated here, and other things as well, can easily be accomplished. And though it is only in its infancy, it is already greatly developed, and with its start and its rapidity in improvement, it will take but a few years for it to break forth fro ma bud into a beautiful rose in full blossom, with all of its riches in beauty and color.

A TALK WITH A THIEF RIVER FALLS MAN

Mr. R. J. Halvorsen, Printer, of 410 Riverside Ave., Tells His Experience.

There is nothing like a talk with one of our own citizens for giving hope and encouragement to the anxious sufferer from the dread kidney disease. We, therefore, give herein an interview with a Thief River Falls man:

"My kidneys gave me quite a bit of trouble," says Mr. Halvorsen. "They didn't act normally and bothered me quite a bit by this irregularity. I was feeling pretty mean and easily tired. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and it was only a short time before I noticed a change in my condition. My kidneys again acted normally and I was benefited a great deal."

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS JUDGE IN GILLER CASE

Grindeland's Action in Setting Aside Jury's Verdict Held to Have Been Justified.

Held No Fraud Was Attempted in Securing Mrs. Giller's Name to Assignments.

Bank Found Blameless in Every Transaction With Family of Former Local Clothier.

The state supreme court last week handed down a decision upholding the action of Judge Andrew Grindeland of the Pennington county district in setting aside the verdict of the jury in the case of Bertha Giller against the First National Bank of Thief River Falls.

The opinion, which was written by the supreme court, upholds every contention submitted by the bank and finds for the defendant on every point at issue. The language of the court is so plain and the premises upon which the decision is based are so clearly set forth that justification for the trial court's action in setting aside the verdict of the jury is not left in doubt.

No Fraud Evident.

The case came on for hearing a year ago before Judge Grindeland and a jury. Fraud in securing the signature of Mrs. Giller to certain documents was charged and the jury returned a verdict of some $12,000 for the plaintiff. Judge Grindeland later set aside the verdict and plaintiff appealed. The higher court holds that there was no fraud on the part of the bank and that the jury was not justified in finding that plaintiff had been induced to execute any contracts through fraudulent presentations.

Is Lengthy Opinion.

The opinion of the superior court goes into the case in detail, recounting how the stock of Maurice Giller was partially destroyed by fire on the night of Jan. 7, 1919, the arrest of Giller on a charge of arson and the subsequent transactions of Mrs. Bertha Giller, the accused man's mother, with the bank. Maurice's bond had been fixed at $5,000 and Mrs. Giller asked C. L. Hansen, president of the bank, to act as surety in order that her son might be released from jail. This Mr. Hansen refused to do unless the bond was reduced and plaintiff agree to assign a sufficient amount in the shape of notes and mortgages held by her and Maurice to secure the bank against loss as well as cover the amount already owing the bank by her son. Collateral amounting to $11,300 was thereupon assigned by Mrs. Giller to the bank. In consideration thereof the bank agreed to surrender the insurance policies it held as security and to have Mr. Hansen execute the bond. All these conditions were performed. Thereafter Maurice was tried and convicted, and involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him resulted in his being adjudged a bankrupt. Later plaintiff demanded the return of her securities. Being refused she brought action, charging defendant with their conversion. She recovered a verdict for their face value and upon defendant's alternative motion, judgment in favor of the latter, notwithstanding the verdict, was ordered.

Details Are Recited.

One of the contentions of Mrs. Giller was that she did not clearly understand what she was signing, not being well versed in the English language. On this subject the supreme court says: "She professes not to understand the English language but a reading of her testimony hardly bears her out in this. Her husband had been a merchant in Thief River Falls for several years. After his death she continued the business in partnership with Maurice. She had more business experience than most women have. The partnership was dissolved in February, 1918, owing the bank several thousand dollars. Maurice's note of $6,640 represented $4,000 subsequently advanced to him by the bank and a balance of $2,640 upon original partnership indebtedness."

It developed at the trial that G. Howard Smith, Mrs. Giller's attorney, had further carefully read and explained all the provisions of the assignment to her before she attached her signature. Her daughter-in-law, Maurice's wife also made affidavit that Mrs. Bertha Giller, the plaintiff, admitted understanding fully the purpose of the transaction and signed it with full knowledge of its purport.

No Defect in Evidence.

In summing up the evidence the supreme court finds the following as outstanding features of the case:

"Viewing the evidence from any angle, it falls far short of showing that the contract does not express plaintiff's agreement with the bank or that her signature was obtained by fraud. The degree of proof required to overthrow a written contract is wholly lacking. The case is not one where there is a defect in the evidence which may be supplied on another trial. There is an entire absence of fraud.

"The order for judgement, in defendant's favor is, therefore, affirmed."

CITY SADDENED BY SUDDEN DEATH OF ROBERT M'GINN JR.

Popular Student and Athlete Succumbs to Influenza Following Short Illness.

Robert Clifford McGinn, Jr., sixteen years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGinn of this city, died last Friday morning of influenza with internal hemorrhages as a contributing cause. While complaining of not feeling well for some time it was not until three days previous to his death that he found it necessary to take to his bed. His condition became alarming almost at once and the best medical authority obtainable was called into consultation. In spite of every effort, however, the young man grew steadily worse until a short time before his death, when he seemed to make a sudden rally which gave his relatives hope that the worst had been passed. This hope was short-lived, a sudden change in his condition terminating in his demise.

The funeral was held from St. Bernard's Catholic church on Saturday morning, the service by Father J. M. Noesen being read in the presence of an audience which filed the edifice to overflowing. Deceased was a member of the sophomore class of the Thief River Falls high school and the students at the institution attended the funeral in a body. Hundreds of friends of the family, who are pioneer residents of the city, gathered at the church to pay a last tribute to a highly promising young man whom many had watched grow from babyhood and whose later progress had been followed with more than the usual interest. He was of a very active disposition and generally to be found as a leader in matters usually engaging the attention of boys of his age. He was at Fosston with the high school basketball team when he is supposed to have contracted the disease which terminated in his death.

Robert McGinn was born in Thief River Falls on December 10, 1906, being a little more than 15 years of age at the time of his death. He was a great favorite with all with whom he came in contact because of his unfailing good nature and active disposition. Among his classmates he was held in the highest esteem, both as a student and as a pal, and his sudden death cast a deep gloom over the entire school.

Boyhood companions acted as pallbearers, these being Ernest and Math Barzen, Charles Herron, Clifford LaBree, Clifford Sorensson and Herbert Keene. There was a wagonload of floral offerings at the funeral, a large number of societies and organizations as well as individuals sending their last tributes.

Deceased is survived by his parents, one brother, Denis, who is a student at St. Thomas college, St. Paul, and two sisters, Sybil, who is a member of this year's senior class, and Marcella, a grade pupil.

THREE ONE-ACT PLAYS OF UNUSUAL INTEREST WILL BE PRESENTED

High School Dramatic Club Will Give Novel Entertainment at Auditorium on Friday Evening, March 3.

An entertainment of unusual interest will be presented by the High School Dramatic club at the auditorium on Friday evening, March 3. Three one-act plays will be given, each a gem of its kind.

"The Singing Sou," is based upon an old Chinese legend of the bell that will not ring until human sacrifice gives it a soul. The scene is laid at the home of a mandarin in Pekin. This will be the first of the plays and is said to be beautiful in the extreme.

"A Pierrot of the Minute" is the story of one who has never known love and seeks it in the grove of Venus. Here he barters all hope of future happiness for one hour with the moon-maid. Poetry, music and dancing feature this part of the entertainment.

"A Flower of the Yeddo" is a Japanese comedy in verse and concerned with the temptations offered the poet Kami.

FIFTY DOLLARS IS OFFERED AS SPECIAL PRIZE

Contestant Turning in Largest Amount During Next Two Weeks Gets Award.

Cash Already Turned in Will Not Count in This Second Period Competition.

Winner of This Special Also Has Same Chance of Becoming Owner of Buick Car.

$50.00 IN GOLD

Second Period Special Prize for the best subscription money showing between Feb. 23 and March 18.

Only subscription money sent in during the second period will count towards winning the special prize of $50.

No subscription money sent in before Feb. 23 will count towards winning the special prize of $50.

Winning the $50 will in no way interfere with winning the Buick, the Ford, or the other Grand Free Prizes.

The standings in The Times Salesmanship Campaign tell their own story.

But the big thing before the contestants now is who will win the $50 offered for the best subscription money showing in the second period. Fifty dollars is not to be picked up every two weeks and it will go to the best second period subscription hustler. It makes no difference where you stand on the list today. You can step out and win the second period special prize of $50. No subscription money turned in before the close of the first period will count towards the winning of the special prize. The same subscription money that you turn in towards winning the $50 will also earn you "credits" under the second period scale. These are the Golden Days of the entire campaign. Some salesman will receive a salary of $25 a week for going out and winning the lead for the Big Buick during the second period.

The salesman or saleswoman in this campaign who makes an earnest effort to win the second period cash prize will also be making an earnest effort to win the Buick, the Ford, or the other Grand Free Prizes that are to be given away at the close of the campaign. Wishers are never winners. A wisher is like a person riding in a merry-go-round. He does a lot of traveling but comes right back to the place he started from. Make these next two weeks net you not only the special prize of $50 but also the lead for the Big Buick. Get out of the "wishers" class and get into the "winners" class. Get the winning habit by winning the $50 and the winning of the Buick will come easy. Remember subscriptions still earn more "credits" now and to March 8 than they will later. Make these next two weeks just bristle with activity.

In a few short weeks from now, when the snow has left the ground and you can go whizzing over the country roads in "your Buick" you are going to look back at these days and say to yourself: "I'm mighty glad I hustled during the second period." Jump in now and work with fever heat. It will pay you well. Don't be satisfied with anything you do. It is better to have far too many "credits" than to lose the Big Buick by lacking just a few. Now is the time to pile up a reserve that will make winning later a cinch. Besides, $50 will buy a lot of gasoline.

FARM INSTITUTES AT TWO POINTS IN COUNTY NEXT WEEK

Meetings to Be Held at Goodridge on Monday and Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

A farmers' institute will be held in the Commercial club rooms in this city on Tuesday, Feb. 28, the forenoon session starting at 10 and the afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock. O. M. Olson of Moorhead and J. E. Eastgate of Larimore, N. D., will be the principal speakers. Mr. Olson is the county agent for Clay county, while Mr. Eastgate has had long experience as a successful livestock raiser and general farmer. Subjects of particular interest to the farmers of this section which will be taken up at the meeting are: Crop Rotation and Soil Fertility; Care, Feeding and Handling of Livestock; Alfalfa and Sweet Clover; Sheep; Potato Growing; Corn and Other Crops for Grain and Forage; Soils and Tillage; Clover; Hogs.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a special session for those who are interested in farm bureau work in Pennington county. Matters of particular interest will be taken up for consideration at that time and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. Residents in the city as well as those on farms are particularly urged to be on hand for this session.

A similar institute will be held at Goodridge on Monday. People in the eastern section of the county who are interested in the forming of a potato association are expected at that time to take the necessary steps for joining the county organization and make plans for the spring planting.

These will be the last institutes in this part of the state for the present year and as the program is one of unusual interest farmers particularly should make it a point to be present.

BLAMES NEIGHBOR FOR ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

Gunder Gunderson Asks $15,000 Damages From Ole Nereson in First Case Tried.

Judge Grindeland has started off the February term of the district court with what promises to be one of the most interesting cases on the calendar. Gunder Gunderson, a resident of Deer Park township, is suing Ole Nareson, residing a short distance away, for $15,000, alleging the alienation of his wife's affections. The case was begun on Tuesday with F. A. Grady of Crookston appearing for plaintiff, and E. M. Stanton of Thief River Falls, Chas. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, and Julius Olson of Warren for defendant.

The complaint sets forth that the Gundersons rented a farm from Nereson but that the latter did not move sufficiently far away, complications ensuing which caused a great deal of grief to Gunderson. The testimony promises to be rather interesting and has already brought out large crowds to the court room. This case was on trial when court adjourned Tuesday evening and is to be continued this morning.

So far as can be learned this is the first case of the kind ever tried in the county.

MORE SUGAR BEETS TO BE CONTRACTED FOR NEXT SEASON

Meeting of Growers and Refinery Agent to Be Held in This City March 9.

M. H. Dana, agriculturist for the Minnesota Sugar company, will be in Thief River Falls on March 9 for the purpose of alloting sugar beet acreage for the coming summer to growers in Pennington county. In his letter to County Agent J. J. McCann, Mr. Dana says he has a better proposition to offer beet raisers than was presented last season and that his company will be able to handle a much larger acreage in this section.

Many applications for contracts are already in the hands of Mr. McCann and indications are that many who have not heretofore tried beet raising will make the experiment this year. One man asks for an allotmnet of 40 acres and there are a number who will agree to sow and care for 20 acres.

In order that all may be given an even chance it has been decided to call a meeting of those interested for the afternoon of Thursday, March 9, in ordr that the entire proposition may be laid before the growers by Mr. Dana himself. It will be well for any who contemplate going into this business to be present at this time in order that they may receive full information first hand.

Following is a list of the officers elected: Oscar Paulson, commander; L. H. Hermanson, first vice commander; Gilmore Huseby, second vice commander; L. C. Nelsen, adjutant; F. E. McGinn, treasurer; Henry Froseth, sergeant at arms.

Novelty Dance to Close Season For Elks' Lodge

Thief River Falls lodge of Elks will give a dancing party for members and their ladies on Friday evening at the lodge room. CLUB TAKES UP FARM BUREAU'S FINANCING PLAN

Matter of Devising Ways and Means For Continuing Work Will Be Considered.

Booklet Advertising Pennington County and Thief River Falls May Be Issued.

President Froehlich Announces Members of Standing Committees For This Term.

The Thief River Falls Commercial club has taken up the matter of providing ways and means for carrying on the work of the Pennington county farm bureau, the arrangement under which the bureau has been operating the past year nearing expiration.

For some time the organization has been kept going largely through voluntary contributions, the greater share of which have been secured from Thief River Falls business men. This was made necessary by the refusal of the county commissioners to make an appropriation for the bureau's maintenance. While the plan has not permitted of much in the way of expansion and experimentation, the income has been sufficient to keep the organization alive and help pay the salary of the county agent. A similar arrangement will have to be made for the future if the value of the excellent work already accomplished is not to be in a large measure lost.

In Committee's Hands.

President H. W. Froehlich of the club strongly favors the continuation of the bureau and has left the matter of finding a plan for financing it to the public affairs committee, composed of the following energetic citizens: W. J. Brown, chairman; C. L. Hansen, H. S. Dahlen, T. L. Melgaard and John Bratrud.

The matter of getting out an advertising booklet is under consideration by the publicity committee. Should such step be deemed advisable the publication will be one of the finest of its kind ever turned out in the state. Particular stress is to be laid on the farming opportunities held out in the region tributary to Thief River Falls, a larger agricultural population being deemed of even greater importance than immediate city development. One is certain to follow the other in any event and club officials are of the opinion that by boosting farming they will best be advancing the interests of the town.

Committees Appointed.

Standing committees have been appointed for the present year by President Froehlich as follows, the first named being the chairman in each case:

Membership, H. W. Protzeller, C. A. Munn, L. H. Lawrence, Ray Johnson.

Railroad and transportation, W. B. Fuller, Robert McGinn, Isak Helseth, H. O. Chommie, H. A. Pratt.

40 PER CENT GAIN IN CREAM RECEIPTS DECEMBER RECORD

Should Increase Continue Local Plant Will Be Unable to Meet Demands Later.

Should the receipts of the creamery continue to increase in the same ratio as during the past four months the plant will be swamped long before the usual summer run is encountered and it will be impossible to handle all the butterfat offered. Each month since November has shown a heavy increase over the corresponding period a year ago, this amounting to 40 per cent in December. During the winter months no trouble is experienced in taking care of all that is offered but at this rate the capacity of the creamery will have been reached long before the heavier supplies of the summer months come in. This means that the amount of cream passing through the city, which now amounts to 1,750,000 pounds a year, will be still further increased, and emphasizes the need for a larger creamery at this point.

Jens Kierk heads the list of producers for December, followed by Hans Anton and Peter Engelstad, all of whom received checks for more than $200 for the month. Others whose income from their herds reached more than $50 were:

Jens Kierk, $284.38; Hans Anton, $231.62; Peter Engelstad, $224.52; M. T. McFarland, $166.56; Waldie Christenson, $147.64; S. E. Hunt, $117.54; L. O. Stenseth, $98.74; R. M. Johnson, $97.06; Mrs. J. J. Berg, $78.58; H. Koop, $78.30; H. T. Waale, $78.27; Gust Wilkin, $77.61; John N. Swanson, $74.28; Christ Nelson, $74.20; S. Sorenson, $72.37; August Koglin, $67.77; C. H. Swanson, $65.71; Voldness Bros., $64.33; E. Edman, $63.49; Wm. Myrkens, $61.30; H. Pope, $60.74; C. Liden, $60.06; A. C. Simonson, $59.38; Paul Engelstad, $57.97; L. O. Williams, $58.80; C. Wiener, $57.48; C. Odegaard, $56.73; Will Smith $55.06; M. G. Shumway, $54.48; Wiladson Bros., $54.28; Ole Johnsrud, $53.10; H. C. Woolson, $52.62; James Wilson, $50.73; John Lamporter, $50.00.

HANSEN FILES AS SENATE CANDIDATE FROM SIXTY-FIFTH

Thief River Falls Banker Enters Race For Place Now Held By O. A. Naplin.

C. L. Hansen, president of the First National bank of Thief River Falls, has filed as a candidate for state senator from this district, composed of Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties. He is the first legislative candidate from the district to enter the race.

Mr. Hansen is one of the best-known men in the northwestern part of the state and has been active in public affairs for many years. He was a candidate for the same office in 1914 but was defeated by D. P. O'Neill by a close vote after a strenuous campaign. Urged to try for the place four years ago he declined, business matters making it impossible for him to give the campaign his attention at that time.

While Mr. Hansen has as yet announced no particular platform his attitude toward anything calculated to improve and advance this section of the state is so well known that any pronouncement of the [illegible] would be rather superfluous. He has been a resident of the district for more than 20 years and understands its needs as well as its advantages perhaps as thoroughly as any man who could be chosen. The senatorial nomination will go to Pennington county by tacit agreement and the probabilities are that the county's vote will be the deciding fatcor. Such being the case the senatorship will be practically cinched in the primary election.

O. A. Naplin, the present senator, will in all probability be a candidate for re-election, although he has not as yet definitely declared himself. He made a good record during his first term and will be a strong opponent should he finally decide to enter the race.

Farmer Serving 25 Days For Beating Up Spouse

Theodore Nelson, a farmer residing in the eastern end of the county, is sojourning in the Pennington county jail upon invitation of Judge N. W. Tarrant of the municipal court. Nelson was arrested on complaint of his wife, who claimed that he had beaten, bruised, maltreated and injured her. The husband admitted taking a wallop at his better half but stated to the court that her actions "made him so hot" that he could not help himself. The judge dryly remarked that 25 days in the lockup might be helpful on cooling him off.

PRESENT MEMBERS OF WELFARE BOARD FOR COUNTY REAPPOINTED

The state board of control yesterday announced the appointment of the following members of the Pennington County Child Welfare board: Mrs. J. M. Bishop and Mrs. L. G. Larsen, Thief River Falls, and Peter C. Wold, Kratka. Geo. M. Gunderson, county superintendent of schools, and Oscar J. Peterson, chairman of the board of county commissioners, are ex-officio members.

It was stated at the board office that there are now 70 child welfare boards in the state with a total membership of 356, Minnesota being a pioneer leader in this form of organization and in the completeness and general excellence of its laws protecting children.

In complimenting the work of the child welfare board in this county, the board of control said: "It is a source of gratification to us that your board has recognized that the protection of child life is the community's first obligation and a measure of its humanity. By your unselfish service to the dependent, neglected, delinquent and feeble minded children of your county and your effective cooperation with Judge Lars Backe in the administration of the juvenile court and mother's allowance laws, you are enrolled as a crusader in the conservation of child life."

Testimony All in and Attorneys Scheduled to Begin Their Pleas This Morning.

Accused Regarded as Having Injured Own Case By Insolent Bearing at Trial.

Says Seventeen of State's Witnesses Lied With Reference to Important Points.

The case of William Gummer, on trial at Valley City, N. D., for the murder of Miss Marie Wick of Grygla, is not expected to be in the hands o fthe jury until sometime this evening. Attorneys were scheduled to begin their arguments at 10 o'clock today when court reconvened after an adjournment taken on Wednesday because of the illness of State's Attorney William Green.

Mr. Green will be the only one to speak for the state today. Judge W. J. Barnett, chief counsel for Gummer, will take at least two hours to present his case and that is expected to end the summing up for the defense. Claire Brickner, associated with Judge Barnett, may present some arguments, but this is not certain.

Speculate on Outcome.

Because of the widespread interest in the case there is a great deal of speculation as to the outcome. This is not confined to Fargo and Valley City but is as keen in nearly every community in northwestern Minnesota. People residing in Thief River Falls are keeping particularly close watch of the developments, the murdered girl being known to quite a number here.

The general impression is that Gummer did not come through the ordeal of cross-examination as safely as his case demanded and there is a marked change of sentiment noticeable during the last few days. Up until that time the general feeling was that the state had failed to produce anything in the way of evidence which would justify the jury in finding Gummer guilty. The attitude of the accused while on the stand did not help his case with the public, his insolent bearing towards the state's attorney having a particularly bad effect.

Seventeen Called Liars.

Gummer, and Brown, his roommate, declared between them that 17 of the state's witnesses lied in giving their testimony. This sweeping assertion includes practically all the important statements made by the witnesses put on the stand by the prosecution.

Jurors Warned.

Judge C. M. Cooley warned the jurors against making up their minds until after they had heard the law in the case explained to them. He told them that inasmuch as the testimony was all in, they might think that they were permitted to immediately come to a conclusion, but he told them they were to keep their minds open until the case was actually presented to them.

Rebuttal Completed.

The state completed its rebuttal testimony Tuesday morning. The witnesses, consisting entirely of Cass county and Fargo officials, were called to clear up a number of features regarding Gummer's and Brown's declarations.

As a concluding feature, the defense called A. P. Bergeson of Willmar, who declared that in 1918, when he was chief of police, he knew a man man in Willmar by the name of James Farrell. He said Farrell was a Northern Pacific brakeman, was five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 150 pounds and was 27 or 30 years old.

Jeffers After Job.

Frank Jeffers of Red Lake Falls was in the city the first of the week enroute to St. Paul to present a petition for his appointment as field manager for the Co-operative Sales Agency as a successor to Mr. Montgomery, who was promoted to the manager's position left vacant by the death of W. A. McKerrow. Mr. Jef-

Thief River-Stephen High School Contest Friday

The wind-up game of the high school basketball season before the tournament will be played at the auditorium on Friday evening, at which time Stephen will oppose the Thief River Falls team. Stephen defeated the locals on the floor of the former team some time ago by a score of 21 to 12 and every effort will be made to wipe out this defeat. Friday night's game will be one of the best in the entire school series and well worth seeing.

It is hoped that there will be a good turnout to this game as the boys are a little behind on the expense of the season and they are in hopes of clearing enough on this last exhibition to put them in the clear. They have made a good record in spite of the fact that they were hardly of championship calibre and put up a game worthy of far more support than they have been receiving.

WIN TWO AT HOME BUT MEET DEFEAT AMONG STRANGERS

Local Basketeers Trounce Superior and Get Licked at Bemidji and the Forks.

The Thief River Falls basket shooters must have been off their feed when they permitted Bemidji to win by a score of 40 to 22 last Wednesday evening. As near as can be learned there is nothing much to be said about the game except that the Athletics did not play in their usual form and fell below the expectations in every department. The floor at Bemidji is long and narrow, requiring a style of play to which the boys are not accustomed, and this was undoubtedly one of the reasons for the disappointing showing made.

The Bemidji Pioneer, in its story of the game, says:

"Carlson, heretofore Thief River Falls' star player, scored only one basket at the right forward position, although he led the scoring for his team with six out of nine free throws. E. Louden, formerly Cambridge city team star, led in the number of field baskets for the visitors, he making good on three. Kiland, who substituted for Louden when Louden went to center in place of Hadrath, who took the place of Holzknecht at right guard, scored two field goals. Holzknecht and Brown, guards, each scored one basket from the floor.

"There was no outstanding star on the Bemidji team, every man playing a 'whale of a game' from start to finish. Bemidji's team work surprised even the most ardent followers, and both the offensive and defensive plays showed the result of thorough training and ability. The Thief River Falls outfit is considered among the best in the northwestern part of the state, but Bemidji had it all over that squad last night."

Superior is Cleaned.

The Athletics took two games from the Superior American Legion team on Friday and Saturday of last week. The boys from the head of the lakes are fine sportsmen and good, consistent players, but they were outclassed in both offensive and defensive work. Friday night's game ended with a score of 44 to 26, with Superior at the short end.

Saturday night's game was a gallop for Thief River Falls. The boys made baskets from every angle of the floor, a throw in the general direction of the cage seemingly being sufficient to secure a goal. Carlson's sensational basket shooting in the second half was easily the feature of the game, while Louden, Holzknecht and Penney also scored heavily. Carlson made 14 field baskets, Holzknecht seven, Louden six, Penney three, and Hadrath, Kiland and Brown each one. The score stood 61 to 14 at the end of the game.

There was no particular star in the Superior team, Duff and Johnson securing two baskets each and O'Neill and Bradley one.

Never has the Thief River Falls team showed to such good advantage and the manager of the Superior outfit stated after the game that if the boys would put up the same kind of a fight in every contest there is not a team in the state could defeat them. They fairly romped away with everything in spite of the stiffest kind of opposition. The score might indicate that Superior is weak, but such is not the case. The visitors played a very good game, but nothing could stop the locals that night.

Lost to Grand Forks.

After outplaying the Grand Forks Legion team in the first half and holding its own in the second, Thief River Falls was defeated on Monday evening in the extra period in the Dakota city by a score of 32 to 26. Losing this game was the hardest kind of luck as it should have gone to Thief River Falls on general principles. The Grand Forks Herald says that their team was "outplayed in every department of the game in the first half but came back strong in the second and tied the score with two pretty goals early in the period." A basket by Louden put Thief River Falls in the lead, which they held up to the last minute of the second half, when a long shot by Ferguson, left guard, tied the count, the score standing 24 for both teams when time was called.

From the results it would seem as if the Athletics were outclassed during the second period. The Herald says they were unable to get their team to working and only tried a few long shots that failed to register. Patton and Shiver for Grand Forks each caged two baskets.

Louden was easily the star, according to reports, being responsible for more than half of the baskets made by Thief River Falls.

A small crowd witnessed the game.

THE FUTURE OF THE RED RIVER VALLEY

By LEIGH ANDERSON
Eighth Grade, Thief River Falls

The mists of the past are slowly being lifted, and now a beautiful, fruitful valley, and having as bright a prospect for the future as any place in the world, is brought to our view. The sturdy, thrifty inhabitants of this region are weaving it into the greatest industrial center of all the world, and it already ranks among the first in the production of grain and dairy products.

The cities have ideal location, as they are situated both on railroads and waterways. With a little dredging these rivers and lakes could be made as important for shipping as they are for water power. Highways will continue to be improved and will be another milestone in the growth of the cities, as truck shipping and transportation are coming to the front and are bound to build up an important commercial industry.

There soon will be railroads threading their way from town to town over the valley, and each town will in a way be a railroad center in itself. Over these railroads all of the products of the valley will be shipped and the rails will also constitute a method of obtaining the very best and fastest mail service. Then, too, in time the finest automobile highways in the United States will be found in our valley, and these will be constructed of the most durable substances, such as concrete, bitulithic and tarvia. Automobile trucks will traverse these highways carrying articles of trade, as also will tourists, and an additional business will spring up and help make our cities flourish.

Mills will spring up in the towns, as will also manufacturies, so that the people will be able to construct their own useable articles without shipping their materials out of the valley. The dams and falls will be put to the use they were intended for, and water power will furnish an economical method of operating these factories. Cereal and cheese factories will rank among the most important of these, as will also milk condenseries. The manufacture of tractors and other farm implements will also be carried on extensively in the valley, which will enable the farmer to secure them at a much lower cost. Out of these factories will come the best and finest articles of furniture, clothing and other goods. The grass lands of the valley can and will be used to advantage in the dairying industry, and it is already seen that the fate of the valley depends largely upon this, and it is already one of the most profitable industries. In many instances the plains are dotted with thoroughbred stock, as many of the far-sighted farmers have seen that graded stock means a sure and substantial viling. Wheat is now being raised extensively in most parts of the valley, and its importance will continue. Potatoes, corn and sugar beets also have proved to be profitable crops. In the southern part of the valley fruit raising can be done with astonishing results; also the raising of poultry will make a fortune for somebody.

Another thing on which the future of our valley depends is the education of "Young America," for in their hands lie the industries of tomorrow and examples show us every day that it is the educated man that runs his factories and farms on and in a scientific basis. The children should have the best schools, libraries and other educational institutions that can be afforded, with all modern conveniences and the most able of instructors. The government may put in some of its fine institutions, such as a flying school or a military training school if the other schools come up to the standard.

The cities should show that they are not in a backward state by keeping their places of amusement, such as parks, swimming places and pavilions in the finest and most artistic condition as possible, and tourists always judge a town by its scenery and its ability to accommodate.

Thinking of so great a project, and knowing that it will come true makes it seem like a dream, but this is not so, as everything, as crudely stated here, and other things as well, can easily be accomplished. And though it is only in its infancy, it is already greatly developed, and with its start and its rapidity in improvement, it will take but a few years for it to break forth from its bud into a beautiful rose in full blossom, with all of its riches in beauty and color.

The elimination tournament to decide the basketball championship among the high schools of this district will be held on March 2 and 3. While the place for holding the contest has not been definitely decided upon the probabilities are that Crookston will be chosen.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS JUDGE IN GILLER CASE

Grindeland's Action in Setting Aside Jury's Verdict Held to Have Been Justified.

Held No Fraud Was Attempted in Securing Mrs. Giller's Name to Assignments.

Bank Found Blameless in Every Transaction With Family of Former Local Clothier.

The state supreme court last week handed down a decision upholding the action of Judge Andrew Grindeland of the Pennington county district in setting aside the verdict of the jury in the case of Bertha Giller against the First National Bank of Thief River Falls.

The opinion, which was written by the supreme court, upholds every contention submitted by the bank and finds for the defendant on every point at issue. The language of the court is so plain and the premises upon which the decision is based are so clearly set forth that justification for the trial court's action in setting aside the verdict of the jury is not left in doubt.

No Fraud Evident.

The case came on for hearing a year ago before Judge Grindeland and a jury. Fraud in securing the signature of Mrs. Giller to certain documents was charged and the jury returned a verdict of some $12,000 for the plaintiff. Judge Grindeland later set aside the verdict and plaintiff appealed. The higher court holds that there was no fraud on the part of the bank and that the jury was not justified in finding that plaintiff had been induced to execute any contracts through fraudulent presentations.

Is Lengthy Opinion.

The opinion of the superior court goes into the case in detail, recounting how the stock of Maurice Giller was partially destroyed by fire on the night of Jan. 7, 1919, the arrest of Giller on a charge of arson and the subsequent transactions of Mrs. Bertha Giller, the accused man's mother, with the bank. Maurice's bond had been fixed at $5,000 and Mrs. Giller asked C. L. Hansen, president of the bank, to act as surety in order that her son might be released from jail. This Mr. Hansen refused to do unless the bond was reduced and plaintiff agree to assign a sufficient amount in the shape of notes and mortgages held by her and Maurice to secure the bank against loss as well as cover the amount already owing the bank by her son. Collateral amounting to $11,300 was thereupon assigned by Mrs. Giller to the bank. In consideration thereof the bank agreed to surrender the insurance policies it held as security and to have Mr. Hansen execute the bond. All these conditions were performed. Thereafter Maurice was tried and convicted, and involuntary bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him resulted in his being adjudged a bankrupt. Later plaintiff demanded the return of her securities. Being refused she brought action, charging defendant with their conversion. She recovered a verdict for their face value and upon defendant's alternative motion, judgment in favor of the latter, notwithstanding the verdict, was ordered.

Details Are Recited.

One of the contentions of Mrs. Giller was that she did not clearly understand what she was signing, not being well versed in the English language. On this subject the supreme court says: "She professes not to understand the English language but a reading of her testimony hardly bears her out in this. Her husband had been a merchant in Thief River Falls for several years. After his death she continued the business in partnership with Maurice. She had more business experience than most women have. The partnership was dissolved in February, 1918, owing the bank several thousand dollars. Maurice's note of $6,640 represented $4,000 subsequently advanced to him by the bank and a balance of $2,640 upon original partnership indebtedness."

It developed at the trial that G. Howard Smith, Mrs. Giller's attorney, had further carefully read and explained all the provisions of the assignment to her before she attached her signature. Her daughter-in-law, Maurice's wife also made affidavit that Mrs. Bertha Giller, the plaintiff, admitted understanding fully the purpose of the transaction and signed it with full knowledge of its purport.

No Defect in Evidence.

In summing up the evidence the supreme court finds the following as outstanding features of the case:

"Viewing the evidence from any angle, it falls far short of showing that the contract does not express plaintiff's agreement with the bank or that her signature was obtained by fraud. The degree of proof required to overthrow a written contract is wholly lacking. The case is not one where there is a defect in the evidence which may be supplied on another trial. There is an entire absence of fraud.

"The order for judgement in defendant's favor is, therefore, affirmed."

J. E. Morrisey Dead.

James E. Morrisey, long-time resident and former mayor of Crookston, died suddenly at his home in that city on Sunday. Intestinal trouble is given as the cause of death. Deceased was a man most highly regarded in his home community and enjoyed a large acquaintance all through the district.

CITY SADDENED BY SUDDEN DEATH OF ROBERT M'GINN JR.

Popular Student and Athlete Succumbs to Influenza Following Short Illness.

Robert Clifford McGinn, Jr., sixteen years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGinn of this city, died last Friday morning of influenza with internal hemorrhages as a contributing cause. While complaining of not feeling well for some time it was not until three days previous to his death that he found it necessary to take to his bed. His condition became alarming almost at once and the best medical authority obtainable was called into consultation. In spite of every effort, however, the young man grew steadily worse until a short time before his death, when he seemed to make a sudden rally which gave his relatives hope that the worst had been passed. This hope was short-lived, a sudden change in his condition terminating in his demise.

The funeral was held from St. Bernard's Catholic church on Saturday morning, the service by Father J. M. Noesen being read in the presence of an audience which filed the edifice to overflowing. Deceased was a member of the sophomore class of the Thief River Falls high school and the students at the institution attended the funeral in a body. Hundreds of friends of the family, who are pioneer residents of the city, gathered at the church to pay a last tribute to a highly promising young man whom many had watched grow from babyhood and whose later progress had been followed with more than the usual interest. He was of a very active disposition and generally to be found as a leader in matters usually engaging the attention of boys of his age. He was at Fosston with the high school basketball team when he is supposed to have contracted the disease which terminated in his death.

Robert McGinn was born in Thief River Falls on December 10, 1906, being a little more than 15 years of age at the time of his death. He was a great favorite with all with whom he came in contact because of his unfailing good nature and active disposition. Among his classmates he was held in the highest esteem, both as a student and as a pal, and his sudden death cast a deep gloom over the entire school.

Boyhood companions acted as pallbearers, these being Ernest and Muth Barzen, Charles Herron, Clifford LaBree, Clifford Sorenson and Herbert Keene. There was a wagonload of floral offerings at the funeral, a large number of societies and organizations as well as individuals sending their last tributes.

Deceased is survived by his parents, one brother, Donis, who is a student at St. Thomas college, St. Paul, and two sisters, Sybil, who is a member of this year's senior class, and Marcella, a grade pupil.

You can step out and win the second period special prize of $50. No subscription money turned in before the close of the first period will count towards the winning of the special prize. The same subscription money that you turn in towards winning the $50 will also earn you "credits" under the second period scale. These are the Golden Days of the entire campaign. Some salesman will receive a salary of $25 a week for going out and winning the lead for the Big Buick during the second period.

The salesman or saleswoman in this campaign who makes an earnest effort to win the second period cash prize will also be making an earnest effort to win the Buick, the Ford, or the other Grand Free Prizes that are to be given away at the close of the campaign. Wishers are never winners. A wisher is like a person riding in a merry-go-round. He does a lot of traveling but comes right back to the place he started from. Make these next two weeks net you not only the special prize of $50 but also the lead for the Big Buick. Get out of the "wishers" class and get into the "winners" class. Get the winning habit by winning the $50 and the winning of the Buick will come easy. Remember subscriptions still earn more "credits" now and to March 8 than they will later. Make these next two weeks just bristle with activity.

In a few short weeks from now, when the snow has left the ground and you can go whizzing over the country roads in "your Buick" you are going to look back at these days and say to yourself: "I'm mighty glad I hustled during the second period." Jump in now and work with fever heat. It will pay you well. Don't be satisfied with anything you do. It is better to have far too many "credits" than to lose the Big Buick by lacking just a few. Now is the time to pile up a reserve that will make winning later a cinch. Besides, $50 will buy a lot of gasoline.

FARM INSTITUTES AT TWO POINTS IN COUNTY NEXT WEEK

Meetings to Be Held at Goodridge on Monday and Thief River Falls on Tuesday.

A farmers' institute will be held in the Commercial club rooms in this city on Tuesday, Feb. 28, the forenoon session starting at 10 and the afternoon meeting at 2 o'clock. O. M. Olson of Moorhead and J. E. Eastgate of Larimore, N. D., will be the principal speakers. Mr. Olson is the county agent for Clay county, while Mr. Eastgate has had long experience as a successful livestock raiser and general farmer. Subjects of particular interest to the farmers of this section which will be taken up at the meeting are: Crop Rotation and Soil Fertility; Care, Feeding and Handling of Livestock; Alfalfa and Sweet Clover; Sheep; Potato Growing; Corn and Other Crops for Grain and Forage; Soils and Tillage; Clover; Hogs.

On Tuesday afternoon there will be a special session for those who are interested in farm bureau work in Pennington county. Matters of particular interest will be taken up for consideration at that time and it is hoped there will be a large attendance. Residents in the city as well as those on farms are particularly urged to be on hand for this session.

A similar institute will be held at Goodridge on Monday. People in the eastern section of the county who are interested in the forming of a potato association are expected at that time to take the necessary steps for joining the county organization and make plans for the spring planting.

These will be the last institutes in this part of the state for the present year and as the program is one of unusual interest farmers particularly should make it a point to be present.

BLAMES NEIGHBOR FOR ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

Gunder Gunderson Asks $15,000 Damages From Ole Nereson in First Case Tried.

Judge Grindeland has started off the February term of the district court with what promises to be one of the most interesting cases on the calendar. Gunder Gunderson, a resident of Deer Park township, is suing Ole Nareson, residing a short distance away, for $15,000, alleging the alienation of his wife's affections. The case was begun on Tuesday with F. A. Grady of Crookston appearing for plaintiff, and E. M. Stanton of Thief River Falls, Chas. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, and Julius Olson of Warren for defendant.

The complaint sets forth that the Gundersons rented a farm from Nereson but that the latter did not move sufficiently far away, complications ensuing which caused a great deal of grief to Gunderson. The testimony promises to be rather interesting and has already brought out large crowds to the court room. This case was on trial when court adjourned Tuesday evening and is to be continued this morning.

So far as can be learned this is the first case of the kind ever tried in the county.

MORE SUGAR BEETS TO BE CONTRACTED FOR NEXT SEASON

Meeting of Growers and Refinery Agent to Be Held in This City March 9.

M. H. Dana, agriculturist for the Minnesota Sugar company, will be in Thief River Falls on March 9 for the purpose of alloting sugar beet acreage for the coming summer to growers in Pennington county. In his letter to County Agent J. J. McCann, Mr. Dana says he has a better proposition to offer beet raisers than was presented last season and that his company will be able to handle a much larger acreage in this section.

Many applications for contracts are already in the hands of Mr. McCann and indications are that many who have not heretofore tried beet raising will make the experiment this year. One man asks for an allotmnet of 40 acres and there are a number who will agree to sow and care for 20 acres.

In order that all may be given an even chance it has been decided to call a meeting of those interested for the afternoon of Thursday, March 9, in ordr that the entire proposition may be laid before the growers by Mr. Dana himself. It will be well for any who contemplate going into this business to be present at this time in order that they may receive full information first hand.

CLUB TAKES UP FARM BUREAU'S FINANCING PLAN

Matter of Devising Ways and Means For Continuing Work Will Be Considered.

Booklet Advertising Pennington County and Thief River Falls May Be Issued.

President Froehlich Announces Members of Standing Committees For This Term.

The Thief River Falls Commercial club has taken up the matter of providing ways and means for carrying on the work of the Pennington county farm bureau, the arrangement under which the bureau has been operating the past year nearing expiration.

For some time the organization has been kept going largely through voluntary contributions, the greater share of which have been secured from Thief River Falls business men. This was made necessary by the refusal of the county commissioners to make an appropriation for the bureau's maintenance. While the plan has not permitted of much in the way of expansion and experimentation, the income has been sufficient to keep the organization alive and help pay the salary of the county agent. A similar arrangement will have to be made for the future if the value of the excellent work already accomplished is not to be in a large measure lost.

In Committee's Hands.

President H. W. Froehlich of the club strongly favors the continuation of the bureau and has left the matter of finding a plan for financing it to the public affairs committee, composed of the following energetic citizens: W. J. Brown, chairman; C. L. Hansen, H. S. Dahlen, T. L. Melgaard and John Bratrud.

The matter of getting out an advertising booklet is under consideration by the publicity committee. Should such step be deemed advisable the publication will be one of the finest of its kind ever turned out in the state. Particular stress is to be laid on the farming opportunities held out in the region tributary to Thief River Falls, a larger agricultural population being deemed of even greater importance than immediate city development. One is certain to follow the other in any event and club officials are of the opinion that by boosting farming they will best be advancing the interests of the town.

Committees Appointed.

Standing committees have been appointed for the present year by President Froehlich as follows, the first named being the chairman in each case:

Membership, H. W. Protzeller, C. A. Munn, L. H. Lawrence, Ray Johnson.

Railroad and transportation, W. B. Fuller, Robert McGinn, Isak Helseth, H. O. Chommie, H. A. Pratt.

40 PER CENT GAIN IN CREAM RECEIPTS DECEMBER RECORD

Should Increase Continue Local Plant Will Be Unable to Meet Demands Later.

Should the receipts of the creamery continue to increase in the same ratio as during the past four months the plant will be swamped long before the usual summer run is encountered and it will be impossible to handle all the butterfat offered. Each month since November has shown a heavy increase over the corresponding period a year ago, this amounting to 40 per cent in December. During the winter months no trouble is experienced in taking care of all that is offered but at this rate the capacity of the creamery will have been reached long before the heavier supplies of the summer months come in. This means that the amount of cream passing through the city, which now amounts to 1,750,000 pounds a year, will be still further increased, and emphasizes the need for a larger creamery at this point.

Jens Kierk heads the list of producers for December, followed by Hans Anton and Peter Engelstad, all of whom received checks for more than $200 for the month. Others whose income from their herds reached more than $50 were:

Jens Kierk, $284.38; Hans Anton, $231.62; Peter Engelstad, $224.52; M. T. McFarland, $166.56; Waldie Christenson, $147.64; S. E. Hunt, $117.54; L. O. Stenseth, $98.74; R. M. Johnson, $97.06; Mrs. J. J. Berg, $78.58; H. Koop, $78.30; H. T. Waale, $78.27; Gust Wilkin, $77.61; John N. Swanson, $74.28; Christ Nelson, $74.20; S. Sorenson, $72.37; August Koglin, $67.87; C. H. Swanson, $65.71; Voldness Bros., $64.33; E. Edman, $63.49; Wm. Myrkens, $61.30; H. Pope, $60.74; C. Liden, $60.06; A. C. Simonson, $59.38; Paul Engelstad, $57.97; L. O. Williams, $58.80; C. Wiener, $57.48; C. Odegaard, $56.73; Will Smith $55.06; M. G. Shumway, $54.48; Willadson Bros., $54.28; Ole Johnsrud, $53.10; H. C. Woolson, $52.62; James Wilson, $50.73; John Lamporter, $50.00.

HANSEN FILES AS SENATE CANDIDATE FROM SIXTY-FIFTH

Thief River Falls Banker Enters Race For Place Now Held By O. A. Naplin.

C. L. Hansen, president of the First National bank of Thief River Falls, has filed as a candidate for state senator from this district, composed of Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties. He is the first legislative candidate from the district to enter the race.

Mr. Hansen is one of the best known men in the northwestern part of the state and has been active in public affairs for many years. He was a candidate for the same office in 1914 but was defeated by D. P. O'Neill by a close vote after a strenuous campaign. Urged to try for the place four years ago he declined, business matters making it impossible for him to give the campaign his attention at that time.

While Mr. Hansen has as yet announced no particular platform his attitude toward anything calculated to improve and advance this section of the state is so well known that any pronouncement of the [illegible] would be rather superfluous. He [illegible] been a resident of the district for more than 20 years and understands its needs as well as its advantages perhaps as thoroughly as any man who could be chosen. The senatorial nomination will go to Pennington county by tacit agreement and the probabilities are that the county's vote will be the deciding factor. Such being the case the senatorship will be practically cinched in the primary election.

O. A. Naplin, the present senator, will in all probability be a candidate for re-election, although he has not as yet definitely declared himself. He made a good record during his first term and will be a strong opponent should he finally decide to enter the race.

Farmer Serving 25 Days For Beating Up Spouse

Theodore Nelson, a farmer residing in the eastern end of the county, is sojourning in the Pennington county jail upon invitation of Judge N. W. Tarrant of the municipal court. Nelson was arrested on complaint of his wife, who claimed that he had beaten, bruised, maltreated and injured her. The husband admitted taking a wallop at his better half but stated to the court that her actions "made him so hot" that he could not help himself. The judge dryly remarked that 25 days in the lockup might be helpful on cooling him off.

PRESENT MEMBERS OF WELFARE BOARD FOR COUNTY REAPPOINTED

The state board of control yesterday announced the appointment of the following members of the Pennington County Child Welfare board: Mrs. J. M. Bishop and Mrs. L. G. Larsen, Thief River Falls, and Peter C. Wold, Kratka. Geo. M. Gunderson, county superintendent of schools, and Oscar J. Peterson, chairman of the board of county commissioners, are ex-officio members.

It was stated at the board office that there are now 70 child welfare boards in the state with a total membership of 356, Minnesota being a pioneer leader in this form of organization and in the completeness and general excellence of its laws protecting children.

In complimenting the work of the child welfare board in this county, the board of control said: "It is a source of gratification to us that your board has recognized that the protection of child life is the community's first obligation and a measure of its humanity. By your unselfish service to the dependent, neglected, delinquent and feeble minded children of your county and your effective cooperation with Judge Lars Backe in the administration of the juvenile court and mother's allowance laws, you are enrolled as a crusader in the conservation of child life."

Testimony All in and Attorneys Scheduled to Begin Their Pleas This Morning.

Accused Regarded as Having Injured Own Case By Insolent Bearing at Trial.

Says Seventeen of State's Witnesses Lied With Reference to Important Points.

The case of William Gummer, on trial at Valley City, N. D., for the murder of Miss Marie Wick of Grygla, is not expected to be in the hands of the jury until sometime this evening. Attorneys were scheduled to begin their arguments at 10 o'clock today when court reconvened after an adjournment taken on Wednesday because of the illness of State's Attorney William Green.

Mr. Green will be the only one to speak for the state today. Judge W. J. Barnett, chief counsel for Gummer, will take at least two hours to present his case and that is expected to end the summing up for the defense. Claire Brickner, associated with Judge Barnett, may present some arguments, but this is not certain.

Speculate on Outcome.

Because of the widespread interest in the case there is a great deal of speculation as to the outcome. This is not confined to Fargo and Valley City but is as keen in nearly every community in northwestern Minnesota. People residing in Thief River Falls are keeping particularly close watch of the developments, the murdered girl being known to quite a number here.

The general impression is that Gummer did not come through the ordeal of cross-examination as safely as his case demanded and there is a marked change of sentiment noticeable during the last few days. Up until that time the general feeling was that the state had failed to produce anything in the way of evidence which would justify the jury in finding Gummer guilty. The attitude of the accused while on the stand did not help his case with the public, his insolent bearing towards the state's attorney having a particularly bad effect.

Seventeen Called Liars.

Gummer, and Brown, his roommate, declared between them that 17 of the state's witnesses lied in giving their testimony. This sweeping assertion includes practically all the important statements made by the witnesses put on the stand by the prosecution.

Jurors Warned.

Judge C. M. Cooley warned the jurors against making up their minds until after they had heard the law in the case explained to them. He told them that inasmuch as the testimony was all in, they might think that they were permitted to immediately come to a conclusion, but he told them they were to keep their minds open until the case was actually presented to them.

Rebuttal Completed.

The state completed its rebuttal testimony Tuesday morning. The witnesses, consisting entirely of Cass county and Fargo officials, were called to clear up a number of features regarding Gummer's and Brown's declarations.

As a concluding feature, the defense called A. P. Bergeson of Willmar, who declared that in 1918, when he was chief of police, he knew a man man in Willmar by the name of James Farrell. He said Farrell was a Northern Pacific brakeman, was five feet seven inches tall, weighed about 160 pounds and was 27 or 30 years old.

Jeffers After Job.

Frank Jeffers of Red Lake Falls was in the city the first of the week enroute to St. Paul to present a petition for his appointment as field manager for the Co-operative Sales Agency as a successor to Mr. Montgomery, who was promoted to the manager's position left vacant by the death of W. A. McKerrow. Mr. Jef-

Thief River-Stephen High School Contest Friday

The wind-up game of the high school basketball season before the tournament will be played at the auditorium on Friday evening, at which time Stephen will oppose the Thief River Falls team. Stephen defeated the locals on the floor of the former team some time ago by a score of 21 to 12 and every effort will be made to wipe out this defeat. Friday night's game will be one of the best in the entire school series and well worth seeing.

It is hoped that there will be a good turnout to this game as the boys are a little behind on the expense of the season and they are in hopes of clearing enough on this last exhibition to put them in the clear. They have made a good record in spite of the fact that they were hardly of championship calibre and put up a game worthy of far more support than they have been receiving.

History of Thief River Falls.

Inquiry is often made as to how Thief River Falls received its name. Upon investigation we find that the name of Thief River is older than the town itself. It has been told that the Sioux, who lived here before the Chippewas drove them out, had a member of their tribe who was a murderer. He lived along the river's bank and subsisted mainly on the things he stole, and although the Sioux were driven out, the name of Thief River remained.

The land upon which Thief River Falls is now located was first surveyed in 1879. In 1880 Frank Russell located here as a squatter and built a log house on the west side of the bridge. The following year he sold his improvements to John B. LaBree for a white cow, a light wagon and sixty dollars cash, and the promise of two lots when the ground should be plotted. The plot was recorded on August 21, 1883, by Mr. Kretzschmar, who was the first president of the village and later was mayor of the city.

To begin with, Thief River Falls had only a small shack for a store, which was owned by Mr. Oen and located where his store today stands. The First State bank was the first bank. It was a frame building and stood on the corner where the Jung bakery now is. A few blocks north of the business center and located close by Main avenue was the home of Indian Chief Moosedung. In this locality, around Thief River, the Chippewas would come together and dance their war dances and relate their heroic deeds.

In 1888 a dam was built across the Red Lake river, which resulted in the erection of two flour mills and a saw mill. These were the first large factors in the development of Thief River Falls, as the saw mill alone employed several hundred men.

In 1904 the Indians were removed to a reservation. The relations between Indians and whites were at all times peaceful and pleasant.

For a great many years Thief River Falls was the termination of the Great Northern railroad. In 1906 the Soo line was also run through. Pennington county was named after the president of the line.

Although Thief River Falls has not grown so rapidly since the removal of the saw mill, yet it has progressed steadily and at present is one of the leading cities of northern Minnesota. —B. A. '22. M. L. '22.

History of Our Schools.

The first school taught in Thief River Falls was in 1883, for a term of three months. A small building near the iron bridge was used, the teacher's desk being a dry goods box and the seats were planks laid on powder kegs. There were only ten pupils enrolled for this term. The next year the school was taught in a building on Third street where Remmem's livery stable now stands. The attendance was so large that the building was moved over near the place of the first school, and another teacher engaged. The first school board consisted of Director John LaBree; Clerk Ed. LaBree, and Treasurer Denis Conely.

During the next few years the city's growth was so rapid that three more schools were built to accommodate the pupils. The east side, then known as Red Lake Rapids, was united with the west side in 1901, the whole forming independent district number eighteen.

Our present high school had its start in 1900 with a total enrollment of seven students. Contrast that with its present number of four hundred! Statistics show that the steady growth of the high school from 1900. In 1904 two students graduated; in 1908, seven; in 1910, twenty-eight; in 1916, fifty-two; in 1918, seventy-five; in 1920, seventy-eight. The first high school building was the Washington school, but in 1910 the new Lincoln building replaced it.

Athletics began with a district championship team in 1909. Basketball started in 1911, and Lincoln high has had a very high standing in athletics ever since, many times claiming district championships.

The first class graduated under Superintendent J. A. Wilson. He was followed by Superintendent J. H. Hay, who held the position for nineteen years. Then came Superintendent W. A. Ziegler, who was with us for two years, and now Superintendent I. T. Simley, whom we hope to keep for a long time.

The schools of Thief River Falls have always been a matter of deep concern to her citizens, and the enrolment has always been remarkably large in proportion to the size of the town.—D. E. '22. C. W. '22.

History of Our Class.

It was our first day in high school and the vastness and grandeur of the place dazzled me. We cautiously crept up the stairs and after wandering about in the upper hall we were finally discovered by a kind looking lady and directed to the assembly door. We huddled together at the door like panic-stricken sheep and after some encouraging and a few harsh words by the teachers were finally induced to enter. My heart kept time with my feet as we thumped into the room and I was so terrified by the sea of faces and sounds of giggles and jeers, I forgot to chew my gum. We began to crowd, which resulted in a rush for empty seats, and when I reached one I collapsed into it with a sigh of relief. When I had recovered I began to stare around the room at the statues of William Shakesfellow and other celebrities and began to feel myself a part of this wonderful school at last.

As the months went by the upper classmen seemed to have some special attraction for us the way they fondled us. We took our misfortunes the best we could and by the time we were ready to become Sophomores we were all experienced in the ways of high school life.

Our Sophomore year was more enjoyable than the Freshman year as we had the pleasure of showing the new Freshies the attention which had been shown us the year before. We boys even began to walk to and from school with the girls and scorned the idea of snowballing them. Some of us actually washed our faces every day and some few cleaned their finger nails. If we were not brilliant scholars after our Sophomore year, we surely were society folk.

Our Junior year was one of great importance. We had a class party and most of us learned to dance, which was the greatest achievement of all, and I also learned that the square on the hypotenuse of a triangle is equal to the sum of the squares on the other two sides, which of course everybody doesn't know. I also learned how to say "Darwin's Theory of Evolution" as though I knew what it meant. When we finished our Junior year we were highly polished young men and knew enough to walk on the outside of a girl when escorting her. We were also advanced in art and other unnecessary things.

Ou Senior year has meant much to us. We can look back to judge our underclassmen's actions by our similar experiences. We have come to learn that there are things which we do not know and something else in the world besides mere living. We have dropped our slogan, "What you don't know won't hurt you" for "A little learning is a dangerous thing." "Drink deep or taste not the Pyrian spring." (Milton.)

We hope to leave our record as an inspiration to those behind us that they may follow in our path and profit by our example.—W. M. '22.

Our Motto.

"Efficiency of Integrity."
What does it mean to you?
It is our High School motto.
Can you, will you be true
To it? It means a great deal
When you stop to figure it out;
Perhaps not to the student who romps
Through school with a laugh and shout,
But to you who know there's a time for fun
And a time for studying, too.
"Efficiency of Integrity,"
What does it mean to you?

Robert McGinn.

With the death of Robert McGinn last Thursday night, another classmate and friend was taken from our midst. His death came as a shock to everyone who knew him, as he had been seriously ill only five days, and in that short time we could not realize he was in danger.

Robert was one of the most popular boys in high school. He was an active member of the football and basketball teams, in which he had a promising future before him. He was also a member of the sub-Prowler staff, and secretary of the Sophomore class.

He was of an unusually likeable disposition. His courtesy and ready wit won him a place in the hearts of his teachers and classmates. The gloom which settled over the high school after the announcement of his death proved how much he was loved by all.

It is hard to realize that one so young and full of life should have been taken from us. His memory will always be dear to us.—H. L. '22, V. K. '22.

"Ships that pass in the night and greet each other in passing,
Only a signal shown and a distant voice in the darkness;
So on the ocean of life we pass and greet one another,
Only a look and a voice, then darkness again and the silence."

Mrs. Bishop Speaks.

On Feb. 16 the high school pupils had the pleasure of hearing a talk by Mrs. J. M. Bishop. The speaker gave a very interesting address on the topic "Respect for the Law." She emphasized the fact that respect for the law must regulate every person's life. She brought out the fact that, though many people say we have too many laws, they all serve a useful purpose. She spoke of the new Child Welfare laws, and briefly summarized their purposes. They include the anti-cigarette law, and the law prohibiting minors from appearing at public dance halls. Mrs. Bishop gave a humorous sketch of the complicated character of the laws of some states.

Mrs. Bishop is a leader on the Child Welfare Board, and is well qualified to give an address of this kind. We hope to hear from her again.—G. M. '22.

Dramatic Club Program.

The dramatic club will give its first public performance on Friday evening, March 3, when it will present three one-act plays. If the club is to make any money on this program it must have a packed house, for the program is an expensive one to give. We are paying royalty on two of the plays, and renting elaborate costumes. Help us advertise by telling all your friends about it, and come, all of you! See the announcement on another page of this paper.

Class of 1922 Fifty Years From Now.

There is an unbelievable amount of talent in the T. R. F. high school this year. The following details will show the prospects of the wonderful future.

Well, there is Lloyd Alnes, whose future is easy to see, for if the movies don't get him, some circus will. Bill Alexander will be in the House of Representatives or the Senate. You wait and see, Musty will probably be head of the Women's League of Voters or candidate of the Prohibition party. August Langseth ought to be a traveling salesman as he surely has the hardest part cinched. Violet Krohn says she's going on the stage—you know what that means, "Greenwich Village Follies." John Hendry—salesman selling reversible wooden shoes, burglar proof underwear or—oh, it's hard to tell what he'll think of. Milton Larson will be an artist—you can tell by his hair. If Forest E. Ralston isn't a minister I'll miss my guess. The Rice brothers are going to be jockeys as it seems natural for them both. Last but not least, David Evenson has decided to be an acrobat.

Oh, boy, this is going to be good. —W. D. '22.

Faculty Songs.

Mr. Simley: "Gone are the Days."
Mr. Rapacz: "There Were Three of Us, and She on a Bicycle."
Mr. Harner: "Shave 'n a Hair Cut, Six Bits."
Mr. Stenhoff: "Our Boys Will Shine Tonight."
Mr. Jardine: "When Francis Dances With Me."
Mr. Pope: "You're a Million Miles From Nowhere."
Mr. Powley: "Smiles."
Miss Chamberlain: "When Shall We Meet Again?"
Miss Stebbins: "Little Annie Rooney."
Miss Gormley: "When You and I Were Young, Maggie."
Miss Stavig: "Ain't We Got Fun?"
Miss Leavitt: "Ma!"
Miss Heilman: "Nellie Gray."
Miss Webster: "On With the Dance!"
Miss Soule: "The Dish Ran Away With the Spoon."
Mrs. Korstad: "Happy Tho Married."
Mrs. Dahl: "Little Sunshine."

An Annual Staff Meeting.

Just before school dismisses Monday afternoon Mr. Rapacz announces that there will be a meeting of the Prowler staff at 7:30 sharp.

When the hour arrives, about half the staff is present to begin work at once. The rest come straying in later and all get to work at about eight o'clock.

Gregory gets up and asks for material from each group. First he asks Milton Larson, literary editor.

"Well," says Milton, "I didn't get an inspiration so I couldn't write anything, but Mildred might have something for you."

"Oh, don't ask me for anything tonight," wails Mildred. "I have just one article that I wrote myself and I haven't got anything from the sub staffs since we started. She hands him a paper, which is all very good, but he sighs as he puts it into his book.

Then he asks one after another. "Yes, I have a few snapshots that I took myself," or "Only a few jokes that I picked up in class myself," are the answers he gets from them all.

Somebody moans, another sighs, and quiet reigns as they all think hard about what to do.

Suddenly a voice is heard: "We must get after the students and make them contribute."

"Yes, we can write it ourselves and make it our annual, but then when it does come out they will say, 'Oh, it's only about those Seniors; I wish I had never subscribed,' and not one will realize that it is all their own fault."

"Aren't the cuttings of the group pictures just splendid! We have the large pictures all finished, but that is only a minor matter."

"Oh, dear, I wish I were like Shakespeare or somebody like that so I could write a whole book myself." This from one who must have great ambitions.

"Please let's not talk of him right now, cause then we'll all want to quit."

"We must get more material in or we can't have an annual," reminds Gregory. "But how can we get it?"

"Oh, I have it," cries one. "Let's have an annual week and go to every one for articles or snaps or something. Tell 'em they must do it and they'll come across." So they discuss annual week and decide to give one day to each department.

Then having accomplished practically nothing they adjourn and each one plods his weary way home with a heavy heart, wondering what will become of their annual.—N. L. '22.

Heart Throbs.

(Sonfidential Letters to Aunt Betty.)

Dear Aunt Betty:

I am a constant reader of your advice to young and old people and so I am coming to you in my distress, seeking aid. I am a young man sixteen years of age, a sophomore in high school, and am in love with a senior girl. She has numerous other boys and it makes me very angry and jealous to see her go out with them. Please tell me how to hold her affections. I have heard that the color of clothes often affects the nerves. Do you think it would help in my case if I didn't wear a bright colored sweater?—A Despairing Lover.

Answer: Really, Despairing Lover, I think you would make a better impression if you would keep your mind on your studies. You are still young and there will be other senior girls while you are still in high school.

Dear Aunt Betty:

I am writing to ask your advice about a question that is close to my heart. I am a tall, slender, young man with red hair. I recently entered high school and wish to make the acquaintance of two girls that sit near me. They both have bobbed hair. Does that mean that they are flirts? They smile at me real often. How will I know which one likes me the best?—Flivver.

Answer: Flivver, if you wish to become acquainted you must smile back at the girls. Your red hair must be very captivating if you dress it right. You heart will dictate to you which one loves you. Just be natural and they will soon succumb to your wiles. —H. L. '22.

Musings of High School Senior.

Behind a spacious hardwood desk
The high school teacher stands;
A very learned man is he
Who knows of far off lands,
And his face takes on its darkest frowns,
As he thunders his commands.

Day after day through six long hours
You will find him at his post;
You may see him knit his heavy brow
When planning us a roast,
As he always does in our Freshman year,
When we have failed the most.

Teaching, marking, soaking,
Thus through the day he goes;
Each morning sees our grill begin
Eight Periods sees its close.
When one got fifty, often much less,
For telling all he knows.

Thanks, thanks, to the, O dreaded friend,
For the service thou hast wrought!
Even though at times it seemeth that
Our toil hath come to naught. (0)
We'l bear in mind the scattered truths
That were so dearly bought.

—J. H. '22.

(With apologies to Hank W. Longfellow.)

A Model Student.

His hair is sleek and combed straight back,
His squeaky shoes are shiny black.
His eyes have a dreamy, far-away look,
And under his arm there's always a book.
In assembly he never looks 'round the room,
His aspect is one of perpetual gloom.
His lessons are always right up to the mark—
In the hardest of subjects, he's considered a "shark."
His attire is faultless, his manner correct,
He's a "Model Student" in every respect.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

If the present rate of increase in the dairy industry of northwestern Minnesota continues, more than two million pounds of butterfat will be passing through Thief River Falls for points farther south before the end of the year. The amount is not far from this total at the present time and the increase will be rapid.

While more or less cream will always be shipped past the city by those to whom distance lends enchantment, even at the expense of their own pockets, a large share of this profitable business could be retained right in this city if a creamery of sufficient capacity to take care of the output were located here. Every one at all conversant with the facts realizes that something should at once be done to provide a larger manufacturing plant.

It must be borne in mind that the creamery is not the only bidder for the cream in this section. There are centralizing agencies and producers of manufactured products into which milk and cream enter who are making a strong effort to turn the flow of business in their direction. The only way in which a co-operative concern can hope to compete with these organizations is through superior service and an assurance of greater returns. If only a part of the butterfat of the district can be handled by the co-operative creamery it is not meeting the expectations of the producers and these will inevitably drift toward the more dependable market.

Dairying has experienced a tremendous growth in this section during the past three or four years, but in this immediate neighborhood this statement applies only to actual butterfat production. The manufacturing end has not kept pace with the increase of cows on the farms. At the time the present creamery was built its capacity was naturally greater than the need of the moment, but this margin has been steadily growing smaller until now it has disappeared entirely and raw material production has overtaken the manufacturing capacity. A large part of the economic gain resulting from changing the section from a grain to a dairy producer will be lost unless steps are taken to meet the needs for a larger creamery.

The creamery business is just like any other—it must either go forward or backward. Standing still is impossible. Were it not for this fact the creamery might hold what business it can now handle and allow the rest to slide. But this cannot be done. The competition for butterfat is too keen to make such a course feasible. Unless arrangements are made to take care of what is offered, the creamery is sure to lose even what it now has. This would be a serious matter for the producer and he should be the one most insistent upon improvements being made.

The matter cannot much longer be delayed. To do so will mean a loss to the dairymen as well as the creamery and community.

PREUS STATES POSITION.

Governor Preus is not a candidate for United States senator—not even a receptive candidate. In an open letter which leaves no chance for guessing at what he means, the governor says he will be a candidate to succeed himself in his present position.

"My name has been frequently mentioned in connection with the United States senatorship," says the governor. "Generous as such remarks have been, they have at no time been made with my consent or approval. If I can be of service to the people of Minnesota in the next two years I know it is in the position of governor."

The governor has made good as chief executive of the state. He will have no opposition for renomination and very little for re-election. To enter the race as a candidate for senator at this time would not be playing the game according to rules and might easily result in his total elimination as a factor in Minnesota politics. He is too wise to take any such chance.

Opposition to Preus as a candidate for re-election comes only from one section—the iron range. His approval of the tonnage tax bill naturally will cost him some support in that region, but as he was elected the first time after expressly stating that he would sign such bill if it were presented to him, it is not likely that much of a campaign can now be waged against him because of his having done so.

Unless there is some development not now even suspected, the probabilities are that the present state house occupants will be their own successors.

BANK POSITIONS FOR D. B. C. GIRLS

Miss Myrtle Ufer has been employed by the First National Bank of Steele, and Gladys Emerson by the State Bank of Wolford. Both came from Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D. Great prospects are open to girls sent from this fine old school to bank positions. At least 40 have become officers, are doing "man's work" at man-size salaries.

D. B. C. pupils get ahead because they're taught why, as well as how, to do things. "Follow the Successful." Write for terms to F. L. Watkins, Pres., 806 Front St., Fargo, N. D.

Famous Entertainer Comes Under Auxiliary Auspices

Henry Clark, one of the foremost lyceum and chautauqua lecturers in the country, will appear at the auditorium on Monday evening, Feb. 27, in one of his inimitable entertainments. His appearance here will be under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion and there will be no charge for admission.

Thief River Falls people who happened to hear his rendition of "The Go-Getter," one of the Cappy Ricks series of stories, at Crookston a few days ago, say that he is without an equal as a dramatic reader.

The public is cordially invited to attend this entertainment and everyone can rest assured of one of the most thoroughly enjoyable evenings of the season.

Band Concert Postponed.

Owing to the absence from the city of a number of the band boys it has been decided by Leader H. S. Snyder to postpone the concert announced for next Sunday to some later date.

WAIT FOR IT.

The Simonson Meat and Grocery is shortly to inaugurate one of the greatest price-slashing events ever offered Thief River Falls residents. The store will be closed from Monday until date of sale, during which time everything will be marked down away below cost. It is a money-raising event and someone will receive the benefit. Watch The Times for further particulars. Wait for it. —Advertisement. F-23

The following were the guests: Miss Esther Brown, Miss Caspara Gran, Miss Hazel Conklin, Miss Ethel Conklin, Miss Vivian Olson, Miss Evelyn Amundson, Miss Hattie Anderson, Ebert and Eddie Conklin, George Jacobson, Roy Brown, Victor, Carl and John Gran, Marcus and Orton Olson.

A surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Conklin Saturday evening at their home. Dancing and cards formed the entertainment for the guests. Mr. Conklin happened to be out of the city, but when it was learned that he was to return on the early morning train, the musicians played a strain of "We Won't Go Home Until Morning," which expressed the sentiments of those present. During the evening refreshments brought by the guests were served. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prugh, Mr. and Mrs. G. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Webskouski, Mr. and Mrs. A. Haugen, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Goethe, Chas. Votava and G. H. Jones.

Community Club Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Girls' Community club was held at the Commercial club rooms Monday evening. The session opened with a business discussion, followed by an interesting address by Attorney H. O. Chommie. The remainder of the time was given over to the committee on entertainment and refreshment. Contests, games and music were enjoyed by all until the refreshment hour, when the announcement of the club's fourth anniversary was made by Miss Lylabelle Schuster, who also made known the fact that the birthday cake with four burning candles was donated by the president, Miss Ida Tandberg. The table from which the guests were served gave the appearance of a booth which had been cleverly decorated in patriotic colors. During the evening Miss Theone Walker favored the club with several piano selections.

Colonial Party.

A very pretty and unusual party followed the regular meeting of the Eastern Star last evening. The affair was a George Washington party and was marked as such by the decorations and appointments. Lattice work set with red roses adorned the windows and doors, reminiscent of colonial days, and numerous flags placed in conspicuous places about the hall afforded a patriotic setting. A quartet composed of H. C. Durrin, E. M. Bennes, Mrs. W. W. Prichard, Jr., and Mrs. C. A. Nason, rendered the opening number on the program. Mrs. N. K. Harris was accompanist. Miss Beulah Chamberlain gave two musical readings, during which Miss Maude Johnson played. Miss Doris Halvorson gave two piano selections.

Dancing and cards became the entertainment for the remainder of the evenin. Red, white and blue paper caps as favors were worn by those present. Those desiring to play cards were given halves of tiny hatchets, which were to be matched, and in this manner partners were found. Tallies and dance programs were decorated with patriotic emblems. Supper was served at 11 o'clock by a committee composed of eleven women and three men, all of whom were charmingly dressed in colonial style. The committee was composed of Mrs. Howard Frissell, Mrs. J. L. Stitt, Mrs. B. E. Gage, Mrs. L. M. Rayson, Mrs. Ed. Korstad, Mrs. J. Berry, Mrs. J. L. McClelland, Mrs. Bergstrom, Mrs. E. M. Bennes, Mrs. O. C. Hanson, Mrs. Chas. Lieberman, L. W. Manther, John Robinson and N. J. Silk. After lunch was served dancing was resumed.

Woman's Club Meeting.

The attendance at the last meeting of the Woman's club was too small for a quorum. The next meeting will be held at the Commercial club rooms on Monday afternoon, March 6. At this time the League of Women Voters will have charge of the program. Mrs. E. M. Stanton has been appointed leader of the lesson, while Mrs. R. C. Rupprecht will have charge of the current events. A complete account of the program will be given next week.

Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McClelland entertained a group of friends at a six-thirty dinner at their home Saturday evening. George Washington favors and decorations were used in the dinner appointments. Progressive whist was the pastime during the hours following the dinner. The high score for ladies went to Mrs. C. A. Barden, while W. K. Knight won the high score for the gentlemen. Low count was held by D. B. Mathewson. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wasgren, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Manther, Mr. and Mrs. John Bergstrom, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kielty, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gentz, Mr. and Mrs. D. White, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Mathewson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Zavoral, Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Barden, Mrs. John Robinson, and E. A. Stoughton.

Washington Party.

Shaded lights, red, white and blue flags and miniature hatchets will be the attractive setting for the Washington party to be given in the I. O. O. F. hall this evening by the members of the Rebekah lodge for their friends. The committee, which has been working diligently completing arrangements for an elaborate affair during the pre-lenten season, is composed of Mrs. J. E. Bloomquist, Miss Inga Thune, Miss Myrtle Blair, Martin Stenberg, James Burrell and Arthur Johnson. An evening of dancing and cards will be interrupted by the serving of a lunch, after which the dancing will be resumed. Music for the occasion will be furnished by Miss Theone Walker.

Woman's Auxiliary Meeting.

A special meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of the American Legion was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Swedenburg on Monday evening for the purpose of arranging for the free entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Auxiliary on Monday evening, Feb. 27, at which time Henry Clark will deliver one of his noted lectures at the auditorium. It is hoped that all will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing the well known reader. A few musical numbers will also be given by local talent.

Here Is the Story of This Great Failure

A few years ago two of the finest young dry goods men of Chicago, then buyers for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co., Mr. Hicks and Mr. Fuller, went to Sioux City, Iowa, and started in the wholesale dry goods business. They succeeded in building up a business with sales last years totaling three and a half million dollars. But their capital was never heavy neough for a fast growing wholesale business and last December 23rd creditors closed them up. Big new spring stocks had just been received.

Two weeks ago their stock was sold by the receiver for a fraction of its real worth. Two of our buyers, Mr. H. O. Loken and Miss Kate Jonas, were there right on the job bright and early, and by working fast got more than their share. Over seven hundred merchants were there at the same time, every one of them fighting for his share. The result was that this big wholesale stock was sold out slick and clean in less than five hours.

This is the biggest bargain feast we ever attended. And remember NOT A DOLLAR'S worth of these goods do we intend placing in stock. The entire consignment goes on sale all over the store, on every bargain table that we can press into service. And you will be surprised at the quantity that two of us bought in less than five hours. Come early. Shop all over the store, thereby taking advantage of this, the greatest opportunity in recent years.

We guarantee you'll not be disappointed.

CROOKSTON HANDS DEFEAT TO LOCALS IN GREAT CONTEST

Athletics Simply Couldn't Find Basket With Customary Skill and Lose Fight.

Failure to locate the basket was responsible for the Athletics losing a well-played basketball game to Crookston last Thursday night. The opportunities for scoring were there in plenty, but the boys simply did not have their basket eye and the game resulted in a victory for Crookston by a score of 27 to 21.

The visitors came by special train, which brought a goodly number of fans. The attendance was around 1,000—the largest crowd ever assembled to witness a basketball game in this city. Before time was called, Dr. G. A. Penney, president of the Athletics, made a short address in which he welcomed the Crookstonites and asked the spectators to keep their heads and do nothing that might in any manner interfere with the players. Cheer Leader William Schermer, for Crookston, replied in kind but his remarks were to a large extent drowned by his own side of the house, the crowd evidently being anxious for the fun to start.

Crookston made 11 free throws to the seven by Thief River Falls, both Houser and Carlson doing exceptionally good work in this line. The visitors beat the locals by only one field basket, garnering eight. Houser was also the star in this department, being credited with three. For Thief River Falls, Hadrath, Louden and Holzknecht secured two each, while Carlson made one. Seven personal and seven technical fouls were charged against the Athletics, while Crookston had 10 personals and two technicals. The game in detail follows:

Carlson started the scoring when he shot a foul for Thief River Falls after a few minutes of sparring on both sides. Thief River kept the ball in its territory and took several shots at the basket but could not connect. Carlson again took Thief River into the lead with a free throw. Carlson took time out following a crash with Houser while taking the ball towards his basket. Houser tied the score with a foul but again Carlson forged ahead with a free throw. Up to this time open shots at the basket were few and far between. It was eight minutes after the game started before the first field basket was made. This was negotiated by Raines when he made a nice shot from in front of the basket. Another successful free throw by Houser made the score five to three for Crookston.

Raines Scores Again.

When the first period was a little over half finished Haaven was sent in to relieve Webster for Crookston and almost immediately figured a basket. Carlson completed another foul, Houser following with two more and Carlson again dropping one in from the foul line.

Louden managed to get clear and twist in Thief River's first and only basket of the first half. Nelson, who had been making a number of wild shots at the basket, dropped a long shot in for Crookston. Carlson added another point by the free throw route and just before the half ended Brown committed a personal foul which Houser negotiated into another point for Crookston after the intermission gun was fired, making the score at the half, Crookston 13, Thief River 8.

Second Half.

Thief River opened the scoring in the first three seconds of play in the second period when Holzknecht scored with a nice side shot. Carlson added two more for his team on a jump up shot, bringing Thief River within one point of Crookston, the score standing 13 to 12. Houser increased Crookston's lead by two points with a long shot but Holzknecht by a similar shot again nosed his team up to the visitors' score. Holzknecht was struck in the head in the attempt to block his shot and was forced to call for time. Hadrath sent Thief River into the lead with a side shot, making the score 16 to 15. The lead was short lived, however, Haaven taking a pretty pass from Houser and twisting the ball in from under the basket.

Louden fouled Haaven and the only mar of the game occurred when a Thief River man rushed out on the floor. Referee Hodge called two fouls on Thief River for the play, one of the fouls being on Louden and the other because of the man invading the floor. Houser made one of the free throws.

Houser took his team out of danger by shooting two baskets in succession and a moment later another free throw, making the score 23 to 16.

Hadrath connected for a basket and Louden followed it up with a long shot which found its mark. Houser continued his accurate foul shooting and Haaven dropped one in from under the basket. The scoring was ended by successful free throws on the part of Carlson for Thief River and Houser for Crookston. The game ended Crookston 27, Thief River Falls 21.

FIRST MIXED JURY FINISHES WORK IN VERY SHORT ORDER

New Panel Necessary Because of Technical Error in Drawing First Grand Jury.

A technical error in the drawing of the jury for the present term of court necessitated the calling of a special venire when court convened last Friday morning. There were three women members on the first panel drawn and nine on the jury which finally served. Two of these, Mrs. John Sheggrud of River Falls township, and Mrs. H. T. Hanson of Hickory township, were unable to be present so that there were seven of the fair sex answering the roll call. It was the first mixed jury in the history of Pennington county and it took just one and a half days for the members to clear away the work before them.

It is understood that a number of true bills were found but only four alleged offenders had been arraigned up to Tuesday night. It being Washington's birthday there was no session of the court yesterday. Following are the parties arraigned to date: A. B. Remmem, selling liquor unlawfully; Ole Peterson, having intoxicating liquor in his possession and for sale; George and Martin Williams, conducting gambling house.

Members of the grand jury were: Mrs. J. M. Bishop, Math Barzen, William McGlinnity and C. A. Nason, Thief River Falls; Bj. Bjornaraa, Hickory; Mrs. E. F. Dann, Herman Jepson and Hans L. Hanson, River Falls; Halvor Olson and Mrs. E. N. Beebe, Rocksbury; Mrs. Wm. Vaughan, Highlanding; Mrs. Oscar Gunstad, Lars Loberg and Mrs. G. I. Fellman, St. Hilaire; S. J. Stenberg and H. P. Rued, Silverton; O. L. Larson and Mrs. J. V. Patton, Sanders; P. O. Sorlum, North; Victor Scholin, Bray; F. L. St. John, Polk Center. Mr. Rued was foreman of the jury.

The following were drawn as petit jurors: C. Sumpter, River Falls; Jerry Hruby, Cloverleaf; Anton M. Langseth; W. W. Prichard, Jr., Gynther Tensum, M. M. Johnson, Fred Protz and Joe Votava, Thief River Falls; M O'Leary, Mayfield; Emil Larson and E. J. Akerlund, Bray; Bennet Bolstad and Knut Lindtvedt, Deer Park; H. R. Williams and Gunder Steenerson, North; Richard Lorenson and Fred Landman, Black River; H. S. Olson, Numedal; Harry Myrom, Norden; Floyd Lane, Smiley; O. A. Holmes, Rocksbury; B. Tveitbak, Hickory; Hans Anton, Sanders; William Brown, St. Hilaire.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Thief River Falls People Know How to Save It.

Many Thief River Falls people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Weak kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health—the slightest delay is dangerous. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Here is a Thief River Falls citizen's recommendation.

Ed. Stokke, prop. of shoe repair shop, First St., E., Thief River Falls, says: "My kidneys weren't acting just right, due to sitting for such long spells at my work. There was a dull, steady pain across my back and I tired easily. My kidneys were disordered and I was troubled by their weakness. The timely use of Doan's Kidney Pills checked the trouble and made me feel fine again, so I gladly recommend Doan's."

REQUEST AID FOR STARVING JEWS OF NEAR EAST LANDS

Chas. Lieberman Named Chairman of Relief Committee For Pennington County.

In a proclamation issued last week Gov. Preus calls upon the people of Minnesota to contribute to a fund for the relief of homeless and starving Jews in Central and Eastern Europe. Three-fourths of the 13,000,000 Jews in Poland, Lithuania, Letvia, Russia, Roumania, Austria, Hungary, Palestine, Checho-Slovakia and Turkey are struggling for existence against fearful odds.

CHARLES LIEBERMAN

The American Jewish Relief committee has issued an appeal for $14,000,000 for immediate relief. Of this amount Minnesota is asked to raise $250,000. The work of collecting funds in Pennington county is in the hands of a committee of which Chas. Lieberman is chairman, and all contributions should be sent to Daniel Shaw, L. L. Cohn, Larson Furniture company, or Mr. Lieberman. Mr. Lieberman says that he does not expect large individual contributions as conditions are not such as to make liberal donations possible at this time but hopes that everyone will assist to the extent of their ability. A complete canvass of the business district of Thief River Falls will be made by four teams on Saturday.

The governor, in his proclamation, says: "Our unemployment and relief problems at home fade into insignificance when compared with the utter destitution of millions of people in Europe. Despite our business depression our state should be able to contribute its share promptly and cheerfully. If anyone takes a selfish viewpoint, let him remember that everything we do for the rehabilitation for these helpless people in Europe will hasten the resumption of that international trade which is essential to the return of prosperity in this country."

Will Address Club Today On Lakes-to-Ocean Project

G. G. Glick, an authority on the Duluth to Tidewater project, will be the speaker at today's luncheon of the Commercial club. Mr. Glick recently delivered a talk before the meeting of commercial club secretaries at St. Paul and his presentation of this subject created a great deal of interest. He is making a tour of the state for the purpose of getting the people better acquainted with the importance of this great undertaking.

VIEWERS' REPORT ON TWO PROJECTS NEARLY COMPLETE

Attorney and Engineer Confer With Chairman Selvig and Review Work to Date.

C. E. Boughton, Sr., Red Lake Falls, and George W. Walker, Thief River Falls, attorney and engineer, respectively, of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy Board, conferred with C. G. Selvig, president of the board, at Crookston on Thursday regarding the proposed drainage work in the Grand Marais, Clearwater and Red Lake river projects. The viewers' reports for the Grand Marais and Clearwater projects are practically completed and final hearings will soon be arranged.

The Red Lake project is awaiting action by the interior department at Washington.

"The matter of lake levels is being considered by the bureau of Indian affairs," C. G. Selvig said. "Considerable land belonging to the Red Lake Indian reservation is included in this project and the law provides for agreement between the drainage board and the bureau officials."

"In this project the farmers living both east and west of the Red lakes are vitally interested. Its successful completion means progress and prosperity for them in that the hazard of flood damage will be permanently removed. Final plans for the Red lake work will have to await an agreement on the lake levels.

G. O. P. ELECTORS FILE DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

All But Nine Precincts in County Select Candidates to Be Voted on March 14.

Contests on in Only Two Places in County—Thief River Falls and Goodridge.

Hallam Supporters Known to Have Majority and He Will Have County Delegation.

To judge by the interest taken in the selection of delegates to the first county convention of the year, to be held at the court house in this city on Saturday, March 18, practically every section of the county will be represented. Where no filings for delegates have been made it will be possible for the voters to write the names on the primary ballot which will be presented to the voters on township election day—March 14.

It is impossible to tell from the list of delegates anything as to how they will stand on the subject of candidates. One thing, however, is particularly noticeable. The number of avowed Hallam supporters are largely in the majority and there is hardly a doubt but what the judge will receive the vote of the county for United States senator.

A Good Representation.

Delegates are filed in 18 precincts out of 27 in the county, but outside of Thief River Fals and Goodridge there will be no contests at the precinct elections on March 14. In Thief River Falls there are 34 filings for the 18 delegate places, while in Goodridge there are four filings with two to be elected. The names of eight women have been filed with County Auditor T. P. Anderson, five being from Thief River Falls, two from Goodridge and one from St. Hilaire.

In the first ward of the city the voters will have a list of 12 men from which to select the six delegates to the county convention. The Second ward has filed nine names with five to be elected; in the Third ward three are to be chosen out of a list of five, and in the Fourth ward the voter has a choice of eight from which to select four. Following is a list of the filings in the city:

First ward—N. J. Anderson, Herman Ohm, Paul Harris, Helmer Halland, F. P. Greene, J. L. Gassow, W. J. Brown, M. V. Evenson, Theo. Quale, Miss Ida Tandberg, E. P. Brevig, Olaf Ramstad.

Second ward—Scott Laird, H. W. Kinghorn, S. Brandon, John E. Dahl, Mrs. Anna Sether, A. H. Akre, Mrs. Emma Ward, F. F. Haynes, C. D. Gustafson.

Third ward—Mrs. Andrew Bottelson, O. L. Ihle, G. L. Streeter, P. J. Keating, N. B. Waldorf.

Fourth ward—O. E. Berge, E. P. Burstad, C. M. Wilson, Daniel Shaw, Mrs. Julia Lacey, P. A. Kolden, J. T. Noseth, M. A. Mattison.

Nine Precincts Missing.

Voters in the townships of Bray, Black River, Hickory, Norden, Numedal, Polk Center, River Falls, Smiley and Wyandotte will have to write the names of their delegates on the ballot if they wish representation at the county convention as no one filed from these precincts. This can be done under the law and the credentials of the persons so designated will be accepted.

Following are the names of the delegates filed in the different precincts:

Cloverleaf, Fred DuChamp and Stuart McLeod; Deer Park, John Singer; Goodridge, M. O. Seavy and John Kusmak; Highlanding, Theo. Sunsdahl and H. I. Finstad; Kratka, Sarah Knutson and K. K. Austin; Mayfield, W. H. Wilde; North, Christian Stene and Jorgen Eide; Reiner, J. A. McEnelly; Rocksbury, Dr. M. Geo. Milan and Paul Engelstad; Sanders, Hans Aton; Silverton, Jens Letness; Star, Emil Grams and Gilmour Tharaldson; village of Goodridge, Estella Josephson, Mrs. Theo. Tandberg, Carl F. Lindstrom and B. O. Norby; village of St. Hilaire, Mrs. G. W. Hooper and A. S. Wilson.

Convention March 18.

The precinct delegates will meet in the court room, Thief River Falls, on Saturday, March 18, for the purpose of electing delegates to the district convention at Moorhead on the 30th and the state convention at St. Paul on the 31st.

CALL VICTORY BONDS FOR REDEMPTION AT PAR BEFORE JUNE 15

Issue Bears Interest Rate of 3¾ Per Cent and Amount Outstanding is in Neighborhood of $400,000,000.

Local banks have received notice that the three and three quarter per cent Victory notes are called for redemption on June 15 next, at par and accrued interest. They may also be redeemed earlier at the holder's option, at par and accrued interest to date of redemption. These government bonds may be presented to any bank in coupon or registered form, when arrangements will be made to pay them according to notice.

The Victory notes are the last series of the Liberty loans issued by the United States, the issue being sold soon after the signing of the armistice. A large number of the bonds were sold to people who were able to buy but a small quantity, and who have patriotically held them till the present time. News that they will be redeemed at par will be welcomed.

In his statement to the press announcing the redemption before maturity, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon said: "The amount of 3¾ per cent Victory notes outstanding is about $400,000,000 and the treasury is calling them for redemption before maturity in pursuance of the plans which it has already announced for the refunding of the Victory Liberty loan. The call for redemption is thus a part of the refunding operations which, as indicated in my letter of Jan. 24, 1922, to the chairman of the committee on ways and means, will have to be carried on during the next year and a half in order to refinance the 6½ billions of short dated debt outstanding."

DEN E. LANES MEET LOCALS IN EXTRA SESSION TONIGHT

St. Paul Champions Defeated By Athletics in Good Game Last Evening, 49 to 21.

The Thief River Falls Athletics defeated the Den E. Lane team of St. Paul on the floor here last evening by a score of 39 to 21. As the visiting team is regarded as one of the very best in the twin cities this defeat is one of the really big achievements of the season for the locals.

The game dragged a little at times but was a good exhibition throughout. While the Athletics showed to the usual excellent advantage in their floor work, their basket shooting showed a great improvement over some of the recent exhibitions. Added satisfaction over the outcome is found in the fact that only home boys were used in the lineup, Louden, center, who was the only hired man on the team, having returned to his home in Cambridge.

The same teams will meet again tonight. The Lanes have an open date as they are not to play Bemidji until Saturday night and this will give our people an opportunity to witness another good exhibition.

R. B. Stenhoff, athletic coach at Lincoln high school, officiated as referee and performed this strenuous duty to the entire satisfaction of players and spectators alike.

CREAMERY MEN ELECT LINDBERG FIELD MANAGER

Perley Man Chosen For Important Post by Creameries of Fourteenth District.

Peter Engelstad of Thief River Falls Elected Secretary of Executive Board.

Organization Now Prepared to Standardize Product and Ship in Quantity.

N. C. Lindberg of Perley was elected field man for District No. 14 of the Minnesota Co-operative Creamery association at a meeting held in this city yesterday. Peter Engelstad, secretary of the Thief River Falls Co-operative creamery, was elected district secretary of the executive board in place of G. C. Goodrich of Greenbush, resigned. The resignation of Stuart McLeod of Goodridge as first vice president was tendered and accepted and Anton Moen of Maple Bay, Polk county, unanimously chosen to fill the vacancy.

This was practically the organization meeting for the district, the first session, held in February, having been adjourned until yesterday. The nomination previously made of E. O. Melsness of Erskine as chairman of the district organization and member of the state executive board, was ratified and he officiated as presiding officer. Frank E. Norquist of Gonvick was named temporary secretary.

Interest Keen.

Twenty-five of the 38 creameries in the district were represented and the meeting was most interesting in every way. Those present were enthusiastic over the outlook for usefulness presented by the association's program and it was predicted that before long every creamery in the district, which is the largest in the state, would be a member. In places where the work of organization has been completed the good results are already noted. Producing only butter of standard quality and high score as well as affecting a big saving in freight rates through quantity shipments are accomplishments already to the credit of the association. The work has only begun but the success of the enterprise is assured.

Following is a list of those attending the meeting here, together with the creameries represented:

H. F. Sprung, Ada; F. W. Janneck, Barnesville; John B. Rudd, Eddy; E. O. Melsness, Erskine; J. Lade, Fosston; Frank A. Norquist, Gonvick; Peter Rutkowski, Greenbush; Oscar Stordahl, Hendrum; J. H. Sorum, Holt; N. M. Peterson, Lancaster; N. C. Lindberg, Lee; Edward Rydeen, Clearbrook; J. R. Jedlicka, Mahnomen; Anton Moen, Maple Bay; C. M. Berg, McIntosh; Carl Hanson, Newfolden; P. G. Bondy, Olga; Peter Oftedal, Dindahl; Chas. E. Horien, Strathcona; F. S. Erdman, St. Hilaire; Peter Engelstad, Thief River Falls; John Halvorson, Viking; Thos. Haugan, Winger; A. J. Holmgren, Bronson; I. A. Rolstad, Hazel.

E. A. Rydeen, E. O. Melsness and J. Lade were appointed a committee on resolutions.

School Board Reappoints Present Teaching Staff

At a meeting of the school board held last Friday evening all teachers at present employed in this city were re-elected for another year and were given until March 13 to signify their acceptance or rejection of the offer. Supt. I. T. Simley was re-elected at a previous meeting and has accepted. No important change was made in the rate of pay for teachers.

While a number of changes in the teaching staff is always to be expected, it is thought that a majority of those now employed in Thief River Falls will remain for another year. Without exception they have proven themselves educators of more than usual ability and their retention will meet with general approval.

LIVESTOCK FEEDING PRINCIPAL SUBJECT AT TWO MEETINGS

Potato Shipping Association is Formed By Growers in East End of County.

Two very good farm institute meetings were held in the county during the week. The one at Goodridge on Monday was particularly well attended while the attendance in Thief River Falls was better than is generally the case.

J. E. Eastgate, state senator and owner of an 800-acre farm near Larimore, N. D., was the principal speaker. Being a practical farmer his talks were of special value and his theme one which is of interest to every farmer. Livestock raising was the subject dwelt upon particularly and Mr. Eastgate showed how the farmer should raise cows for sure money, sheep for easy money, horses for big money, and hogs for quick money. The senator uses a delightful style in getting his arguments before his audience and he was given the closest attention.

O. M. Olson of Moorhead, county agent of Clay county, spoke at the Thief River Falls meeting on "Cooperation," "The Feeding of Dairy Cattle," and "Potato Raising," all subjects of much interest at this particular time. His long experience as county agent in one of the neighboring counties makes his advice particularly applicable to the local situation and was highly appreciated by his hearers.

At the close of the meeting in Goodridge a potato association for the eastern end of the county was formed, with the following officers: H. I. Finstad, president; Wm. Vaughan, vice president; O. B. Mandt, secretary-treasurer. No plans as to where the potatoes raised will be marketed were decided on, this matter being left over to a later meeting.

PLAINTIFF LOSES ALIENATION CASE; THE COURT GRIND

Jury Finds Nereson Not Guilty of Charges Made By Gunderson, His Neighbor.

Persons who enjoy listening to law suits in which the testimony is of a racy nature have had an opportunity to get their fill during the past week. For five days the court room was crowded while the case of Gunder Gunderson against Ole Nereson was being tried before Judge Andrew Grindeland and a jury. Gunderson sued Nereson for $15,000, charging the alienation of his wife's affections. The jury was out five hours and returned a verdict of not guilty.

The case drew large crowds to the court room, Judge Grindeland on one occasion finding it necessary to clear the room, fearing the floor might give way under the unusual weight. The testimony was often of an unprintable nature, dealing with the alleged relations of the wife of plaintiff with the defendant.

Mrs. Gunderson was charged with having admitted her indiscretions but claimed that such confessions had been obtained from her by means of threats and that she was in fact innocent of any wrongdoing. It was a hard-fought legal battle on both sides, F. A. Grady of Crookston appearing for plaintiff, and E. M. Stanton of Thief River Falls, Chas. E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, and Julius Olson of Warren appearing for Nereson.

A number of criminal cases were called for trial but were generally disposed of in short order. The one exception was the action brought by the state against Martin Hanson, indicted for having carnal knowledge of a child. This case also has created a great deal of interest because of the circumstances surrounding it. The alleged crime is said to have taken place in the fall of 1919, both parties having in the meantime resided outside the county. Sheriff W. J. LaBree held a warrant for the arrest of Hanson for over two years but was unable to serve it on account of Hanson's removal to Canada, where he was married. He recently returned to this country and Sheriff LaBree at once placed him under arrest. A three-year-old child, of which Hanson is alleged to be the father, figured conspicuously in the proceedings. The defendant in the meantime has married and has a wife and baby.

The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon and resulted in a verdict of not guilty.

Martin Williams, charged with running a gambling house, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and serve six months in jail. With good behavior the jail sentence will be commuted at the end of three months. His brother, George Williams, was fined $20 with a 30 day jail sentence for the same offense.

James Parenteau, charged with illegitimacy, whose case was continued from last term of court, changed his plea to guilty and the case is expected to be settled by his furnishing a bond to insure his contributing toward the support of the child.

Another continued case, that of the state against Arthur Craboneau, Ekard Lane, Richard Bartlett and Victor Norquist, was dismissed upon motion of County Attorney Theo. Quale.

A verdict for the defendant was returned in the case of the Security State bank of St. Paul, against Joe and John Eidelbes and M. Kotrba. O'Malley & O'Malley of St. Paul appeared for the plaintiff and Theo. Quale for defendants.

Three One-Act Plays By Dramatic Club of School

On Friday evening, March 3, the High School Dramatic club will present three one-act plays at the auditorium. These plays, "The Singing Soul," "A Pierrot of the Minute" and "A Flower of Yeddo," are based on Japanese and Chinese legends and are beautiful in the extreme. The presentation will be made with elaborate costuming and scenery and the club will be assisted by the high school orchestra.

There are three separate scenes, the first a mandarin's home in Pekin; second, the grove of Venus at night, and the third a Japanese home in the olden times.

Reserved seats are on sale at Stebbins' drug store.

PAYS $21,604 AS AUTO TAX; GETS $40,000 ROAD AID

Pennington County Ahead $18,550 as First Year's Result of Babcock Road Law.

Federal Aid Partially Responsible For Difference in Sums Collected and Spent.

New Construction to Be Distributed to Benefit Largest Number of Communities.

Pennington county owners paid $21,604 of taxes in 1921 on cars and trucks and $40,155 has been used to date on trunk highways within the county under the Babcock good roads plan put into effect last April. No county or town funds are included.

Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, explained that the large excess of disbursements over automobile tax revenue was made possible in part by the use of federal highway aid and reimbursement funds.

Figures Are Official.

The figures are official, motor vehicle taxes being reported by Mike Holm, secretary of state, and highway figures approved by G. W. Brown, state public examiner.

State trunk highway charges in Pennington county include $24,498 used in 1919-20 and $15,657 in 1921, all covering maintenance work, new construction, right-of-way, engineering and other expenses. The 1921 items follow:

Disbursements Exceed Receipts.

Trunk highway No. 32, 15.5 miles, maintenance $3,204; construction, $9,711; total, $12,735. Trunk highway No. 33, 15 miles, maintenance, $2,891; construction $31.00; total, $2,922. Total, $15,657. Reimbursement charged for 1919-20 work, $24,498. Trunk highway funds used in county to date, $40,155. Motor vehicle taxes collected in county to date, $21,604. Disbursements exceed receipts to date by $18,551.

Federal Aid Helped.

Mr. Babcock said that the general showing was made possible in part by the use of federal highway aid and reimbursement bond funds which totalled more than double the amount of the 1921 motor vehicle taxes.

John H. Mullen, deputy commissioner and chief highway engineer, added that the largest outlays, especially those for new construction, were in counties which voted reimbursement bonds and others where the trunk routes when taken over by the state were not up to the average.

Make Distribution Equal.

"Department policies are designed to distribute new construction so that the largest number of localities may share in early, permanent benefits, and also to build up weak stretches in long mileages of otherwise good roads. Their continuance will tend to bring up individual county totals to a fair average, traffic, milage and other conditions considered. Those with small totals last year will be most likely to lead this year, local conditions being equal. Every effort has been and is being made to give every section fair and impartial consideration."

The county figures made public this week, from reports certified by the secretary of state and public examiner, supplement the recent review of Minnesota's record of highway improvement accomplished under the new good roads program.

ALL-WATER ROUTE WOULD MEAN BIG SAVING TO FARMER

Speaker at Club Luncheon Explains Importance of Canal Project to Business Men.

A saving of seven cents a bushel on wheat shipped from the Red River valley to European markets would be effected by the construction of the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence canal, according to C. C. Glick, who spoke at the Commercial club luncheon in this city last Thursday.

Under present conditions a cargo of wheat consigned from Duluth to Liverpool, for instance, must be reshipped twice before its destination is reached. Taken from the boats at Buffalo the cargo must go by rail to New York, where it is again loaded onto ocean-going vessels. This is a very costly proceeding, but the only alternative is the employment of the inadequate Erie canal which is capable of accommodating only vessels having less than a ten-foot draft. With the construction of the proposed canal it will be possible to load grain at the elevators in Duluth and carry it direct to Europe without breaking bulk, the saving thus made being estimated at from seven to nine cents a bushel.

The cost of the proposed canal will be in the neighborhood of $270,000,000, falling equally upon the United States and Canada. Six years would be required for its construction and it has been estimated by engineers that the revenue from the water-power developed would more than pay interest on the investment, the improvement in the end costing the taxpayers nothing.

Terminal facilities at New York are even at the present time unable to take care of the business reaching the city from the South and West during certain seasons of the year, causing costly delays. This condition will grow worse instead of better as the country develops and larger quantities of freight are available for export. New York naturally opposes the project as the proposed canal would for a time at least take away from that port a large amount of business. The government, however, is strongly in favor of the plan and it is not likely that the selfish objections of one section will carry much weight.

Mr. Glick is an interesting and convincing speaker and his address has had the effect of increasing interest in the big undertaking throughout this section.

JEWS ENTITLED TO LIBERAL RESPONSE IN PLEA FOR HELP

Have Always Been Among First to Respond When Others Needed Assistance.

During the past five years the Jews residing in the United States have contributed a total of $47,000,000 for the relief of suffering humanity in different parts of the world. Out of this sum more than 30 per cent, or $14,100,000, has been employed in the relief of distress of non-Jewish peoples. Up to the present time the Jews have been able to meet the demands made upon them where their own race was principally involved, but the present situation in the Near East is so far-reaching and embraces such a vast horde of people that they can no longer carry the load without the help of their neighbors.

In Thief River Falls, as in every other community, the Jews have always been among the most liberal in their donations toward humanitarian causes. Never has an appeal for funds to relieve suffering in any part of the world been made that has not found them both ready and willing to do their full share. Besides the general charitable work towards which they have contributed they have been carying a heavy load of their own in an attempt to succor so far as possible the Jewish populations of other countries. It is safe to say that no other race or nationality among our citizens has been called upon so continually for assistance, and that none have responded more liberally. Now that their burden has become too heavy to be handled alone they ask that their neighbors extend a helping hand in raising a fund to assist those who must starve unless succor is liberally extended.

The collection of funds was begun on Monday and one of the first contributions received by Chairman Charles Lieberman was a check for one dollar from a farmer residing near Wylie.

Donations may be sent either to Mr. Lieberman, Mayor John Bratrud or Daniel Shaw, Thief River Falls.

Sugar Beet Agent Coming to Confer With Growers

On Thursday, March 9, H. H. Dana, representing the Minnesota Sugar company, will be in the city for the purpose of making contracts for next season's sugar beet crop. Pennington county will be given a much larger acreage this year and growers are assured of a better contract with the refinery than that in force last season.

As this will be the most important meeting of beet growers before the planting is done, it will be to the interest of all who contemplate going into the business to be on hand. Mr. Dana is the agriculturist of the Minnesota Sugar company and is an expert on marketing as well as production. The meeting will be held in the office of the county agent.

Girls Outnumber Boys in City's School Buildings

The total enrollment at the public schools in Thief River Falls for the first semester of the present term, which closed on Feb. 3, was 1555. Of this number 711 were boys and 844 girls. They were distributed among the different buildings as follows: Central, 284; Knox, 202; Northrop, 357; Washington, 249; Lincoln High, 373. The high school enrollment was: Freshmen, 132; sophomores, 86; juniors, 79; seniors, 77. There were 83 pupils in the kindergarten—42 girls and 41 boys.

There are several important changes in the income tax requirements and anyone in doubt concerning their provisions should not hesitate to call on this expert for help. It will be cheerfully given.

LIFE SENTENCE PRONOUNCED IN GUMMER'S CASE

Hotel Clerk Found Guilty of Murdering Marie Wick at Fargo, June 7, 1921.

Jury's Verdict Reported Unanimous on First Ballot, Both as to Guilt and Degree.

Andy Brown, Gummer's Room Mate, Placed Under Arrest on the Same Charge.

William Gummer was on Monday sentenced to life imprisonment in the North Dakota state penitentiary at Bismarck by Judge Chas. M. Cooley for the murder of Miss Marie Wick of Grygla, on June 7, 1921.

Gummer was found guilty of murder in the first degree by the jury, which returned a verdict at 12:40 o'clock Saturday night after having been out since 5:20 o'clock the previous evening. It is understood the jury first voted on the question of guilty, a unanimous ballot resulting. The second ballot was on the degree and again resulted in a unanimous verdict of first degree. A third or "clincher" ballot was taken and less than an hour after the jury retired the result had been established. The jury, however, remained out until 12:30 a. m. Ten minutes later the verdict was read in court.

Brown Is Arrested.

Andy Brown, Gummer's roommate, held as a witness since Sept. 24, was arrested shortly after the return of the jury in the Gummer case and charged with murder in the first degree in connection with the crime for which the latter was convicted. Brown was at once taken to Fargo and placed in the Cass county jail to await the preliminary hearing which was begun on Tuesday.

Curses the Jury.

During the time the jury was deliberating Gummer was sound asleep in his cell. He seemed highly pleased when the trial was concluded, executing a dance on the jail floor when he was taken back and locked up by the officers. He was awakened and brought into the court room to hear the verdict read but showed no particular emotion at that time. Later, however, he cursed the jury which found him guilty, keeping up his tirade during the greater part of the morning.

The sentencing of Gummer was a mere formality, murder in the first degree automatically carrying with it a sentence of life imprisonemnt in North Dakota.

Brown Learns of Verdict.

Andy Brown did not know what the verdict was until shortly after 5 o'clock in the morning, when Sheriff Larson awoke him and told him that Deputy Sheriff James Milligan of Cass county was waiting below to take him back to Fargo. "What's the verdict?" was his first remark, and upon hearing that it was guilty of murder in the first degree he buried his head in the bed clothes for a moment or two.

Warrant Served.

Then he was taken down stairs, where Mr. Milligan served the warrant charging him with first degree murder. He said nothing when the warrant was read for he had expected it. A number of times during the course of the trial he intimated to Sheriff Larson that he supposed that they would arrest him if Gummer was convicted.

When informed that Brown had been arrested, Gummer said, "Well they've got another innocent man mixed up in it."

Suspected From the First.

Investigation from the first indicated that Brown was seriously mixed up in the murder of the Grygla girl, but the authorities did not bring the charge against him as in that case it would have been impossible to use him as a witness against Gummer. He was therefore simply held as a witness until the Gummer trial was over.

Gummer Never Flinched.

During the terrible arraignment of State's Attorney William Green, lasting more than three hours, Gummer's stoicism never left him. Even when Mr. Green directed attention of the jurors to Gummer's face, declaring that it was the face Marie Wick saw as she lay helpless upon her bed, the prisoner never flinched, and when Mr. Green demanded that the jury convict him in order that other girls might be protected from such a man, he was as firm as ever.

The Strongest Witness.

"The strongest witness against the defendant in this case was not a witness who came here under subpoena for either the state or the defendant," said Mr. Green. "It was a witness who could not be forced to testify; a witness whose testimony can never appear upon the written records of this court—but a witness, nevertheless, who told you more convincingly than all the other evidence in the case told you—that William Gummer destroyed the life of Marie Wick. For two hours on Monday morning of this week the naked soul of William Gummer sat in that witness chair and, while William Gummer's tongue dodged and evaded and argued and refused to answer questions, that soul of his displayed itself to you not told you [illegible] no human voice could tell you, "This is the man.'

"If ever the cold, calculating, nerveless, fear-nothing, vindictive spirit which must dwell in the body of a man who would commit such a crime as this, came out and displayed itself in the eyes and features and actions and words of a living being, that spirit came out of William Gummer, on Monday morning, when everyone who looked could see in that cold, unblinking stare, behind that sardonic grin the spirit which would not be bound by preparation or advice of lawyers or even fear of consequences—the spirit will not stay hidden when William Gummer is crossed in his desires, but comes out ready to rape or torture or kill, if need be, because it knows no law except the law of its own desire.

True Nature Will Show Up.

"If ever a man's true nature will come to the front, it is when he is charged with such a crime as this, and stands before a jury of his fellow men who are to decide upon his fate, and tells his story. He may hide it for awhile, but if it is strong enough it will burst out. And so it is with this defendant Gummer. On direct examination he sat in that chair, a little nervous, as one might naturally expect him to be, but giving careful answers, in good English, and with the excellent help given him by his counsel in asking leading questions so that he would only have to answer 'Yes' or 'No,' everything was going his way and he was showing up well. But on cross examination, things didn't go his way. He couldn't tell what he was going to be asked, and so he couldn't have his answers ready, and when he couldn't answer questions his own way he did not like it, and the longer he went on the less he liked it, and what was the result? His real nature just broke out and took control, and then you saw the real Gummer—you saw the Gummer that the officers saw on the night of the 14th of June—the Gummer that Hans Wick's daughter saw as she lay on her bed of torture and watched that instrument of death come crashing down."

Both J. W. Swenson of Devils Lake, Gummer's brother-in-law, and W. J. Barnett of Fargo took part in the closing arguments for the defense, the chief address being given by Judge Barnett.

Barnett's Address.

Judge Barnett, in his closing address for the defense, told the jury that the state had built a house upon sand, and described the state's theory of the crime as a "figment of the imagination."

He declared that the jurors could not retire and deliberate on the case without taking into consideration Andy Brown's connection with the case.

"Couldn't you build as strong a case against Brown?" Judge Barnett asked. "What would you say of Andy Brown? Did he do it? If Brown were here instead of Gummer, what would you say?

"You can't wipe Andy Brown out of this case. You can't get at the truth and do justice without considering the facts about Brown," he declared.

REGULAR MEETING OF PARENT-TEACHERS ON EAST SIDE TUESDAY

Will Afford Excellent Opportunity For Inspection by Public of New Knox School Building.

The next meeting of the P-T-A will be held in the new Knox building on the East side next Tuesday evening. Those who have not seen this fine building should avail themselves of the double opportunity of inspecting the building at this time as well as attending what will probably be the most interesting P-T-A meeting yet held. This meeting should be a lively one because the entire program is devoted to the very interesting yet puzzling subject: "What Can We as Parents Do to Provide Proper Entertainment and Amusement for Boys and Girls of High School Age?" Some interesting and profitable discussions are looked for.

After the program a light lunch will be served by the women of the East side. Following is the program:

Piano solo, Maxine Johnson.

Discussions on the main subject, A. W. Jardine, Mrs. C. T. Christenson, Mrs. T. L. Melgaard.

Discussion by the audience.

Vocal solo, Mrs. O. F. Melby.

"Home Study as a Part of the Evening Program for Boys and Girls," M. P. Rapacz, high school principal.

Convert Peninsula Into Red Lake National Park

If plans as outlined by Peter Krogseng of Saum, Minn., materialize, Northwestern Minnesota is to have a national park to be known as the Red Lake National park, which is to be located between ranges 32 and 33, including the beautiful point between upper and lower Red lake.

This stretch of beautiful timbered land comprises about 38,500 acres and, according to Mr. Krogseng, Congressman Knutson, with whom he has had some correspondence regarding this project, is most enthusiastic about such a plan.

There are about 120,000,000 feet of standing white pine trees on this point and the opening up of such a national park will mean something to the whole nation.

It is the aim of those promoting the project to have resolutions adopted at the March election favoring the setting aside of this tract to be maintained and conducted as a national recreation resort by act of congress.

Correction.

In my annual report there appears a mistake. Skim milk received, 401,-335 pounds, should be 89,658 pounds.

INCOME PAYMENTS MUST BE IN HANDS OF AGENT MAR. 15

Time Extension Granted Only in Exceptional Cases—Big Penalty For Neglect.

Taxpayers have 15 days, not including Sundays, in which to file their income tax returns for the calendar year 1921. To avoid penalty, the return, accompanied by at least one quarter of the tax, must be in the hands of the collector of internal revenue or a deputy collector on or before midnight of March 15.

Returns may be mailed or filed in person at the office of the collector, St. Paul, and the following branch offices: Minneapolis, Duluth, Mankato, Winona and St. Cloud. Payment may be made by check, money order or in cash. If made at a branch office, payment should be made by money order or check, to avoid the danger of loss in transmission to the office of the collector.

Where in exceptional cases such as illness or absence, a taxpayer is unable to make a return within the time prescribed, an extension of not to exceed 30 days may be obtained upon application to the collector. Such extension will be granted only when in the judgment of the collector further time is actually required for making of an accurate return. Applications for such extensions must be made prior to March 15.

As a condition of granting an extension of time for filing a return, the collector may require the submission of a tentative return. Tentative returns will not be accepted unless permission is obtained previous to filing. A copy of the authority for filing the tentative return must be attached thereto when filed. Where a taxpayer files a tentative return and fails to file a complete return within the period of the extension requested by him, the complete return when filed is subject to penalties prescribed for delinquency.

If before the end of a 30 day extension is granted by the collector, an accurate return cannot be made, an appeal for a further extension must be made to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., with a full recital of the causes for the delay. The commissioner will not grant an additional extension without a clear showing that a complete return cannot be made at the end of the 30 day period. For failure to file return on time, the taxpayer becomes liable to a penalty of not more than $1,000 and a further penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of tax due, unless he later files a return and it is satisfactorily shown that the delinquency was due to a reasonable cause and not to wilful neglect.

Zauke a Visitor.

W. F. Zauke, village clerk and general manager of the village of Baudette, was in the city on Monday enroute to Bemidji to attend court. "Bill" says that everything is shaping up nicely for the division of Beltrami county, there being but little opposition to the proposition showing up at the county seat. The new county will have plenty to start with in the way of taxable valuation and a greater population than some of the counties in the state at the present time. There are a lot of things to be considered in connection with the division of a county, however, and Mr. Zauke is going to look into some of them while at Bemidji.

Council Meeting Light; Appoint Election Judges

Very little business of importance was transacted by the city council at the regular meeting on Tuesday night. Bonds of the city depositories were accepted and the judges of election appointed for the year. The latter are: First ward, Emil Griebstein, C. E. Glines and Ed. Ness; Second ward, W. H. Akre, Alfred Bredeson and M. N. Benson; Third ward, Carsten Christenson, Harry Roberts and Frank Mousley; Fourth ward, Frank Cernoucek, C. M. Wilson and Herman Egeland.

AT THE THEATRES

All children love motion pictures and parents need have no hesitancy in sending them to the clean, wholesome presentations in which Mary Miles Minter appears. "The Little Clown," in which this charming actress appears at the Lyceum on Friday and Saturday nights, is full of the most delightful comedy situations from beginning to end. The play will please the most critical patron and yet be found perfectly suitable for the children to [illegible].

A real circus was engaged to put on the c[illegible] scenes in this play. These are [illegible] every daddy in town will be justified in taking the youngsters in order that he may see the play himself. It is clever, wholesome and instructive in every detail and gives the versatile Mary one of the best vehicles she has ever had for the display of her talent.

"The Cure," one of Charlie Chaplin's latest pictures, will be shown in connection with the above. This is a program of unusual merit.

"Mother o' Mine," one of the big motion picture sensations of the year, comes to the Lyceum on Sunday and Monday evenings and Sunday matinee. It was produced by that wizard of the screen, Thomas H. Ince, and is said to be the most appealing thing ever turned out by that genius. It is presented by a notable cast, including Betty Blythe, Lloyd Hughes, Betsy Ross Clark, Joseph Kilgour, Claire McDowell and Andrew Arbuckle. The story itself is one of rare beauty and presented with a wealth of scenic accessories such as have made the name of Ince famous. One exhibitor, after having presented this great picture to his patrons, wrote as follows to the producers:

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation of your picture, 'Mother o' Mine,' which, judged from the standpoint of humanness and popular appeal I consider the greatest picture I have ever viewed.

"A story so great that no mind can fail to be impressed, so simply told that no mind can fail to grasp it. A story which could easily be made to appear grim and sordid has by skillful directing and skillful acting, been made bright and wholesome and impresses upon the minds of those who see it a lesson never to be forgotten.

"Owing to adverse weather conditions I made no money on the picture but certainly gained a lot of publicity as people are still talking about it and many have thanked me for giving them, as they say, the best picture they ever saw."

A Torchy comedy fills out the bill for these performances, for which only the regular prices are charged.

HOG VALUES GAIN; PORKERS TO $11

New High Prices on the Crop Registered—Cattle Advance on Very Short Runs.

South St. Paul, Feb. 27—Under the combined influences of advancing prices at eastern markets and continued below normal receipts here, owing particularly to the storm last week and sub-zero temperatures at this week's opening, all classes of livestock are selling on sharply higher price levels than a week ago, last week's gain being followed by further upturns in swine and cattle values on this week's initial session. Some medium native lambs took a 25c decline from the high close last week, but prices on the better grades were well sustained. As compared with last week's opening hogs sold Monday largely 75c higher, both killing stock and feeding cattle are mostly 50c up, as are calves, and fat sheep and lambs show 50 to 75c gain.

Best beef cattle on today's market sold at $8, long yearlings, carrying odd heifers, reaching the price, with the bulk of the steers on killing account going at $6.75 to $7.25 and with stockers and feeders relatively high and selling mostly from $5.75 to $6.75, a selected grade of fleshy feeders having a quotable value up to $7.50. Butcher cows and heifers cashed largely from $4 to $6 with some of the more desirable fat heifers, chiefly yearlings, on up to $7. Canner cows below $2.75 were scarce and a strong cutter grade sold upward to $3.75 to $4. Bologna bulls were most numerous at $3.50 to $4, some reaching $4.25. Some of the best veal calves sold to packers up to $9, with practically no desirable light or handyweight vealers going below $6.50.

With light hogs selling up to $11, and the bulk of the butcher weights going from $10.40 to $10.75, the best fat pigs reaching $11.25 and only packing hogs with weight selling to $9 or below, the hog market touched a new high basis for the year and the day's average cost, promising to figure around $10.60, was about $4.25 above the low week in November last.

Choice Dakota-fed lambs sold up to $15.25 and fed natives as high as $14.75 to $16. Best handyweight fed western ewes sold up to $8.25 last week but weighty sheep are finding discrimination and some good heavy native ewes are selling around $6 to $6.50.

A QUESTION OF FAITH.

Winnebago City Enterprise: If the farmers of Minnesota and of the nation stick together, and fight the good fight for the common cause, they will be successful in their just demands.

The farmer is not getting a square deal at the present time, and until agriculture prospers, none of us will prosper. We are all dependent upon the man who tills the soil.

If the faith of the members of the farm bureau is strong enough, and if they stand united, it will not be long before a great change for the better will have been brought about. Let there be no wavering in the ranks.

UNTOLD WEALTH IN STATE PEAT LANDS

Dried Product at $3 Per Ton Would Pay National Debt, is Claim of Speaker.

Minnesota contains enough merchantable dried peat at the rate of $3 a ton to pay off the national debt, E. A. Wildes, state superintendent of mines, said at Minneapolis on Saturday in an address at the national convention of Minnesota agricultural and engineering societies.

"Peat," said Mr. Wildes, "abounds in practically every section of the state. It is particularly plentiful near Duluth, the twin cities, Iron Range, Brainerd, Mankato and other cities. It is sufficiently close to every community in the state to make transportation easy. It is one of Minnesota's greatest assets and is undeveloped."

Max Stoltz, St. Paul engineer, in discussing the use of peat as fuel, said that heretofore wood and coal have been too successful as competitors to allow for wide development of peat preparation plants. With wood eliminated and coal becoming more costly the use of peat is not only practical but is considered the solution to Minnesota's fuel problems.

Henry Clark Will Appear Before P-T-A This Evening

There will be a special meeting of the Parent-Teacher association in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock this evening. The purpose of this meeting is to give the members of the P-T-A an opportunity to hear a lecture on "What is An Education?" by Henry Clark, who so delightfully entertained the high school students at chapel Monday afternoon and at the city auditorium Monday evening through his reading, "The Go-Getter." Mr. Clark's lecture on "What is An Education" has always pleased and thrilled his audiences and all parents who are interested in the proper education of their children should not miss this opportunity to hear something new and worth while.

This lecture is being given under the auspices of the P-T-A, but all others who are interested are welcome. A small admission fee of ten cents will be charged to help defray expenses.

Cut Out Coupon and Save Price of Lyceum Ticket

It may not be possible for two to live as cheaply as one, but two can attend the Lyceum performances for the price of one ticket if they will take the trouble to cut the coupon out of the theatre advertisement on the back page of The Times every week. Manager H. A. Brumund says that in order to get a larger number of people to appreciate the fine attractions he is securing for his patrons he has decided to give two admissions for the price of one, providing the coupon is used.

This offer does not hold good on Sunday nights as the features then presented are so expensive as to make it necessary for him to charge for every seat in the house. There are also occasions on which this free offer may be suspended, but until further notice it will hold good for every night except Sunday. If you have not been taking advantage of this, begin by clipping the coupon now while you think of it.

HIT THEM HARD.

(Fergus Falls Journal.)

The mail order houses are showing huge slumps. Montgomery Ward & Co. report an operating loss of $2,-054,370 for the past year and a depreciation loss of $4,725,920. The National Cloak and Suit Co. reports a loss of $2,439,902 for the year. This, with the Sears-Roebuck losses that were so heavy that the president had to come to the rescue with his personal fortune, shows that the mail order business is not what it once was.

Election of Officers By Elks Lodge Friday Night

The annual election of officers of the local Elks lodge will take place on Friday night. Nominations were made at the first meeting in February and there is but one candidate for each office, as follows:

Herrick; trustee for three years, W. H. BonDurant; tiler, Elmer F. Ohm; delegate to grand lodge convention, H. W. Protzeller; delegate to state convention, F. H. Herrick.

At the close of the meeting a lunch has been provided by the committee in charge.

HAVE A LITTLE PATIENCE.

(Bemidji Sentinel.)

After waiting more than twenty years for something to be done regarding the Red Lake and Clearwater drainage projects some of the settlers in those communities are becoming anxious regarding the progress that is being made by the Conservancy Board and are commencing to grumble. The Board has encountered numerous difficulties. The government must act and that takes time. The various surveys must be made so as to determine what the actual work must be. The Board is composed of men who are devoting much time and attention to the work and they are working with all the speed possible. The exercise of a little patience will help them more than grumbling.

Warming Up.

(Gonvick Banner.)

Politics are warming up. C. L. Hansen of Thief River Falls has filed as a candidate for state senator from the 65th district. Mr. Hansen is by no means an unknown quality. He is a leader in his home city and county. For years he has been prominently identified with public affairs of northern Minnesota. In movements tending to promote dairying and agricultural development he has been decidedly active and his name is known in every corner of his district. A candidate for the position six years ago he received a splendid vote. He undoubtedly will gather more ballots and possibly a majority this time.

The annual caucus for the Town of North will be held at the Oen Mercantile store March 7, at 3 p. m.

This Town Needs a Hupmobile Dealer

This is a "Hupmobile town," and it needs, and will soon have, a Hupmobile dealer.

It is the kind of community that most appreciates this fine car.

The Hupmobile, while ranking with cars that cost much more, sells at the remarkably low price of $1,250 f. o. b. factory.

This brings it within the reach of persons of ordinary means, and makes it a wonderful proposition for the dealer.

The man we are looking for to represent the Hupmobile here, is a hustler and a good business man.

To such a man, we can practically assure many prospects, sales and exceptional profits.

This is the first year we have been able to supply the great potential demand for Hupmobiles outside of the metropolitan centers.

Now the Hupmobile factory has greatly increased its production to supply this demand.

This creates a money-making opportunity. You may be the man we want.

Remember that we have no back-breaking requirements—nothing but what will enhance your bank standing. And our discount rate is much more liberal than is ordinarily offered.

Mrs. A. W. Swedenburg, president of the Auxiliary, presented Mr. Clark to the audience, following a community sing led by Miss Maude Johnson, supervisor of music in the public schools. Mr. Clark held his audience with intense interest during his recital of the story, which was very appealing because of the lesson of loyalty and persistency which was very prominently brought out. It is assured that Mr. Clark will be heartily welcomed by a Thief River Falls audience at any time he may appear here in the future. Mrs. F. E. Hunt, Mrs. L. A. Hermanson and Mrs. D. W. The Princeton Union: "Pastors of churches," says Miss Frances Adams, an evangelist, "should stop talking about women's fashions from the pulpit and confine themselves to preaching the gospel. The pulpit is not the place to settle fashion problems but to save souls." Who Said It?

Who said this was a young man's age? The subject has been interestingly discussed of late with more or less surprising revelations. Are the commanding figures of the world old or young?

John D. Rockefeller is 82; Chauncey M. Depew is 87; so is Dr. Charles W. Elliot; Lyman Abbott is 86, and "Uncle Joe" Cannon is 85; John Wanamaker is 83, and Oliver Wendell Holmes, supreme court justice, is 80, the same age as Georges Clemenceau, the "tiger of France."

Our own United States Senator Knute Nelson is 78, which is the age of Justice Joseph McKenna of the United States supreme court. Dr. Harvey W. Wiley is 77, while Sarah Bernhard is 75, which is also the age of Elihu Root. Thomas A. Edison is 74 and so is Alexander Graham Bell; Arthur James Balfour is 73 and Luther Burbank and Samuel Gompers are now at the age of 72. Henry Cabot Lodge is 71 and so is Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the publisher, and Senator Albert B. Cummins and David Starr Jordan.

Ferdinand Foch, marshal of the French army, carries the weight of 70 years on his shoulders, and that is the age of Sir Oliver Lodge. Henry Van Dyke, the author, is 69, and General Joffre is the same age. John Drew, the actor, is 68, as is Sir Hall Caine. Robert B. Mantell, the actor, is 67, and so is George Eastman, the kodak man. George Bernard Shaw, Judge Louis D. Brandeis, Henry Morgenthau and former President Woodrow Wilson are 66.—Ex.

THE MAN FOR THE PLACE.

There is no denying the fact that Judge Hallam is gaining ground as a candidate for the United States senate. When his name was first mentioned in connection with this important office the general feeling was that while the supreme court jurist undoubtedly would make an ideal senator, there was not much chance of his being chosen at this time. Since then many things have happened, however. Governor Preus has removed himself as a possibility and Ramsey county has given indications of preferring Hallam to Kellogg. As this county is the home of both men, this change of attitude has had a tremendous effect. On top of this came Kellogg's vote to seat Newberry, which went against the grain with a great many Republican voters in the state. All things have combined to sort of place the junior senator on the defensive, which is a poor place for a candidate to be in.

Judge Halalm is not dependent upon dissatisfaction with Kellog for his hold upon the voters, however. He is a man of whose capability there is no question. His record is long, honorable and unblemished. He enjoys the confidence of the people of the state to an unusual degree, long experience having convinced them of his ability, fairness and good judgment.

It would also be a good political move to nominate Hallam. Among the more progressive and independent elements of the party in the state there is quite a lot of dissatisfaction with Kellogg's attitude toward a number of important things. The charge is made that he does not keep sufficiently close to the people, being guided in his actions too much by the dictates of big business interests. For this reason it is felt he would not add greatly to the strength of the ticket in the state as a whole, and while this is not regarded as being in any particular danger, yet good political judgment dictates that it make as good a showing as possible. Hallam, on the other hand, would prove an asset because of his personal popularity with the voters.

At any rate it will hardly do to count Hallam out of the reckoning. He is liable to show up strongest where least expected, in which case the dope as ladled out at the opening of the campaign would be most decidedly upset.

THAT SALES TAX.

Goodness knows the American people are sufficiently taxed at the present time without plans being devised for reaching further into their pockets, even though the "touch" is made for the purpose of providing a bonus for ex-service men.

This bonus question is the most bothersome that has arisen to vex the poor, overworked congressman for a long time. He does not know just which way to turn. Very much liking to do something to pacify the soldier, he still fears to add to the already heavy burden of taxation resting upon the shoulders of the people. The proposition can hardly be escaped by "trimming," and this seems to be the only method of procedure with which congress is acquainted.

President Harding evidently desires that the entire subject be sidetracked for the present, but states that if it must be settled now the only plan by which the money should be raised is by a sales tax.

For some reason not so very apparent the greatest objection to a sales tax comes from organizations claiming to represent the farmer, yet it would be hard to conceive of any plan of taxation that would affect the farmer less. The farmer consumes more of what he himself produces than any other class of citizen and consequently has a smaller amount to buy. As this tax will fall on the purchaser and not the seller he is the one man who should have the least objection to it. Salaried men in the cities would be hit to a much greater extent by such a tax than would the farmer.

The objection raised to the plan on the score of an inequitable distribution of the burden does not seem to hold good. To claim that the man who must be satisfied with a soupbone for his family would be hit as hard as the one who can afford porterhouse is foolish. The man who buys a flivver will pay but a small part of the tax paid by the twin-six owner. The more expensive household will pay the larger amount, which is as it should be.

Whether or not any attempt should be made at this time to provide this bonus is another matter. President Harding is evidently not very keen about it and there is no question but that congress will gladly postpone action if such course is possible. The ex-service men's organizations are insistent in demanding that something be done, however, and the situation is not particularly pleasant for the men who must face the voters this fall.

NOT VERY EXPENSIVE.

The cost of the county agent service to the counties of Minnesota amounts to less than one-half of a cent an acre on the basis of a total acreage in farms, according to F. E. Balmer, state leader of county agents. This, he explained, is on the basis of data obtained from the federal census of 1920 and takes into consideration the proportion of taxes paid by towns or rural property only. Asserting that the gain from the service greatly exceeds the cost, he declares that the cost per acre of total land in farms for the total general taxes payable in 1921 amounted to $1.32 an acre. One half of a cent out of $1.32 an acre doesn't add very materially to the cost of government, he says.

"County agents as well as others connected with the work are glad to have the value of the service questioned, for it must be worth more than its cost, else it is not worth maintaining," Mr. Balmer says. "Naturally the record of achievement in each county must answer that question. For the state at large it can be quickly proved that the gain from the service greatly exceeds the cost."

It is safe to assert there is not a farmer in Pennington county who has in any manner availed himself of the service provided by the county agent who is not willing to have an additional tax of one-half cent an acre assessed against him for the continuation of such service. It means that a man owning an 80-acre farm would be paying the enormous sum of 40 cents a year toward the maintenance of a department created for his particular benefit and organized to solve his particular problems.

Pennington county commissioners refused to make an appropriation to help defray the expenses of a farm agent, as was the case with Polk county and a number of others. The reason given for this action on their part was that the cost is greater than the benefit. Now that the actual cost has been found to be less than one-half cent per acre for all the farms in the state, this reason does not seem to be particularly sound.

It is not likely that the people will permit the office of county agent to be abandoned, even though there is no appropriation for its maintenance by the commissioners. In order that the cost may be equitably distributed among all those who are benefited it should be made a part of the general county budget, however, as is the case in most counties of the state.

MUST BE REDUCED.

Railroad rates are too high, of course, and constitute one of the serious obstacles to an early return to normal conditions. In fact the present freight rate schedule is one of the principal reasons for the slow recovery of the railroads themselves. When the rates are so high that shipments stop because of them, revenue is reduced or wiped out entirely instead of being increased.

While it may be maintained with some degree of truth that on articles of general consumption the freight is such a small item that it cuts but little figure in the ultimate cost, such is not the case with bulk shipments. Take the one item of wood for instance. Fuel has been and is still badly needed by the people of northwestern Minnesota. Coal is high in price and many would burn wood if it were available at any kind of reasonable price. To the east of the Red River valley there are great wooded stretches that must be cleared off before the land can be farmed. Thus would a double purpose be achieved could the wood be sent to the prairie dwellers, but the high freight rates makes this impossible. The settler in the timbered region is thereby deprived of one source of ready money as he can't cut, pile and load the wood at a price which will make it possible for the consumer in town to buy it after the freight cost is added. A four-fold loss results: The axman is idle, the land remains uncleared, the railroad loses business, and the town dweller is deprived of needed fuel at a reasonable price.

It costs as much to get a carload of wood to this city from Salol as the fuel sells for on the cars at that point. This is out of all proportion for a haul of 72 miles.

Ford On the Country Press.

Says Henry Ford: "Speaking of the press, one thinks of the great dailies of New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. The Country Editor is usually overlooked. But it is a fact worth noting that the Country Editor had the honor of retaining his editorial independence when it was a moot question whether the Big City Editor was going to be able to retain his. In the small towns and villages the tradition of editorial freedom has been preserved, and as a result of it the Country Newspaper has come to a degree of influence which is very promising of good for the country. The United States lies mostly outside the cities, anyway. The Country Press should be a power, and it will be a power as long as it expresses level headed, fair minded well informed and deep convictioned personality."

Marriage with no bank account is like buying a high priced car on payments. The darn thing 'll likely be busted up 'fore the obligations are all cancelled.

The Week's Sermon

(By Rev. E. H. Kreidt, Pastor St. John's Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls.)

LENT.

"Behold the Lamb of God!" John 1:29.

The Lenten Season: Forty days of preparation for Good Friday and Easter. Those two festivals point the proper observance of Lent. Prepare for these two great holidays of the Christian church.

John the Baptist tells you how to do this: "Behold the Lamb of God!" Almost two thousand years ago John with these words directed the people to Jesus of Nazareth. The direction still holds good and applies to man today.

Good Friday and Easter with their preparatory season of Lent are empty words and empty days if you leave Jesus out of them. Jesus, suffering on Calvary's Cross, and being laid in the tomb; Jesus, rising on the third day to life, glory and victory; Jesus, suffering and triumphant to "take away the sin of the world." To see that in its various details is the blessed observance of Lent.

The place to do this is in the quiet of your chamber, bent over the Book of Books, reading and contemplating the Gospel of Jesus' great Passion; in the solemn assembly of God's people in his temple, hearing the wondrous work of God for your salvation, being led with the Savior over the 'via dolorosa.' To see the Lamb of God suffering, dead, buried, and alive again to "take away the sin of the world," to see and say: "There is MY Savior! He died to atone for my sins; He rose from the grave so that I, too, may rise again unto everlasting life; through Him I can and shall come to God and the eternal mansions of Heaven."

Fast if you will, deny yourself this and that pleasure, abstain from the delights of candy and cream, avoid the distractions of society and entertainment, do anything and everything—your Lent will be empty and vain unless you have "beheld the Lamb of God" and at its close are moved to say:

My soul looks back to see,
The burden Thou didst bear,
When hanging on the cursed tree,
And knows her guilt were there.
Believing, I rejoice
To see the curse remove;
I bless the Lamb with cheerful voice,
And sing His bleeding love.

The Dairyman is Winner.

The annual report of the Thief River Falls Co-operative creamery, issued about a month ago, has attracted a great deal of attention and Secretary Engelstad is in receipt of many inquiries asking for information concerning the institution. One of those who naturally would be expected to take an interest in the subject is J. H. Hay, former superintendent of the Thief River Falls schools and now assistant commissioner of agriculture. In a letter to Mr. Engelstad he says:

"It is highly gratifying to know of the continued success of your organization. I cannot anticipate what the condition would be in and around Thief River Falls should such a calamity befall as the removal of the creamery from that district. I often feel that local business men as well as farmers have not a sufficiently high appreciation of the outstanding importance of this institution at Thief River.

"I must congratulate you personally for the large part you play in the efficient administration of the creamery. All those connected with the proposition are also to be commended for their fine co-operative spirit."

Ole Gjerde of Noble post office, Polk county, writes in part as follows:

"Will you kindly send me five or six of your financial statements of the creamery? I got two the day of the annual meeting but have given them away and would like to get a few more.

"I am very much interested in your creamery and think it is the greatest thing out. If some of those skim milk kickers had to sell their cream for ten cents less than your cash price they would have some reason to kick."

Roseau Region: Three farmers near Thief River Falls had creamery checks for $273.78, $268.85 and $252.73 respectively during December. They are hardly worrying over hard times.

Barnesville Record-Review: Sixty-seven patrons of the Thief River Falls creamery received over $500 each for cream last year; ten farmers received over $1,000 and three over $2,000. The three highest are Hans Anton, $2,864.73; P. Engelstad, $2,789.07, and Jens Kierk, $2,448.83. None of these three are worrying much over low prices for grain or high freight rates.

A little girl announced to her mother that she must be awful clean at school the next day for the visiting nurse was coming and was going to search her.

Traveled 40 Miles Thru Snow to Attend Drainage Meeting; Now a Booster

(Bemidji Pioneer.)

Widespread interest is manifest over the proposition to lower and control the waters of Red lake and streams flowing into it.

Without going into the merits or demerits of this project, well known to our people, it is inspiring to note the comment coming in some instances from unexpected quarters as to the value of Beltrami county soil and future agricultural possibilities of this district.

In this connection, a communication from B. A. Stewart of Lidgerwood, N. D., to the newspapers is timely. Mr. Stewart calls attention to the erroneous impressions of persons who labor under the impression that there is a "terrible tamarack swamp north of Red lake to the Lake of the Woods." Mr. Stewart points out that this is not true and says:

"If these persons are so interested in the drainage project, why were they not at the Thief River Falls meeting. I was there and they were not. Although I am writing this from North Dakota, my home is seven miles from Red lake and in order to attend this meeting I traveled 140 miles; 40 of it I walked through unbeaten snow trails. I was not in favor of any more taxes myself, so, therefore, I attended the meeting to learn the true state of affairs. After I saw and heard these things explained by map and mouth and saw the benefit that thousands would receive, I was in favor of it, although my own land would be but little benefited.

"These people who talk about the 'terrible tamarack swamp' had better go see what it looks like. I saw last fall hundreds of acres of potatoes there that went 200 bushels to the acre; oats, 42; wheat, 25 and 30. And do you know that this 'terrible swamp' (Beltrami county) took the prize at the Minnesota state fair last September for the best display of grain and vegetables?"

Mr. Stewart has made several points and not the least of them is that even unto this day there are people living in Minnesota who are unaware of the bounteous character of the soil in nearly every part of Beltrami county.

If the drainage project proposition did nothing else it would serve a good purpose in getting the eyes of the public open to the splendid natural advantages which present themselves in this part of Minnesota, advantages not excelled in any other locality.

THE WATERWAY AND THE FARMER.

(Duluth Herald.)

President Harding's declaration on the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project before the national agricultural conference yesterday was definite, clean-cut and comprehensive.

He said that the plan is feasible; that its cost compared with other great engineering works would be small; that it would enormously reduce the cost of transportation; and that it would bring a vast population over night in immediate touch with the markets of the world.

The president's speech must make very disagreeable reading for the enemies of this project, but it is very heartening to its friends. It places on their side the president of the United States with his detached and disinterested viewpoint, which is that of the nation as a whole, and it is a complete assurance that everything the executive can do to hasten the realization of this hope will be done without delay.

And nowhere would such a declaration be more apropos than before a conference called by the president to consider means of making the farmer's occupation more secure against needless losses and risks; for when field products can be put into ships at Duluth and Milwaukee and Chicago and Detroit and Lake Erie ports to be transported to the markets of the world, including those on the Atlantic coast, there will be a great saving in transportation and handling charges that will be an enormous and direct benefit to the farmers of a vast area.

The West will be grateful to the president for his courage in taking a positive stand upon a project against which powerful interests in the East are arrayed, for his statement is so palpably true, and goes so direct to the heart of the controversy, that it cannot fail to impress that part of the country which, having no direct interest one way or another, only needs to be shown just what the president has shown it in so many words.

Under the new administration of Mayor Oles, Youngstown, Ohio, is to have an official inspector of breaths whose duty it will be to poke his beak into the faces of policemen to find out what is on the inside. The job looks easy, but the "safety first" idea would suggest the use of a gas mask.

Thief River Falls girls have very sensibly decided to place a ban on secret societies. Who ever heard of a woman keeping a secret?

"Gee, How I O-Dor You!"

Of all the unspeakable miseries,
The most agonizing fix,

And smell their perfumeries mix.

The genius who invented moving pictures evidently got the idea from watching the roller towel in a country hotel.

No matter how bashful a young man may be, if the girl has set her heart on him he is going to hear the wedding bells. When it comes to finding a way, love has nothing on a girl.

"Do you ever want to leave the farm?"

"Yes," said Mr. Cobbles. "Now and then I get to feeling that way, and when I do I run down to th' city for a few days. Speaking of one thing and another, it may interest you to learn that, in Hastings, Neb., Dr. Foote specializes on the eye and ear, and in Wichita, Kan., Dr. Era Nye operates on the feet. And yet some folks think we manufacture these things.

There isn't a bigger fool in the world than the one who cuts off his nose to spite his face.

Resolution Adopted at Meeting of Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association, Held at Crookston, February 9, 1922.

Depression consequent upon the depression following the world war has stricken our industries, particularly that fundamental one, agriculture. A war-ruined and disorganized foreign market, decreased purchasing power, heavy expenditures incurred on war-cost basis, with added discouragement of partial loss of crops in sections, have brought about a condition which is of gravest concern.

That the turning point is being rapidly neared—if, in fact, it has not already been reached—is, however, believed. Primary among the indications of this is the achievement of the World Disarmament conference whereby millions will soon be diverted to productive means. Wise legislation now pending will go far toward restoring agriculture to a profitable basis. The St. Lawrence project to make the ports of the great lakes accessible to ocean-going needs holds immense promise for the Red River valley. The project which has been entered upon to control and conserve the waters of the section and to transform them into electrical energy insures the valley an industrial development that may prove far beyond our most sanguine conceptions.

Be it Resolved, Therefore, That owing to the outstanding richness of our soil, the determination of our people to conserve that richness, as evidenced by the adoption of improved methods and higher standards of farming; the persistence and optimism of the people of the Red River valley in the face of unfavorable conditions; the willingness of all interests to co-operate for the advancement of the general good, as shown in the marked success of the annual Red River Valley Winter shows commend that we be of good cheer and that it be declared the sense of this meeting that we should rise to our opportunities and give our best efforts toward the furtherance of all wise measures which may tend toward the early and complete restoration from depression of the agricultural and commercial industries of our section of the country; that we commend the cessation of mortgage foreclosures so far as consistently possible and the extension of longer credits to the farming industry; that we claim as a necessity to readjustment the reduction of railroad rates; that we commend to the railroads of the Northwest the restoration of settlers' and homeseekers' fares as a proven means of furthering development—all as measures tending toward a return to normal general business activity; and,

Be it Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to newspapers, to state and national representatives of the valley, and to the executives of departments to which they may pertain.

Break colds with vapors
The favored treatment now is a salve rubbed on, that gives off penetrating, healing fumes.

Try the vaporizing treatment for colds—Vicks VapoRub.

At the first sign of a cold, apply Vicks over throat and chest. Rub well in. Lay on a flannel cloth. Apply again at night and arrange the bedclothes like a funnel, so that the vapors, released by the body heat, will be freely inhaled.

This is the treatment favored today by doctors and nurses for colds, bronchitis, tonsilitis, spasmodic croup, sore throat and, in modified form, for catarrh and asthma.

Vicks contains the old, time-tested remedies—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, etc.—combined by special process, so that while they penetrate and stimulate the skin, the ingredients are also released as vapors by the body heat and are breathed right into the lungs.

Just rub it on and breathe in the vapors

Editorial.

The readers of The Progress have now had an opportunity, through the class issues, to judge, to a certain extent at least, the true ability of the students of the Lincoln high school. From comments and casual remarks gathered from various sources, it seems that the plan of having each class put out an issue of The Progress has been highly successful.

The late issues have been very interesting, and compare very favorably with the staff members. They have shown that the writing ability of the school is by no means entirely embraced in the publishing staff. Our readers must now have realized the possibilities of The Progress if the students would take the interest in the school paper that they showed in their class issues; and consequently it will be a great disappointment to them if the majority of the students drop back into the old attitude of indifference towards their sole organ and representative in the outside world, The Progress.

"Time Flies."

Next Friday will be the end of the fourth six weeks period of school. The following Wednesday the reports will be out telling the story of our work to the parents. The students are more interested than usual in getting their reports in order to see how they have fared in the new subjects and with their new teachers.

Have You Bought Your Ticket?

On Friday evening occurs the big dramatic event of the year—the program of plays by the Dramatic club. This is going to be something different. You will be sorry if you miss it. Some interesting features are the Japanese and Chinese settings and costumes, the moonlit dance of the Moon-Maid, the music and poetry running through all the plays. Each play is entirely different as to atmosphere, lighting and setting. Look over your program again and ask yourself whether you can afford to be absent. Thirty-five cents buys a good seat. Have you bought your ticket?

Supt. Simley at National Convention.

Mr. Simley left last Friday evening for Chicago to attend the Nation Convention of School Superintendents. All the important superintendents of the states and municipalities will attend—about six thousand in number. This conference meets from Feb. 28 to March 3 inclusive. The work taken up will be national. Mr. Simley will probably return next Sunday morning enroute through the twin cities.

Patriotic Program.

Washington's birthday and National Song week were appropriately observed at the high school last Wednesday by a special program, which was given under the supervision of Miss Johnson.

The program was opened by the orchestra with two selections, "America First" and "Liberty Sons," following which Mrs. Korstad read a paper entitled, "Colonial Virginia and George Washington." She outlined the conditions in Virginia at the time Washington lived, showing the vast differences from what the present generation enjoys. She pictured the life of the people; the few towns, and entire lack of large cities; the lack of means of communication, and the consequent partial isolation from the rest of the world. She traced his life through the troubled period preceding and during the revolution, when he showed the leadership which later entitled him to the laurels bestowed on him as the United States' first president. His position was a difficult one, for the country had a poorly organized government and was in sad straits as a result of the war. The man was equal to the task, however, and George Washington piloted the ship of state successfully through the next eight years. He refused to accept a third term as chief executive and retired to Mount Vernon, where he died two years later.

Six of the grade pupils, who came from the Washington school, contributed to the program with two songs, which were received with much applause.

A new and humorous version of the "hatchet and cherry tree" incident was given by Shirley Anderson. She responded to an encore with "Speak Yentle."

The next was a patriotic overture by the orchestra, followed by a paper on "The Star Spangled Banner" by Nora Lindquist, giving a short history of the author and the circumstances under which the song was composed. In a like manner, Kermit Anderson spoke on "The Battle Hymn of the Republic;" Esther Larson, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," and Edna Alexander, the song "Dixie."

The entire student body joined in singing several of the more patriotic songs, following which Muriel Loken spoke briefly about the circumstances attending the composition of "Yankee Doodle." Liv Vistaunet, Thelma Christenson and John Hendry spoke a few words about "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," "Tenting Tonight," and "The Marseillaise," respectively.

The program closed with two songs by the pupils, "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," and "America."

Mr. Clark Speaks.

Monday afternoon, Henry Clark, who was in the city under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion, addressed the high school students on the subject of education. He defined education as the development of that which is. The present tendency is away from uniformity and towards individuality. Recognize that you have possibilities and capabilities; co-operate with your teacher in bringing out your powers. Education is a voyage of discovery. Mr. Clark's talk bustled with witty remarks and was much appreciated by his audience.

A Big Event.

"All the world's a stage
And the men and women merely players."

Thus it was Saturday night at the auditorium when the students of Lincoln high school and the faculty of Thief River Falls assembled at the annual "get-together" party. The affair was in the nature of a masquerade, and all the guests played the game well.

The fore part of the evening was spent in a general promenade to decide "Who's Who." Otto Saugen, as a "hayseed farmer," proved to be quite popular with the girls, who liked to take him by the arm and strol. Twin rag dolls were among the principal features, as well as a living Christmas tree. A "real" gentleman with a plug hat and a tuxedo coat had a "real" Martha Washington for a partner. Miss Stavig and Mrs. Korstad as sunbonnet girls walked about the place backwards. Mr. Powley as Robin Hood, Mr. Stenhoff as a Spanish troubadour, and Miss Berg as a young mandarin were quite the fad. During a lull, Miss Webster as a mother and Miss Soule as a colored baby rushed in, the mother wheeling the baby and her paraphernalia in a perambulator. This particular event caused much merriment throughout the whole evening. Miss Baumann rendered a solo dance, which was much appreciated. This was followed by a minuet dance by two Martha Washingtons, Camille Warner and Helen Vance. The grand march was quite the thing and continued while the judges meditated upon the best costumes. Prizes were awarded as follows:

For the most original group, Margaret and Thomas Melgaard took the prize as "Twin Rag Dolls." Elva Effinger, a little Freshman girl, was awarded the prize for the most original girl's costume. It was in the nature of a "real" Christmas tree. Nora Lindquist received the prize for having the most original boy's costume. Stephen Arneson was chosen as the most comical boy and Harriet Morgan was the most comical girl, the former in the role of a darky preacher and the latter as "Wild and Wooly."

The class stunts made the "hit" of the evening. The sophomore stunt showed that even "nuts" could act, or in other words could be everything in a one-act play. The senior stunt was in the nature of a musical treat, with Nora Lindquist as the "spokesman." The chief feature of this was a minuet dance by Larsonova (Milton Larson) and Ralstonova (Forrest Ralston), who rightly deserve the applause they received. The junior stunt was a skit in letters. Lorrayne Crandall as M L E and Kermit Anderson as E Z K I eloped against the wishes of their parents. The whole affair was extremely clever, as you would expect from the juniors. Last, but not least was the freshman stunt. This showed the guests how to furnish a house with only boys and blankets.

After the class stunts refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served. This put new life into the guests and for the remaining hour dancing was indulged in by those who wished to dance. This proved to be most delightful to the dancers and to the onlookers. A special feature was a lemon dance which caused much amusement. Shortly before twelve the strains of "Home, Sweet Home" gave way to the departure.

The costumes as a whole were most original and it was especially difficult for the judges, consisting of Mr. Rapaez, Mrs. L. G. Larsen and Dr. Froehlich, to decide who should receive the prizes. The boys were the most difficult to judge because of being so much alike.

The whole affair has been voted an eminent success and much of the credit must be given to Miss Maude Johnson, who as chairman of the teachers' committee on arrangements managed the party as successfully as a highly trained circus manager.

Notes, Jokes and Personals.

Supt. Simley left for Chicago last Friday evening to attend the annual meeting of the National Educational association.

William Herrick, a member of the junior class, has left school to join the army.

Mr. Rapaez: "Who is the chief executive of the U. S., Esther Williams?"

Esther: (drowsily) "Mr Harner."

Mr. Harner was immediately notified of the appointment, but he declined the honor.

A Correction.

Through an oversight, last week's issue of The Progress was headed by the Junior Progress staff. The issue was really put out by the seniors, but the seniors were the ones who were "put out." However, we will all read that issue once more and credit the seniors with all the good that we cand find in it.

After a four weeks vacation, during which time each class edited one number of The Progress, the regular staff has again resumed the work, with Mr. Rapaez as faculty advisor during Mr. Simley's absence.

Thursday and Friday the eight best teams of this district meet in Crookston to determine the district basketball championship. The Thief River Falls team will be one of the strong contenders for the title.

Miss Violette Krohn returned to school Monday after a week's illness.

Eleanor Werstlein is again with us after a three weeks absence on account of appendicitis.

After a months' illness, Clarence Smith has returned to school with the same old smile.

If the few cases of absence on Monday were caused as a result of the masquerade party, we hope the patients were not in a serious condition.

A majority of the high school students enjoyed Mr. Clark's reading, "Go-Getter," which was delivered at the city auditorium Monday evening.

The instruction in class "B" of the Bread club should be of great benefit to those who are preparing themselves for cement-mixers, brick-layers and foundry workers.

We understand that Miss Soule plans on starting a chicken farm right along the west side of the high school building. The Boys' Bread club will furnish the chicken feed, which can be thrown out through the open window for convenience.

Sidelights at the Masquerade Party.

Mrs. Korstad: Wearing her ten-year-old daughter's dress in the role of a sun-bonnet girl.

Albert Stengelson: Flirting with an attractive gypsy girl who proved to be a married lady when she unmasked.

Lloyd Bennes: The most winsome boy girl at the party.

Robert Halvorson: He made a good looking girl, but he was not a very good girl.

Lloyd Alnes: Mistaken for Leon Trotsky, the war lord of Russia.

Miss Baumann: Just arrived from Paris.

Otto Saugen: Too popular with the ladies.

Mr. Stenhoff: What a pretty costume he had.

Mrs. Larson: A scare-crow that any corn farmer would like to have.

Thief River Defeats Warroad

Last Tuesday evening, Feb. 21, the high school basketball team scored its second victory over the Warroad team by a score of 31 to 10. This game, although not the best of the season, was interesting from start to finish due to the fact that the Thief River Falls team showed real team work. Our boys had the Warroad squad outclassed all the way through, and knowing this they gave the visitors the benefits of any doubts in playing an exceptionally clean game. They kept their strength in reserve for the harder battle with the Stephen squad the following Friday.

Clifford Sorenson starred for the locals with seven field goals. Forest E. Ralston was a little off form in shooting, but otherwise he was always there. This victory was much sought after as it boosted Thief River Falls from ninth place to sixth place in the district standing, thus giving our team the right to compete for the district title at Crookson March 2 and 3. The lineup was as follows: Ralston and C. Sorenson, forwards; LaBree, center; S. Sorenson and Herron, guards. Keene, Shetlor and Arnold were also used during the latter part of the game. G. W. Connell refereed the game with satisfaction to all concerned.—A. L. '22.

Stephen vs. Thief River Falls.

The local basketball fans were shown last Friday evening that our high school team as well as the city team can put up an interesting game.

The Stephen game was full of thrills and spectacular plays from start to finish. Stanley Sorenson played his best in this game, making two field goals on top of his excellent work at guard.

The Stephen players were guarded so carefully that they scarcely had a shot at their basket the first quarter, while Thief River scored six points.

Then it seemed our boys became overconfident. They began to guard their opponents less carefully and tried to run up their score. As a result Stephen began to count and at the end of the first half the score stood only 10-9 in favor of Thief River Falls.

During the remainder of the game our boys did not do so well, while Stephen enjoyed horseshoe luck in shooting long baskets. As individuals our boys all played very well but they lacked team work, which was responsible for their defeat. Stephen gained a small lead which our boys seemed unable to overcome, the final score being 23-17 in favor of Stephen.

This was the hardest fought game of the season as well as the roughest. Many fouls were called on the Stephen team for rough work but Forest was not able to make these count. Mr. Connell, who refereed the game, deserves a great deal of credit for the way he handled this contest.

Due to the late arrival of the train, which was delayed by the storm, the game was not played until 10 o'clock. However, the crowd was well entertained by the junior and senior teams in an interesting preliminary.

Seniors Have Strong Team.

It looks as though the seniors are the most likely to romp away with the inter-class basketball championship. They have a strong lineup and should they continue in the same form they displayed last Friday evening in the clash with the juniors, preliminary to the Stephen game, they will be hard to beat. They displayed good team work as well as good individual playing. They really looked good enough for a regular high school team. They ought to try their metal against the regulars in a post-season game.

Gregory Werstlein was the star, doing excellent work at center and scoring four field goals. Bernard Bischoff and Paul Helseth played at the forward positions, the former scoring two field goals and the latter three. Fred Paulson and August Langseth made a stone wall for the juniors at the guard positions. The lineup for the juniors consisted of Craig H., Raymond M., Lloyd L., Friedolph G. and Henry V., with Allison Stitt as substitute. The game, which was interesting from beginning to end, resulted in an easy victory for the seniors, 20 to 8.

Inter-Class Basketball.

There is an unusual interest in inter-class basketball, and there are promises of spectacular games in the near future. The different classes have been grooming their respective teams during the past few weeks in preparation for the inter-class tournament which will take place after the close of the regular schedule. The gymnasium is in constant use every day between four and six o'clock, and on Saturdays the gymnasium is open from nine o'clock to twelve o'clock for the benefit of the grade boys under the supervision of one of the men members of the high school faculty. Coach Stenhoff is in charge of this basketball program, which furnishes such good exercise and wholesome entertainment for about 200 boys. Other members of the faculty who assist Mr. Stenhoff are Mr. Jardine, Mr. Harner, Mr. Pope, Mr. Rapaez, and Mr. Powley. Mr. Saltau also has certain evenings set aside for the Boy Scouts.

The high school faculty also plans on having a team to add to the interest in the coming tournament. They are going to play the winners of the inter-class tournament. The probable members of the team are Mr. Stenhoff, Mr. Rapaez, Mr. Pope, Mr. Simley and Mr. Powley, with Mr. Jardine and Mr. Harner as substitutes. The faculty team should be able to take the winning team into camp rather easily in view of the fact that the five regulars have all had considerable experience. Mr. Powley is considered the star of the team, having been one of the most dependable players on the Q. T. team of the University of Michigan. Mr. Stenhoff and Mr. Rapaez should be a great scoring machine at the forward position, both having had considerable experience in the game while in college. Watch for the date of this game and don't let your other plans interfere with seeing this exhibition.

Our Winter.

The amount of snow we have makes the study of "Snowbound" more interesting. Although we are not penned in, the snow is too deep for convenience in places. It has become quite a pastime to sit by the fire and tell stories, or read them out of books. At other times we get games such as "Tiddly Winks" or a "Cootie Game." We find that the loose snow hides all sorts of fun such as skiing, sleighing, and digging tunnels in drifts or building snow huts. Then we come into a whole field of corn that is in blossom.

But the fire will not last forever and a day. We hear, "Delton, we're low on wood," "Delton, the stove is full of ashes," "Delton, the water is all gone," "Delton, we need some more ice," then my air castles tumble with a crash that makes me jump. Sometimes I say to myself, "Aw, what's the use!"—Delton Rhodes.

Mr. Glick Speaks.

G. G. Glick, a member of the Minnesota Tidewater commission, addressed the high school pupils at chapel last Wednesday, speaking on the proposed Duluth-to-Ocean improvement plan, which has had much attention in the last several years.

He first pointed out the necessity of such improvement, citing the fact that here we are fifteen hundred miles from an ocean port; that since we produce more, mainly of grain, than we can consume, it is necessary that we ship our surplus products to Europe; and that once there these must be sold in competition with from South America, whose export is grain. Argentine need not transport her wheat long distances by rail, and therefore can offer it in foreign ports at a price lower than our own.

Two of the objections which have been raised in regard to the deepening and widening of the St. Lawrence are the difficulties which will be encountered at Niagara Falls and the rapids near Montreal. "We can not go over them," said Mr. Glick, "but we can go around them." Canals would be constructed at these two points, which would make it possible for ocean ships to ascend the St. Lawrence to points on the Great Lakes.

The expense of such an undertaking would amount to approximately two hundred seventy million dollars, half of which would be borne by the United States and half by Canada.

Despite its seemingly tremendous economic value, this plan has many strong opponents who are doing everything in their power to hinder its fulfilment. New York, said Mr. Glick, is furnishing, for reasons that are mainly selfish, the strongest opposition to any governmental action, because a large part of the export and import business now done through New York would in all probability be diverted to the new route.

Other objections are voiced by Gov. Miller of New York, who states that the waterways would be closed by ice eight months in the year; but nature has ordained that eight months shall elapse between the passage of the last ship in the fall and the first in the spring. Gov. Miller also brought forth the argument that there would be danger from icebergs which might close the entrance to the canal, and from fogs and storms. As explained by Mr. Glick, it is impossible for icebergs to ascend the St. Lawrence upstream, while the danger from fogs and storms would be no greater there than on the ocean. A commission composed of Canadian and United States officials have investigated the plan and have found it entirely feasible.

Practically all of the middle northwest states are actively supporting the proposed improvement, as it would mean a saving of three hundred million dollars to the farmers alone. The decision as to whether or not the undertaking will be carried out now rests with the Federal Relations committee.

Mr. Glick is a very entertaining speaker and presented his facts with a clearness which appealed strongly to the pupils. Speakers of his caliber are always welcome at school.

Class "B" of Bread Club Meets.

Class "B" of the Bread club, composed of boys and girls who have not taken domestic science, succeeded in making some date muffins that they would like to have the world know about.

Last Thursday at 4 o'clock the awkward squad assembled in the cooking room, where they were told a few fundamentals, after which no time was lost in putting these to the test. In a few minutes everybody in the room was working with something which looked like anything from soup to plaster of paris. Each one was striving for the same outcome—date muffins. Some mixtures were brown while others were yellow, many had lumps in soup-like mixture and everyone was cooking to his own taste. The atmosphere was rather unusual for a kitchen; pans were dropped, milk was spilled and bits of dough adhered to the clothes of the novices.

When the time came for the mixture to be put in the oven, it was rumored that a few forgot to oil the pans. There was much speculation as to the outcome and everybody was boosting the home product until the final product was brought from the oven. Some muffins resembled an old bed spring; they sagged in the middle. The greater portion were well suited for cobble stones.

The washing of the utensils was the slipperiest part of the program. Boys who were not used to washing dishes were forced to profess their ignorance. No dishes were broken but I have been requested to beg the pardon of the cooking girls who find egg on any of their utensils. However, where there is life there is hope and so we expect to do better next time.—S. A.

A LETTER FROM HOME TO MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

Editor Times:

The write-up of Mr. H. O. Berve published in your last week's issue was read with much interest and great satisfaction.

Mr. Berve, in calling our attention to this matter, as to whether or not a new party should be started, is doing us all thereby a great service as this matter should receive consideration at the hands of every right thinking man and woman in the course of the next few weeks.

The farmers have been a little slow about giving this matter the attention that it should have had, owing to the fact that many of them had great faith in the Harding agricultural conference outcome, while still others thought they saw prospects of relief through the Farm Bureau lineup, and for this reason they laid low. Realizing now that neither the one nor the other will or can bring the desired results, it is up to the farmers themselves to do a little thinking along the political line and also otherwise.

The farmers are all in the same fix, and they fully realize that nothing short of a harmonious notional adjustment embracing all producing activities, will or can restore contentment and prosperity to the people and the country as a whole.

The gambling in farm products and foodstuffs must be abolished. It is up to congress to see that both the producer and consumer shall be protected.

The farmers have been swindled and robbed to a point where the final limit has been reached. Rather than to stand up and permit this system to go on they will simply get up and walk away from their farms.

There is but one thing that will insure the broad basket of the world being supplied hereafter and that is a stabilized price set to the producer over and above the cost of production. The government guarantee is the one thing alone that offers any inducement to the farmers to keep up production. The farmers haven't said much yet but they are not sleeping. The ten, twenty, thirty and forty acre farm question is receiving a lot of consideration at the hands of the farmers at the present time all over the country.

The agricultural problem is the most vital question before congress today, and upon this adjustment rests the matter as to whether or not a new party must be started in order to solve the problems of the day. If congress knew or could read the minds of the farmers on agricultural problems, they would not think of spending their time as they now do, dancing "tango in politics" in our senate halls at a time when the world is crying for bread. Give us what the people demand—the government guarantee—and do so at once so that the farmers can prepare in time for seed and the planting of the grain. The limit in politics has been reached in passing up the farmers. Act, or the farmers' wrath will be aroused, and a real house cleaning job must take place at once which will wind up in Washington, D. C.

Have You Stopped to Think—

That the city that has the publicity gets the business?

That the city that gets the advertising grows?

That advertising properly done is worth its weight in gold?

That advertising a city is business, not a child's play?

That people will go miles to get to a good live city to trade in?

That your property will increase in value when the outside world knows your city is wide awake?

That people from the neighboring towns will come when there is something doing?

That the city that does not seek to get something better than it now has is going to lose out?

That now is the time your city and businesses need advertising more than ever before?

That if you don't get out and go after the outside trade some other neighboring city will?

That if they do they will get the business you should get.

The Family Budget

The December issue of the "Dynamo," a magazine published by the J. C. Penney company, 370 Seventh avenue, New York city, contained an article of more than passing interest. Prof. Morton, the writer, dealt with a very timely topic, "The Family Budget," and in these days when strict economy should become the habit of 99 per cent of the families, it would be well if the spirit of the facts of the article might be understood and practiced by a larger number of American families.

Believing this article will prove beneficial as well as be appreciated by readers of The Times, it is herewith published in full. Prof. Morton says:

Every family should have a budget. Every family should spend its income systematically. The smallest income leaves no room for careless and thoughtless spending. Even large incomes need to be managed carefully, if they are to be properly conserved and leave a margin for safe investment.

The family, then, should have a budget to guide its expenditures and should plan for savings and investment. The budget is the spending plan of the family and careful adherence to it should mean ultimate accumulation of some tangible evidence of thrift in investments and provision for education of children and protection for old age and the period of lessened earning capacity.

The government thinks this subject so important that it has issued a pamphlet urging the housewives of America to adopt the budget system in family bookkeeping. It has adopted the budget system and has asked General Dawes, an experienced banker and financier, to establish the proper budget. The result already indicates that a considerable saving will accrue to the government. Magazines and newspapers are advocating the adoption of the budget for family finances and the American Bankers association is now distributing information on this same subject.

Alexander C. Robinson says: The family, not the individual, is the unit of which the nation and civilization are built. Everything depends on the education and nurture of the next generation in normal, happy and reasonably prosperous homes. The war has brought enormous unsettling factors, a mental state of unrest and extravagance of all classes which is most demoralizing. Added to these there has been a wanton waste of capital in the war which demands the rebuilding of capital reserve to permit the rebuilding of a devastated world. It is largely to the savings of the average American family that we must look for this new capital.

We give herewith a number of suggestive budgets. These are based on monthly incomes of $75, $100, $125, $175, $200, $225 and $250. The monthly budget is suggested because most people would rather have a monthly expenditure program. The monthly budget allows more frequent comparison and checking of expenditures. The budgets given are shown at the bottom of this page.

Some provision for savings is urged, even with the lowest income, for the habit of saving should be developed from the very first. The savings, as proposed in these budgets, increase about 1 per cent per month until the income reaches $125 per month, when it is suggested that the same percentage be used until the income reaches $200 per month. At $250 per month, the savings are placed at 10 per cent. The amount savings thus is increased with the increased income.

The insurance item in the budget is considered a real necessity. It is actually an addition to the savings, at least for the amount of the cash surrender or loan value each year. This amount increases with every additional premium paid.

Provision is made for health, charity and amusement. All these things should be carefully considered and some place provided for them in every family budget. As the income grows, the percentage allowed for these items may be lowered.

Education is separately provided for, because every family should have available some educational reading matter. When there are children, it is always necessary to supply playthings, books, encyclopaedias and other items of an educational nature.

Fuel, water and light are shown apart from the rent budget. It is often advisable to keep comparative records for these items and each should be provided for monthly. In the summer months ice will replace fuel, for ice is a summer necessity in most sections of the country.

The clothing budget, we think, is fair and should be adequate for the family of average size and income. We think of a family of five in proposing these budgets.

The miscellaneous budget is to take care of extra items which are bound to occur in every household, such as laundry, household help, telephone, additions to furniture or repair of furniture, new light bulbs, light mantels, occasional plumbing repairs and supplies of various kinds. This item is decreased in percentage but the amount allowed will not be materially decreased as the income becomes larger.

U. S. Labor Bureau statistics indicate that the average income for a family of the size we have assumed is $1,434.36 per year or $119.53 per month. This figure is close to the $125 per month income figure and we use the same percentage for that budget. The monthly budget for this income, using approximate figures, would be:

Rapid Progress Reported on All River Projects

In response to inquiries being received by members of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy board, the secretary, A. O. Brevik, St. Hilaire, announces that every effort is being made to hasten progress on both the Clearwater and Red Lake river drainage projects. It is fully realized that the proposed improvements cannot be completed too soon in order to prevent future losses from floods overflowing the banks of these streams and destroying valuable farm crops. At the same time there has been a great deal of detailed work connected with them as well as correspondence with the United States government departments that have taken considerable time.

As soon as the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy district was organized definite plans were begun to get something done. A year's time elapsed in securing the necessary congressional action and a few months additional afterwards were required to complete the surveys. This work was completed last fall and was followed immediately by placing the Clearwater project in the hand of the viewers. Their report will be ready for action by the board of directors of the district at a meeting to be held March 7. Indian lands are included in the Clearwater project also, which requires that the Bureau of Indian Affairs shall pass on the plans and the proposed assessments, after which the project can be brought to a final hearing.

Red Lake Project.

The plans for the Red Lake project involve a modification of the levels of the Red Lakes. A preliminary conference at Bemidji and a conference held at Washington on the matter of these levels resulted in preliminary plans being sent to the Indian Bureau at Washington on Dec. 31, last. These plans have been before that department since that time with frequent exchange of letters between W. H. Reed, drainage engineer of the Bureau, and Adolf M. Meyer, the drainage board's consulting engineer.

On Feb. 18 Mr. Reed stated that an agreement would doubtless be arrived at within a short time. If this agreement is received before March 7, the board will have the Red Lake project also up for discussion and settlement at their meeting. Viewers can then be appointed, final plans completed and everything placed in readiness for the final hearing.

Engineer Walker has been busy preparing the final report on the Clearwater project, with the result that it will be ready for action on March 7. It is a comprehensive study of the entire matter and involves shortening the channel from 143 to 47 miles.

The Red Lake project has been pushed continuously and vigorously ever since the district was organized. It will be remembered that it was necessary, first, to secure funds from the State legislature for the survey, and also federal action from congress providing for the co-operation of the War and Interior departments. Legal and engineering details have proceeded as rapidly as possible.

Delays Unavoidable.

There is always some impatience voiced against the many legal steps and engineering details that are unavoidable in drainage projects of this size. The people interested should bear in mind that the work has been pushed as rapidly as possible. Great progress has been made during the time they have been before the board. When it is known that for 28 years preceding the organization of the drainage and conservancy district nothing was done excepting to pass congressional resolutions and send out a dozen reports, the progress now made in this work is more than satisfactory.

The members of the Red Lake drainage board are merely servants of the people in promoting these projects. They have considered every step carefully. It has required time for making the surveys and plans. This could not be shortened without sacrificing accuracy and thoroughness. As matters now stand final hearings will be set soon. Detailed time to time in order that the people interested may know what is being done. This has been the policy of the board because of the public interest taken in its work.

A Country Newspaper's Problem.

(Levang's Weekly, Lanesboro.)

There isn't a day that the publisher of the Lanesboro paper is not confronted with this opinion expressed by someone: "Everything else is coming down in price—it's time to cut down your subscription price and your advertising rates."

Herman Roe, the publisher of the Northfield News, is evidently having the same experience as the publisher of Levang's, and he explains why it can't be done in the following editorial:

Receipts from advertising and subscriptions during 1921 fell short of meeting the cost of producing the cost of producing the Northfield News by $1,663.20.

The cost—including mechanical and editorial expense—of producing an average issue of The News during 1921 was $275.

The total receipts from subscriptions at two dollars a year would pay the cost of producing nine issues of The News.

Advertising receipts must make up the balance—and in 1921 the revenue from this source fell considerably short of meeting the total cost of production.

If subscribers were to pay an amount needed to meet the cost of production, the subscription rate in 1921 would have been $7.65.

Confronted by this situation—which is typical in the country newspaper field—publishers cannot reduce subscription rates, no matter how keenly they might wish to do so, without courting financial disaster. Neither can a cut in advertising rates be introduced until production costs decline. This cannot be brought about quickly as trained printers are not a drug on the market, in fact, for years this has been an underpaid profession to such an extent that now recruits were not attracted to it. During the war printers' wages reached a level somewhat commensurate with the intelligence and the years of training required to become proficient in the trade.

The only item entering into the cost of producing a newspaper that has show a material reduction since the war is paper, and in the case of a country weekly of the standard of The News this item represents 1-27th of the total cost.

Farmers and merchants may have their problems but the publishers of newspapers have a few to worry about also.

'Bout the only difference 'tween a naggin' woman an' a buzz saw, sez Al Snyder, is that a feller c'n stop a buzz saw.

Wabasha Herald: If President Harding wants to hit any blocks, why don't he hit the blockheads in the senate? Why wreak all his wrath on the farm bloc?

A PLACE FOR EVERYTHING.

Morris Tribune: A St. Cloud flivver is reported to have run 14 miles on a pint of moonshine, and made two Packards and a Cadillac apologize for getting in the way. This fable teaches that the place for moonshine is inside the car instead of inside the driver.

THAT WORD "AFFORD."

Sanford, Florida, Herald: When a merchant talks about "affording" advertising, he is getting ready for the live merchant to take his trade away from him. People do not "afford" advertising any more than the man who needs a suit of clothes "affords" them. It is not a question of "affording" advertising—it is a vital necessity.

ALSO HAVE THEIR TROUBLES.

Warroad Pioneer: Speaking of Mr. Rockefeller and his kind—the owners of big capital—it is perhaps well to remember that they suffer from indigestion more often than the rest of us, that they have to wear a starched collar every day and that they don't sleep well for fear that someone is putting something over on them in an effort to separate them from some of their cash. And when life's journey is over they haven't any reserved seats for the hereafter.

THE IRISH AND THE SWEDES.

Northfield News: And now that Ireland has been given back to Ireland by the English, if the Swedes will give Minneapolis back to Minnesota we'll start out in 1922 with a united world.

SHOULD HAVE A CARE.

Princeton Union: That Washington correspondent who, in speaking of the tariff discussion, said it was a procession "moving through the committee room of the senate, every man with his hand out," had better be careful. He is altogether too observant and is liable to be excluded from the sessions.

A FABLE.

Winnebago City Enterprise: Once upon a time a country publisher published an article that pleased everybody. Moral: It must have been an account of the editor's sudden death.

YOU CAN HELP!

Winnebago City Enterprise: You can help make business better.

If every one of us will "carry on" as usual, normal conditions will soon prevail.

Money that is hoarded is not going to bring about a resumption of active business in this fair land.

It is a fine thing to be economical, but stinginess is a downright vice. Let's buy the things we need today, and help to revive the merry-go-round of business.

A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

Montevideo News: A Thief River Falls bank has just set aside $10,000 to be used in the purchase of high-grade dairy cows, the money to be loaned to farmers at the rate of six per cent interest. The bank officials have acted wisely, and they have taken the step in no charitable or generous mood but as a business proposition with an eye to the future. They know the value of the dairy cow to any community.

ONE OR THE OTHER.

Dassel Dispatch: It is plainly evident that they are making the skirts shorter or building the sidewalks lower.

Minnesota Historical Notes

Long Lost Civil War Diary Turns Up.

A battered old diary, filled with entries of the Civil War period, some of its pages almost illegible because of age, was recently presented to the Minnesota Historical Society. It was supposed to be the diary of Robert Lester Morris, who served as assistant surgeon of the Eleventh Minnesota.

Upon examination it was found that the handwriting in the first part of the diary was different from that of the remainder. Closer inspection revealed the fact that this part was a daily record of events relating to the First Minnesota up to the date of the battle of Bull Run, the entries closing with a list of men wounded in that battle. Civil War records failed to show Dr. Morris as a member of the First Minnesota.

The fly leaf of the diary was found to contain the name of "J. N. Searles, Hastings, Minnesota." This further complicated the problem, for the latter part of the booklet had certainly been kept by Dr. Morris. An examination of the roster of the First Minnesota disclosed the name of Jasper N. Searles as a recruit from Dakota county, and friends in Hastings identified him as Judge J. N. Searles of Stillwater.

"I presume the memorandum was one that I kept during the summer of 1860 and the following winter when our regiment, the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, was in our first camp after the first Bull Run battle," Judge Searles writes. "In the spring of 1862 we were sent to the Shenandoah Valley and thence to the Peninsula with Gen. McClellan and when we broke camp (our 'Camp Stone') I packed a lot of stuff in a trunk and stored it in a warehouse in Washington, but when I called for it on our return home in the spring of 1864 I could get no trace of it nor of the people who operated the warehouse. Perhaps they sold it for charges."

Interest in History on Increase.

No review of progress in Minnesota during the last two years would be complete without an account of the increasing interest in history. The great increase of enrollment in classes in history at the university, the volume of historical books being used in the public libraries, and the rapid growth of the State historical society all indicate the same reaction.

"The World War was perhaps the greatest factor in causing this growth of interest," says Solon J. Buck, superintendent of the Minnesota Historical Society. "The sudden realization that we were not an isolated nation, that our destinies are involved in those of other countries, has changed our point of view. The interest in economic problems has also aroused a desire for information on the development of similar problems in the past. People are realizing that history is to the community what memory is to the individual. It is the starting point for all future progress."

The State historical society has increased its membership by fifty per cent in 1921, according to Mr. Buck, while the number of people taking advantage of the resources of the society has increased in proportion. "Books to the number of 17,000 were used during the year by readers in the library as compared with 10,000 used in 1920 and 6,000 used in 1919. The library now contains 147,000 books and pamphlets."

The manuscript division of the society also shows a remarkable growth. The papers of early governors and of many territorial pioneers have been added to the collections. The newspaper department, with the regular receipt of over 400 Minnesota publications, is steadily building up a collection of extreme value.

"Approximately 30,000 visitors inspected the exhibits in the museum during the last year," Mr. Buck reports, "while the already large collection of museum material has been increased by a number of important donations. A popular feature of the work of this division has been the 'history hour' classes for children. These classes are conducted by members of the staff to acquaint the children with the exhibits in the museum and to teach them the history of the state."

Tawney Papers to Be Preserved For History.

The papers of the late James A. Tawney of Winona, congressman from the first Minnesota district from 1893 to 1911 and member of the International Joint Commission from 1911 to his death in 1919, have recently been added to the collections of papers of prominent state leaders in the custody of the Minnesota Historical Society. Congressman Tawney will long be remembered as a national figure in politics, prominent in his party and the many important measures he advocated before Congress.

Copies of speeches and written articles form a large part of the collection, which was presented by the congressman's son, Everett T. Tawney of Winona. An article on the "Duty of a Great Independent Newspaper," written in 1908, could well have been a forerunner of the present international conference in Washington. "The chief duty of a great independent newspaper during the next decade is, or should be, to combat the alarming tendency in this country toward paternalism and militarism. . . . When we remember that almost sixty-five per cent of the government's revenue, exclusive of postal receipts, is today being spent to meet the cost of wars past and anticipated, the seriousness of the frantic rushing to the front as a great military power is alarming."

In a less serious mood Mr. Tawney gave his recollection of the battle of Gettysburg. On the third day of the battle his home, which was being used as a hospital, was shelled by the enemy. "It was saved by the act of a Union soldier, who unfurled his sister's red flannel petticoat, with my fishing rod as a staff, from the highest chimney on the house."

Among the official papers is the original document, signed by President Taft in 1911, appointing Congressman Tawney a member of the International Joint Commission, a body created for the settlement of disputes relating to boundary waters between the United States and Canada. Letters from prominent political leaders, clippings, and several diaries also form an important part of the papers.

Congressman Tawney was born near Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, on Jan. 3, 1855. He came to Minnesota in 1877 and settled in Winona. In 1882 he was admitted to the bar after six years of hard study and constant application. His political career began in 1890, when he was elected to the state senate from a district that was strongly Democratic at that time. In 1893 he entered Congress as a representative, and he served for nine successive terms.

Lost Counties of Minnesota.

To create a new county in the territory of Minnesota in the early days appears to have been as simple a process as the present method of creating money in soviet Russia. The territorial legislature, in establishing counties and definite boundaries, often disregarded previous acts, apparently trusting to divine Providence to settle all resulting difficulties.

Judge C. L. Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, in a paper read at the last annual meeting of the Minnesota Historical Society, tells of the confusion resulting from this practice. "Lines overlapped and crossed, and it was in many instances difficult for one to know in what county he really lived, or whether he had been shifted from one to another following the creation of some new county.

"Pierce County, created in 1853, named for President Franklin Pierce, adjoined Nicollet county, Davis County, undoubtedly named for Jefferson Davis, . . created in 1855, lay north and west of Renville and Carver Counties," Judge Brown stated. Both were lost in the creation of new counties including the same territory. "Newton county, created in 1855, originally named Doty County, included the greater part of the present territory of St. Louis County, but dropped out of sight when that county was later created. Buchannan County, established in 1857, named for President Buchannan, bordered on the St. Croix River in the northeast part of the territory, with Fortuna as a county seat . . . This territory is now mainly within Pine County. Munroe County, created in 1858, named for President Munroe, lay south of Mille Lacs Lake, and had Princeton as its county seat. Princeton for many years was the county seat of Mille Lacs County, which includes much if not all of the old Munroe County territory.

"Big Sioux and Midway counties were created in the territorial days, and out of territory now a part of South Dakota adjoining on the west the present Rock and Pipestone counties. They were both put out of commission by the act of Congress defining the state boundries.

"As originally created Ramsey County was quite large and extended north to the Mille Lacs region, embracing practically all the present territory of Anoka, Mille Lacs, Isanti, and Kanabec counties. In the creation of other counties in that part of the state a small tract of land, probably two or three townships, belongin to and forming a part of Ramsey County, was cut off and left high and dry in the Mille Lacs county 60 or 70 miles from home base. . . This was later corrected by adding the land to some adjoining territory."

NAME VIEWERS FOR RED LAKE DRAIN PROJECT

Work of Assessing Benefits and Damages to Begin Soon as Weather Will Permit.

O. L. Ihle of Thief River Falls Appointed One of Viewers By Commissioners.

Most Important Stretch to Be Covered Extends From Highlanding to This City.

At a meeting of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy commission held at Crookston on Tuesday, viewers for the Red Lake project were appointed as follows: O. L. Ihle, Thief River Falls; Andrew Christianson, Mentor; F. S. Erdman, St. Hilaire. They will begin work as soon as it is possible to get onto the land.

The board of viewers will make a thorough inspection of all lands affected by the proposed improvement of the lake and river and assess damages or benefits to each piece of property. Their principal field of operations will be from Highlanding to Thief River Falls as that is the section through which the river will have to be deepened and straightened, but their work will also cover the reservation and lands on all sides of the Red lakes.

A large part of the work of the viewers will be confined to the territory lying north of the Red Lake river and extending to State Road No. 2, and extending to the east line of Highlanding township. Lands lying north of the state road will be but slightly affected, if at all, as the water in that section finds its way through Ditches 18 and 20 to the Thief river. Little of the territory to the south of the river is involved in this particular project, the Clearwater division of the undertaking extending to within a short distance of the Red Lake river for a large part of the distance.

Plan Fully Discussed.

The Red Lake project was fully explained by State Engineer E. V. Willard and C. G. Selvig, chairman of the board. It calls for a maximum lake level of from 1173 to 1174 feet and a minimum of 1171.5 feet. These figures have been approved by the several departments interested in Washington as properly caring for all interests—Indian, farming, navigation, water power and sanitation.

Report on Clearwater.

The report of the viewers on the Clearwater project was accepted and referred to President Selvig and Attorney Charles Boughton for submission to the Indian bureau with reference to the assessments against reservation lands.

The date for a final hearing on the Grand Marais project was set for April 11 at Crookston.

Detailed plans for the dam at the outlet of Red Lake and the deepening of the channel of the Red Lake river will be rushed, according to members of the commission, who are of the opinion that actual work may be commenced on the project during the present season.

Agreement Reached.

An agreement was reached on Saturday by officials of the Indian bureau and Adolph Meyer, engineer of the Red Lake conservancy district, on the plans for the Red Lake river drainage project. They were submitted to Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall on Monday, and will go later to Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and with the approval of these two heads of departments the work may be commenced.

W. M. Reed, engineer of the Indian bureau, said that the main feature of the proposed plans was the dam to the outlet of Red lake for the preservation of the lake level.

"The fisheries' rights of the Indians had to be protected and the controlling works will be constructed with that end in view," said Mr. Reed. "We have provided that the dam shall be of heavy construction, so that it may be used as a roadway and for vehicular and foot traffic, and also for any railroad that may desire to use it in the future. The project as approved will take care of all interests along the river, including power development, drainage for agricultural purposes, water supply for the towns along the river, and sanitation."

Personal Property Tax Payments Show Decrease

Personal property tax collections for the year closing the first of March were about $5,000 below the corresponding period a year ago, according to County Treasurer John Gullingsrud. During the month of February a total of $56,322.58 was taken in over the counter and received through the mail at his office, the receipts for the last three days being $38,580.43. The smaller amount paid this year is explained by the fact that automobiles have been taken from the personal property list and subjected to special taxation. There are about 400 taxpayers—a little less than one-fifth of the entire number—who are listed as delinquent, having failed to get their payments in before the time specified by law for closing the books.

Buying Holstein Cattle For Dairymen of County

Hans Anton, president of the Thief River Co-operative Creamery association is this week attending the meeting of representatives of the state creameries at St. Paul. After the close of the sessions, Mr. Anton, accompanied by Math Barzen, will go to Northfield, where they intend to purchase 21 head of Holstein cattle for Pennington county dairymen. This is the first lot to be secured under the loan provisions recently announced by the First and Peoples State bank, the officers of which have a number of other applications for loans for the same purpose under consideration.

NONPARTISANS TO ELECT DELEGATES HERE TOMORROW

Expected That Candidate For State Senator Will Also Be Named at This Time.

Postponement of the Nonpartisan League state convention from March 17 to March 31 has been decided on by the Minnesota executive committee of the league. The Working People's Nonpartisan Political League has set its convention for March 31 and it is customary to have the two conventions meet the same day and take joint action.

The postponement is held to favor A. C. Townley's "balance of power" proposal as the Democratic state convention also is to meet March 31 in Minneapolis and the Republican convention in St. Paul the same day. With the conventions all in session at the same time the way is open for negotiation.

The Nonpartisan League precinct caucuses met last Saturday to select delegates to the county conventions. The county convention of the Pennington county Nonpartisan organization will be held on Friday afternoon, March 10, at the court house, for the purpose of naming delegates to the state convention the 31st. Following the usual custom it is also likely that the candidate for state senator will be named at that time. Candidates for the lower house will be chosen later by delegations representing the Nonpartisans of Red Lake and Clearwater counties.

Remmem Jury Disagrees; Court Adjourns to 28th

The jury in the case of the state against A. B. Remmem, charged with selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, reported a disagreement after being out all night and the greater part of a day, and was discharged. The case will be tried again at the June term of court.

Abel Best, one of the two colored men in the county and a resident of the extreme eastern end, was found not guilty of assault in the third degree by a jury on Friday. The offense was alleged to have been committed on the Fourth of July last. Moonshine, resulting in a neighborhood row, was the trouble.

Carl Swenson, accused of selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to the June term.

The case of Finch, VanSlych & McConville against Singer Bros. was decided in favor of the plaintiffs, the jury awarding judgment for $193.54.

The divorce case of Ole Omundson against Karen Omundson was heard on Friday and taken under advisement by the court.

Judge Grindeland is this week holding court at Mahnomen but will return to finish up the civil cases in this county on the 28th.

Beet Growers Meet Today.

H. H. Dana, agricultural expert in the employ of the Minnesota Sugar company, is in the city today and will meet with the beet growers of Pennington county at the Commercial club rooms this afternoon. An attempt will also be made to have Mr. Dana address the business men of the city at the club luncheon this noon.

LOSE FINAL GAME OF SEASON BY ONE LONE FREE THROW

Den E. Lanes of St. Paul Come Up From Behind and Win Unexpected Victory.

The Thief River Falls Athletics split even on a two-game series with the Den E. Lane team of St. Paul on Thursday and Friday evenings, winning the first by a score of 39 to 21 and losing the second, 31 to 30.

The Athletics should have won both games in spite of the fact that the visitors have a reputation second to none in the state. During the first game the latter never had a chance of winning, the locals getting a good margin early and adding to it as the game progressed. No outside talent was employed in this game, every member of the team being a home man, and for this reason considerable satisfaction was expressed over the outcome. Every man played in his very best form and it would be next to impossible to single out any particular star.

The locals had the second game salted away until within a few minutes of the end. The visitors rallied and came up from behind with a spurt of speed the Athletics seemed unable to stem because the class of attack was new to them. The tactics employed by the visitors were at times decidedly questionable, but were allowed to go without penalty in the interest of harmony.

Manager Connell announces that the basketball season so far as the Athletics are concerned is probably at an end. No other games are in sight at the present time and unless there is a contest of special interest offered it is not likely taht any further agreements will be entered into. The last few games have not been a success financially, the public interest having in a certain measure died out. The boys have put up a good brand of basketball and there is no fault found with the showing made, but the season is at an end and other interests will soon engage the attention of the fans.

Fancy Price Received For Yearling Holstein Bull

J. H. Hardesty & Son, Holstein breeders, living a short distance from Thief River Falls, on Friday shipped a purebred yearling bull to a party at Kreamer, N. D., the price paid for the animal being $200. While this is an exceptional price, there have been many shipments made of purebred animals by local men, both of the Holstein and Guernsey breeds, for which very good figures are reported.

Eight Debating Teams at High School Friday Night

An elimination contest in which the debating teams of eight high schools of Northwestern Minnesota will take part will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Friday evening. The teams will be composed of one boy and one girl from each of the following schools: Erskine, McIntosh, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire, Roseau, Lancaster, Warroad and Thief River Falls. Winners in this debate will be the district defenders in a state contest to be held later in the season. Ella Krohn and Hershel Hanson will represent the Thief River school on Friday evening.

For the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses an admission fee of 25 and 15 cents will be made. The public is cordially invited and assured that the evening will be one of both interest and enjoyment.

MUD LAKE LAND IS PROPERTY OF SHORE OWNERS

Judge Morris Decides Present Occupants Are Trespassers and Must Vacate.

Five Thousand Acres Valued at $50,000 to $75,00 and Settlers' Rights Involved.

Court Holds Title of Riparian Owners Following Receding Waters to Lake Center.

The lands in the Mud lake basin are the property of the holders of riparian rights along the original shore line of the lake, according to a decision handed down by Judge Page Morris at Minneapolis last Thursday. Should the decision be upheld on appeal it will mean that about 30 homesteaders who filed on lands made available by drainage will have to move off. Some of these have resided on the property four or five years and have considerable in the way of improvements, all of which will be a total loss.

Five thousand acres of land, valued at $50,000 to $75,000, are involved in the decision, which will at once be appealed, according to Theo. Quale of Thief River Falls, attorney for the present residents on the land. These holdings comprise what was formerly the bottom of Mud lake in Marshall county, and the final outcome is of great importance to all parties concerned as it means the loss of many years' work for the present occupants, most of whom are well known here, should it be sustained. The suit was brought by the United States government against the State Bank of Holt and others to determine title to the land. The government sets up the claim that as the land was originally Indian property and had been thrown open to settlement in the regular way, the present residents on the tracts, having filed in good faith and complied with the homestead laws, cannot now be ousted by the riparian claimants.

The court held that title to the land in the first place was held by the state in trust for the public and it was a navigable body of water. When the waters receded the riparian rights followed the shore line.

"The department of the interior will be notified of the decision and an appeal will probably be taken in the United States circuit court of appeals," William Anderson, assistant United States district attorney, said. "The department regards the case as important, as following drainage, the land was thrown open to entry and some 30 settlers took up claims."

High School Board Exams. For County March 30-31

The March high school board examinations will be given at the various examination points throughout the county on March 30 and 31, according to a notice sent out from the office of County Superintendent Geo. M. Gunderson. The subjects of grammar and composition, spelling and elementary American history will be given on March 30; arithmetic, geography and elementary American citizenship on the 31st. The examination will begin at 8 o'clock on both days.

This year 31 examination points have been granted, although the rule is one point for each township. Natural barriers, such as rivers, the poor roads at this season of the year and other drawbacks decided the department in granting 10 additional points at which examinations will be held.

Full particulars may be had by addressing Mr. Gunderson.

NO POLITICAL TALKS PERMITTED AT FARM BUREAU GATHERINGS

Resolutions Adopted at Recent State Meeting Would Bar Candidates and Others From Making Stump Orations to Members.

Officers and directors of county farm bureaus and township farm bureau units all over Minnesota are receiving a resolution adopted unanimously at the last meeting of the executive board of their state federation. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation has been organized and maintained as a non-political organization,

"Resolved, That the executive committee of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation recommends to all township unit directors and other farm bureau officers that they do not allow any candidate for political office, or any political speaker, to make any political address at any duly called farm bureau meeting, and

"Resolved, That the committee recommends that no county farm bureau association or township unit go on record as endorsing any candidate for political office."

20 Tons of Grass Seed Shipped From Goodridge

About twenty tons of grass seed has been shipped over the Minnesota Northwestern railroad from the Goodridge station this year and the seed season has only opened. It is conservatively figured that twice this amount will be sent to other sections by farmers in the eastern part of the county before the end of grass-seeding time this spring. To this must be added a considerable supply available for sale in other districts, the entire amount probably reaching 140,000 pounds. The varieties are sweet and red clover and timothy. The clover seed is quoted at 6 cents per pound as the bottom price and taking even this as an average it means an income from this source of not far from $9,000.

Seed companies are anxious to secure this northern grown seed as the product coming from the regions farther to the south do not as a general rule prove satisfactory in this latitude. This department of farming has been given very little attention heretofore but will undoubtedly receive a big boost by reason of the success of the men who have tried it.

Boy Scouts Winners.

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts on Monday night, the Horseshoe five took on the Scout team in a basketball game. The final outcome of the game was 42 to 8 in favor of the Scouts.

Jury Trial Denied.

Attorneys interested in the Peterson will case have been notified that the matter will come up for hearing before Judge Grindeland in this city on March 29. A motion for a jury trial has been denied.

ALL SURPLUS HAY IN COUNTY NEEDED BY NORTH DAKOTA

Twenty Carloads Being Shipped From Goodridge and More Wanted if Available.

The commissioners in a number of North Dakota counties have ordered 20 carloads of timothy and prairie hay through the Red Lake and Pennington county farm bureaus. B. O. Norby of Goodridge is in charge of the loading in the eastern part of Pennington county and has already shipped seven cars to the western section of North Dakota.

The orders received at the farm bureau office called for 50 carloads at prices ranging from $8 to $13 per ton. The dry weather of last season caused an acute hay shortage in Dakota and as a result many cattle are starving for wnt of roughage. All the surplus supply of hay in Pennington county will be used this year in supplying the Dakota demand, and many more carloads could doubtless be shipped if available.

Our Cemetery Approved.

City Clerk A. H. Akre, who is also clerk of the cemetery association, has received a request from Rugby, N. D., for a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the organization as well as the plan used in its management. The writer states that he understands Thief River Falls has one of the best arranged and best managed cemeteries in northern Minnesota and he wishes to copy the system followed as closely as possible.

TAX REDUCED NEARLY ONE MILLION DOLLARS IN STATE AS A WHOLE

Pennington County's Contribution Toward the $116,000,000 Levied is Not Quite a Half Million Dollars.

Minnesota taxpayers will pay nearly $1,000,000 less taxes this year than they did in 1921. To be specific, taxes levied on the basis of the 1921 property valuation and collectable this year, total $115,818,877.03 as against $116,720,461.03 for the previous year. This is a difference of $901,584.00 in favor of the taxpayers of the state.

Pennington county's contribution to this tax collection, including the statutory three mill tax on credits or moneys, will be $486,009.77. The average rate of taxation for the county, exclusive of special assessments, is .6719 mills. This covers all sources of taxation.

The taxable valuation on which this reduced state levy is made is $2,452,539,549, and here also a decrease is noted. This decrease approximates $75,000,000 and is explained in larger part by the omission of motor vehicles from the personal property valuation. Heretofore such were valued and taxed the same as other personal property, but now they are a part of the good roads revenue of the state and are so listed.

Figures compiled by R. P. Chase, state auditor, covering tax levies for the past two years, their distribution and the valuation on which they are based, have juts been made public and their study is of vital interest to the taxpayers of the state. They are most enlightening since they demonstrate beyond contradiction the source of the tax burdens and where relief may be obtained if desired.

Leland Sether, who has been employed in Minneapolis this winter, arrived Friday morning for an indefinite visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sether.

New Department Manager At Oen Company's Store

Roy Trytz, until recently in charge of the women's wear and dry goods departments of the Peoples Trading company at Warren, arrived this week for the purpose of taking over the management of the same divisions of the Oen Mercantile company's store in this city. Mr. Trytz has had 15 years' experience in this particular line and is one of the best posted men in this section on matters pertaining to this branch of merchandising.

The Oen company will feature the ready-to-wear department of its business in the future, carrying at all times the latest and best goods produced by the best-known manufacturers in the business. Mr. Trytz will have complete charge of the buying and as his previous experience has given him a wide acquaintance among both the buyers in this section and the producers of this class of goods, his acquisition should prove of unusual value to the big store. He left Thursday evening for the big markets to purchase a complete stock of ready-to-wear.

SERIES OF LENTEN OBSERVATIONS BY OUTSIDE PASTORS

Meetings to Be Held at Trinity Church Under Auspices of St. John's Congregation.

Members of St. John's Lutheran church have decided upon a novel undertaking to bring the truths underlying the celebration of Lent, to the community at large. Their plan calls for a series of five mid-week Lenten sermons on Christian fundamentals. These have been termed "The Way of Salvation" because, so they say, every man must know and believe them in order to be saved in the Christian sense; that is, in order to reach heaven. The series as announced is: 1—The Bible, God's Message; 2—Whence is Man? 3—What Must I Do to Be Saved? 4—Death—Then? 5—And They Crucified Him.

For each week of the remaining Lenten season a service is scheduled, beginning with Tuesday, March 14. English will be used exclusively. The Trinity Lutheran church has been engaged and the time has been set at 8 p. m. Congregational singing will feature the services.

"Neighboring pastors" have been chosen to assist Rev. E. H. Kreidt in delivering the sermons, namely, Rev. Martin Hauser of Warren; Rev. G. B. Propp of Ogema; Rev. O. H. Brauer of Mahnomen and Rev. O. C. Fedcke of Plummer. A different pastor has been assigned to each of the services, assuring all, says Rev. Kreidt, "interesting speakers upon a needful subject at a convenient meeting place and hour."

Rev. Hauser of Warren is to open the series. His topic will be "The Bible, God's Message," in which he intends to prove that no other literature is God's Word but the Bible, and that it is sufficient to accomplish the purpose for which God gave it.

At all services the public is invited. No admission fee is to be charged. All seats will be free.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF DISTRICT GOES TO CROOKSTON TEAM

Wins Over McIntosh Team in High School Contest; McIntosh Beats Thief River.

Crookston won the district high school basketball championship in the elimination contest played in that city on Thursday and Friday of last week by defeating McIntosh in the finals by a score of 20 to 9.

The Thief River Falls team was eliminated early in the series, being defeated by McIntosh by a score of 29 to 19. The Crookston Times gives the following report of this game:

"V. Jensen's stellar work at center and his ability to shoot from any position on the floor was responsible for McIntosh's 29 to 19 victory over Thief River Falls.

"The game opened fast, both teams showing their wares in an efficient manner. The first quarter ended McIntosh 8, Thief River Falls 6. The McIntosh players crept ahead a few more points in the second half when Jensen made two baskets from the center of the floor. The half ended McIntosh 13, Thief River Falls 8.

"The two teams played neck and neck in the third quarter, Thief River making two more points than their opponents. McIntosh with a burst of speed in the final quarter nosed ahead.

"Jensen was by far the star of the game while Dale, forward for McIntosh, also showed up well. Sorenson and Arnold were the star players for Thief River. Jensen was picked last year as all-district center and undoubtedly will win that honor again this season."

Other games of the tournament resulted as follows: Crookston 40, Argyle 10; McIntosh 25, Ada 21; Argyle 22, Warroad 21; Crookston 24, Fosston 9; Ada 16, Stephen 11.

Sorenson, Thief River Falls guard, was picked for this position on the all-conference team, the other members being as follows: Forwards, Daniels, Crookston, and Remark, Ada; center and captain, Jensen, McIntosh; guard, Lindell, Crookston.

M'CANN WILL BE C. C. SECRETARY AFTER APRIL 1

County Agent Chosen For Post By Executive Committee of Local Commercial Club.

Will Continue in Present Position, Simply Adding Duties of Post to Farm Work.

Plan Helps in Solving Problem of Financing Farm Bureau During Coming Year.

County Agent J. J. McCann will on April 1 become secretary of the Thief River Falls Commercial club, attending to this duty in connection with the position he now holds. The board of directors of the club, anxious to do everything in their power to insure the retention of Mr. McCann and the farm bureau, hit upon this means of assisting in the payment of his salary, the sum of $600 per year being turned over to the bureau every year as the club's share of his expenses. Mr. McCann will drop no part of the farm bureau work in order to look after his new post, the idea being that the two organizations will both be better served by the new arrangement.

Nothing in the way of consolidation will be attempted at this time as the work of the county agent is of a highly specialized nature and often requires a class of service that cannot in any way be regarded as being a part of the Commercial club's program. The clerical work of both can, however, be handily assumed by one person with benefit to all concerned. Each will be in direct charge of its own board of directors and will remain as at present constituted, both as to financing and management.

During the past two years the county's share in the cost of maintaining the farm bureau has been met by popular subscription, the balance being made up by the state and national appropriations and the membership fees. This latter source can hardly be depended on to carry its end under present circumstances as a large part of the farming population is hard pressed for money. The plan is to keep the bureau going until fall when a more favorable situation as regards the ready cash can be looked for, enabling the farmer to pay his membership dues in the organization.

No Community Club.

The suggestion that the Commercial club be changed in name and nature to a community club whose activities shall embrace the entire county is not considered feasible. Persons residing outside of Thief River Falls often find it difficult to attend meetings or otherwise take a great interest in the activities of the club, and including them in the membership would serve no good purpose. They will be made welcome should they desire to join but urging them to do so is not deemed advisable. The fact of the club secretary being also the county agent will bring the farming feature very close to the organization in any event and President H. W. Froehlich is particularly desirous that the farmer shall regard the club as ready at all times to extend any assistance within its power to the farming population of the county and neighborhood.

It is thought the new arrangement will meet with the approval of all concerned and prove generally more satisfactory than the plan heretofore followed.

Bill Authorizes $15,000 For Red Lake River Work

New river and harbor improvements calling for an estimated expenditure of approximately $31,000,000 would be authorized under a bill ordered reported Saturday by the house rivers and harbors committee.

Among the improvements which would be authorized by the bill and the amount the army engineers have reported would be required is included Red Lake and Red Lake river, Minnesota, $15,000.

This is the sum set by engineers as representing the value to navigation of the conservancy and drainage program on the river and was included in the bill estimating the benefits.

G. O. P. Voters Will Elect County Delegates Tuesday

The election of precinct delegates to the Republican county convention to be held at the court house in this city on March 18, will take place on Tuesday, March 14. Although there were a number of precincts in which no names were filed for the delegate places it is expected that all will be represented, provision being made for writing names in on the ballots. Special election ballots for every precinct in the county have been printed, this being one of the requirements under the new law.

As the township elections also take place on Tuesday it is certain a much larger vote for delegates to the convention will be cast than would otherwise be the case.

Minnesota Historical Notes

Long Lost Civil War Diary Turns Up.

A battered old diary, filled with entries of the Civil War period, some of its pages almost illegible because of age, was recently presented to the Minnesota Historical Society. It was supposed to be the diary of Robert Lester Morris, who served as assistant surgeon of the Eleventh Minnesota.

Upon examination it was found that the handwriting in the first part of the diary was different from that of the remainder. Closer inspection revealed the fact that this part was a daily record of events relating to the First Minnesota up to the date of the battle of Bull Run, the entries closing with a list of men wounded in that battle. Civil War records failed to show Dr. Morris as a member of the First Minnesota.

The fly leaf of the diary was found to contain the name of "J. N. Searles, Hastings, Minnesota." This further complicated the problem, for the latter part of the booklet had certainly been kept by Dr. Morris. An examination of the roster of the First Minnesota disclosed the name of Jasper N. Searles as a recruit from Dakota county, and friends in Hastings identified him as Judge J. N. Searles of Stillwater.

"I presume the memorandum was one that I kept during the summer of 1860 and the following winter when our regiment, the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, was in our first camp after the first Bull Run battle," Judge Searles writes. "In the spring of 1862 we were sent to the Shenandoah Valley and thence to the Peninsula with Gen. McClellan and when we broke camp (our 'Camp Stone') I packed a lot of stuff in a trunk and stored it in a warehouse in Washington, but when I called for it on our return home in the spring of 1864 I could get no trace of it nor of the people who operated the warehouse. Perhaps they sold it for charges."

Interest in History on Increase.

No review of progress in Minnesota during the last two years would be complete without an account of the increasing interest in history. The great increase of enrollment in classes in history at the university, the volume of historical books being used in the public libraries, and the rapid growth of the State historical society all indicate the same reaction.

"The World War was perhaps the greatest factor in causing this growth of interest," says Solon J. Buck, superintendent of the Minnesota Historical Society. "The sudden realization that we were not an isolated nation, that our destinies are involved in those of other countries, has changed our point of view. The interest in economic problems has also aroused a desire for information on the development of similar problems in the past. People are realizing that history is to the community what memory is to the individual. It is the starting point for all future progress."

The State historical society has increased its membership by fifty per cent in 1921, according to Mr. Buck, while the number of people taking advantage of the resources of the society has increased in proportion. "Books to the number of 17,000 were used during the year by readers in the library as compared with 10,000 used in 1920 and 6,000 used in 1919. The library now contains 147,000 books and pamphlets."

The manuscript division of the society also shows a remarkable growth. The papers of early governors and of many territorial pioneers have been added to the collections. The newspaper department, with the regular receipt of over 400 Minnesota publications, is steadily building up a collection of extreme value.

"Approximately 30,000 visitors inspected the exhibits in the museum during the last year," Mr. Buck reports, "while the already large collection of museum material has been increased by a number of important donations. A popular feature of the work of this division has been the 'history hour' classes for children. These classes are conducted by members of the staff to acquaint the children with the exhibits in the museum and to teach them the history of the state."

Tawney Papers to Be Preserved For History.

The papers of the late James A. Tawney of Winona, congressman from the first Minnesota district from 1893 to 1911 and member of the International Joint Commission from 1911 to his death in 1919, have recently been added to the collections of papers of prominent state leaders in the custody of the Minnesota Historical Society. Congressman Tawney will long be remembered as a national figure in politics, prominent in his party and the many important measures he advocated before Congress.

Copies of speeches and written articles form a large part of the collection, which was presented by the congressman's son, Everett T. Tawney of Winona. An article on the "Duty of a Great Independent Newspaper," written in 1908, could well have been a forerunner of the present international conference in Washington. "The chief duty of a great independent newspaper during the next decade is, or should be, to combat the alarming tendency in this country toward paternalism and militarism. . . When we remember that almost sixty-five per cent of the government's revenue, exclusive of postal receipts, is today being spent to meet the cost of wars past and anticipated, the seriousness of the frantic rushing to the front as a great military power is alarming."

In a less serious mood Mr. Tawney gave his recollection of the battle of Gettysburg. On the third day of the battle his home, which was being used as a hospital, was shelled by the enemy. "It was saved by the act of a Union soldier, who unfurled his sister's red flannel petticoat, with my fishing rod as a staff, from the highest chimney on the house."

Among the official papers is the original document, signed by President Taft in 1911, appointing Congressman Tawney a member of the International Joint Commission, a body created for the settlement of disputes relating to boundary waters between the United States and Canada. Letters from prominent political leaders, clippings, and several diaries also form an important part of the papers.

Congressman Tawney was born near Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, on Jan. 3, 1855. He came to Minnesota in 1877 and settled in Winona. In 1882 he was admitted to the bar after six years of hard study and constant application. His political career began in 1890, when he was elected to the state senate from a district that was strongly Democratic at that time. In 1893 he entered Congress as a representative, and he served for nine successive terms.

Lost Counties of Minnesota.

To create a new county in the territory of Minnesota in the early days appears to have been as simple a process as the present method of creating money in soviet Russia. The territorial legislature, in establishing counties and definite boundaries, often disregarded previous acts, apparently trusting to divine Providence to settle all resulting difficulties.

Judge C. L. Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, in a paper read at the last annual meeting of the Minnesota Historical Society, tells of the confusion resulting from this practice. "Lines overlapped and crossed, and it was in many instances difficult for one to know in what county he really lived, or whether he had been shifted from one to another following the creation of some new county.

"Pierce County, created in 1853, named for President Franklin Pierce, adjoined Nicollet county, Davis County, undoubtedly named for Jefferson Davis, . . . created in 1855, lay north and west of Renville and Carver Counties," Judge Brown stated. Both were lost in the creation of new counties including the same territory. "Newton county, created in 1855, originally named Doty County, included the greater part of the present territory of St. Louis County, but dropped out of sight when that county was later created. Buchannan County, established in 1857, named for President Buchannan, bordered on the St. Croix River in the northeast part of the territory, with Fortuna as a county seat . . . . This territory is now mainly within Pine County. Munroe County, created in 1858, named for President Munroe lay south of Mille Lacs Lake, and had Princeton as its county seat. Princeton for many years was the county seat of Mille Lacs County, which includes much if not all of the old Munroe County territory.

"Big Sioux and Midway counties were created in the territorial days, and out of territory now a part of South Dakota adjoining on the west the present Rock and Pipestone counties. They were both put out of commission by the act of Congress defining the state boundries.

"As originally created Ramsey County was quite large and extended north to the Mille Lacs region, embracing practically all the present territory of Anoka, Mille Lacs, Isanti, and Kanabec counties. In the creation of other counties in that part of the state a small tract of land, probably two or three townships, belonging to and forming a part of Ramsey County, was cut off and left high and dry in the Mille Lacs county 60 or 70 miles from home base. . . This was later corrected by adding the land to some adjoining territory."

Mrs. Eva Carlson at Rest.

Mrs. Eva Carlson, one of the early Swedish pioneers of this place, passed to her eternal reward at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 14, after being ill for only two days with pneumonia and pleurisy. Mrs. Carlson, whose maiden name was Eva Kristina Erickson, was born at Lafas, Nya Kopparberg, Sweden, Jan. 23, 1851, and here passed the early years of her life. On May 24, 1877, she was united in marriage to John F. Carlson, whose death occurred about four years ago. In 1880 the Carlsons emigrated to America, making their home for the first three years at Ishpeming, Mich., and in July, 1883, came to town of Norden, where they filed on a homestead. On this farm the family resided until two years ago when, following the death of her husband, Mrs. Carlson rented the farm and moved to Rosewood. Left to mourn are nine children, Mrs. Chas. Davis of Saginaw, Minn., Mrs. Hans Norwick of Seattle, Wash., Helmor Carlson of Devils Lake, N. NAME VIEWERS FOR RED LAKE DRAIN PROJECT

Work of Assessing Benefits and Damages to Begin Soon as Weather Will Permit.

O. L. Ihle of Thief River Falls Appointed One of Viewers By Commissioners.

Most Important Stretch to Be Covered Extends From Highlanding to This City.

At a meeting of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy commission held at Crookston on Tuesday, viewers for the Red Lake project were appointed as follows: O. L. Ihle, Thief River Falls; Andrew Christianson, Mentor; F. S. Erdman, St. Hilaire. They will begin work as soon as it is possible to get onto the land.

The board of viewers will make a thorough inspection of all lands affected by the proposed improvement of the lake and river and assess damages or benefits to each piece of property. Their principal field of operations will be from Highlanding to Thief River Falls as that is the section through which the river will have to be deepened and straightened, but their work will also cover the reservation and lands on all sides of the Red lakes.

A large part of the work of the viewers will be confined to the territory lying north of the Red Lake river and extending to State Road No. 2, and extending to the east line of Highlanding township. Lands lying north of the state road will be but slightly affected, if at all, as the water in that section finds its way through Ditches 18 and 20 to the Thief river. Little of the territory to the south of the river is involved in this particular project, the Clearwater division of the undertaking extending to within a short distance of the Red Lake river for a large part of the distance.

Plan Fully Discussed.

The Red Lake project was fully explained by State Engineer E. V. Willard and C. G. Selvig, chairman of the board. It calls for a maximum lake level of from 1173 to 1174 feet and a minimum of 1171.5 feet. These figures have been approved by the several departments interested in Washington as properly caring for all interests—Indian, farming, navigation, water power and sanitation.

Report on Clearwater.

The report of the viewers on the Clearwater project was accepted and referred to President Selvig and Attorney Charles Boughton for submission to the Indian bureau with reference to the assessments against reservation lands.

The date for a final hearing on the Grand Marais project was set for April 11 at Crookston.

Detailed plans for the dam at the outlet of Red Lake and the deepening of the channel of the Red Lake river will be rushed, according to members of the commission, who are of the opinion that actual work may be commenced on the project during the present season.

Agreement Reached.

The special cash prize of fifty dollars which was offered to the contestant turning in the most money on subscriptions during the second period of the campaign, which closed March 8, was won by Miss Agnes Oftedahl.

The interest taken by the contestants during the last two weeks has been at a high pitch. All realize that it is a case of "now or never" and they are gathering in subscriptions from every nook and corner of this section.

Now another special cash prize of twenty-five dollars is offered to the contestant turning in the most money on subscriptions between March 8 and March 15. The same vote schedule which was in effect during the second period will be continued up to and including March 15. This is the week for every one to hustle harder than they have during any part of the campaign. It is the week that will bring about decisive results and every hour of the time should be made use of.

$25.00 IN GOLD

A special cash prize of $25.00 will be given to the contestant turning in the most money on subscriptions between March 8 and March 15.

Remmem Jury Disagrees; Court Adjourns to 28th

The jury in the case of the state against A. B. Remmem, charged with selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, reported a disagreement after being out all night and the greater part of a day, and was discharged. The case will be tried again at the June term of court.

Abel Boat, one of the two colored men in the county and a resident of the extreme eastern end, was found not guilty of assault in the third degree by a jury on Friday. The offense was alleged to have been committed on the Fourth of July last. Moonshine, resulting in a neighborhood row, was the trouble.

Carl Swenson, accused of selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to the June term.

The case of Finch, VanSlych & McConville against Singer Bros. was decided in favor of the plaintiffs, the jury awarding judgment for $193.54.

The divorce case of Ole Omundson against Karen Omundson was heard on Friday and taken under advisement by the court.

Judge Grindeland is this week holding court at Mahnomen but will return to finish up the civil cases in this county on the 28th.

Dana, agricultural expert in the employ of the Minnesota Sugar company, is in the city today and will meet with the beet growers of Pennington county at the Commercial club rooms this afternoon. An attempt will also be made to have Mr. Dana address the business men of the city at the club luncheon this noon.

LOSE FINAL GAME OF SEASON BY ONE LONE FREE THROW

Den E. Lanes of St. Paul Come Up From Behind and Win Unexpected Victory.

The Thief River Falls Athletics split even on a two-game series with the Den E. Lane team of St. Paul on Thursday and Friday evenings, winning the first by a score of 39 to 21 and losing the second, 31 to 30.

The Athletics should have won both games in spite of the fact that the visitors have a reputation second to none in the state. During the first game the latter never had a chance of winning, the locals getting a good margin early and adding to it as the game progressed. No outside talent was employed in this game, every member of the team being a home man, and for this reason considerable satisfaction was expressed over the outcome. Every man played in his very best form and it would be next to impossible to single out any particular star.

The locals had the second game salted away until within a few minutes of the end. The visitors rallied and came up from behind with a spurt of speed the Athletics seemed unable to stem because the class of attack was new to them. The tactics employed by the visitors were at times decidedly questionable, but were allowed to go without penalty in the interest of harmony.

Manager Connell announces that the basketball season so far as the Athletics are concerned is probably at an end. No other games are in sight at the present time and unless there is a contest of special interest offered it is not likely taht any further agreements will be entered into. The last few games have not been a success financially, the public interest having in a certain measure died out. The boys have put up a good brand of basketball and there is no fault found with the showing made, but the season is at an end and other interests will soon engage the attention of the fans.

Fancy Price Received For Yearling Holstein Bull

J. H. Hardesty & Son, Holstein breeders, living a short distance from Thief River Falls, on Friday shipped a purebred yearling bull, to a party at Kreamer, N. D., the price paid for the animal being $200. While this is an exceptional price, there have been many shipments made of purebred animals by local men, both of the Holstein and Guernsey breeds, for which very good figures are reported.

Eight Debating Teams at High School Friday Night

An elimination contest in which the debating teams of eight high schools of Northwestern Minnesota will take part will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Friday evening. The teams will be composed of one boy and one girl from each of the following schools: Erskine, McIntosh, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire, Roseau, Lancaster, Warroad and Thief River Falls. Winners in this debate will be the district defenders in a state contest to be held later in the season. Ella Krohn and Hershel Hanson will represent the Thief River school on Friday evening.

For the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses an admission fee of 25 and 15 cents will be made. The public is cordially invited and assured that the evening will be one of both interest and enjoyment.

MUD LAKE LAND IS PROPERTY OF SHORE OWNERS

Judge Morris Decides Present Occupants Are Trespassers and Must Vacate.

Five Thousand Acres Valued at $50,000 to $75,00 and Settlers' Rights Involved.

Court Holds Title of Riparian Owners Following Receding Waters to Lake Center.

The lands in the Mud lake basin are the property of the holders of riparian rights along the original shore line of the lake, according to a decision handed down by Judge Page Morris at Minneapolis last Thursday. Should the decision be upheld on appeal it will mean that about 30 homesteaders who filed on lands made available by drainage will have to move off. Some of these have resided on the property four or five years and have considerable in the way of improvements, all of which will be a total loss.

Five thousand acres of land, valued at $50,000 to $75,000, are involved in the decision, which will at once be appealed, according to Theo. Quale of Thief River Falls, attorney for the present residents on the land. These holdings comprise what was formerly the bottom of Mud lake in Marshall county, and the final outcome is of great importance to all parties concerned as it means the loss of many years' work for the present occupants, most of whom are well known here, should it be sustained. The suit was brought by the United States government against the State Bank of Holt and others to determine title to the land. The government sets up the claim that as the land was originally Indian property and had been thrown open to settlement in the regular way, the present residents on the tracts, having filed in good faith and complied with the homestead laws, cannot now be ousted by the riparian claimants.

The court held that title to the land in the first place was held by the state in trust for the public and it was a navigable body of water. When the waters receded the riparian rights followed the shore line.

"The department of the interior will be notified of the decision and an appeal will probably be taken in the United States circuit court of appeals," William Anderson, assistant United States district attorney, said. "The department regards the case as important, as following drainage, the land was thrown open to entry and some 30 settlers took up claims."

High School Board Exams. For County March 30-31

The March high school board examinations will be given at the various examination points throughout the county on March 30 and 31, according to a notice sent out from the office of County Superintendent Geo. M. Gunderson. The subjects of grammar and composition, spelling and elementary American history will be given on March 30; arithmetic, geography and elementary American citizenship on the 31st. The examination will begin at 8 o'clock on both days.

This year 31 examination points have been granted, although the rule is one point for each township. Natural barriers, such as rivers, the poor roads at this season of the year and other drawbacks decided the department in granting 10 additional points at which examinations will be held.

Full particulars may be had by addressing Mr. Gunderson.

NO POLITICAL TALKS PERMITTED AT FARM BUREAU GATHERINGS

Resolutions Adopted at Recent State Meeting Would Bar Candidates and Others From Making Stump Orations to Members.

Officers and directors of county farm bureaus and township farm bureau units all over Minnesota are receiving a resolution adopted unanimously at the last meeting of the executive board of their state federation. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation has been organized and maintained as a non-political organization,

"Resolved, That the executive committee of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation recommends to all township unit directors and other farm bureau officers that they do not allow any candidate for political office, or any political speaker, to make any political address at any duly called farm bureau meeting, and

"Resolved, That the committee recommends that no county farm bureau association or township unit go on record as endorsing any candidate for political office."

Allison Stitt left Friday evening for Minneapolis to spend the week-end with friends.

20 Tons of Grass Seed Shipped From Goodridge

About twenty tons of grass seed has been shipped over the Minnesota Northwestern railroad from the Goodridge station this year and the seed season has only opened. It is conservatively figured that twice this amount will be sent to other sections by farmers in the eastern part of the county before the end of grass-seeding time this spring. To this must be added a considerable supply available for sale in other districts, the entire amount probably reaching 140,000 pounds. The varieties are sweet and red clover and timothy. The clover seed is quoted at 6 cents per pound as the bottom price and taking even this as an average it means an income from this source of not far from $9,000.

Seed companies are anxious to secure this northern grown seed as the product coming from the regions farther to the south do not as a general rule prove satisfactory in this latitude. This department of farming has been given very little attention heretofore but will undoubtedly receive a big boost by reason of the success of the men who have tried it.

Boy Scouts Winners.

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts on Monday night the Horseshoe five took on the Scout team in a basketball game. The final outcome of the game was 42 to 8 in favor of the Scouts.

Jury Trial Denied.

Attorneys interested in the Peterson will case have been notified that the matter will come up for hearing before Judge Grindeland in this city on March 29. A motion for a jury trial has been denied.

ALL SURPLUS HAY IN COUNTY NEEDED BY NORTH DAKOTA

Twenty Carloads Being Shipped From Goodridge and More Wanted if Available.

The commissioners in a number of North Dakota counties have ordered 20 carloads of timothy and prairie hay through the Red Lake and Pennington county farm bureaus. B. O. Norby of Goodridge is in charge of the loading in the eastern part of Pennington county and has already shipped seven cars to the western section of North Dakota.

The orders received at the farm bureau office called for 50 carloads at prices ranging from $8 to $13 per ton. The dry weather of last season caused an acute hay shortage in Dakota and as a result many cattle are starving for wnt of roughage. All the surplus supply of hay in Pennington county will be used this year in supplying the Dakota demand, and many more carloads could doubtless be shipped if available.

Our Cemetery Approved.

City Clerk A. H. Akre, who is also clerk of the cemetery association, has received a request from Rugby, N. D., for a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the organization as well as the plan used in its management. The writer states that he understands Thief River Falls has one of the best arranged and best managed cemeteries in northern Minnesota and he wishes to copy the system followed as closely as possible.

TAX REDUCED NEARLY ONE MILLION DOLLARS IN STATE AS A WHOLE

Pennington County's Contribution Toward the $116,000,000 Levied is Not Quite a Half Million Dollars.

Minnesota taxpayers will pay nearly $1,000,000 less taxes this year than they did in 1921. To be specific, taxes levied on the basis of the 1921 property valuation and collectable this year, total $115,818,877.03 as against $116,720,461.03 for the previous year. This is a difference of $901,584.00 in favor of the taxpayers of the state.

Pennington county's contribution to this tax collection, including the statutory three mill tax on credits or moneys, will be $486,009.77. The average rate of taxation for the county, exclusive of special assessments, is .6719 mills. This covers all sources of taxation.

The taxable valuation on which this reduced state levy is made is $2,452,539,549, and here also a decrease is noted. This decrease approximates $75,000,000 and is explained in larger part by the omission of motor vehicles from the personal property valuation. Heretofore such were valued and taxed the same as other personal property, but now they are a part of the good roads revenue of the state and are so listed.

Figures compiled by R. P. Chase, state auditor, covering tax levies for the past two years, their distribution and the valuation on which they are based, have juts been made public and their study is of vital interest to the taxpayers of the state. They are most enlightening since they demonstrate beyond contradiction the source of the tax burdens and where relief may be obtained if desired.

Leland Sether, who has been employed in Minneapolis this winter, arrived Friday morning for an indefinite visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sether.

New Department Manager At Oen Company's Store

Roy Trytz, until recently in charge of the women's wear and dry goods departments of the Peoples Trading company at Warren, arrived this week for the purpose of taking over the management of the same divisions of the Oen Mercantile company's store in this city. Mr. Trytz has had 15 years experience in this particular line and is one of the best posted men in this section on matters pertaining to this branch of merchandising.

The Oen company will feature the ready-to-wear department of its business in the future, carrying at all times the latest and best goods produced by the best-known manufacturers in the business. Mr. Trytz will have complete charge of the buying and as his previous experience has given him a wide acquaintance among both the buyers in this section and the producers of this class of goods, his acquisition should prove of unusual value to the big store. He left Thursday evening for the big markets to purchase a complete stock of ready-to-wear.

SERIES OF LENTEN OBSERVATIONS BY OUTSIDE PASTORS

Meetings to Be Held at Trinity Church Under Auspices of St. John's Congregation.

Members of St. John's Lutheran church have decided upon a novel undertaking to bring the truths underlying the celebration of Lent, to the community at large. Their plan calls for a series of five mid-week Lenten sermons on Christian fundamentals. These have been termed "The Way of Salvation" because, so they say, every man must know and believe them in order to be saved in the Christian sense; that is, in order to reach heaven. The series as announced is: 1—The Bible, God's Message; 2—Whence is Man? 3—What Must I Do to Be Saved? 4—Death—Then? 5—And They Crucified Him.

For each week of the remaining Lenten season a service is scheduled, beginning with Tuesday, March 14. English will be used exclusively. The Trinity Lutheran church has been engaged and the time has been set at 8 p. m. Congregational singing will feature the services.

Neighboring pastors have been chosen to assist Rev. E. H. Kreidt in delivering the sermons, namely, Rev. Martin Hauser of Warren; Rev. G. B. Propp of Ogema; Rev. O. H. Brauer of Mahnomen and Rev. O. C. Fedcke of Plummer. A different pastor has been assigned to each of the services, assuring all, says Rev. Kreidt, "interesting speakers upon a needful subject at a convenient meeting place and hour."

Rev. Hauser of Warren is to open the series. His topic will be "The Bible, God's Message," in which he intends to prove that no other literature is God's Word but the Bible, and that it is sufficient to accomplish the purpose for which God gave it.

At all serivces the public is invited. No admission fee is to be charged. All seats will be free.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF DISTRICT GOES TO CROOKSTON TEAM

Wins Over McIntosh Team in High School Contest; McIntosh Beats Thief River.

Crookston won the district high school basketball championship in the elimination contest played in that city on Thursday and Friday of last week by defeating McIntosh in the finals by a score of 20 to 9.

The Thief River Falls team was eliminated early in the series, being defeated by McIntosh by a score of 29 to 19. The Crookston Times gives the following report of this game:

"V. Jensen's stellar work at center and his ability to shoot from any position on the floor was responsible for McIntosh's 29 to 19 victory over Thief River Falls.

"The game opened fast, both teams showing their wares in an efficient manner. The first quarter ended McIntosh 8, Thief River Falls 6. The McIntosh players crept ahead a few more points in the second half when Jensen made two baskets from the center of the floor. The half ended McIntosh 13, Thief River Falls 8.

"The two teams played neck and neck in the third quarter, Thief River making two more points than their opponents. McIntosh with a burst of speed in the final quarter nosed ahead.

"Jensen was by far the star of the game while Dale, forward for McIntosh, also showed up well. Sorenson and Arnold were the star players for Thief River. Jensen was picked last year as all-district center and undoubtedly will win that honor again this season."

Other games of the tournament resulted as follows: Crookston 40, Argyle 10; McIntosh 25, Ada 21; Argyle 22, Warroad 21; Crookston 24, Fosston 9; Ada 16, Stephen 11.

Sorenson, Thief River Falls guard, was picked for this position on the all-conference team, the other members being as follows: Forwards, Daniels, Crookston, and Remark, Ada; center and captain, Jensen, McIntosh; guard, Lindell, Crookston.

M'CANN WILL BE C. C. SECRETARY AFTER APRIL 1

County Agent Chosen For Post By Executive Committee of Local Commercial Club.

Will Continue in Present Position, Simply Adding Duties of Post to Farm Work.

Plan Helps in Solving Problem of Financing Farm Bureau During Coming Year.

County Agent J. J. McCann will on April 1 become secretary of the Thief River Falls Commercial club, attending to this duty in connection with the position he now holds. The board of directors of the club, anxious to do everything in their power to insure the retention of Mr. McCann and the farm bureau, hit upon this means of assisting in the payment of his salary; the sum of $600 per year being turned over to the bureau every year as the club's share of his expenses. Mr. McCann will drop no part of the farm bureau work in order to look after his new post, the idea being that the two organizations will both be better served by the new arrangement.

Nothing in the way of consolidation will be attempted at this time as the work of the county agent is of a highly specialized nature and often requires a class of service that cannot in any way be regarded as being a part of the Commercial club's program. The clerical work of both can, however, be handily assumed by one person with benefit to all concerned. Each will be in direct charge of its own board of directors and will remain as at present constituted, both as to financing and management.

During the past two years the county's share in the cost of maintaining the farm bureau has been met by popular subscription, the balance being made up by the state and national appropriations and the membership fees. This latter source can hardly be depended on to carry its end under present circumstances as a large part of the farming population is hard pressed for money. The plan is to keep the bureau going until fall when a more favorable situation as regards the ready cash can be looked for, enabling the farmer to pay his membership dues in the organization.

No Community Club.

The suggestion that the Commercial club be changed in name and nature to a community club whose activities shall embrace the entire county is not considered feasible. Persons residing outside of Thief River Falls often find it difficult to attend meetings or otherwise take any great interest in the activities of the club, and including them in the membership would serve no good purpose. They will be made welcome should they desire to join but urging them to do so is not deemed advisable. The fact of the club secretary being also the county agent will bring the farming feature very close to the organization in any event and President H. W. Froehlich is particularly desirous that the farmer shall regard the club as ready at all times to extend any assistance within its power to the farming population of the county and neighborhood.

It is thought the new arrangement will meet with the approval of all concerned and prove generally more satisfactory than the plan heretofore followed.

Bill Authorizes $15,000 For Red Lake River Work

New river and harbor improvements calling for an estimated expenditure of approximately $81,000,000 would be authorized under a bill ordered reported Saturday by the house rivers and harbors committee.

Among the improvements which would be authorized by the bill and the amount the army engineers have reported would be required is included Red Lake and Red Lake river, Minnesota, $15,000.

This is the sum set by engineers as representing the value to navigation of the conservancy and drainage program on the river and was included in the bill estimating the benefits.

G. O. P. Voters Will Elect County Delegates Tuesday

The election of precinct delegates to the Republican county convention to be held at the court house in this city on March 18, will take place on Tuesday, March 14. Although there were a number of precincts in which no names were filed for the delegate places it is expected that all will be represented, provision being made for writing names in on the ballots. Special election ballots for every precinct in the county have been printed, this being one of the requirements under the new law.

As the township elections also take place on Tuesday it is certain a much larger vote for delegates to the convention will be cast than would otherwise be the case.

Minnesota Historical Notes

Long Lost Civil War Diary Turns Up.

A battered old diary, filled with entries of the Civil War period, some of its pages almost illegible because of age, was recently presented to the Minnesota Historical Society. It was supposed to be the diary of Robert Lester Morris, who served as assistant surgeon of the Eleventh Minnesota.

Upon examination it was found that the handwriting in the first part of the diary was different from that of the remainder. Closer inspection revealed the fact that this part was a daily record of events relating to the First Minnesota up to the date of the battle of Bull Run, the entries closing with a list of men wounded in that battle. Civil War records failed to show Dr. Morris as a member of the First Minnesota.

The fly leaf of the diary was found to contain the name of "J. N. Searles, Hastings, Minnesota." This further complicated the problem, for the latter part of the booklet had certainly been kept by Dr. Morris. An examination of the roster of the First Minnesota disclosed the name of Jasper N. Searles as a recruit from Dakota county, and friends in Hastings identified him as Judge J. N. Searles of Stillwater.

"I presume the memorandum was one that I kept during the summer of 1860 and the following winter when our regiment, the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, was in our first camp after the first Bull Run battle," Judge Searles writes. "In the spring of 1862 we were sent to the Shenandoah Valley and thence to the Peninsula with Gen. McClellan and when we broke camp (our 'Camp Stone') I packed a lot of stuff in a trunk and stored it in a warehouse in Washington, but when I called for it on our return home in the spring of 1864 I could get no trace of it nor of the people who operated the warehouse. Perhaps they sold it for charges."

Interest in History on Increase.

No review of progress in Minnesota during the last two years would be complete without an account of the increasing interest in history. The great increase of enrollment in classes in history at the university, the volume of historical books being used in the public libraries, and the rapid growth of the State historical society all indicate the same reaction.

"The World War was perhaps the greatest factor in causing this growth of interest," says Solon J. Buck, superintendent of the Minnesota Historical Society. "The sudden realization that we were not an isolated nation, that our destinies are involved in those of other countries, has changed our point of view. The interest in economic problems has also aroused a desire for information on the development of similar problems in the past. People are realizing that history is to the community what memory is to the individual. It is the starting point for all future progress."

The State historical society has increased its membership by fifty per cent in 1921, according to Mr. Buck, while the number of people taking advantage of the resources of the society has increased in proportion. "Books to the number of 17,000 were used during the year by readers in the library as compared with 10,000 used in 1920 and 6,000 used in 1919. The library now contains 147,000 books and pamphlets."

The manuscript division of the society also shows a remarkable growth. The papers of early governors and of many territorial pioneers have been added to the collections. The newspaper department, with the regular receipt of over 100 Minnesota publications, is steadily building up a collection of extreme value.

"Approximately 30,000 visitors inspected the exhibits in the museum during the last year," Mr. Buck reports, "while the already large collection of museum material has been increased by a number of important donations. A popular feature of the work of this division has been the 'history hour' classes for children. These classes are conducted by members of the staff to acquaint the children with the exhibits in the museum and to teach them the history of the state."

Tawney Papers to Be Preserved For History.

The papers of the late James A. Tawney of Winona, congressman from the first Minnesota district from 1893 to 1911 and member of the International Joint Commission from 1911 to his death in 1919, have recently been added to the collections of papers of prominent state leaders in the custody of the Minnesota Historical Society. Congressman Tawney will long be remembered as a national figure in politics, prominent in his party and the many important measures he advocated before Congress.

Copies of speeches and written articles form a large part of the collection, which was presented by the congressman's son, Everett T. Tawney of Winona. An article on the "Duty of a Great Independent Newspaper," written in 1908, could well have been a forerunner of the present international conference in Washington. "The chief duty of a great independent newspaper during the next decade is, or should be, to combat the alarming tendency in this country toward paternalism and militarism, . . . When we remember that almost sixty-five per cent of the government's revenue, exclusive of postal receipts, is today being spent to meet the cost of wars past and anticipated, the seriousness of the frantic rushing to the front as a great military power is alarming."

In a less serious mood Mr. Tawney gave his recollection of the battle of Gettysburg. On the third day of the battle his home, which was being used as a hospital, was shelled by the enemy. "It was saved by the act of a Union soldier, who unfurled his sister's red flannel petticoat, with my fishing rod as a staff, from the highest chimney on the house."

Among the official papers is the original document, signed by President Taft in 1911, appointing Congressman Tawney a member of the International Joint Commission, a body created for the settlement of disputes relating to boundary waters between the United States and Canada. Letters from prominent political leaders, clippings, and several diaries also form an important part of the papers.

Congressman Tawney was born near Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, on Jan. 3, 1855. He came to Minnesota in 1877 and settled in Winona. In 1882 he was admitted to the bar after six years of hard study and constant application. His political career began in 1890, when he was elected to the state senate from a district that was strongly Democratic at that time. In 1893 he entered Congress as a representative, and he served for nine successive terms.

Lost Counties of Minnesota.

To create a new county in the territory of Minnesota in the early days appears to have been as simple a process as the present method of creating money in soviet Russia. The territorial legislature, in establishing counties and definite boundaries, often disregarded previous acts, apparently trusting to divine Providence to settle all resulting difficulties.

Judge C. L. Brown, chief justice of the state supreme court, in a paper read at the last annual meeting of the Minnesota Historical Society, tells of the confusion resulting from this practice. "Lines overlapped and crossed, and it was in many instances difficult for one to know in what county he really lived, or whether he had been shifted from one to another following the creation of some new county.

"Pierce County, created in 1853, named for President Franklin Pierce, adjoined Nicollet county, Davis County, undoubtedly named for Jefferson Davis, . . created in 1855, lay north and west of Renville and Carver Counties," Judge Brown stated. Both were lost in the creation of new counties including the same territory. "Newton county, created in 1855, originally named Doty County, included the greater part of the present territory of St. Louis County, but dropped out of sight when that county was later created. Buchanan County, established in 1857, named for President Buchanan, bordered on the St. Croix River in the northeast part of the territory, with Fortuna as a county seat . . . . This territory is now mainly within Pine County. Munroe County, created in 1858, named for President Munroe lay south of Mille Lacs Lake, and had Princeton as its county seat. Princeton for many years was the county seat of Mille Lacs County, which includes much if not all of the old Munroe County territory.

"Big Sioux and Midway counties were created in the territorial days, and out of territory now a part of South Dakota adjoining on the west the present Rock and Pipestone counties. They were both put out of commission by the act of Congress defining the state boundries.

"As originally created Ramsey County was quite large and extended north to the Mille Lacs region, embracing practicaly all the present territory of Anoka, Mille Lacs, Isanti, and Kanabec counties. In the creation of other counties in that part of the state a small tract of land, probably two or three townships, belonging to and forming a part of Ramsey County, was cut off and left high and dry in the Mille Lacs county 60 or 70 miles from home base. . . This was later corrected by adding the land to some adjoining territory."

ROSEWOOD

Mrs. Eva Carlson at Rest.

Mrs. Eva Carlson, one of the early Swedish pioneers of this place, passed to her eternal reward at 8 p. m. on Tuesday, Feb. 14, after being ill for only two days with pneumonia and pleurisy. Mrs. Carlson, whose maiden name was Eva Kristina Erickson, was born at Lafas, Nya Kopparberg, Sweden, Jan. 23, 1851, and here passed the early years of her life. On May 24, 1877, she was united in marriage to John F. Carlson, whose death occurred about four years ago. In 1880 the Carlsons emigrated to America, making their home for the first three years at Ishpeming, Mich., and in July, 1883, came to town of Norden, where they filed on a homestead. On this farm the family resided until two years ago when, following the death of her husband, Mrs. Carlson rented the farm and moved to Rosewood. Left to mourn are nine children, Mrs. Chas. Davis of Saginaw, Minn., Mrs. Hans Norwick of Seattle, Wash., Helmer Carlson of Devils Lake, N. NAME VIEWERS FOR RED LAKE DRAIN PROJECT

Work of Assessing Benefits and Damages to Begin Soon as Weather Will Permit.

O. L. Ihle of Thief River Falls Appointed One of Viewers By Commissioners.

Most Important Stretch to Be Covered Extends From Highlanding to This City.

At a meeting of the Red Lake Drainage and Conservancy commission held at Crookston on Tuesday, viewers for the Red Lake project were appointed as follows: O. L. Ihle, Thief River Falls; Andrew Christianson, Mentor; F. S. Erdman, St. Hilaire. They will begin work as soon as it is possible to get onto the land. The board of viewers will make a thorough inspection of all lands affected by the proposed improvement of the lake and river and assess damages or benefits to each piece of property. Their principal field of operations will be from Highlanding to Thief River Falls as that is the section through which the river will have to be deepened and straightened, but their work will also cover the reservation and lands on all sides of the Red lakes.

A large part of the work of the viewers will be confined to the territory lying north of the Red Lake river and extending to State Road No. 2, and extending to the east line of Highlanding township. Lands lying north of the state road will be but slightly affected, if at all, as the water in that section finds its way through Ditches 18 and 20 to the Thief river. Little of the territory to the south of the river is involved in this particular project, the Clearwater division of the undertaking extending to within a short distance of the Red Lake river for a large part of the distance.

Plan Fully Discussed.

The Red Lake project was fully explained by State Engineer E. V. Willard and C. G. Selvig, chairman of the board. It calls for a maximum lake level of from 1173 to 1174 feet and a minimum of 1171.5 feet. These figures have been approved by the several departments interested in Washington as properly caring for all interests—Indian, farming, navigation, water power and sanitation.

Report on Clearwater.

The report of the viewers on the Clearwater project was accepted and referred to President Selvig and Attorney Charles Boughton for submission to the Indian bureau with reference to the assessments against reservation lands.

The date for a final hearing on the Grand Marais project was set for April 11 at Crookston.

Detailed plans for the dam at the outlet of Red Lake and the deepening of the channel of the Red Lake river will be rushed, according to members of the commission, who are of the opinion that actual work may be commenced on the project during the present season.

Agreement Reached.

An agreement was reached on Saturday by officials of the Indian bureau and Adolph Meyer, engineer of the Red Lake conservancy district, on the plans for the Red Lake river drainage project. They were submitted to Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall on Monday, and will go later to Secretary of War John W. Weeks, and with the approval of these two heads of departments the work may be commenced.

W. M. Reed, engineer of the Indian bureau, said that the main feature of the proposed plans was the dam to the outlet of Red lake for the preservation of the lake level.

"The fisheries' rights of the Indians had to be protected and the controlling works will be constructed with that end in view," said Mr. Reed. "We have provided that the dam shall be of heavy construction, so that it may be used as a roadway and for vehicular and foot traffic, and also for any railroad that may desire to use it in the future. The project as approved will take care of all interests along the river, including power development, drainage for agricultural purposes, water supply for the towns along the river, and sanitation."

Personal Property Tax Payments Show Decrease

Personal property tax collections for the year closing the first of March were about $5,000 below the corresponding period a year ago, according to County Treasurer John Gullingsrud. During the month of February a total of $56,322.58 was taken in over the counter and received through the mail at his office, the receipts for the last three days being $38,580.43. The smaller amount paid this year is explained by the fact that automobiles have been taken from the personal property list and subjected to special taxation. There are about 400 taxpayers—a little less than one-fifth of the entire number—who are listed as delinquent, having failed to get their payments in before the time specified by law for closing the books.

This is the first lot to be secured under the loan provisions recently announced by the First and Peoples State bank, the officers of which have a number of other applications for loans for the same purpose under consideration.

NONPARTISANS TO ELECT DELEGATES HERE TOMORROW

Expected That Candidate For State Senator Will Also Be Named at This Time.

Postponement of the Nonpartisan League state convention from March 17 to March 31 has been decided on by the Minnesota executive committee of the league. The Working People's Nonpartisan Political League has set its convention for March 31 and it is customary to have the two conventions meet the same day and take joint action.

The postponement is held to favor A. C. Townley's "balance of power" proposal as the Democratic state convention also is to meet March 31 in Minneapolis and the Republican convention in St. Paul the same day. With the conventions all in session at the same time the way is open for negotiation.

The Nonpartisan League precinct caucuses met last Saturday to select delegates to the county conventions. The county convention of the Pennington county Nonpartisan organization will be held on Friday afternoon, March 10, at the court house, for the purpose of naming delegates to the state convention the 31st. Following the usual custom it is also likely that the candidate for state senator will be named at that time. Candidates for the lower house will be chosen later by delegations representing the Nonpartisans of Red Lake and Clearwater counties.

Remmem Jury Disagrees; Court Adjourns to 28th

The jury in the case of the state against A. B. Remmem, charged with selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, reported a disagreement after being out all night and the greater part of a day, and was discharged. The case will be tried again at the June term of court.

Abel Bost, one of the two colored men in the county and a resident of the extreme eastern end, was found not guilty of assault in the third degree by a jury on Friday. The offense was alleged to have been committed on the Fourth of July last. Moonshine, resulting in a neighborhood row, was the trouble.

Carl Swenson, accused of selling intoxicating liquors unlawfully, pleaded not guilty and his case was continued to the June term.

The case of Finch, VanSlych & McConville against Singer Bros. was decided in favor of the plaintiffs, the jury awarding judgment for $193.54.

The divorce case of Ole Omundson against Karen Omundson was heard on Friday and taken under advisement by the court.

Judge Grindeland is this week holding court at Mahnomen but will return to finish up the civil cases in this county on the 28th.

LOSE FINAL GAME OF SEASON BY ONE LONE FREE THROW

Den E. Lanes of St. Paul Come Up From Behind and Win Unexpected Victory.

The Thief River Falls Athletics split even on a two-game series with the Den E. Lane team of St. Paul on Thursday and Friday evenings, winning the first by a score of 39 to 21 and losing the second, 31 to 30.

The Athletics should have won both games in spite of the fact that the visitors have a reputation second to none in the state. During the first game the latter never had a chance of winning, the locals getting a good margin early and adding to it as the game progressed. No outside talent was employed in this game, every member of the team being a home man, and for this reason considerable satisfaction was expressed over the outcome. Every man played in his very best form and it would be next to impossible to single out any particular star.

The locals had the second game salted away until within a few minutes of the end. The visitors rallied and came up from behind with a spurt of speed the Athletics seemed unable to stem because the class of attack was new to them. The tactics employed by the visitors were at times decidedly questionable, but were allowed to go without penalty in the interest of harmany.

Manager Connell announces that the basketball season so far as the Athletics are concerned is probably at an end. No other games are in sight at the present time and unless there is a contest of special interest offered it is not likely taht any further agreements will be entered into. The last few games have not been a success financially, the public interest having in a certain measure died out. The boys have put up a good brand of basketball and there is no fault found with the showing made, but the season is at an end and other interests will soon engage the attention of the fans.

Fancy Price Received For Yearling Holstein Bull

J. H. Hardesty & Son, Holstein breeders, living a short distance from Thief River Falls, on Friday shipped a purebred yearling bull to a party at Kreamer, N. D., the price paid for the animal being $200. While this is an exceptional price, there have been many shipments made of purebred animals by local men, both of the Holstein and Guernsey breeds, for which very good figures are reported.

Eight Debating Teams at High School Friday Night

An elimination contest in which the debating teams of eight high schools of Northwestern Minnesota will take part will be held at the Lincoln high school auditorium on Friday evening. The teams will be composed of one boy and one girl from each of the following schools: Erskine, McIntosh, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire, Roseau, Lancaster, Warroad and Thief River Falls. Winners in this debate will be the district defenders in a state contest to be held later in the season. Ella Krohn and Hershel Hanson will represent the Thief River school on Friday evening.

For the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses an admission fee of 25 and 15 cents will be made. The public is cordially invited and assured that the evening will be one of both interest and enjoyment.

MUD LAKE LAND IS PROPERTY OF SHORE OWNERS

Judge Morris Decides Present Occupants Are Trespassers and Must Vacate.

Five Thousand Acres Valued at $50,000 to $75,00 and Settlers' Rights Involved.

Court Holds Title of Riparian Owners Following Receding Waters to Lake Center.

The lands in the Mud lake basin are the property of the holders of riparian rights along the original shore line of the lake, according to a decision handed down by Judge Page Morris at Minneapolis last Thursday. Should the decision be upheld on appeal it will mean that about 30 homesteaders who filed on lands made available by drainage will have to move off. Some of these have resided on the property four or five years and have considerable in the way of improvements, all of which will be a total loss.

Five thousand acres of land, valued at $50,000 to $75,000, are involved in the decision, which will at once be appealed, according to Theo. Quale of Thief River Falls, attorney for the present residents on the land. These holdings comprise what was formerly the bottom of Mud lake in Marshall county, and the final outcome is of great importance to all parties concerned as it means the loss of many years' work for the present occupants, most of whom are well known here, should it be sustained. The suit was brought by the United States government against the State Bank of Holt and others to determine title to the land. The government sets up the claim that as the land was originally Indian property and had been thrown open to settlement in the regular way, the present residents on the tracts, having filed in good faith and complied with the homestead laws, cannot now be ousted by the riparian claimants.

The court held that title to the land in the first place was held by the state in trust for the public and it was a navigable body of water. When the waters receded the riparian rights followed the shore line.

"The department of the interior will be notified of the decision and an appeal will probably be taken in the United States circuit court of appeals," William Anderson, assistant United States district attorney, said. "The department regards the case as important, as following drainage, the land was thrown open to entry and some 30 settlers took up claims."

High School Board Exams. For County March 30-31

The March high school board examinations will be given at the various examination points throughout the county on March 30 and 31, according to a notice sent out from the office of County Superintendent Geo. M. Gunderson. The subjects of grammar and composition, spelling and elementary American history will be given on March 30; arithmetic, geography and elementary American citizenship on the 31st. The examination will begin at 8 o'clock on both days.

This year 31 examination points have been granted, although the rule is one point for each township. Natural barriers, such as rivers, the poor roads at this season of the year and other drawbacks decided the department in granting 10 additional points at which examinations will be held.

Full particulars may be had by addressing Mr. Gunderson.

NO POLITICAL TALKS PERMITTED AT FARM BUREAU GATHERINGS

Resolutions Adopted at Recent State Meeting Would Bar Candidates and Others From Making Stump Orations to Members.

Officers and directors of county farm bureaus and township farm bureau units all over Minnesota are receiving a resolution adopted unanimously at the last meeting of the executive board of their state federation. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation has been organized and maintained as a non-political organization,

"Resolved, That the executice committee of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation recommends to all township unit directors and other farm bureau officers that they do not allow any candidate for political office, or any political speaker, to make any political address at any duly called farm bureau meeting, and

"Resolved, That the committee recommends that no county farm bureau association or township unit go on record as endorsing any candidate for political office."

Allison Stitt left Friday evening for Minneapolis to spend the week-end with friends.

20 Tons of Grass Seed Shipped From Goodridge

About twenty tons of grass seed has been shipped over the Minnesota Northwestern railroad from the Goodridge station this year and the seed season has only opened. It is conservatively figured that twice this amount will be sent to other sections by farmers in the eastern part of the county before the end of grass-seeding time this spring. To this must be added a considerable supply available for sale in other districts, the entire amount probably reaching 140,000 pounds. The varieties are sweet and red clover and timothy. The clover seed is quoted at 6 cents per pound as the bottom price and taking even this as an average it means an income from this source of not far from $9,000.

Seed companies are anxious to secure this northern grown seed as the product coming from the regions farther to the south do not as a general rule prove satisfactory in this latitude. This department of farming has been given very little attention heretofore but will undoubtedly receive a big boost by reason of the success of the men who have tried it.

Boy Scouts Winners.

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts on Monday night the Horseshoe five took on the Scout team in a basketball game. The final outcome of the game was 42 to 8 in favor of the Scouts.

Jury Trial Denied.

Attorneys interested in the Peterson will case have been notified that the matter will come up for hearing before Judge Grindeland in this city on March 29. A motion for a jury trial has been denied.

ALL SURPLUS HAY IN COUNTY NEEDED BY NORTH DAKOTA

Twenty Carloads Being Shipped From Goodridge and More Wanted if Available.

The commissioners in a number of North Dakota counties have ordered 20 carloads of timothy and prairie hay through the Red Lake and Pennington county farm bureaus. B. O. Norby of Goodridge is in charge of the loading in the eastern part of Pennington county and has already shipped seven cars to the western section of North Dakota.

The orders received at the farm bureau office called for 50 carloads at prices ranging from $8 to $13 per ton. The dry weather of last season caused an acute hay shortage in Dakota and as a result many cattle are starving for wnt of roughage. All the surplus supply of hay in Pennington county will be used this year in supplying the Dakota demand, and many more carloads could doubtless be shipped if available.

Our Cemetery Approved.

City Clerk A. H. Akre, who is also clerk of the cemetery association, has received a request from Rugby, N. D., for a copy of the constitution and by-laws of the organization as well as the plan used in its management. The writer states that he understands Thief River Falls has one of the best arranged and best managed cemeteries in northern Minnesota and he wishes to copy the system followed as closely as possible.

TAX REDUCED NEARLY ONE MILLION DOLLARS IN STATE AS A WHOLE

Pennington County's Contribution Toward the $116,000,000 Levied is Not Quite a Half Million Dollars.

Minnesota taxpayers will pay nearly $1,000,000 less taxes this year than they did in 1921. To be specific, taxes levied on the basis of the 1921 property valuation and collectable this year, total $115,818,877.03 as against $116,720,461.03 for the previous year. This is a difference of $901,584.00 in favor of the taxpayers of the state.

Pennington county's contribution to this tax collection, including the statutory three mill tax on credits or moneys, will be $486,009.77. The average rate of taxation for the county, exclusive of special assessments, is .6719 mills. This covers all sources of taxation.

The taxable valuation on which this reduced state levy is made is $2,452,539,549, and here also a decrease is noted. This decrease approximates $75,000,000 and is explained in larger part by the omission of motor vehicles from the personal property valuation. Heretofore such were valued and taxed the same as other personal property, but now they are a part of the good roads revenue of the state and are so listed.

Figures compiled by R. P. Chase, state auditor, covering tax levies for the past two years, their distribution and the valuation on which they are based, have juts been made public and their study is of vital interest to the taxpayers of the state. They are most enlightening since they demonstrate beyond contradiction the source of the tax burdens and where relief may be obtained if desired.

Leland Sether, who has been employed in Minneapolis this winter, arrived Friday morning for an indefinite visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sether.

New Department Manager At Oen Company's Store

Roy Trytz, until recently in charge of the women's wear and dry goods departments of the Peoples Trading company at Warren, arrived this week for the purpose of taking over the management of the same divisions of the Oen Mercantile company's store in this city. Mr. Trytz has had 15 years experience in this particular line and is one of the best posted men in this section on matters pertaining to this branch of merchandising.

The Oen company will feature the ready-to-wear department of its business in the future, carrying at all times the latest and best goods produced by the best-known manufacturers in the business. Mr. Trytz will have complete charge of the buying and as his previous experience has given him a wide acquaintance among both the buyers in this section and the producers of this class of goods, his acquisition should prove of unusual value to the big store. He left Thursday evening for the big markets to purchase a complete stock of ready-to-wear.

SERIES OF LENTEN OBSERVATIONS BY OUTSIDE PASTORS

Meetings to Be Held at Trinity Church Under Auspices of St. John's Congregation.

Members of St. John's Lutheran church have decided upon a novel undertaking to bring the truths underlying the celebration of Lent, to the community at large. Their plan calls for a series of five mid-week Lenten sermons on Christian fundamentals. These have been termed "The Way of Salvation" because, so they say, every man must know and believe them in order to be saved in the Christian sense; that is, in order to reach heaven. The series as announced is: 1—The Bible, God's Message; 2—Whence is Man? 3—What Must I Do to Be Saved? 4—Death—Then? 5—And They Crucified Him.

For each week of the remaining Lenten season a service is scheduled, beginning with Tuesday, March 14. English will be used exclusively. The Trinity Lutheran church has been engaged and the time has been set at 8 p. m. Congregational singing will feature the services.

Neighboring pastors have been chosen to assist Rev. E. H. Kreidt in delivering the sermons, namely, Rev. Martin Hauser of Warren; Rev. G. B. Propp of Ogema; Rev. O. H. Brauer of Mahnomen and Rev. O. C. Fedeke of Plummer. A different pastor has been assigned to each of the services, assuring all, says Rev. Kreidt, "interesting speakers upon a needful subject at a convenient meeting place and hour."

Rev. Hauser of Warren is to open the series. His topic will be "The Bible, God's Message," in which he intends to prove that no other literature is God's Word but the Bible, and that it is sufficient to accomplish the purpose for which God gave it.

At all serivces the public is invited. No admission fee is to be charged. All seats will be free.

CHAMPIONSHIP OF DISTRICT GOES TO CROOKSTON TEAM

Wins Over McIntosh Team in High School Contest; McIntosh Beats Thief River.

Crookston won the district high school basketball championship in the elimination contest played in that city on Thursday and Friday of last week by defeating McIntosh in the finals by a score of 20 to 9.

The Thief River Falls team was eliminated early in the series, being defeated by McIntosh by a score of 29 to 19. The Crookston Times gives the following report of this game:

"V. Jensen's stellar work at center and his ability to shoot from any position on the floor was responsible for McIntosh's 29 to 19 victory over Thief River Falls.

"The game opened fast, both teams showing their wares in an efficient manner. The first quarter ended McIntosh 8, Thief River Falls 6. The McIntosh players crept ahead a few more points in the second half when Jensen made two baskets from the center of the floor. The half ended McIntosh 13, Thief River Falls 8.

"The two teams played neck and neck in the third quarter, Thief River making two more points than their opponents. McIntosh with a burst of speed in the final quarter nosed ahead.

"Jensen was by far the star of the game while Dale, forward for McIntosh, also showed up well. Sorenson and Arnold were the star players for Thief River. Jensen was picked last year as all-district center and undoubtedly will win that honor again this season."

Other games of the tournament resulted as follows: Crookston 40, Argyle 10; McIntosh 25, Ada 21; Argyle 22, Warroad 21; Crookston 24, Fosston 9; Ada 16, Stephen 11.

Sorenson, Thief River Falls guard, was picked for this position on the all-conference team, the other members being as follows: Forwards, Daniels, Crookston, and Remark, Ada; center and captain, Jensen, McIntosh; guard, Lindell, Crookston.

M'CANN WILL BE C. C. SECRETARY AFTER APRIL 1

County Agent Chosen For Post By Executive Committee of Local Commercial Club.

Will Continue in Present Position, Simply Adding Duties of Post to Farm Work.

Plan Helps in Solving Problem of Financing Farm Bureau During Coming Year.

County Agent J. J. McCann will on April 1 become secretary of the Thief River Falls Commercial club, attending to this duty in connection with the position he now holds. The board of directors of the club, anxious to do everything in their power to insure the retention of Mr. McCann and the farm bureau, hit upon this means of assisting in the payment of his salary, the sum of $600 per year being turned over to the bureau every year as the club's share of his expenses. Mr. McCann will drop no part of the farm bureau work in order to look after his new post, the idea being that the two organizations will both be better served by the new arrangement.

Nothing in the way of consolidation will be attempted at this time as the work of the county agent is of a highly specialized nature and often requires a class of service that cannot in any way be regarded as being a part of the Commercial club's program. The clerical work of both can, however, be handily assumed by one person with benefit to all concerned. Each will be in direct charge of its own board of directors and will remain as at present constituted, both as to financing and management.

During the past two years the county's share in the cost of maintaining the farm bureau has been met by popular subscription, the balance being made up by the state and national appropriations and the membership fees. This latter source can hardly be depended on to carry its end under present circumstances as a large part of the farming population is hard pressed for money. The plan is to keep the bureau going until fall when a more favorable situation as regards the ready cash can be looked for, enabling the farmer to pay his membership dues in the organization.

No Community Club.

The suggestion that the Commercial club be changed in name and nature to a community club whose activities shall embrace the entire county is not considered feasible. Persons residing outside of Thief River Falls often find it difficult to attend meetings or otherwise take any great interest in the activities of the club, and including them in the membership would serve no good purpose. They will be made welcome should they desire to join but urging them to do so is not deemed advisable. The fact of the club secretary being also the county agent will bring the farming feature very close to the organization in any event and President H. W. Froehlich is particularly desirous that the farmer shall regard the club as ready at all times to extend any assistance within its power to the farming population of the county and neighborhood.

It is thought the new arrangement will meet with the approval of all concerned and prove generally more satisfactory than the plan heretofore followed.

Bill Authorizes $15,000 For Red Lake River Work

New river and harbor improvements calling for an estimated expenditure of approximately $31,000,000 would be authorized under a bill ordered reported Saturday by the house rivers and harbors committee.

Among the improvements which would be authorized by the bill and the amount the army engineers have reported would be required is included Red Lake and Red Lake river, Minnesota, $15,000.

This is the sum set by engineers as representing the value to navigation of the conservancy and drainage program on the river and was included in the bill estimating the benefits.

G. O. P. Voters Will Elect County Delegates Tuesday

The election of precinct delegates to the Republican county convention to be held at the court house in this city on March 18, will take place on Tuesday, March 14. Although there were a number of precincts in which no names were filed for the delegate places it is expected that all will be represented, provision being made for writing names in on the ballots. Special election ballots for every precinct in the county have been printed, this being one of the requirements under the new law.

As the township elections also take place on Tuesday it is certain a much larger vote for delegates to the convention will be cast than would otherwise be the case.

SELVIG ISSUES STATEMENT TO VALLEY VOTERS

Gives Reasons For Being Candidate For Endorsement at Congressional Convention.

Pays Respects to Present Congressman and Says Time is Here to Make a Change.

Represents No Clique, Combination or Group and Stands on His Past Record.

The Times has been requested by C. G. Selvig for space to present his views on the congressional contest in this district. He is accorded this consideration because it is due him for his valuable work in this section of the state and his capacity to do the work. The Times disclaims any interest in Mr. Selvig's candidacy except in the matter of presenting the news to its readers, who are fully able to make up their minds regarding the candidates:

Mr. Selvig's statement:

"There is a contest for the seat in congress from this district. There is a reason for this. The Ninth district of Minnesota is entitled to have a man in congress who will throw his entire self, body and soul, into the fight to secure for agriculture and for labor the rewards they deserve.

Constructive Policy Needed.

"Much has been said and written about the condition of many of the farmers who are renters and who would like to improve their conditions. Tenancy has increased at an alarming rate during the past decade. Many thousands more who own their farms are wondering how it is all going to end. I am not a pessimist and never will be. At the same time there is no use in sticking one's head into the sand, ostrich-like, and just merely hope it's all coming out all right in the end. The nation needs a constructive agricultural policy, which it never has had in the past and does not have now.

"High taxes, low prices for farm products, staggering debts and an unpromising future stare the farmers in the face. High railroad rates, high prices still prevailing for machinery and supplies, stagnant world markets, gloom and misery prevail in nearly every home, and yet the farmers and laborers are advised to be content. They are asked to be satisfied with grain grade hearings; pseudo regulation of grain exchanges which has not abated gambling in grain one iota; alleged packer control which lifted Minnesota's efficient state control and substituted instead weak and inadequate, federal supervision, preferred by the packers.

Farmers Seem Indifferent.

"Grudgingly a national co-operative law has been passed, but has anyone heard anything lately about an adequate financing system without which the co-operative law is but 'brass and sounding cymbals?' Has anyone heard anything about reducing railway rates by the only method that this can be done, of 'squeezing' out four or five billions of dollars of watered stock and of compelling economies in management? And so on for a score more of problems affecting the very life blood of our farmers and townspeople alike.

"I sometimes doubt whether the farmers are really interested in their own welfare. If they were, there would be a mass meeting held in every township on Tuesday, March 14, to protest present conditions and to force changes that will benefit the mass of people whose interests are adversely affected. Every thinking man and woman can realize the tragedy of present conditions. Nothing will be taken away from legitimate business in the readjustment that is necessary. Business and professional men will be benefited when farmers do well. The country suffers when the farmers are down and out.

Up to Farmer and Laborer.

"There is a contest for congress in this district. The people presumably will have a chance to select the man they want. The question arises: Is the selection going to be made entirely by individuals who have been recipients of congressional favors and offices in the past or who expect 'plums' in the future? Or will the people, including the farmers and laboring men, take part?

"I am not personally interested in whether I am elected to congress or not. I am interested, however, in seeing someone elected who will enter whole-heartedly and vigorously into the task of helping the farmers and laboring people. Not in a half-hearted, apologetic manner but with a passion to achieve for them their just deserts." The people of our district have a right to such service.

Aggressive Work Needed.

are real. There should be someone to take an aggressive part in this work from our district in congress now. A new age is here but evidently our people prefer to cling to beneficiary, full amount goes to his estate.

"The opponents of progress are not deceiving anybody when they say Selvig is too valuable a man for the Red River valley; we can't afford to lose him. No one in the Valley owes me anything. I'm having a splendid time here in my work because I love it. There are a wonderful lot of folks right in Pennington county and up and down the Valley with whom it has been a joy to work. Such projects as have been organized and carried on will live and grow. No one needs worry about that.

"But there are bigger things to do that means millions every year to our people and increased happiness and contentment as well. They are not figments of the imagination. Foes the past. They let the conventions take care of themselves. They listen to the soft talk of the office-holder and the enticing eloquence of the office-seeker—and pay the costs afterwards.

Makes No Attack.

"The man who expresses his willingness to be a candidate for office subjects himself to crucifixion because he has ideals and convictions. He is made out to be a mere self-seeker, an advertiser. His motives are impugned, his ability derided, his actions misinterpreted and willfully misunderstood.

"I make no attack on Mr. Steenerson. His record speaks for itself. His silence on the burning issues of the day is eloquent. His leadership for real tangible benefits to the 'dirt' farmers and 'overalls' laborer does not reach those who do most of the world's work.

The Contest is On.

"I want to add once more that there is a contest for congress in the Ninth district. It is a contest between the people who want something done against those who don't know or don't care. It is a contest between people who want a congressman pledged to the people's interests all of the time against those who favor age-old galvanized political chicanery that is most active at election time. It is a contest between those who favor constructive upbuilding of one of God's most favored spots on earth against those who are not alive to the tremendous immediate pressing needs and future possibilities of this district.

"What the outcome may be is entirely in the hands of the people. I have no money for an extensive campaign. I have no string of officials reaching into every village and hamlet.

"I do have and want the support of true hearted people in every township, village and city who believe in a cause."

REACH AGREEMENT ON SOLDIER BONUS; HAS FOUR OPTIONS

One is That Banks May Loan Money to Veterans With Service Certificate as Security.

Final agreement on the compromise soldier bonus bill was reached Tuesday by the house ways and means Republicans, who authorized Chairman Fordney to present the measure to the house before adjournment. Representative Fordney announced the Democrats on the committee would be called in Saturday to pass formally on the bill. He said it was his plan to present a formal report to the house immediately after the measure had been approved by the entire committee. The Democrats are not expected to submit a minority report.

As finally drawn the measure carries four options with the added provision of an immediate cash payment to those former service men entitled to not more than $50 adjusted service pay. It was stated no important change was made in the new bank loan provision for the adjusted certificate title or in the other three options, which are as follows:

Vocational training, home and farm aid and land settlement.

An effort to have included in the measure a provision providing for the payment of compensation to immediate relatives of men who have died since their discharge from service, was unsuccessful.

Following are the bank loan sections of the bonus bill:

(a) That loans to veterans upon adjusted service certificates before Sept. 30, 1925, can be made only in accordance with the following:

(b) Any bank may loan to any veteran on his note secured by his adjusted service certificate any amount up to 50 per cent of its "loan basis" (as defined under sub-division F of this section), the loan to mature on or before Sept. 30, 1925. Interest rates shall not exceed by more than two per cent the local federal reserve district rate.

(c) If a veteran does not pay his note within six months after maturity or in any event before Sept. 30, 1925, the bank shall present the certificate and note to the secretary of the treasury, who shall pay the bank the veteran's balance due him.

(d) If the veteran dies before the principal is due the note shall be paid and cancelled at once.

(e) When any loan is in default the bank shall within 30 days notify the secretary of the treasury.

(f) The loan basis of any certificate shall be the amount of the adjusted service certificate plus interest on it from October, 1922, at 4½ per cent.

(g) In presenting the note to the secretary the bank must include a sworn statement that it charged the veteran only the legal interest rate therein provided. Penalty for violation of this to be $100.

(h) Loans in violation of this section shall be void. Veterans who violate the provisions shall lose their rights under this title. After Sept. 30, 1925, the government would make loans to veterans.

FINDS CONDITIONS IN WISCONSIN AND IOWA VERY MUCH BETTER

Farmers in Badger State Drop Hogs and Fodder Crops, Giving Entire Attention to Butterfat and Tobacco Production.

Olaf Ramstad, president of the Citizens State bank, returned the first of the week from a visit to points in Iowa and Wisconsin. He states that business depression is not as evident among the farmers down there as here, most of them being so situated that they can finance themselves without much trouble even though they may not have a great deal to dispose of in the way of products. One thing that has helped the Wisconsin farmer in particular is that there was no such land boom in the Badger state as that which upset farming conditions in southern Minnesota and Iowa a couple of years ago. Wisconsin has been plodding right along and now finds there is no serious readjustment to make.

Money seems to be more plentiful in the neighboring state also. Farmers have no difficulty in borrowing what they need, and they often need quite a lot. A $10,000 loan on an 80 acre farm is nothing unusual, according to Mr. Ramstad.

Tobacco raising and dairying are the chief industries of the Coon Prairie district. A visitor from this section is at a loss to understand how the dairymen can compete with those living in the grass regions of the North as very often they ship in practically everything in the way of feed needed for their herds. They do not raise grain enough to provide the straw necessary on their places and buy the product by the bale. They seem also to have gone out of the hog raising business to a large extent, which is a surprising thing as pork production was the great mainstay of the region 20 years ago.

Mr. Ramstad found very few tractors in use in Wisconsin but there was an active demand for good horses. In this connection the Thief River Falls banker is of the opinion that the farmer who will go into the business of raising a good quality of horses will be amply repaid, this applying as well to northwestern Minnesota as to Wisconsin and Iowa.

Everywhere, says Mr. Ramstad, there is evidence of the country resuming its normal business stride.

Community Club Meeting.

A meeting of the Girls' Community club was held at the Commercial club rooms Monday evening, at which time a committee of nine young ladies, Misses Eleanor Rambeck, Stella Nelson, Grace McCrum, Clarissa Hornseth, Olga Lindquist, Lola Jubb, Edna O'Brien, Mrs. Gynther Tessum and Mrs. J. E. Bloomquist were hostesses at a party with St. Patrick's day appointments used in the decorations and lunch. The meeting opened with a vocal solo by Miss Ann Tharaldson, accompanied by Mrs. A. Campbell. She responded to an encore. Mrs. H. W. Froehlich gave a talk on "First Aid." Mrs. Irma Mallory Fisher sang two solos with Mrs. C. O. Erickson as accompanist. Master Henry Arneson favored the club with two violin solos, which were greatly appreciated. His sister, Miss Eileen Arneson, presided at the piano.

Miss Maude Frissell was next called upon to give a discussion on the advisability of the club sponsoring a plan to secure quarters which could be suitably used as a meeting place for the club and also as a recreational center for the boys and girls of the city, where evenings could be spent in a social way under proper supervision. This has been the subject of much discussion among the civic organizations in the city but up to date nothing has been done to advance the proposal. The girls were unanimously in favor of doing everything in their power to boost the venture. It was also suggested that this same room could be used as a rest room for women and children from out of town who come here to shop. The Trinity Lutheran church was the first to recognize this proposed plan and has offered the club the use of the basement church on Horace avenue as a meeting place, free of charge, providing that dancing and cards are prohibited. It is the desire of the club to gain the co-operation of other organizations in the city in this matter.

A motion to accept Mr. Brumund's offer on April 7, at which time "The Ghost in the Garret" is to be rebooked, was carried. The whole day is to be given over to the club for a small sum and in addition to the regular performance, a home talent vaudeville program is being planned. This is being done in order to raise money to increase the treasury fund, which is used for charitable purposes.

Parent-Teachers' Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association, held in the auditorium of the Knox school Tuesday evening, was attended by about 300 people. The interest taken by both parents and teachers was plainly attested by the enthusiasm and response from the audience during the discussions. This meeting might safely be called the best that has been held, considering it from a standpoint both of attendance and interest.

The entire evening was devoted to the discussion of the subject, "What Can We as Parents Do to Provide Proper Entertainment for Boys and Girls of High School Age?" which was in charge of Mrs. T. L. Melgaard, Mrs. C. T. Christianson and A. W. Jardine. During this time the feasibility of having a motion picture machine in school was brought up and resulted in a decision to borrow the machine used at the Oakland Park sanatorium, to be used at the next meeting of the association in order to demonstrate to the people the advantage of showing educational films to school children. This will be done in place of serving lunch and a silver offering will be taken, the money to be used toward buying a machine.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with the Girls' Community club in their project to build a community center where the young people might find proper recreation.

During the evening light refreshments were served by the East Side women, with Mrs. C. A. Nason as chairman. A short musical program interspersed the subjects for discussion. Mrs. O. F. Mellby gave a vocal solo, being accompanied by Mrs. N. K. Harris. Miss Maxine Johnson played a piano solo. Supt. I. T. Simley discussed "Home Study as a Part of the Evening Program for Boys and Girls," in the absence of Mr. Rapacz, who was ill. Before the meeting disbanded 30 new members were added.

Farewell Party.

The regular meeting of the Eastern Star last night was followed by a farewell party given by the Masons and Eastern Stars in honor of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gobler, who are leaving for Wisconsin soon to make their home on a farm. As a memory gift Mr. and Mrs. Gobler were presented with Eastern Star spoons. During the evening Mrs. Irma Mallory Fisher sang a group of songs, accompanied by Mrs. C. O. Erickson. Miss Beulah Chamberlain gave two readings. The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing and cards, with Miss Theone Walker furnishing an excellent program of dance music. A spirit of friendly informality marked the occasion and gave the honor guests a pleasing remembrance of the local lodge and chapter whose good wishes go with them to their new home.

Dr. Hielscher Visits City.

Dr. Helen Hughes Hielscher of Mankato, former president of the Auxiliary to the American Legion, now national committee-woman, was the speaker Saturday evening at a meeting of the local Auxiliary. Owing to a misunderstanding concerning the date of her appearance here the attendance was not as large as had been hoped for.

Dr. Hielscher, who has given up her practice in medicine and is giving her whole time to Auxiliary work, explained in detail the organization of the Auxiliary, which is composed of wives, mothers, sisters and daughters of ex-service men, and she also dwelt on the excellent service the women are carrying on for the sick and disabled veterans in various hospitals throughout the country. She cited many pathetic instances where soldiers were sorely in need of every encouragement, and said it was up to the Auxiliary to take hold of the work and find some systematic means of caring for these men until they are completely well. She also told of the sacrifices many prominent women in the state have made and are still making in order that the boys may be properly taken care of. In closing, the speaker gave many reasons why every ex-service man was entitled to a bonus and that the American Legion is doing everything in its power to see that some of the more unfortunate boys receive their share.

IMPRESSIVE LECTURE ON MOTION PICTURE GIVEN BY MINISTER

Unusual Tribute Paid "Inside the Cup by Prominent Minister of Paterson, N. J., in Address Delivered in Church.

(Morning Call, Paterson, N. J.)

When a picture is big enough to draw a sermon from a minister of the gospel like Rev. Henry R. Rose of Newark, it must be some picture. That is what "The Inside of the Cup" did. So deep was the impression it made on this eminent clergyman when he saw it at the Criterion theatre, New York, that he delivered a special sermon on it at the Church of the Redeemer, not to his congregation alone, but to the great public of Newark, and, while the edifice was crowded, half a thousand disappointed people waited outside the church trying to get in. Illustrated by slides produced from the still plates, this great indictment of hypocricy among a certain class of people made a deep impression on an audience from every walk of life.

So greatly was Dr. Rose moved by the impression the lecture made on his congregation that he wrote next day to Famous Players-Lasky Corporation about it. He said in part:

"It is a pleasure to inform you that the church was crowded to the limits last night when I gave my illustrated lecture on 'The Inside of the Cup.' We had to turn fully 300 people away and some estimated at the number at 500. You will appreciate the interest when I tell you that the church was filed ten minutes after we opened the doors.

"It proved one of the most impressive lectures I have ever given. Absolute silence, and all over the church I could see handkerchiefs, for the pathos of the story got hold of people.

"It is a great film and will do a wide good. Men need to be shown the working out of their inhumanity to man before they wake up and put churches on the side of the weak and aspiring."

SCHOOL TAXES.

People as a rule hesitate to raise a row over school taxes. They will bear up under an awful load without emitting a peep, but there comes a time when even the most liberal minded and tolerant taxpayer feel himself called upon to file a protest. He does not often know just what to do in order to bring the relief asked for, but is certain that something should be done about the matter.

There is no good purpose to be served by denying the fact that school taxes in District No. 18 of Pennington county have become a heavy burden. One-half of the total amount paid as taxes by the property owners is going toward maintaining our schools and a large number of those who must pay are asking is some reduction cannot be attempted.

It is not so much a case of finding fault as of asking questions. If the schools are being run on as economical a plan as possible there is no more to be said. If in order to maintain their standing it is necessary that all the present departments be retained, the cost will have to be borne, but many wish to be certain that it is necessary. There is a feeling that expenses could be cut very materially by the elimination from the curriculum of a number of departments in the high school, or at least decreasing their importance and cost. Taxpayers have no hesitancy in naming the departments which in their opinion are superfluous and might be cut down greatly without in any manner impairing the general efficiency of the schools. They regard much of what is taught as "frills" which will prove of no value to the student when it comes time to select a career. Just how much justification there may be for this contention The Times will not attempt to say.

Thief River Falls is by no means alone among Minnesota municipalities finding themselves in difficulties because of steadily growing school taxes. In some instances—not many as yet—an attempt has been made to cut costs all along the line, teachers' salaries included. This is always an unpopular proceeding and school boards resort to it only after much urging on the part of the taxpayers. It is maintained, however, that teachers cannot expect to be retained at war time salaries any more than people following other lines of work. No one suggests that the rates be reduced to pre-war points, it being admitted teachers were previous to that time generally underpaid. It is the opinion of many, nevertheless, that the pendulum has now swung too far in the other direction.

School boards would no doubt be glad to reduce expenses if they knew just how to go about it. Cutting out any of the departments might deprive the district of the sums apportioned by the state as school aid, and this would be a serious matter. The only remedy for this situation would be for the state to make less exacting the conditions under which the aid is paid, and this is not likely to happen.

We want the best schools, of course, but there is such a thing as not being able to have everything we want for the reason that we cannot afford it. We must keep within our means and a tax rate for school purposes of 51.70 mills is proving considerable of a strain.

The Times is not criticizing either the present or any previous school board. The cost of education has advanced the same as everything else, only to a greater extent, and it may be there is no help for it. A frank discussion of the subject will prove of value both to the board and the school patrons.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

An attorney appearing in the district court in the city last week as counsel for a man charged with the violation of the liquor laws, stated that he could secure all the liquor he wanted and without difficulty within two blocks in any direction from the court house. Either this statement is not true, in which case it should not have been made, or it is a fact, in which case the matter needs attention.

This attorney's statement can hardly be permitted to pass unchallenged. It is not only a direct slam against the city as a law-abiding community, but casts serious reflections on the integrity of its law-enforcement officers. If this lawyer, who is not a resident of Thief River Falls, can secure intoxicating liquors with such ease and in such quantities as he claims, it is his duty to furnish the police with the details in order that a stop may be put to the traffic.

The probabilities are that something passing for whiskey can be secured in Thief River Falls and Pennington county. In this respect the community is very much like its neighbors. That conditions are anywhere near as bad as the remarks of this attorney would imply is not true, however, and his statement is and should be resented. It is not likely it was intended the assertion should be taken literally, but even allowing a large margin for exaggeration makes it sufficiently bad to make further investigation advisable.

Enforcement of the liquor laws is taxing the police resources of the state and nation, to say nothing of smaller communities. Offenders are found and punished every day and Pennington county is finding its share of them. Leniency toward this class of lawbreakers can hardly be charged against our courts nor laxity in their apprehension against our police officers. The latter cannot cause arrests without something in the shape of evidence and if this attorney has so much of it at his disposal he will be playing the part of a good citizen by turning it over to the authorities.

ONE SPECIES OF GRAFTER.

Minnesota newspaper publishers—a large number of them at any rate—have become tired of lending their space toward boosting some particular man for office and have stopped filling their columns with syndicated stuff having no other purpose than the securing of votes for some candidate or other. They demand that this class of publicity shall be paid for the same as any other advertising and refuse longer to make contributions amounting to a vast sum of money in the aggregate toward securing lucrative posts for men in whom they have little or no interest themselves and in whose success the public is but mildly concerned.

Campaign managers at times resort to the most questionable means in order to get the name and deeds of their employer before the public. The matter submitted is often so camouflaged that only by reading the entire article is its intent revealed. It has come to a pass where editors are suspicious of everything with which a candidate's name is connected and fight shy of it even where there might be a legitimate reason for its publication.

This does not mean that newspapers will have nothing to say for or against candidates. Editorial comment will be plentiful as ever but it will be honest comment and express the opinion of the editor himself. Any other kind will be regarded as advertising by men who publish newspapers worth while. It will be so labeled, as required by law, and payment for it will be expected. This will be better for the newspapers and better for the candidates, if the latter only knew it. The public will have more respect for the man who comes out in the open and honestly gives his reasons for believing he will be able to serve them in any given position. There is no reason why he should not pay for what he gets the same as everybody else, and politics as a whole will be a cleaner and more respected game when it is generally understood that he is so doing.

MORE COMPLICATIONS.

Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis is the latest entry in the senatorial race. Mayor Leach has not definitely declared himself a candidate, but neither does he say he will not make the run. It is understood the American Legion will get behind him and that an energetic campaign will be launched at once.

While the ex-service men are credited with putting Col. Leach forward, it is more likely that Minneapolis politicians who see a chance for a dark horse are the leading spirits in the proceeding. The contest for the nomination between Kellogg and Hallam may reach an acute stage, in which case a man with the solid Hennepin county delegation would be in a decidedly favorable position.

To add interest to the situation the more radical element in the party has brought out James Manahan, St. Paul, as a candidate. This may have some effect on the situation in Ramsey, the general impression being that it will help Kellogg by turning in another direction an important block of votes which otherwise might be expected to go to Judge Hallam. Whether or not this defection will prove serious depends on just how strong a following Manahan will be able to muster.

There is no denying the fact that Judge Hallam's candidacy is growing in popularity. His supporters are conducting a clean campaign, confining themselves to pointing out their candidate's fitness for the post without going out of their way to disparage any of his opponents.

The senatorial situation is by far the most interesting feature of the campaign thus far. It is not probable there will be even a contest for state offices with the one exception of clerk of the supreme court. Present state officers will be renominated without opposition and this leaves a senatorial situation as the only topic on which to pin an argument. It promises to furnish enough excitement to serve all purposes.

The Strathcona Star speaks of a social function in that village as a "dry, quiet, enjoyable dance," and goes on to explain that on the night of the party there was not a drop of moonshine within smelling distance of the hall. From a purity squad standpoint this is a highly satisfactory state of affairs, but it is to be feared that it may have a tendency to keep down attendance at dances in that neighborhood in the future.

One hand supported his chin, the other, lying lax on his knee, held between listless fingers a note which read: "The bird in the cage has flown and the prisoner has battered down the barrier to her freedom. How to Make Money.

Get a dozen eggs, a pumpkin pie, a loaf of bread, a pound of wieners, a cash register and a box of paper napkins and start a chain of restaurants. The public has learned how to make this sort of business profitable. You can retail egg sandwiches at 20 cents each, giving you a profit of 350 per cent. By using a razor you can cut pumpkin pie into twelve pieces and can retail the piece at 20 cents, thus each pie would bring you $2.40, representing a profit of 1,000 per cent, as the original pie costs you 12 cents. You can get $1 out of every loaf of bread by serving two small slices of toast for 10 cents. It is being done every day, and so far as the fare is concerned the public simply eats it up.

The Week's Sermon

(By Rev. E. H. Kreidt, Pastor St. John's Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls.)

TWO GARDENS.

The Garden of Eden and the Garden of Gethsemane: Who has not heard of them? What an important role they have played in the destiny of Man!

Eden, happy and beautiful home of Adam and Eve, the gift of a bountiful and loving God who had created them in His own image—perfect, righteous and holy. That was their likeness to God, for Paul writes to the Ephesians (4:24): "Put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness." They lived in blissful communion with God, their Maker; they loved Him ardently; they served him joyfully; they trusted Him implicitly. God had given them the best of everything; and they were content in their perfection.

Then Satan came to sow the seeds of doubt and distrust. "Yea, hath God said, 'Ye shall not eat of every tree in the garden?' Ye shall not surely die: For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." And how quickly the evil seed sprouted and bore its disastrous fruit. When Eve saw that the "tree was to be desired to make one wise," she took of the fruit and ate; she gave to Adam and he ate. Did they become as gods? Did it make them wise? In a measure, yes. They learned to know evil. They had sinned against their God; they had transgressed His command: "Thou shalt not eat of it,"—that was evil. And they knew it, for they were afraid of God. (Read Genesis 3.)

"Thou shalt surely die" was the threatened punishment of disobedience, of evil. The threat now changes to fact. The curse of God falls, their Paradise is lost, their perfection destroyed, their holiness changed to wickedness, their righteousness to sinfulness.

Thenceforward every step led toward death and the grave. They learned to know evil more and more. Their first son becomes the first murderer; his offspring increases in every kind of wickedness. O, the dreadful consequence of that disobedience in Eden! The whole human race, sinful, corrupt, wicked, prone to evil, averse to good; enemies of God, slaves of sin, subjects of eternal death, for "by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." (Rom. 5, 12.) That is what remains of the Garden of Eden for humanity. In Eden Adam fell and all his posterity fell with him. The curse which struck him strikes us all.

But four thousand years have passed and another garden holds the center of importance. It is Gethsemane at the foot of the Mount of Olives near Jerusalem. Under the pale moon a man kneels beneath its aged trees. It is Jesus of Nazareth, the Lamb of God. He enters into Gethsemane to complete his task upon earth.

"My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death." Those words explain his purpose in Gethsemane. He comes to face death. Why must He, the son of God, die? Is not death the wages of sin? Yes, indeed. Was not Jesus without sin? True, for not even His sworn enemies can convince Him of a sin. Why then must he fear death? "God hath made Him to be sin FOR US, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." (2 Cor. 5, 21.) "The Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." (Is. 53.)

The Son of God becomes the substitute, the bondman of the human race, to suffer for it, in its place, the penalty of its guilt, and that was death. And therefore Jesus is "sorrowful and very heavy." The guilt of the world rested upon Him by imputation; the punishment of the world was to fall upon Him.

How He fears this death! He trembles and quakes! Sorrow unspeakable grips his soul! Thrice He prays for deliverance from the cup of suffering and death; God shall, if possible, find another method for the accomplishment of His task. He prays; He wrestles with the Prince of Darkness until the sweat falls as blood to the ground; an angel of heaven comes to strengthen Him! Terrible ordeal! Satan had tried his utmost to swerve Jesus from the path of duty; hell had strained its every effort to cause Jesus to shrink from death. But He remains true; His prayer closes: "Father, Thy will be done!" Calmly, strengthened and fortified, he goes to meet his foes.

Here in Gethsemane Satan had again tempted man; he had sought to retain the victory won in Eden. But here he meets defeat. The Champion of Humanity remains; He will suffer to save man, He will enter into the depths to raise man to glory. It costs Him dear, but He pays the price.

Remember, then, the import of Eden and Gethsemane. Through Adam in Eden we fell into sin and are subject to the curse of God: "Thou shalt die." There we lost perfection, holiness and the favor of God. Christ in Gethsemane redeems us from sin and the curse by taking them upon Himself and suffering in our stead. Through Him we have gained righteousness and acceptance with God. Christ has repaired the damage and restored the loss. "In Him we have redemption by His blood, even the forgiveness of sin."

Sinners, believe it! Let Gethsemane replace the loss of Eden! There is no other way. God Himself knew of none other; you surely will not find another.

American Legion Corner

Poison Gas and Poison Pens.

Discharged by a Wall street banking house for refusing to write letters to congress attacking adjusted compensation, an ex-service man has turned to the American Legion at New York for help in finding another position. He was one of three, out of 250 employes, who refused to sell his pen.

The Legion has his affidavit stating that typewritten forms were passed out by the firm to all its workers with an order that each employe hand in four unsealed letters, one to President Harding and three to congressmen, and the remark that "you fellows had better write these letters if you want to keep your jobs."

The order of "Commander of the Legion of Honor," conferred on him by the French government, has been declined as a personal decoration by Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion. He has cabled to Marshal Foch that he wishes to accept the award only "as a tribute to all members of the Legion."

Matteo Gambaiano doesn't ask anybody to take him at his word. When he mailed his subscription to the American Legion Weekly he sent a check for $2 and his bank book to show that the check was good.

In a letter to State Commander Van Dyke from National Adjutant Bolles, the latter conveys the encouraging news that on March 1 the national paid up membership of the American Legion for 1922 was more than 160,000 greater than on the corresponding date in 1921. And National Adjutant Bolles adds:

"This is our year to reach the million mark in actual paid up memberships. All signs point that way. Every department is working hard—none more so than the Gopher Gang. What does this new record mean? It means that the Legion has convinced the average veteran that it is worth joining; that our fund of prestige and good will is now so great that the public expects every veteran to be a member.

"The old inertia has been overcome. Such events as the Kansas City convention, the tour of Marshal Foch, the adjusted compensation campaign, and the good deeds that Legionnaires everywhere are performing, have advertised the Legion in every hamlet. Men have gotten past the point of asking why they should join. The question now is, 'How can I afford to stay out?'

"Each of our eleven thousand Legion posts must take advantage of this tidal wave of enthusiasm. Early returns show that the Legion appeal is stronger than ever. We must go out and get them in. A million active paid-up members by May, 1922, will give the Legion an overwhelming front in its fight for the jobless, compensation, Americanism, the disabled, and will give the lie to those croakers who have predicted the Legion would lose its standing.

"One hundred and fifty thousand questionnaire blanks have just been shipped to Minnesota for the posts of your department. By this time you will have distributed them to your 500 Gopher posts, whose 30,000 Legionnaires will go out among their comrades to record their government needs and urge them to unite with us under the Legion banner for the good of our country and the benefit of all our buddies.

"This is the critical moment. Every department, post and Legionnaire is on tiptoe, waiting for the signal to go. Good luck to the Gopher Gang! Let's Go!"

The Legion Five-Fold Plan of National Adjusted Compensation.

(Note: This digest, compiled by Stafford King, Adjutant, American Legion of Minnesota, was prepared for use by Legion posts and speakers in refuting the unjust claim of opponents of national adjusted compensation to the effect that the huge immediate (?) drain on the U. S. treasury would bankrupt the country. This digest shows that there will be no huge immediate drain—that the cost will be spread out over many years. In reading this digest, it should be remembered that all computations of time are made only after deducting the first sixty days of service, for which was paid a $60 bonus at time of discharge. No payment made before the first of July or January next following after application.)

Every veteran may avail himself of one, but only one, of the following plans:

1. Adjusted service pay. (The cash plan.

(a) Home service at $1 per day. Maximum $500.

(b) Overseas service at $1.25 per day. Maximum $625.

Payable thus: If over $500, in ten quarterly installments.

If less than $500, in quarterly installments of $50 each; the last of which may be less than $50.

Note: Overseas service means service in Europe or Asia, not Japan, China, or the Philippines, and on board ship. Home service is any other service.

2. Adjusted Service Certificates.

(a) Insurance payable at end of 20 years, as follows:

1. Face value in amount of adjusted service pay plus 40 per cent thereof.

2. Plus 4½ per cent compounded annually for twenty years.

3. Face value payable to veteran at end of 20 years.

4. If veteran dies prior to 20 years his beneficiary receives full amount.

5. Policy holder can change beneficiary.

6. If veteran dies without a named (b) Loan Value, as follows:

1. None during first two years.

2. During third to fifth years inclusive, veteran can borrow 90 per cent of adjusted service pay, plus 4½ per cent interest thereon compounded annually from date certificate becomes effective to date of making the loan.

3. During sixth to 20th years inclusive, veteran can borrow 80 per cent of adjusted service pay, plus 40 per cent thereof, plus 4½ per cent interest on the total compounded annually from date certificates become effective to date of making loan.

4. Application may be made through any first, second or third class postoffice, payments to be made there also.

5. Loans run not over the length of certificate and bear 4½ per cent interest on unpaid principal.

6. Payable as may be agreed, in payments of such size as to take care of the interest and such part of the principal as will extinguish the debt at the date agreed on.

7. Certificate is forfeited if notes are unpaid more than two years.

8. Such policy is not negotiable nor assignable, nor can it be used to secure any other loan other than as above. If so used it is voided and forfeited.

3. Vocational Training Aid.

1. Provides for the payment to applicant not already securing vocational training, the sum of $1.75 per day, the whole amount not to exceed 140 per cent of his adjusted service pay on a course of vocational training.

4. Farm or Home Aid.

1. Provides that the veteran may receive from the government a sum not to exceed 140 per cent of his adjusted service pay for the purpose of improving a city or suburban home, or a farm not selected under Plan 5 below. All this subject to the approval of the secretary of the interior. The money may be paid direct to the veteran or his debtor.

5. Land Settlement.

1. Gives preference of 60 days for veterans to settle on any lands opened for homestead or reclaimed lands for sale by the government.

2. Veteran may receive from the government his adjusted service pay plus 40 per cent for the sole purpose of applying same on the purchase price of such lands.

Now then, Gopher Gang, let's tell the world just what adjusted compensation means by bulletin board, in the local newspapers, and through board speakers. Let's go!

Card of Thanks.

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED AT MEETING OF 14th DIST. CREAMERY MEN

At a meeting held in Thief River Falls by District No. 14 of the Minnesota Co-operative Creamery association, the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, A bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives, known as H. F. 8086, to prohibit the manufacture and sale of filled milk,

"Be it Resolved, That we heartily endorse the said bill and respectfully request our representatives in congress to support the measure and use their best efforts to have it passed."

"Whereas, We realize that A. J. McGuire has done more than any other man to further the best interest of the co-operative creameries and the dairy industry of Northern Minnesota,

"Be It Resolved, That the directors of the 14th District of Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, in meeting assembled, extend to him our most hearty thanks and support.

"Be it Further Resolved, That the preamble and resolution now adopted be spread on the minutes of this meeting and that a copy be transmitted to Mr. McGuire."

"Whereas, It seems as though the Dairy Record, the official newspaper of the buttermakers, is constantly trying to belittle, disrupt and hamper the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, an organization organized for the purpose of furthering the best interest of the dairy industry, the greatest industry of Minnesota, and,

"Whereas, The member creameries of this association give employment to about one-half the buttermakers in the state,

"Be it Therefore Resolved, That the directors of the 14th District of the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, in meeting assembled, denounce the tactics used by the Dairy Record and respectfully urge the buttermakers to ask the said Dairy Record to change its attitude."

Duty vs. Desire.

We often hear of people doing things because they feel it their duty to do them. People obey laws because they must obey them; children go to school because it is an established custom; and if they study it is because duty demands it. Consequently work has come to be regarded as something irksome to be dreaded and avoided as much as possible. How much pleasanter life would be if work could be treated in the same manner as play! We enjoy pleasures because when we play we follow our natural desires. Is it not possible that the work of the world may also be divided in such a manner that each person may do that which particularly pleases him? Even now we hear of individuals who, because of fortune and will-power, are doing that for which nature specially fitted them, and who are finding in their work enough enjoyment to justify their efforts. This is well illustrated by a few scattered examples at school. Students who can get nothing but failures in mathematics, and are therefore classed as lazy or mentally deficient, may head the class in science or language, which they really enjoy. In almost every case where a student does not do well it is because he has no natural liking for the work in which he fails.

It is my firm belief that the Creator made a man or woman for every job, and that a part of our education should be discovering what particular job we are made for.

An Inspiring Lecture.

Mr. Henry Clark, the well-known chautauqua lecturer who spoke to the Parent-Teachers association at the high school last Thursday evening, had a message which it would have been well worth while for every high school student to hear. As a special invitation was extended to the students, it is unfortunate that so few availed themselves of the opportunity to hear one of the few good lectures we have here during the season. A lecture such as Mr. Clark gave, "Play Ball," gives a clearer understanding of the fundamentals of the great game of life, and it is these which we students should show a more sincere interest in. As long as we show a preference for pleasures that we enjoy only while they last over lectures that might make our whole life more pleasant and fruitful, America will be considered by her own citizens as well as by other peoples as a land where each generation vies with its predecessor in superficiality and corruption. We know that America at heart is sincere; but there seems to be too much inclination to want to show the other side.

Busy-Ness.

How busy are you? If you are one of those terribly busy creatures who are continually hustling and bustling in an effort to do the thousand and one things that clamor to be done, you are about to have some excellent advice handed out to you. Or perhaps you are one of those rare specimens who have learned the art of working; for it is an art to be able to accomplish the myriad tasks which our highly civilized life makes necessary, yet withal leave time to live—to LIVE, not merely to exist between one job and another; and it is an art to be able to work with the entire power there is in you when you do work—and to be able to play whole-heartedly when you do play.

In this wonderful old world of ours we may be able to find people who are able to do two things at once, for instance, operating a typewriter and, at the same time, talking; or perhaps we may be so fortunate as to find a young man who has through long experience become able to run a car creditably with one hand, meanwhile using his other one for a widely different purpose. But did you ever stop to think that should that same young man apply both his hands and all his faculties to the business, he would be able to travel so much faster, and straighter? Or did you ever stop to think how fast he would progress OTHERWISE if he would only dispense altogether with the necessity of driving?

Do only one thing at a time, but attack that thing with all the determination and energy you possess, and you will soon find that your busy-ness disappears like a fog on a summer morn. Being busy is, after all, merely a state of mind; we may think we are busier than a Napoleon and yet, perchance, find time to stop for an hour's confab with a friend, or to while away an afternoon reading a novel.

Introduce yourself to more business-like methods, and you will find that the theory of the straight line being the shortest distance between two points holds good in life as well as in geometry; you will arrive at your destination on time instead of being forever late.—Albert Stengelson, '24.

Our Executive Returns.

Supt. I. T. Simley returned Saturday morning via the cities from Chicago, where he had been attending the National Convention of Superintendents. He states that it was a large conference of eight thousand superintendents, including a number of board members.

The general meetings were held in the auditorium, while the sub-divisions were held in club and ball rooms and hotels. The educational exhibit was on display in the Loiter building. All varieties of school equipment and supplies were shown here. Many thousands of dollars were spent but it was worth the cost. Mr. Simley states that this was the best exhibition in that line he has ever seen.

The convention laid particular stress on the proper classification of pupils and the different courses suited to their mental capacities. School publicity received much attention. The authorities were greatly interested in the school bulletins prepared by Mr. Simley and in our High School Progress. They were also greatly impressed by the manner in which the local press supported it.

Another important discussion was that of the financial condition, as to what attitude should be taken in conducting the schools during a period of financial depression and financial struggling. During the war school construction was at a standstill and now it is a big problem in some localities. However, many schools are being erected.

On his return trip Mr. Simley spent a day in St. Paul attending a session of the State School Board association.

Dramatic Club Entertainment.

A novel entertainment in the form of three artistically portrayed one-act plays, staged by the High School Dramatic club, was presented to a small but appreciative audience last Friday evening at the auditorium.

The first of the three, "The Singing Soul," told the story of a beautiful Chinese girl, who, sacrificing love and career, gave her life that the bell of peace might ring out, relieving the distress of her people. Lucille McGinnity in the title role, Paul Helseth as the mandarin, and Albert Stengelson as the emperor, deserve particular mention. Minor parts were taken by Florence Haney, Myrtle Myrin, Herschel Hanson and Milton Larson.

The tragic effect produced by the previous play quickly dispersed when the curtain rose for the second time. A moonlit grove was the scene of "A Pierrot of the Minute." Hither came Pierrot to seek love. He finds it in the beautiful Moon-Maiden, but with dawn comes an end to his happiness. The admirable portrayal of Pierrot and the moon maiden by Ela Krohn and Eileen Arneson, respectively, is to be commended.

"A Flower of Yeddo," a Japanese comedy, had a happy effect upon its audience in that it appealed to the American sense of humor. It dealt with the tests of homage, fidelity and honor put to a young poet by a woman whom he thought false. The characters included Herbert Johnson, the poet, Helen Langseth, an enchantress, Lillian Knight, an angry lover, and Violette Krohn, the proud heroine.

Music by the high school orchestra added to the success of the entertainment.

Much credit is due Miss Chamberlain for her able direction and diligent instruction in these plays. Miss Baumann and Miss Johnson also deserve praise for their contributions in the form of dancing and music.

At the Tournament.

Crookston will represent this district at Northfield. There are no excuses to make; the best team won and Crookston had that team. Argyle was the first team on the floor, at the conference, playing Warroad in the first game. Argyle took the lead and kept it all through the game. Warroad "got started" the last quarter but the game ended with the score 22 to 21 in favor of Argyle.

The second game was the Crookston-Fosston game. Crookston scored 24 points against Fosston's 9. In the third game Ada defeated Stephen 16 to 11. These two teams were the heaviest at the conference. The last game played Thursday night was the best game of the evening, even if our team did get beat. When Capt. Jensen of McIntosh and his "gang" came on the floor they did not seem very sure of the game. McIntosh held the lead all through the game but they were never more than five points ahead until the last five minutes. The lineup for Thief River was Ralston and C. Sorenson as forwards, LaBree at center and S. Sorenson and Herron at guard. Our team played all around McIntosh but seemed unable to "cage the ball." More than once the ball was carried through the McIntosh defense only to roll around the basket a few times and jump away from the net. The first quarter ended with McIntosh 13, Thief River Falls 8. At the end of the first half the score was 20 to 17 in favor of McIntosh. The teams played a fast even game up to the last five minutes, when the score was 19 to 21 in favor of McIntosh. Then McIntosh got lucky and made four field baskets in those five minutes and so we were put out of the running for district championship. Arnold and Shetler went in the second half and both played a good game. No one can complain about the team for not playing because it was only hard luck that gave McIntosh their victory. Buck Ralston was our high scorer with two field baskets and three free throws. Clifford Sorenson was second, getting three field baskets; Arnold made two field baskets and LaBree made one. S. Sorenson and Arnold played their best game of the season and Sorenson won a place on the all-district team as guard.

Friday morning Crookston carried the horseshoe, beating Argyle by a score of 40 to 10. McIntosh defeated Ada 25 to 10. This left Crookston and McIntosh to play for the district title. In this game the luck shifted, Crookston getting that of McIntosh and McIntosh getting ours. Both teams went on the floor to win and McIntosh never gave up once, though Crookston was always in the lead. Crookston made most of their goals from the center of the floor. The game ended 20 to 9 in favor of Crookston, thus giving them the district title and the right to go to Carleton to compete for the state title. That's all; but there is another year.

Notes, Jokes and Personals.

Saturday morning Supt. Simley returned after a week's absence during which he attended the annual meeting of the National Educational association.

William DeParcq returned to school Monday morning after an illness of three weeks.

The Normal girls are out in the country doing practice teaching in the rural schools.

Stanley Sorenson was picked as a guard on the mythical district team.

Condition examinations were given in American History, Botany and Economics last week.

Howard Doland and Walter Oftelie have returned to school after a long absence.

There was a meeting of the amateur bread club last Thursday at 4 o'clock.

Boys Get Sendoff.

Thursday afternoon, the day on which the basketball boys were to start to the tournament, they were asked to assemble at the school house at 3:05. We all wanted to give the boys some kind of a sendoff, to cheer them up a little, but it was difficult to think of anything appropriate.

About 3:07 the fire gong rang and soon the pupils were all outside.

It may be of interest to know that it took exactly 60 seconds for all the pupils to get out of the building. When we got outside we saw the boys all ready to start, so Nora Lindquist led us in a few yells, after which the team started for the train with the high school's wishes for the best of luck at the tournament.—M. J.

Basketball Season Ends.

Our high school team played its last game last Thursday evening. Monday morning the boys and Mr. Stenhoff were asked to give an account of the tournament for the benefit of all the high school students. Loyal Arnold, Ralph Shetler and Stanley Sorenson responded with three minute talks, after which Mr. Stenhoff gave a brief summary of the season's work.

Although we did not have a winning team, our boys gave us some good exhibitions during the season and we want them to know that we appreciate their efforts. We also wish to thank all those who took an interest in our games and who assisted us financially by attending our home games.

A Visit to a Court Room.

The district court was in session last week and because the study of a court is one of the phases of Civics both classes in Civics visited the court room. The afternoon section attended on Thursday from 3:30 until 6:00 and the morning section on Friday from 9:00 until noon.

We can understand the thing we are studying more clearly if we actually see it in action and that is why everyone was anxious to attend. Then, too, it was the first time most of us had ever been in a court room and we found it quite different from what we had imagined a court room to be.

I had imagined the judge did the questioning besides any other talking which had to be done, but he, from all appearances, had it the easiest. I thought the jury would occupy the first few rows in the audience and those acting as witnesses would be seated where the jury actually sat. I had no idea how the attorneys went about their work, but I did know there were two, each working against the other. I thought the accused person was guarded and watched closely during the trial.

This imaginary picture is now a real one in my mind, so clear that I shall never forget it.

The court room was filled to capacity and all members of the classes who attended take this means of thanking those who were interested in having us there and those who reserved seats for us.—F. H.

My Impressions of a Court Room.

Last Thursday and Friday the Civics classes visited court. This was the first time many had been in a court room and so a great variety of impressions were made on the many students. Before telling the effect of the visit I shall tell the purpose of such a visit in case it may seem unnecessary to some.

We all know that experience is the best teacher and, thus, in seeing a court in action the boys and girls, training to become good citizens, will remember more easily the organization and duties of the court. With this point in view, Mr. Rapacz, the instructor in civics, arranged for this splendid opportunity so that the students might observe the proceedings in the judicial branch of our government and by knowing them become better citizens.

As for myself I entered the room half afraid to step on the floor, and the room [illegible] way to whe [illegible] the witnesses [illegible] I found the atmo [illegible] reverence for law a [illegible] der. I also discovered more civil and ordinary [illegible] imagined.

Everyone sat in awe to listen to the proceedings and all observed the seriousness and serenity with which the court was carried on. My mind was filled with wonder to think what a duty is left to citizens who fill such responsible positions and I also felt how much more we should work and study to prepare ourselves for the tasks that will be left to us.—P. W. '23.

The Other Side.

Ancient history—the mere mention of the name causes most students to turn away in disgust. "Why," they exclaim, "that's the most tiresome subject in school." But that, like everything else, has two sides to consider. First, the purely scholastic side of it, that of studying a certain number of pages in a certain book, of remembering some particular date or place, and, all in all, seeing ancient history just as a means of getting a credit toward graduation. Looking at it from another standpoint, however, it becomes an interesting account of the thoughts, hopes, conditions and actions of the men who lived hundreds of years before we were born. All these recorded things happened a long time ago, but remember that those people were men and women like ourselves, and that, if placed in the same environment, we should most probably do the same things they did. In short, the very actions which seem so strange to us now were the result of their ignorance of all the wonderful facts and data that have been accumulated by Man in the hundreds and thousands of years since that time. Those early peoples believed that their gods regulated the motion and paths of the heavenly bodies; is it any wonder that they feared the wrath of such super-beings, and, accordingly, offered up sacrifices to appease their displeasure? Is it any wonder that unscrupulous men should see and take advantage of these simple beliefs and subject the masses to wel-nigh intolerable conditions?

Such was the situation several thousand years ago. Men were oppressed because they could not see the wrong of the system; because they had never known anything else; and because they had not yet learned the lesson that collective power will eventually triumph over the most autocratic monarch.

History has more for us: we read of Hammurapi; and Xerxes; and Demosthenes; and of the fiery orations of Cicero against Catiline in the Roman senate. Is there any figure in reality or fiction who can be compared with Alexander? Thrust into the maze of struggle and deceit while yet a boy, he entered into the heritage of his father, Philip of Macedon. Thirteen years later, at the time he succumbed to fever, he was master of practically all the civilized world: Greece, Egypt, Asia Minor, and territory extending to the Indus river. And he had made plans, too, for subsiding the West, but death cut short the fulfilment of his colossal ambition.

Through history we learn of others who, though not geniuses in military prowess, still have much of interest to give us, several thousand years after their death: Aristotle, who compiled scientific data which was used for hundreds of years after his time; Cleopatra, probably the most outstanding woman ever known; Homer, the lowly Greek, who voiced the [illegible] and feelings of his country- [illegible] the Iliad and the Odyssey; [illegible] ures of others, each of whom [illegible] ust a man like the men of to- [illegible], but born to different circumstances.

Throughout all history we can see march of events, and the motives that impelled them. We can see the cycle through which every state has passed: its birth and consolidation; its triumph; and its inevitable fall before some invader. Surely there is nothing that can compare in fascination with that chronology of events, the true story of MAN.—Albert Stengelson, '24.

Central News.

The students of the seventh and eighth grades were very pleasantly entertained during the assembly period Wednesday morning when Mrs. Rapacz favored them with a Scotch reading entitled "The Chase." After an enthusiastic encore Mrs. Rapacz responded with a humorous selection called "The New Situation." Preceding these readings Rita Fiterman played a piano solo, "The Music Box."

Seventh and eighth grades have been having Courtis Standard Research tests in arithmetic this week.

The pupils of Miss Frissell's room received the banner for best marching this week.

Progress.

Progress comes very slowly. To make a better grade we must be prepared with everything. But let us have a motto to follow. The motto will be: "Be prepared and never shirk." Get your lessons and be truthful with yourself; be satisfied not only with the written work but get the oral as well.

To make a school grow we must have team work and a will to work. Let us be loyal to our own Central school. A very good way to boost our school is a class song or yell. This is our song:

Central School, three cheers for Central,
For you we will stand.
We will boost our Junior High School,
We're a loyal band, Rah! Rah! Rah!
To our colors gold and purple
We will be true.
Dear old Central Junior High School,
Here's to you.

—Elwood Herricks, 7B.

Our proposition practically assures exceptional profits to such a dealer.

We have a definite, specific plan of co-operation which helps you locate, and sell, prospects.

The Foundation of Every Prosperous Business

RECENTLY the Chicago Journal of Commerce in an editorial discussion of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as an example of modern American business, said:

"Three years ago the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) which does business in eleven states, adopted a wholesome publicity policy, not only to derive the natural benefits of advertising its products, but to acquaint the public with intimate information regarding the Company and its affairs. The fair dealing, justice and equity of its practices, the business principles which rule its conduct, have been published far and wide throughout the territory it serves. Its policies were frankly disclosed to promote the welfare and to secure and hold the confidence and esteem of its stockholders, employes, and the public. The Company has paid for this publicity service just as any other industrial or mercantile enterprise pays for its advertising, and with most gratifying results.

"This publicity campaign has been dubbed 'Good-Will advertising'—a happy phrase. Good-Will is the foundation of every prosperous business. Good-Will always contributes to profits and can be secured only by fair dealing, fair prices, and a rigid adherence to business ethics. In all these the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a model of efficiency."

THIS appreciation of the purposes, practices, and achievements of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) so clearly expressed in the above quoted editorial is most gratifying to the Board of Directors of this Company, for it confirms their conviction that understanding and fairness go together. You cannot be fair unless you understand. You cannot understand unless you are willing to be fair.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is performing a highly essential service in a highly specialized branch of industry. It is doing something that has to be done in a way that entitles it to the approval of the public it serves.

It is to the interest of the public as well as the Company that the Company should give a frank account of itself and of the stewardship of its seven Directors.

Hence this sustained campaign.

HERE'S A LESSON FOR MOVIE-MAD MAIDENS

A "horrible example" to screen-struck girls is offered in "Two Weeks With Pay," the new Bebe Daniels comedy which will be at the Lyceum Friday and Saturday.

This example was furnished by Polly Moran, the famous "Sheriff Nell" of many comedies, who plays in this picture the amusing role of a hotel chambermaid with aspirations to become a movie star. Her burlesque of the manner in which screen aspirants "register" various kinds of emotion to determine their suitability for camera work is one of the funniest things of the kind yet filmed.

"Aside from its comic possibilities," said Miss Moran seriously after completing one of her scenes, "I do hope my work in this picture will cause people who couldn't possibly succeed in films to think twice before letting themselves in for a disappointment. Careful and unprejudiced analysis of personal ability should precede any real attempt for motion picture fame. My chambermaid is deliberately meant to be funny—but there are many misguided souls of that sort in real life who are just as unsuited for film work, yet ambitious to go into pictures."

The more some fellers see of life the less the rest of us have to live for.

EDITOR TRIES TO TELL TRUTH.

Delano Eagle: A Kansas editor announced that he would try for one week to tell the truth, and he is still in the hospital. He didn't get by the first day. The following item appeared in Monday's issue and now the boys are getting out the paper. This is what he said:

"Married: Miss Sylvia Rhoda to Mr. Homer Canahan, last Sunday evening at the Baptist church. The bride was an ordinary town girl who didn't know any more than a rabbit about cooking and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not beautiful by any means and has a gait like a duck. The groom is an up-to-date has-been, a loafer, living off his old folks all his life, and don't amount to shucks, and they're going to have a hard life while they live together."

LOOKS LIKE IT.

Warroad Pioneer: The Baudette Region does not seem to take well to the candidacy of Opsahl for representative. Can it be that Hill is jealous of the other railroad builder?

GOOD IMPRESSIONS.

Sleepy Eye Herald-Dispatch: There is nothing in the world that makes so good an impression on others as an individual's good manners. Every boy and girl, man and woman in Sleepy Eye should make a close study of manners, for the whole future life and the chances of business may hinge upon them. The child who goes forth without a thorough knowledge of manners and without a complete understanding of the value of manners and the necessity for applying them is on the open road to failure. The impression that a young man makes upon others is his greatest stock in trade. Great knowledge and splendid ability may be concealed by a veneer of bad manners. Business deals that may mean success or failure through an entire life have often, and will many times in the future, been won or lost through manners. Good manners cost nothing except the effort to acquire them—teach the child that and you have done a favor greater than can be measured in gold or silver.

YOU BET.

Middle River Pioneer: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week were market days in Thief River Falls. The Thief River Falls business men do not believe in sitting down and doing nothing because times are dull. They go after business and get it.

THE FARMERS' CHAMPION.

Dawson Sentinel: Perhaps the average farmer doesn't know it, but the American Farm Bureau federation is saving the people of this country [illegible] a day in freight rates. The officers of the federation fought the valuations which the railroads wanted the Interstate Commerce commission to place on the railroad properties and secured a reduction of $1,700,000,000, on which the American people would be required to pay interest if the farm bureau officials hadn't been on the job.

Continuation of Hearing of Andy Brown Expected

The hearing of Andy Brown, who is charged with the murder of Miss Mario Wick, probably will be continued again when it is called before Justice H. F. Miller in Fargo next Tuesday, it is announced.

W. C. Green, state's attorney of Cass county, who has been at the home of his parents at Stephen, Minn., since the trial of the Gummer case, has returned to Fargo.

Gummer is still being kept a prisoner in the Barnes county jail.

Mothers—Important.

Mothers should see that the whole family take a thorough, purifying system-cleaning laxative this Spring. NOW IS THE TIME. The family will be healthier, happier, and get along better if the blood is given a thorough purifying, the stomach and bowels cleaned out, and the germs of winter accumulated in the system, driven away. HOLLISTER'S GOLDEN NUGET TABLETS is one of the very best and surest spring medicines to take. Get them and see the difference in the whole family. Their color will be better, they'll eat better, sleep better, and be well and happy. Lambert's drug store.—Advertisement. Mar.

HOT SHOTS ON THE COUNTY AGENT PROPOSITION FROM A DIRT FARMER.

How much will it reduce your taxes if the county agent appropriation amounting to two mills on every dollar, except the dollars spent on such an item as ditches, are taken off your taxes. The small amount the county agent cost me last year would not keep me in snuff for a week.

Isn't it a fact that the persons who holler most against county agent work in the county are the ones who do not use his services?

Take the case of one farmer in the county in 1921 who followed the advice of the county agent. That farmer made more money on his farm than the county board appropriated to the agricultural interest of the county the same year.

Why single out as a target the expenditure on co-operative extension work, which is endeavoring in every way to help agriculture in the county? If there should be some men who, having never investigated, don't believe in the work, why deprive your brother farmer of the benefits from progressive methods of farming?

If there are any farmers or anybody else in the county for that matter, who feel that they have their business at such a high state of perfection that they can't hope to improve it—then vote No on the question as to the continuation of co-operative extension work in agriculture in Marshall county. If you should have a hankering notion that there is still something in this life to be learned, vote Yes on such a line of endeavor as the county agent work in Marshall county.

Seems to me, the way I look at this county agent work, that the foundation upon which their work is builded is to make agriculture more permanent, the farms more profitable and a more desirable place in which to live. How much sooner this work would be accomplished if we all did our part, a thing which we should consider as our solemn duty!

WHAT DOES IT COST TO MAINTAIN FARM BUREAU?

(Contributed.)

Some figures are given below in relation to the amount of the different expenditures made by Marshall county in 1921. These figures are taken from the financial statement of the county auditor as printed in the Warren Sheaf, dated Feb. 1, 1922.

It is easy to see that the claims of those who think the county is spending too much to improve its agricultural conditions are unfounded when comparison is made with other county expenditures. The county appropriation for co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics is never made to the farm bureau. The appropriation goes to the order of the Dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Minnesota. When the extension division is advised of the money appropriation to its use, it puts an amount of $1860.00 from its own funds to the furtherance of the extension work in Marshall county.

Furthermore, both the extension division of the state and the U. S. department of agriculture agree to furnish any of their specialists to that county, or any county which maintains the county agent work. These experts will carry on their work in counties progressive enough to employ a county agent.

At some time or other in the past year all the people of Marshall county have been given a chance to find out from the specialists down state what is best and safest to do in their farming methods or choice of crops to be raised. There has been a county agent on the job—for the greater part of the year two county agents—in Marshall county, available for consultation by farmers, if requested. Over 1,500 such requests were received and farm visits made. Over 1,800 office calls in the two parts of the county were made by farmers wanting information on their problems.

Given below are some partial lines of work in which the county agent can be of assistance. Can it be possible that a majority of farmers wish to do away with such aid?

1. Giving personal help upon your farm IF REQUESTED.
2. Ship your livestock; co-operative shipping associations.
3. Secure best seed for Marshall county conditions.
4. Aid in management of potato fields and seed plots.
5. Conducting spraying demonstrations, treatment of seed potatoes, etc.
6. Demonstrations on treatment of grain for smut, etc.
7. Help in growing alfalfa and other legumes.
8. Furnish information as to the best pasture mixtures.
9. Secure phosphate and other commercial fertilizers at minimum cost.
10. Test your soils and supply information as to soil needs and treatment.
11. Assist in sale and purchase of cattle, hogs, etc.
13. Conduct poultry culling demonstrations.
14. Pooling sale of farm products.
15. Assisting in testing your cattle for tuberculosis in co-operation with state and federal departments.
16. Organize cow testing associations, potato associations, etc.
17. Assist in organizing and carrying on livestock associations.
18. Give assistance in keeping farm accounts.
19. Give assistance in hiring help.
20. Laying out your farmstead for protection with trees and windbreak plantations.
21. Assist in organization of community clubs.
22. Maintaining a central office for information regarding soils, crops, livestock, etc.
23. By acting as a clearing house for what you have to sell and want to buy.
24. Act as a connecting link between the college of agriculture, U. S. department of agriculture and Marshall county.
25. By co-operating with 85 counties in Minnesota in the formation of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, which is looking after the marketing and legislative programs of the farmers in the United States.
26. By co-operating with 2,600 counties in the United States in the organization of the Farm Bureau federation, which is looking after the marketing and legislative problems of the farmer in the United States.
27. The service of the county agent is free to every farmer through farm visits (if requested), telephone calls, office consultations and local meetings.

The following table shows how the taxpayer's dollar in Marshall county was spent in 1921. Multiply the amount of your tax receipt by the amounts given below in cents, mills and tenths of mills to determine how much of your tax money went for any of the items listed below:

County officers and clerk hire	.03661
Commissioners' mileage	.00041
Mothers' pensions	.00882
Weed inspectors	.00280
Unclassified expenses from general revenue fund	.03500

A new way to treat croup
Spasmodic croup relieved or warded off by rubbing on a vaporizing salve.

The old method of treating spasmodic croup with nauseating drugs is out of date. So is the vapor-lamp scheme that required the bedroom windows to be kept closed. Now mother rubs the little one's chest and throat with Vicks, arranges the bedding so that the arising vapors will be inhaled all night long, opens the windows to let in the blessed fresh air, and retires—confident of a good sleep.

Vicks has come to be the almost universal treatment for children's cold troubles, because it does away with dosing. Vicks contains the old, time-tested remedies—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, etc.—combined by special process, so that while they penetrate and stimulate the skin, the ingredients are also released as vapors by the body heat and are breathed right into the lungs.

Just rub it on and breathe in the vapors

NEW FARM BODY OPENS WAR FOR MINIMUM PRICE

Stabilization of Agriculturel Market Aim of Latest Organization Among Growers.

Senate Committee Expected to Act Favorably on Measures to Be Proposed Soon.

Ask That Farmers Be Given the Same Consideration as Railroads and Other Interests.

Still another farmers' organization made its appearance at the national capitol last week, writes Edwin Markham to the St. Paul Pioneer Press. It really is an organization within existing organizations, but nevertheless it merely adds to the long list of various agencies trying to get through congress legislation of a class character.

Stabilization of the prices of farm products is the object of the new organization known as the Farmers' National Stabilization committee. W. J. Mozely of the North Dakota Farmers' union, is the director general. In announcing the committee it was said:

"The purpose of the organization is to inaugurate and carry on a nation wide campaign in the interests of legislation now under consideration in the agricultural committees of both houses of congress providing for for the stabilization of prices of the major farm products."

Originated With League.

The stabilization idea, which is another way of saying price fixing by the government, originated with the Nonpartisan league members in the house and senate. Bills were introduced by North Dakotans and soon were followed by others presented by members who apparently want to appease the farming elements in their districts.

There have been indications that the senate committee on agriculture, which has a number of radical Republican members, including the chairman, Senator Norris, will report some such legislation.

The Mozely organization is expected to round up enough votes in the house and senate to put over this price-fixing legislation. For the most part those in the new organization are members of the National Farmers' union. Charles S. Barrett, head of the organization, has had a big hand in the new venture but has kept himself in the background. He is devoting much of his time to issuing statements demanding that the government help agriculture on the theory it is an indispensable "public utility."

Official Board Announced.

The official board of the new committee includes, besides Mr. Mozely, J. S. Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association, vice chairman; Vernon Campbell, vice president and general manager of the co-operative creameries of California, secretary and treasurer; John Simpson, president of the Farmers' Union of Oklahoma, chairman of the organization committee.

The executive committee is composed of C. J. Osbornt, president of the Farmers' Union of Nebraska, chairman; Charles S. Barrett, president of the National Farmers' union, Milo Reno, president of the Farmers' Union of Iowa; W. M. Burlingame, president of the Montana Society of Equity; G. S. Woodcock, Steamboat Springs, Colo.; Dr. G. L. Sands, president of the Farmers' Union of Arkansas; John Quicny Adams, Spokane, Wash.; J. M. Anderson, general manager of the Equity Exchange, St. Paul; J. W. Batcheller, president of the Farmers' Union of South Dakota; William H. Lyon of Sioux Falls, S. D., and Dallas H. Gray of Harmona, Calif.

To Insist on Minimum Price.

"The committee," Mr. Mozely said, "will insist that the farmers be placed in a posititon to obtain a minimum price for their major products, depending on the open markets for a maximum return.

"Agriculture is a public utility and the only indispensable utility which today exists or ever will exist, therefore it is entitled to that consideration which will encourage it to become 100 per cent efficient in feeding and clothing the nation.

"We insist that farmers be given at least a part of that consideration which has been extended to the railways, the trolley systems and the gas and electric lighting organizations.

"It is useless extending the borrowing power of the farmer if he is not at the same time given a price for his products which would enable him to pay the cost of bringing them to maturity. Let him have a fair return on his investment of labor and capital and it will not be necessary for him to borrow money."

LOCAL INSTITUTIONS RECEIVE HIGH PRAISE FROM SOLDIER BOARD

L. E. Lowe, representing the Veterans bureau in the capacity of field hospital contact officer, recently visited Thief River Falls on a tour of inspection of hospital conditions relating to the handling of government cases, and appointed G. Howard Smith local hospital contact officer.

It is the duty of hospital contact officers to keep in touch with conditions in hospitals where disabled veterans are receiving treatment, and all complaints made on behalf of service men' in institutions should be made through this department.

Service men have in the past been under treatment in the Oakland Park sanitorium and this institution will again handle government patients. These have been unstinting in their praise of this institution and its treatment of service men. Dr. M. Geo. Milan and Miss Karen Knutson have taken much interest not only in the welfare of the patients as to their treatment, but have made special efforts to secure their rights in various claims for compensation and other government aid.

The recent transfer of patients from the sanatorium was bitterly opposed by the patients themselves as well as the local post of the Legion, and the fact that this institution will again serve ex-service men is welcomed by all interested in the welfare of the diabled veteran.

The Physicians hospital has handled government cases in the past and all report the most courteous treatment on the part of the staff and exceptional interest shown by the doctors in their welfare. It is hoped that this institution will be utilized more by the government in the future as the service man prefers to be taken care of closer to home, and the expense to the government is minimized.

With reports of mistreatment of service men in other sections of the country requiring government investigation, those interested in the condition of service men in this locality are proud of the report sent in on our local institutions, and it is hoped more use of these will be made in the future than has been the case in the past.

NONE ARE EXEMPT FROM INCOME TAX LAW'S PROVISIONS

Even Though Living in a Foreign Country a Citizen Must File the Usual Return.

Every citizen of the United States is subject to the provisions of the income tax law. He may live in this country or he may live abroad, possessing no property within the United States and deriving no income from sources within the United States. Nevertheless he must file a return if single and his net income for 1921 was $1,000 or more or his gross income $5,000 or more, or if married and his net income was $2,000 or more or his gross income was $5,000 or more. Divorcees or persons separated from husband or wife by mutual agreement are classed as single persons.

The same obligation to file a return and pay the tax rests on a resident alien, although his entire income may be derived from sources without the United States.

While forms were sent out to persons who last year filed returns, failure to receive a form does not relieve an individual of his or her obligation to file a return and pay the tax on time—on or before March 15 if filed on a calendar year basis. Forms 1040A for returns of income of $5,000 and less and 1040 for returns of income in excess of $5,000 may be obtained at the office of Collector of Internal Revenue, St. Paul, and the following branch offices: Minneapolis, Duluth, St. Cloud, Mankato and Winona.

RAPID RECOVERY MADE ON SHEEP

Most of Last Week's Loss is Regained—Best Fed Lambs $14.65—Cattle Steady.

South St. Paul, Minn. A sharp reduction of about 20,000 sheep and lambs at seven leading markets compared with last Monday proved a bullish factor today and prices were boosted unevenly. The local market was strong to as much as 75c higher in spots, and last week's losses were practically all recovered. Best fed lambs sold at $14.50 to $14.65, best natives around $14. Best native ewes $7 to $7.25, some fed westerns $8.

Trade in cattle opened about steady with last week's close, being mostly 25 to 50c lower on beef steers than a week ago. Better offerings of shortfed steers sold from $7.25 to $7.75, being of medium to good beef grade, with bulk selling from $6.25 to $7, practically nothing suitable for carcass beef below $6.

Butcher cows and heifers continue relatively scarce, with bulk cashing at $4 to $6, the most desirable young cows on the heifer order and heifers up to around $7. Canners and cutters $2.50 to $3.50, young cows on the cutter order going as feeders up to $4 or slightly higher. Bologna bulls are salable from $3.25 to $4.25, bulk $3.50 to $3.75. Best veal calves sold at $8 and occasionally $8.50, with seconds at $5 to $6. Practically no stockers and feeders sell below $4, bulk $5.50 to $6.50, most desirable offerings on the fat cattle order on up to $7 or $7.25.

Hog prices dropped back 10 to 25c today, bulk of sales $10.65 to $10.85, top $10.90, bulk good pigs $11.

Stevenson Hat

A new hat with quality none better—the price, too, is pleasing without extravagance.

MAKING PROGRESS IN CAMPAIGN FOR JEWISH RELIEF

Ravages of Typhus Added to Other Horrors of Persecuted People in Near East.

Chairman Charles Lieberman of the Pennington county division of the Minnesota Jewish Relief committee, says that responses to the appeal for aid have been very gratifying, although as yet no systematic canvass has been started. Many voluntary donations have been received through the mails and by the committee appointed, Mayor Bratrud and Daniel Shaw, and it is now certain that the city and county will more than meet their quota.

Fate, through typhus, is playing a ghastly trick on re-emigrants along Poland's eastern border, who were originally driven from their homes by German invasion during the war. To add to the horror of the situation, the disease has claimed the whole personnel of a hospital train sent to aid these sufferers. This information is contained in a Warsaw dispatch to the American Jewish Relief committee, according to J. H. Schanfeld, Minnesota chairman.

In the light of the renewed outbreak of typhus, on a scale even in excess of the previous winter, there is grave danger that the figure of $14,000,000 which is being sought nationally to continue the work of the committee, will prove inadequate to the pressing needs that the present situation has developed.

To pile horror on horror, conditions in the Ukraine, which for a time promised rest and respite for the persecuted Jewish refugees, have again become unsettled as indicated by the news from the Ukraine telling of renewed attacks on the Jewish population along the Rumanian border. Fleeing from threats of pogrom, the refugees attempted to enter Rumania by crossing the river Dniester on the ice, only to be met by bayonets in the hands of equally hostile soldiery. Caught like rats, the wanderers were literally slaughtered.

The campaign in Minnesota, outside of the twin cities, swings into action this week. In spite of the handicap of weather conditions, every section of the state is ready to go. "True, business conditions are not the best," said Mr. Schanfeld in a recent letter to county chairman, "but the appeal of little children for life is one that cannot be ignored. It is a matter of lives, not money," the letter continues, "and the people of Minnesota, Jew and Gentile alike, will do their share—yes, and more."

BUREAU TO OFFER NINE AGENCIES IN SERVING FARMERS

State Federation Invites Co-operatives to Conference of Common Interest to All.

Full use of the whole farm bureau organization as a clearing house for all farmers' common problems will be offered to the principal state-wide co-operative organizations of Minnesota.

The Minnesota Farm Bureau federation is inviting officers and directors of nine agricultural organizations to a state-wide conference, to work out in detail a plan by which all these bodies may act promptly and with a united front on all matters affecting the whole farming populatiln in the state. The farm bureau will offer the use of its state headquarters, its office force, and the facilities of the national offices of the federation in Chicago and Washington, to consolidate the power of the co-operative marketing agencies of the state for united action.

The executive board of the state federation, in session last week, voted to ask nine farm organizations to send representatives to a conference to discuss common problems and the functions of a joint clearing house. Informal invitations are being sent to the Central Co-operative Commission association, the Minnesota Co-operative Creamries association, Inc.; the U. S. Grain Growers, Inc.; the Minnesota Potato Exchange, the Twin City Milk Producers, the Farmers Terminal Packing Plant, the wool growers, the farmers' mutual hail insurance organizations, and the Minnesota Co-opeartive Shipping association.

New York farmers already have created such a clearing house, according to a bulletin of the American Farm Bureau federation. It is known as the Conference Board of Farm Organizations. Several times a year the officers and directors of the State Farm bureau, the Dairymens League, the Grange and the Fruit Growers, meet to take united action on problems affecting all farmers of the state. The last meeting discussed control of tuberculosis in dairy cattle and legislation to improve state laws governing drainage.

"The result of the work of this conference board," the farm bureau bulletin says, "is to unify the agricultural thinking of New York and enable all farm organizations to present a solid front."

The Minnesota Farm Bureau federation executive board, at its March meeting, passed a resolution urging Minnesota's delegation in congress to support an amendment to the income tax law, giving all co-operative organizations specific exemption from payment of income taxes. At present the federal commissioner of internal revenue has ruled that surplus or reserve funds set aside by co-operatives as taxable as profits. The co-operative organizations' stand is that such funds are not profits, but money belonging to members and invested in the business. The farm bureau also appealed to the internal revenue department to prepare a special, simple income tax report for co-operative organizations so that it would be easier to make reports required, either in paying taxes, or to obtain exemption.

Civil Service Examinations.

The Civil Service commission invites special attention to the fact that in examinations held recently in Thief River Falls and other cities throughout the country, for junior deck officers, U. S. coast and geodetic survey, and for assistant examiners, patent office, applicants were not secured in the number desired, and that these examinations will again be held on March 22 and 23, except that the examination for assistant examiners will also be held on March 24.

Persons interested in these or other examinations should apply to the secretary of the U. S. civil service board at the local post office for detailed information and application blanks.

Hammer's Body Given to U. of M. Medical Students

The body of Manny Hammer, formerly a resident of Thief River Falls and St. Hilaire, who recently froze to death near Wiliams, has been given to the students of the university to be used at the medical college for experimental purposes. No one was found willing to assume the burial expenses of Hammer, consequently, in accordance with the state law, the body was shipped to the college. An uncle of the deceased had at one time stated he would take care of the funeral expenses but later changed his mind. The deceased leaves a homestead valued at $3,000 but it has not yet been proved up.

No Danger From Floods in Spite of Deep Snows

Although Minnesota is covered with a heavy blanket of snow, there is not much danger of floods this year because of the unusually dry condition of the soil, W. V. Willard, state drainage commissioner says. Unless there is a freeze followed by a heavy spring rain which would precipitate a general thaw suddenly, the rivers and streams throughout the state, particularly the Mississippi, will be in good condition to take care of the increased flow. The Red River valley is not in jeopardy, he said, unless heavy spring rains cause the precipitation of a large amount of water.

THAT DULL ACHING

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and achy backs, your neighbors recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. Ed. Aga, 803 Horace Ave., N., Thief River Falls, says: "I had a spell of kidney trouble that put me in a bad way. My kidneys were weak and caused me all sorts of misery. I got very little rest and mornings I felt all tired out. During the day if I stood for any length of time, my limbs would swell and pain me. I had such a dull, bearing-down feeling, too, and a dull, steady ache across the small of my back. My back gave out before my work was half finished. I had to go to bed finally and not until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills was I rid of the trouble. Two boxes of Doan's completely cured me and I have had no return of it."

Ends Days in Mud.

The historic wooden brigantine, Essex, once the flagship of the American fleet, which broke up the slave trade on the west coast of Africa, will end its days in the mud of Duluth harbor. The battered traveler of the seven seas, after a dozen years as a training ship on the Great Lakes, is to be stripped of its engines and beached at Duluth as an armory and station ship for the Minnesota naval reserve.

LIGHT VOTE IN CITY AT CAUCUS FOR DELEGATES

Republican Electors Take But Little Interest in Balloting For Delegates.

Not Over Twenty Per Cent of Normal Party Vote is Recorded in Any Precinct.

Decided Lack of Interest Indicated By Returns From All Sections of Minnesota.

Not over one-fifth of the Republican voting strength of the city, figured on a basis of the 1920 general election returns, turned out Tuesday to vote in the precinct primaries to elect delegates to the county convention to be held in this city next Saturday. The total number of ballots cast was 282 as compared with 1420 for Harding in November, 1920. In proportion to its voting strength the Third ward made the best showing, 71 ballots being cast in that precinct out of a total Republican vote of 243 as indicated in the presidential election. In the First 91 electors took sufficient interest in the proceedings to go to the polls to represent the wishes of the 476 who voted in 1920; in the Second there were 69 votes cast on Tuesday as compared with 237 for Harding, while the Fourth turned loose with 52 as against 298 a year and a half ago.

Interest Not Keen.

It was the first precinct primary held under the new law and allowances must be made for the fact that voters in many cases did not thoroughly understand its purpose. There was nothing on the ballot to indicate where any caucaus candidate stood so far as his preferences for state or congressional nominees are concerned and he or she have no mandate from the voters to follow any particular course in the selection of candidates to represent the county at the state or district conventions. The matter will have to be fought out at the convention on Saturday.

List of Delegates.

Following is a list of the delegates elected in the city of Thief River Falls:

First ward: Theodore Quale, Miss Ida Tandberg, E. P. Brevig, Olaf Ramstad, M. V. Evenson, Wm. J. Brown. Second ward: F. F. Haynes, A. H. Akre, Mrs. Emma Ward, H. W. Kinghorn Scott Laird. Third ward: George Streeter, O. L. Ihle, P. J. Keating. Fourth ward: E. P. Burstad, Mrs. Julia Lacy, Daniel Shaw, M. A. Mattison.

Black River, James Dreeland; Cloverleaf, Stuart McLeod; Deer Park, John Singer; Goodridge, M. O. Seavey; Highlanding, H. I. Finstad; Hickory, Bj. Bjornaraa; Kratka, K. K. W. Hooper and A. S. Wilson.

New Man in Bank.

Verner Nelson, who has been with the Merchants' State bank at St. Hilaire during the past year, has accepted a position as bookkeeper at the First National bank in this city, succeeding Reuben Hadrath who takes a similar position with the McFarland Auto company.

Commissioners Meet Saturday.

There will be a meeting of the board of county commissioners held on Saturday for the purpose of considering bids for the repair of a ditch in the eastern part of the county. No matters of particular importance are expected to come up at this time, according to County Auditor T. P. Anderson.

CHANGE IN ROUTE OF STEEL-TO-WHEAT PIKE MADE BY PROJECTORS

Olan Now Is to Have Highway Cross Red Lakes at Narrows and Continue Westward to Red River Valley.

That the "Steel to Wheat" highway project is not to be permitted to rest without a strenuous effort being made to carry it out is evidenced by the action of the communities in St. Louis, Koochiching, Itasca and Beltrami counties. While Bemidji has not taken very kindly to the proposition as yet, it is expected that city will get behind it when the proper time comes.

At a recent meeting of the International Falls Commercial club the subject was gone into in some detail and a few changes in the original plan were suggested.

Thief River Falls would be the western terminus of the highway with the village of Cook in St. Louis county as the extreme eastern point had the first plan of the projectors been adhered to, but it now develops that a longer road has been decided on and that the Red river will be the western objective. Instead of skirting the southern shore of Red Lake as it first contemplated, it is proposed that the route go west and north from Northome through Shooks, Kelliher, Shotley and Ponemah, thence across the narrows connecting upper and lower Red Lakes and west to Thief River Falls.

Hon. Fred Besette, state senator from St. Louis county, has interested himself in the matter and is pushing the project. The Rotarians and the Hibbing commercial club have gone on record as favoring the highway and other range communities are expected to follow their lead.

The matter will be brought before the commercial club at today's luncheon for discussion. A highway such as that proposed would aid in the development of a large section of fine country to the east of Thief River Falls besides adding another tourist route of great scenic beauty to those already centering in the city.

NAPLIN ENDORSED FOR STATE SENATE; WANT NO ALLIANCE

Nonpartisans of District Vote to Stick to Organization Nominees in All Cases.

State Senator O. A. Naplin was endorsed for re-election by the Nonpartisan county convention which met at the court house in this city last Saturday afternoon. No other name was presented. Senator Naplin has filed for the office with the secretary of state and the campaign in the district may be said to be on. His opponent for the position is O. L. Hansen, also of Thief River Falls, who filed about two weeks ago.

The convention voted unanimously to stick to the Nonpartisan organization and delegates to the state convention were instructed to oppose any attempt at affiliation with other parties.

The Nonpartisans of Red Lake county have endorsed Nels Fore as candidate for the lower house of the legislature, with Sam Lovaas, also of Plummer, as second choice. A. J. Hemstad, present representative from that county, elected under Nonpartisan auspices two years ago, declined to become a candidate for reelection. He has been in poor health during the past few months and does not feel equal to the work and worry incident to a campaign.

Clearwater county Nonpartisans have not yet made their decision known, but it is expected Walter E. Day, present incumbent, will be renominated.

Sportsmen Organize to Protect Game and Fish

Local sportsmen who believe in protecting the game and fish of the state and preserving the wild life of the forests and streams, met at the Commercial club rooms last Thursday evening for the purpose of forming an organization. It is the intention later to affiliate with the national and state associations working toward a similar purpose. A request will be made to the state commission for the stocking of Red Lake river with such fish as are adapted to conditions here and an effort will be made to have Carlos Avery, state game and fish commissioner, come to Thief River Falls for the purpose of addressing the club at an early date.

Officers of the new organization, which has not yet been named, were elected as follows: President, H. W. Protzeller; vice president, M. T. McFarland; secretary, L. H. Lawrence; treasurer, W. H. Akre; directors, G. S. Streeter, H. A. Brumund, John Bratrud, G. L. Sterns and Julien Provencher.

Auto Tax Removal Takes $6000 Off Apportionment

The city of Thief River Falls will receive $33,640.79 under the March tax apportionment, according to John Gullingsrud, county treasurer. For the corresponding period last year the amount received was about $39,000, the difference being accounted for by the removal of trucks and automobiles from the personal property tax list.

The first paving assessment payments for the year were made during the past week. The sum of $219.92 was paid by the Standard Oil company as the first year's installment of the cost of paving on both sides of its property on the corner of Main avenue and Second street, while the Joseph Johnson estate paid $77.67 on the pavement in front of lots 3 to 5 inclusive in block 63.

New Officers Elected By Minnesota Council, U.C.T.

Minnesota Council No. 521, United Commercial Travelers, at a regular meeting held last Saturday evening, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Senior councilor, John L. Rolland; junior councilor, F. A. Brown; past councilor, John Ward; secretary-treasurer, E. M. Bennes; conductor, O. C. Olson; page, H. L. Larsen; sentinel, A. H. Dorn; members of executive committee, Julien Provencher and E. O. Mogensen.

After the election of officers the traveling men enjoyed a pleasant social evening.

COUNTY'S SUGAR BEET ACREAGE TO BE DOUBLED

Agent of Refinery Allots 200 Acres to Growers Under Favorable Conditions.

Labor to Be Furnished By Company at Five Dollars an Acre Less Than Last Year.

Prices Quoted Are F. O. B. Cars Thief River Falls, Company Paying the Freight.

Two hundred acres of sugar beets is the allotment for this year in Pennington county, an increase of 100 per cent over the amount bargained for last season by the Minnesota Sugar company of Chaska. H. H. Dana, agricultural agent for the sugar company, was in Thief River Falls last Thursday and agreed on behalf of the concern to buy the beets raised on this amount of ground. This is a larger allotment than is given any other county in this district this fall. The mill at Chaska is no longer capable of taking care of all the beets offered in its territory and each beet-raising district must therefore be apportioned a certain quantity.

The labor necessary to care for this acreage will be furnished by the company, which is only operating in districts where beets have been previously grown, no new territory being added at this time although there have been numerous requests from other sections for allotments. Farmers in the neighborhood of Middle River, for instance will be disappointed in their efforts to secure contracts.

Costs Greatly Reduced.

Mr. Dana stated that the labor charge would this year be very much reduced, the total cost being $19 per acre as compared with $24 a year ago. The cost of seed also has been reduced five cents a pound.

The company contracts to make payments according to the following schedule: When beets are blocked and thinned, $7.00 per acre; when hoeings have been completed and workers' row kept clean and free from weeds to Aug. 15, $5.00 per acre; when harvesting is completed, $7.00 per acre. In addition to the above it is agreed that the following tonnage prices shall be paid as a bonus: For a yield of more than nine and up to 10 tons, 75 cents per acre; for a yield between 10 and 11 tons, $1.50 per acre; for a yield between 11 and 12 tons, $2.75 per acre.

Sliding Price Scale.

The minimum price to be paid for beets is $5.00 per ton, f. o. b. cars Thief River Falls. The company will pay all freight and the expense of handling at the factory but the grower will be required to pay for getting the beets from the farm to the car and loaded thereon. The company agrees to make an initial payment of $5.00 per ton on the 20th of each month on all beets delivered and accepted up to and including the 20th of the preceding month. Final settlement is to be made on Feb. 15, 1923, when any additional sum due under the contract will be paid.

Following is the schedule of pay guaranteed by the company, based upon the price of sugar at the time beets are accepted: If the price of sugar is under $6.00 per 100 pounds the price will be $5.00 per ton, 50 cents per ton additional being paid if the price reaches $7.00 per 100 pounds for sugar. The rate of return to the grower is in direct ratio to the sugar price, but becomes much greater in proportion, being $8.50 per ton when sugar is $8.00 per 100 pounds.

At least 15 pounds of seed must be sown to the acre and will be furnished by the company at 20 cents per pound, this amount to be deducted from the price paid for the first shipment.

The labor requirements are one man for each five acres of beets planted, which will mean a force of 40 men to take care of the 200 acres alloted.

Many Contracts Expected.

A good share of the acreage alloted was signed up while Mr. Dana was in the city and many others have signified their intentions of going into the business on an extended scale. Because of the high price of labor last year the county did not plant its entire allotment but County Agent J. J. McCann feels certain there will be more applications this year than can be taken care of. For this reason it will be advisable for those desiring contracts to sign up as soon as possible.

TAKE STEPS TOWARD FORMATION OF BALL LEAGUE FOR SECTION

Proposed to Form Circuit of Eight or Nine Towns in Northwestern Corner, Using Home Talent Almost Exclusively.

A meeting of baseball enthusiasts representing eight or nine northwestern Minnesota communities will be held in the near future for the purpose of discussing the formation of a league. The place for holding the meeting has not yet been decided on.

The plan now is to include the following towns and cities in the league: Thief River Falls, Gonvick, Warroad, Argyle, Fosston, McIntosh, Fertile, Red Lake Falls and Crookston. This would form a compact circuit and start out with a greater prospect of finishing the season than would be the case with a larger number of more widely scattered communities.

Cutting the number of salaried players to the lowest possible point seems to be favored in all towns mentioned. Two, or at most three, outside men would be all permitted under the agreement to be signed, it having been proven that greater local interest attaches to baseball games in which the players are all or nearly all home men. Such team can also be maintained at much less expense than where there is a heavy salary roll to meet.

While it is more difficult to finance projects of this kind than was the case a year or two ago, it is thought that sufficient enthusiasm can be mustered to make the proposition a success.

Maccabees Have Card Party.

PAVING OF ALLEYS TO BE CONSIDERED AT SPECIAL MEETING

Councilmen to Discuss Plans For Beginning Work on This Necessary Improvement.

There will be a special meeting of the city council on Monday evening, at which time the matter of doing something with the alleys in the business district will be taken up. At the time street paving was first considered three alleys were included in the project but afterwards omitted on the score of economy. It was realized that with the alleys remaining in their present state it would be next to impossible to keep the pavement at the intersections clean and its good effect on the appearance of the city would therefore to a certain extent be lost. It has taken only one spring to prove the correctness of this view. The alleys are used almost as much for traffic as the streets and the mud is thick where it has been dragged onto the pavement by vehicles finding it necessary to use the intermediate thoroughfares.

The plan is to pave alleys to a width of 16 feet, using a cheaper material than that with which the streets are surfaced. The cost of such improvement would not be heavy and it is almost as necessary as the pavement itself.

The matter of extending the sidewalks where the curb was moved out in order to decrease the paving area will also come up for discussion. This work will doubtless be let as one contract in order to make it uniform all over the city. In some places one width of sidewalk blocks may have to be taken up in order to provide a slight but gradual slope to meet the line of the new curb. Property owners will be glad to have the matter attended to as the streets look unfinished in their present condition.

The question of how best to look after the poor in the city developed an interesting discussion at the council meeting Tuesday evening and one in which nearly all of the councilmen took a hand. The statement was made that there were families receiving aid who were not entitled thereto and steps will at once be taken to see that a stop is put to this practice, in case investigation prove deception to have been practiced to any extent. More appeals for aid have been received this past winter than ever before in the city's history and while there is no doubt but that it has in most cases been deserved, the councilmen do not propose to be imposed upon.

More Cars For Shipping Red River Seed Potatoes

Refrigerator cars for shipping seed potatoes from Red River valley points to Kansas and other central states, have been ordered diverted from eastern lines to Minnesota, by the car service division of the interstate commerce commission. There is a visible supply of only about 450 refrigerator cars in Minnesota, and the railroad and warehouse commission has orders for approximately 1,000 cars now.

Ivan Bowen, commissioner, was notified of the action of the interstate commerce commission today by Commissioner Fred Putnam, who is in Washington. Mr. Bowen said approximately 4,000 cars will be needed to ship seed potatoes from the Red River valley.

School Building Sold.

The frame section of the old Knox school building was on Monday evening sold to G. W. Werstlien for $850, which the board considered a very reasonable offer. Only one other bid was received and this was for a considerably lower figure. The old school bell was not included in the transaction.

Mr. Werstlien stated that he had purchased the property for another party and that it had been transferred at once.

Washington, March 15.—A compromise appropriation of $1,500,000 for federal aid to farmers for purchasing seed grain, was agreed to today by senate and house conferees on the McCumber bill as a substitute for the $5,000,000 appropriation proposed by the senate and $1,000,000 by the house.

Final action on the bill, however, went over.

Business Men Have Lunch And See Bakery Operated

The largest turnout seen for a long time at a commercial club luncheon partook of an excellent meal at Jung's bakery this noon. The meal was served in a highly satisfactory manner and the program of addresses which followed were listened to with more than the usual interest.

After lunch the business men made a tour of inspection through the bakery, which was put in full operation for their benefit. It is one of the largest and most modern plants of its kind in the Northwest and turns out a product that is famous over a large sectoin of country.

MANY PASTORS AT LUTHERAN CHURCH DISTRICT MEETING

Most Successful Spring Session in History of Circuit Closed Here Last Friday.

The spring session of the Lutheran church for the Thief River Falls district, which was held at the Trinity church in this city the forepart of last week, came to a close on Friday evening. The meeting was the most successful ever held and was attended by pastors from neary every community in the district. Three sessions were held daily, the morning and afternoon services being in the Norwegian language and the evening program in English.

A feature of particular interest was the addresses of Rev. Himle, at present in charge of the Old Folks' home at Coeur d' Alene, Idaho, but formerly a missionary in the China field. Rev. Hime has served many years as a missionary, both in this country and foreign parts, and his observations proved of great interest to the assembled clergymen.

There were ten minute talks by the different pastors attending in which matters pertaining to church work progress in their communities were discussed. The musical program was in charge of Dr. P. L. Vistaunet and was a highl yappreciated part of the session.

The following ministers took part: Reverends Berge Olson, Greenbush; H. H. Hagen, Iron Creek; N. B. Ordahl, Holt; A. E. Hanson, Middle River; C. A. Stormo, Roseau; T. A. Hagen, Halma; C. M. Grimsrud, St. Hilaire; R. Sabo, Mavie; S. T. Anderson, Greenbush; P. A. Thorsen, Fargo, N. D.; O. Svare, Belgrade, Minn.; Rev. Himle, Coeur d' Alene, Idaho, H. O. Shurson, Minneapolis. The latter is financial secretary of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America.

An invitation extended by Rev. Grimsrud to hold the summer circuit meeting in June at St. Hilaire was accepted.

SELVIG WITHDRAWS IN CONGRESS RACE; POLK FOR HALVOR

Sageng Carries Ottertail But Steenerson Evidently Has Cinch on Endorsement.

Reports from counties in the Ninth district indicate that Congressman Steenerson will go into the district convention at Moorhead on March 30 with enough delegates pledged to insure his renomination. He carried Polk county, his own home as well as that of his opponent, C. G. Selvig, and the latter has withdrawn his name from consideration by the district convention.

Mr. Selvig stated early in the campaign that he would abide by the decision of the district convention and as his opponent carried Polk county he withdraws his name in the interest of party harmony.

Ole O. Sageng carried his home county, Ottertail, and will doubtless have a certain amount of support from other sections. It is evident, however, that a large majority of the delegates will go to Moorhead pledged to Steenerson.

Most of the interest in the caucus election centered on the United States senatorship. Nothing on the caucus ticket indicated where the candidate for delegate to the county conventions stood on this question and their positions were only known through voluntary declarations or by hearsay. Hallem carried Ramsey county by a large vote while Hennepin went to Mayor George E. Leech of Minneapolis. This will place Kellogg at a disadvantage before the state convention, it being regarded as poor politics to nominate for such an important office any man who has failed to carry his own county. Pennington county's delegates are claimed by both the Kellogg and Hallam men and it is certain that both have friends among those who will make up the convention on Saturday. Leach supporters are not expected to make any showing in Pennington. It is claimed, however, that besides Hennepin the colonel will have the delegations of Dakota, Houston, Carlston, Freeborn, Cook, Lake and Wadena counties.

County Gets Over $8,000 in March Apportionment

Pennington county's share of the March school apportionment, made public this week by the state department of education, is $8,208.00. The distribution is on the basis of $2.70 per pupil, with a total credit of 3040 pupils for the county.

This apportionment of state school funds, warrants for which are now being prepared by R. P. Chase, State Auditor, is the largest March apportionment in the history of the state. In all 461,522 pupils will participate and a total of $1,246,347.20 will soon be distributed by the various county treasurers among the school districts designated by the state department of education.

The present March apportionment exceeds by over $133,000, that of last year, at which time $1,112,680.80 was distributed. The allotment was on the basis of $2.50 per pupil with 455,342 pupils participating.

Distribution of state school funds is made in March and October of each year. This money is obtained by the imposition of a one mill tax and the income from the permanent school fund.

Changes in Pastorates of Crookston Diocese

Rev. Father A. I. Merth, assistant pastor at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, Crookston, and one of the instructors at the Cathedral high school, has been assigned to the parish at Stephen.

Other changes in the Crookston diocese which occurred last Sunday, include the removal of Rev. Father Joseph Fraling from Stephen to Bemidji; the changing of Rev. Father J. J. T. Phillipe from Bemidji to Warroad; and the return of Rev. Father Charles Deshales from Warroad to the arch-diocese of St. Boniface, Canada.

For the present time no pastor will go to Crookston to take Rev. Father Merth's place. At Stephen Father Merth will have charge of the missions of Strandquist and Red River.

GRAND DISPLAY FOR OPENING OF SPRING SEASON

Thief River Falls Merchants to Unite in Holding Grand Openin gon Saturday.

Finest Display of Seasonable Goods Ever Offered in this Section of State.

Prices in all Cases Based on Present Values, Past Levels Being Forgotten.

When the doors of Thief River Falls business houses are opened next Saturday morning it will be for the purpose of presenting the finest display of spring goods ever seen in this section. Practically all merchants in the city handling wearing apparel have agreed to make this day the spring opening event for the season of 1922 and during the past week have been busy with preparations for the display. Their places of business are in gala attire and it will prove a pleasure to the shopper to merely make the rounds even though no purchases are made.

New Prices, New Goods.

Attractive as the stores may be made for this occasion, the greatest interest will center in the goods offered and the prices charged for the same. It is safe to say that not in years have merchants in every part of the country been able to present a line so entirely new and up-to-date in every particular. They have made the most strenuous efforts to clear out their old stocks, taking as a rule heavy losses in doing so, in order that they might be able to start with a clean slate when conditions again became normal. The transition period is now sufficiently advanced to provide a safe basis on which to proceed and all plans are being carried out with the idea that the buying public will have settled back into the customary mode of living and will make purchases on the same sensible lines as before the war.

Prices charged for seasonable goods will prove an agreeable surprise. Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers realize that the period of high values is past and each in turn is doing everything possible to bring the public to a realization of this fact. It is for this reason as much as to display the new goods that the merchants of Thief River Falls have united in naming Saturday the big spring opening day. Many people are still of the opinion that prices are at a level which precludes the supplying of their needs as in times past, but this is an error. It is doubtful if the latest and best merchandise was ever priced more attractively than at present.

Invitation is General.

The public from all over the section is invited to this opening. It is not necessary that purchases be made in order that a visitor be made welcome. The merchant realizes that many will only wish to look around in order to see just what is being offered and these will receive as much consideration as those who may decide to secure outfits at this time.

Come to Thief River Falls Saturday. It will be worth your while in proving that for style, quality and price it will not be necessary to look further.

Polk Center Resident is Accused of Moonshining

The first still alleged to have been used for the manufacture of "potent" liquors in Pennington county was brought in from Polk Center township by Sheriff W. J. LaBree and offered as part of the evidence against Nap Benoit, arrested on complaint of County Attorney Theo. Quale and charged with manufacturing and keeping for sale intoxicating liquors. The still is a 10 gallon gasoline can with a spout so soldered that the necessary coil can be conveniently fitted thereto. A number of galvanized iron pails and a quantity of mash was also confiscated and submitted as evidence to show that Benoit was fully equipped to put a kink in the eighteenth amendment. The accused was bound over to answer before the next grand jury, bail being fixed at $500 which was furnished.

Separate Jury Rooms For Women Now Demanded

The country's jails will have to be remodeled. Women are going to campaign for separate jury rooms. A separate jury room with adequate toilet facilities will be demanded, according to representative women here.

The discussion started when seven women in St. Paul were locked in a county jail with five men until they decided, after 48 hours, that George Thomko was guilty of automobile theft.

"Women will not expect luxuries," of course said Miss E. Calihan, candidate for clerk of the supreme court. "Means should be provided, however, to give them separate quarters."

A. J. Gronna, former senator of North Dakota, defeated for re-election by E. F. Ladd in the fall of 1920 has filed as a candidate for U. S. Senate from North Dakota in opposition to Porter J. McCumber, present incumbent. Gronna favors the state bill, Bank of North Dakota and rural creditors on the Nonpartisan plan. Senator McCumber is up for re-election. Neither candidate has been endorsed by any party so far. It appears that there will be difficulty for either faction to decide whom they should support.

"INSIDE OF THE CUP" DECLARED GREATEST OF ALL PHOTO PLAYS

Receives Unstinted Praise at Hands of Press Reviewers—Will be Seen at Lyceum on Sunday and Monday.

William H. Voltz, dramatic editor of the Gazette-Democrat, Philadelphia, has reviewed the Cosmopolitan production, "The Inside of the Cup," a Paramount picture from the novel by Winston Churchill, in a column article, paying a high tribute to the merit of the picture and to the remarkable character portrayals by the principals in that striking production.

"It was my good fortune to drop into the Palace theatre yesterday afternoon where I saw a new Paramount picture called "The Inside of the Cup," and right here I want to go on record as having said this is one of the best film productions I ever saw, and I have seen hundreds of them. It is one of the most artistic pictures ever produced. It is the finished article from start to finish.

"Paramount has a great name as a company and has supplied us with many clever photoplays, and every new one they show seems to outclass the preceding one, which goes to show that we are never too old to learn, and Paramount seems to be learning more every day.

"The Inside of the Cup" is from a novel by Winston Churchill, directed by Albert Capellani. As a rule I do not mention the name of the director, the scenario writer, the photographer and all that, because I think the public doesn't care a hoot who directed or wrote the scenario, or photographed the picture. But in this case this screen play is so artistically presented and the story so truthfully displayed that I have made an exception.

"Dickens in his war against Pharisaism never drew a more pungent character than Eldon Parr in "The Inside of the Cup." He is Pecksniff and Uriah Heep and Chadband kneaded into one. His evil doing and his influence and his "pull" are so masterfully shown that they seem real to life—and easily could be. There is no melodrama, there is no exaggeration, there is none of that license that sometimes the portrayal of types permits.

"The piety of this "pillar of the church!" Oh, the utter benignity of his expression, the uplifted eyes and the odor of sanctity! and "inside the cup"—greedy, avaricious, relentless, a hard taskmaster, a brutal parent and a general rotter! Some of his associates are admirably pictured! The vestry types are simply inspirations. One fat vestryman, looking as though butter wouldn't melt in his mouth, was a joy. Another, with an almost musical comedy expression, convulsed a quiet picture house, where laughter sounds as it never sounds in a legitimate theatre. Wonderful types, and gorgeously selected.

"The congregation is pictured on the day that this minister decides to tell the truth and shame the Pharisees. It is a vivid scene. At this juncture, the titling of "The Inside of the Cup" is particularly admirable. This church scene is pricelessly done. If you own a thinking apparatus, "The Inside of the Cup" will find it plenty of work to do. And, if you don't own such a thing, who shall say that this picture may not start one budding for you?"

Assistant Observers Needed.

The Civil Service commission invites special attention to the fact that in the examination held recently in Thief River Falls, Minn., and other cities throughout the United States for assistant observer, weather bureau, applicants were not secured in the number desired and that this examination will again be held on March 22.

Persons interested in this or other examinations should apply to T. S. Brokke, secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board at the local postoffice for detailed information and application blanks.

Card of Thanks.

We wish hereby to express our sincere thanks to those who showed us much kindness during our recent bereavement. Particularly are we grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Andy Craik for their many kind deeds and to the Odd Fellows, Rebekahs and Firemen for the beautiful floral offerings.—Mrs. Severt Egenes, Mildred, Stanley and Harvey Egenes. Try This Simple Test

One Reason Why HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE Acts On The Spot

Hill's C. B. Q. Tablets are best by test. Try this simple experiment:

1. Drop a C. B. Q. Tablet in a glass of clear water.
2. Instantly the tablet begins disintegrating or "breaking up."
3. In 10 seconds the medical properties are thoroughly mixed with water.

Thus, Hill's C. B. Q. Tablets act immediately, give relief without delay and begin checking Colds and La Grippe long before ordinary tablets, by actual test, are absorbed by the stomach juices. To prove this, subject other than C. B. Q. Tablets to the test, and observe that in most instances an hour or more is required for complete disintegration.

THE SPRING OPENING.

Saturday, March 18, will be spring opening day for the stores of Thief River Falls. On this day the wearing apparel merchants particularly will have on display the wares for which there is particular demand in the spring of the year. They have decided to join forces in announcing to the people of the region their intention of presenting something of interest to all at this time and the announcements in The Times today will give a good idea of what the investigator may expect to find.

This year not only new goods but new prices are presented for the inspection of the prospective buyer. The drop in the cost of seasonable merchandise is in many cases so great as to be startling. Pre-war prices are again quoted for goods of even better value than was the case before business conditions throughout the world were upset.

Thief River Falls merchants have provided the best there is for their customers. Most of them have personally inspected the offerings at the different production centers and have selected what they desired with a full knowledge of what the people of the city and vicinity are likely to need and want. It is probable that their stocks are no larger than in previous years, conditions being such as to discourage plunging, but they have secured an ample supply of the most desirable goods.

Any person who sends out of town for anything handled here before finding out what their own merchants have to offer deserve the disappointments sure to follow such course. All the home dealer asks is that a comparison of his goods and prices be made with those of merchants in other places before good money is sent out of town. If such comparison fails to convince the buyer that trading away from home is a mistake the merchant is himself to blame—a fact he stands ready to admit.

Visit Thief River Falls next Saturday and see what has been provided for meeting your needs. It will cost you nothing to look around. You will be made welcome and courteously treated even though you come only to criticize.

COMPLAINT IS GENERAL.

The subject of school taxes is at the present time receiving a large share of attention from the press of the state. To judge by the expressions of editors the topic is one of outstanding importance in practically every community and the opinion thus far seems unanimous in demanding that something be done to bring about a reduction of the burden. The editorial in The Times last week in which attention was called to the cost of education in District No. 18 of Pennington county was in line with expressions voiced all over the state.

As is the case in Thief River Falls, in very few instances are school boards directly blamed for the tremendous increase in the cost of maintaining the schools. The situation is admittedly one in which the men and women in charge of this particular part of the public's business find themselves at a loss as to the best policy to pursue. There is no question but that they would gladly cut expenses if in their judgment such course were possible without lowering the standing of the schools, but they seem to fear this cannot be done.

The state superintendent of public instruction has gone on record as opposing any reduction in the salaries of teachers in spite of the fact that a cut of from 20 to 25 per cent was recently recommended at a meeting of educators. A resolution advocating such reduction failed of passage because its provisions were considered too sweeping and as failing to take conditions in different localities into consideration. In certain communities, it was contended, conditions might be such as to make a greater cut necessary while in others it would work an injustice to the teachers by reducing salaries to a greater extent than is warranted. That an adjustment having for its purpose a general revision of salaries downward was deemed advisable was amply demonstrated by the action of the delegates, however.

The press is demanding that the conditions under which state aid is extended be made less exacting. It is contended that state aid as at present administered is not extended except under conditions which make it a burden for districts to participate. There is not much to be gained by extending this aid and then attaching conditions which in a large measure nullify its value. It is likely a greater degree of relief may be expected from less exacting state regulations than from a reduction in the salaries of teachers, necessary as this latter step undoubtedly is.

The Cottonwood County Citizen, published at Windom, states the position of the general run of school districts in the state exactly in the following short editorial:

> J. M McConnell, superintendent of public instruction in this state, warns against cutting wages of teachers, contrary to the somewhat general opinion that this should be done as one of the means of reducing taxation. Mr. McConnell's warning also carries the implied meaning that the state department will step in with its usual arbitrary manner, and order that no decrease be made at any place throughout the state. The gentleman urges the doing away with certain departments, if curtailment is absolutely necessary, rather than to cut the wages of teachers in necessary departments. But the trouble is that it is a tremendous chore to eliminate any department as the men at the head in the state usually use the state aid threat to hold the departments in line. It is a case of be darned if you do and be darned if you don't.

A WISE DECISION.

The selection of County Agent J. J. McCann as secretary of the Thief River Falls commercial club was a sensible move. Not only does Mr. McCann possess all the qualifications of a first-class secretary, but his relation to the people of the city and county makes him the ideal official.

Mr. McCann's appointment was primarily made in the interest of economy, it being admittedly longer impossible for the farm bureau to engage his services under its present plan of financing. The county appropriation for the maintenance of the office was denied this year and while a large part of the agent's expenses are paid by the state and nation, yet a considerably larger sum than that made available from these sources is necessary in order to keep the agency functioning. Mr. McCann was seriously handicapped in his efforts to help the farmers last year because of a shortage of funds and this condition promised no improvement in the near future. The salary paid a secretary of the commercial club is not large but it will help make up the deficiency.

Mr. McCann's appointment should be particularly of value in affecting a closer co-operation between the people of city and country. In the past his work has been largely devoted to assisting the farmer in solving his problems, but he has also been active in movements of more particular interest to the people of Thief River Falls. He has been called upon for special service on many occasions and has always responded willingly and efficiently.

The new arrangement will be found more satisfactory than any tried during the past few years on the score of convenience. The county agent's office is in the auditorium and this building also contains the commercial club headquarters. There is ample room in the office to accommodate both these divisions of public service and Mr. McCann's selection will practically provide both with a full-time secretary.

There is going to be a great deal of work for the commercial club during the coming year and it is well that a man of Mr. McCann's energy will to a large extent have charge of affairs.

SITUATION IMPROVING.

With every indication of an unusually early spring the farmers of Northwestern Minnesota are looking toward the future with renewed courage. It must be admitted that during the past winter things have often taken on a decidedly bleak appearance when observed from the standpoint of the food producer and he could hardly be blamed for taking a rather pessimistic view of his situation. With the price of his products steadily falling and but little corresponding drop in the things he must buy as an offset, he was caught going and coming with no way to turn. It is high time there was a change.

An early and favorable spring does not insure a bountiful harvest by any means, but it does mean a favorable start, and nothing better can be looked for at this stage. It means early seeding with a correspondingly early reaping, which is a tremendous advantage, particularly to the grain grower. To the dairyman it means turning cattle out to pasture at an earlier date and a consequent lowering of labor and expense.

From every direction come indications of improved conditions. Bank statements show large increases in deposits, a fact due to a considerable extent to the better prices received for farm products. There is a disposition on the part of those who must finance the farmer to do so more willingly and on terms much more favorable than for some time in the past. Manufacturing enterprises in the cities are putting their men back to work and this means an increased demand for the products of the soil. Labor is more generally employed than was the case a few months ago and while wages are not what they were in the recent past the living cost reduction in some degree compensates for this decline. It would be very much better if wages were to drop just a little more slowly and the cost of living a little more rapidly, but things are moving toward a reasonable adjustment.

While too many men are still unemployed there is every reason for hoping this condition will not long continue. There is unusual activity in building lines in the cities and this is always a good sign. Soon the farms will be in the market for a large number of men and the unemployment situation in the towns will be correspondingly relieved.

Taken as a whole things are not bad. What is most needed now is for people to quit looking backwards at the unnaturally fat years that have passed and face the future with a greater degree of confidence.

DON'T BE UNREASONABLE.

When the truly remarkable progress made in the matter of flood control and drainage by the Red River district commission is considered it presents a most creditable record. More has been accomplished during the past year to insure the section against loss by spring floods and bring large tracts of heretofore valueless land under cultivation than during all the previous years white men have lived in the territory. The successful carrying out of the commission's program is now practically assured, a fact that means so much to the people residing in the district affected that they have even as yet no very clear idea of its importance.

In spite of the great strides made toward providing the relief they stand more in need of than anything else just now there are those who complain because things do not move faster. They forget that more has been done in the past year than for 20 years previously, although the subject has been before congress and the people fully that long. They overlook the fact that at last the proposition has assumed concrete form and a well-defined program is being followed. These fault-finders fail to give the commission credit for the exceptionally good work already accomplished and for the greater achievements promised for the near future. It is perhaps only just to state that there are very few of these dissatisfied persons and that their observations are lost in the general acclaim of commendation for the great record of the commission.

The probabilities are that early next year the work of dredging and straightening the Red Lake river will be begun. Viewers have already been appointed and will begin their duties at once. This is the big contract in connection with the Red Lakes project and when completed will remove forever the one great drawback to profitable farming along the upper river as well as provide a standardized waterflow for all purposes. It is a great undertaking and one that will stand as a monument to the foresight and perseverance of the men who are rapidly bringing it to a successful conclusion.

The first issue of the Middle River Pioneer under the editorial control and management of C. A. Hickok came to hand last week and to judge from appearances and the class of matter presented, the property has been left in competent hands. R. D. V. Carr, veteran publisher of the Pioneer, has leased the paper to Mr. Hickok, who is a newspaper man of ability and wide experience, while he takes a well-earned rest. The people of Middle River and neighborhood have a mighty good newspaper in the Pioneer, perhaps the best published in a town of like size in the state, and the prosperous appearance of the sheet indicates that they appreciate the fact.

OBSERVATIONS

(W. T. Noonan in Baudette Region.)

Cheer up, only three months till the sunstroke season.

The Region isn't throwing spasms of delight over the plan to give Minnesota a state police force. It smacks too much of another military organization. More co-operation among the sheriffs, with a head sheriff's office at St. Paul would be a better plan.

Many inquiries for Baudette land are coming in, which is only natural. Soil that will produce 100 green bills to the acre and can be bought for ten was sure to be grabbed up sooner or later.

The Region is being flooded with announcements by politicians these days. About the only thing they leave out of them is the truth.

"The shorter the skirts the longer you live," says a doctor to the ladies. Some of the girls evidently intend to live longer than John Smith, who reached 137 years.

We note that a candidate for re-election to the legislature says he has been in politics 22 years. Is it a boast or a confession?

The latest novelty for fleshy people is rubber shirts to melt away the fat. We know a few politicians who ought to wear rubber hats.

Astronomers have discovered that the moon is traveling faster than formerly. She has to, in order to keep up with this hustling old earth.

We noticed a headline the other day reading: "Takes Dog and Flees." There was an awful good chance for a typographical error.

When.

(By Walter G. Doty.)

When young men follow old men's advice,
When all girls dress in a sensible way;
When every play is worth the price
And books are all their publishers say;
When goodness counts for more than cash;
When boarding houses cease from hash;
When women say just what they mean
And men what they say, forsooth;
When bards grow fat and knaves grow lean;
When lovers always tell the truth;
When fool-proof motor cars have come—
Look out for the millennium!

In Virginia two men are imprisoned in a mine, according to the public prints. They are, reports say, in a vaulted chamber, the natural temperature of which is about 70 degrees. A two-inch pipe has been driven through the rock to this chamber, through which food and drink are passed. Electric wires and a small electric light bulb have also been passed through the pipe. The men have plenty of fresh air, plenty of food and drink, tobacco and matches and a light.

It may be several weeks before rescuers reach them. In the meantime the prisoners say that they are all right, and not worrying. Why should they worry? No cold weather, no taxes, no high cost of living, no dodging automobiles, or trying to start 'em on cold mornings, no telephone calls in the chilly midnight, no fuss, no bother. Grub handed them daily, without having to work. It would be a little difficult for us to go down a two-inch pipe, but any time the two fellers want a companion we will volunteer.

With the tax off soft drinks they seem a trifle softer.

The United States Shipping Board in a page advertisement in a great magazine (which cost $8,000 of the peoples' money) urges us to go to Europe this winter: "The Riviera, Egypt and the Mystic Nile are calling you," the shipping board says. "Travel by one of your own ships, and help American industry." We have written the United States Shipping Board to forward at once the necessary transportation on one of our own ships, and expect to leave next week.

When Pa is Sick.

When Pa is sick, he's scared to death,
An' Ma an' us just holds our breath.
He crawls in bed an' puffs and grunts,
And does all kinds of crazy stunts.
He wants "Doc." Brown, an' mighty quick,
For when Pa's ill, he's awful sick.
He gasps and groans, an' sort o' sighs,
He talks so queer, an' rolls his eyes.
Ma jumps an' runs an' all of us,
An' all the house is in a fuss.
An' peace and joy is mighty skeerce,
When Pa is sick it's something fierce.

More Roads for the Money.
(From the St. Paul Dispatch.)

Lowest prices in a long time for road work have been brought out by the bidding on state highway contracts. The state will get the fifteen jobs for materially less than was expected. The result will be greater mileage or improved roads to be obtained this year with the total fund. There will be reasonable profits for the contractors and a larger number of men employed. The automobile and truck owners are entitled to more for their money, for it has been harder for them to raise it. The highway commissioner is entitled to credit for preparing the specifications in such a way as to help bring out twice as many bidders as last year. The quality of work will depend on the efficiency of his engineers, for there is nothing more expensive in road building than incompetent oversight. The first year of the new system of state highway construction has been an object lesson to Ramsey and every other county in the way it ought to be done.

Exchange Echoes

POOR POLICY.

Glenwood Herald: If we have a blooded horse or a thorobred cow we pet and pamper it, we even read books on how best to keep it in good condition or to give it the proper training. But our boys and girls we allow to run wild and get along anyway they can.

SO THEY SAY.

Lake City Graphic Republican: We are told that the swallow has the largest mouth, in proportion to its size, of any known bird. And the mule has the hardest kick of any known moonshine.

GAME TO THE LAST.

Exchange: An editor was dying, but when the doctor bent over, placed his ear on his breast, and said, "Poor man! Circulation almost gone!" the dying editor shouted: "You're a liar! We have the largest circulation in the country."—Exchange.

DON'T KNOCK.

Roseau Times-Region: A young salesman called upon an old merchant but did not make a sale. After he had gone the merchant said, "I liked his goods but he didn't know how to sell them. He spent five minutes talking about his own line and twenty minutes knocking his competitor."

That is the trouble with a great many people. They spend more time knocking other people than in displaying their own virtues and good qualities.

Knocking doesn't pay. Besides, it is so unnecessary. Give other people credit for being as clear-sighted as you are.

SUMMED UP.

Dassel Anchor: Take Edison's advice. "Increase your selling efforts," and he means by that make more noise about your business, attract customers, intensify your efforts. All this means—advertise.

A MARKED CONTRAST.

Winnebago City Enterprise: There is a marked contrast between Senator F. B. Kellogg and Judge Oscar Hallam, the two leading aspirants for the Republican convention endorsement for United States Senator.

All his life, Senator Kellogg has been aligned with the "big money" interests. He has grown rich by serving the corporations, and representing them on various and divers occasions.

All his life, Judge Oscar Hallam has been with the plain people. His has been a life of service to the masses. He has been a benefit and inspiration to hundreds of young men who have studied law.

Senator Kellogg has waxed opulent in this world's goods as a result of his affiliations. Judge Hallam has become rich in friendships on account of the kindly deeds that he has done, and the beneficent services that he has performed.

There is no question but that Judge Hallam would make an ideal United States Senator. In him, the people would have a strong and sturdy champion of their rights, and an able advocate of the true principles of old-fashioned Americanism. The convention will do well to endorse Judge Hallam, as he is the one and only man who can unite all factions of the party, and be successful at the polls next November.

WE'RE A PART OF THE U. S. A.

Mapleton Enterprise: The publishers of Minnesota are going to ask the next legislature to tell to the world that Minnesota is a part of America, and that in this state legal notices must be published in the language of the country. The last legislature dodged this issue but they cannot ignore it again without a calling of the roll and the placing on record of every lawmaker. Does any one think for a moment that Norway would allow its legal proclamations to be made in English, or that Germany would do likewise? Not that anyone knows of. Then why should any community in Minnesota be permitted to isolate itself from the general government by adopting some foreign tongue for carrying on public affairs?

STRICTLY NON-POLITICAL.

Princeton Union: The Minnesota Farm Bureau federation, according to the statement issued by its executive board, is a non-political organization. Every county association and township unit is advised to keep free from all political entanglements. This certainly is good, sound advice. If the members of the farm bureau live up to their opportunities and develop their organization as they should, they will find that they cannot afford to link it up with any political party. The farm bureau is a big institution. It is supported by men of every political belief because it is partially maintained by our government. Therefore its growth should not be dependent on the fortunes of any one party.

IT ALL HELPS.

Olivia Times: The bridal veil worn by Princess Mary was the one worn by Queen Victoria. That's economy, alright. Now if King George's trousers can be made over for the newly wedded duke there will be hope for England paying off the war debt.

COST IS VERY SMALL.

Walker Pilot: Once in a long while you hear some one remark that the county agent is a luxury and a terrible drag on the county finances. We have often wondered how they got that way when statistics show the cost of the county agent service in counties in the state of Minnesota amounts to less than one-half of a cent an acre on the basis of a total acreage in farms. At that rate county agent Onlby is well worth his hire if he did nothing the whole blessed year but visit the different farms and cull chickens.

WHY DON'T THEY COMBINE.

Dassel Dispatch: Competition has reduced the price of moonshine to such an extent that there is hardly a living in it for anyone.

A Campus Beautiful.

Now that spring is here again it may be necessary to remind students to refrain from cutting across the lawn as much as possible. If we are to have a beautiful campus later on in the season, the grass must be permitted to grow as early as the weather permits. If the turf is broken and the tender grass trod down by short-cuts across the campus, it will leave ugly blotches to mar the beauty of our school lawn all season. We all want a campus that will be a pleasure to look upon and a credit to the school. It is only a few steps farther to follow the walks, so please consider the beauty of the fresh green grass before you step on it.

The High School Progress.

There are two principal ways in which the activities in the high school are presented to the public. They are the Annual and High School Progress. Now if these are the only two ways in which the public can read what the students in the school are accomplishing, they should be developed to their fullest extent so it will seem interesting for the public to read them.

The Progress especially because of being printed so frequently should be a paper by which the public can see just what the school is accomplishing in athletics and from the social standpoint. It should have some showing of the work of the student as a literary writer. The Progress could surely be bettered by more interest in it. If the students would only read it more and others read the Progress it would help. But the trouble with the Progress is that of lack of support. How can the students expect the business men and others to be interested in it if it does not arouse their own enthusiasm. The only thing that the Progress really needs is some more good articles on good subjects and more jokes.

Notice

You don't have to have a doctor examine you. A great many of us need to watch and be careful though. It isn't so much a matter of health because the healthiest are liable to be the first victims of this horrible disease. Oh, such a tremendous amount of students get the disease every year.

Symptoms:

First stage—At first the books become weary and tiresome to look at, and there will be a tendency to skip school.

Second stage—When on the way to school there is a power without that beckons the student to stay away which generally wins.

Third stage—The student is irritated and wishes his ears clogged because he hears disagreeable orders and his eyes closed because he sees red marks. But watch the mouth, it drifts toward telling petty lies. His actions are irritating to teachers who will then seek the aid of the superintendent. The student will consider him a mere "quack" and thus let the disease drag out till the end of school.

Three results:

1. No student on the honor roll.
2. Many tears shed over F's.
3. Many don't dare go home.

District Declamatory Contest Of State League.

The Declamatory contest for this district was held in the high school auditorium last Friday evening. The program was as follows:

"Toussaint L' Overture," George Puschinsky, Red Lake Falls.

"Abolition of War," Walter Gilbertson, Erskine.

"Liberty or Death," Melvin Sherva, St. Hilaire.

"Reply by Douglas," Ludwig Nelson, Greenbush.

"Abolition of War," Herschel Hanson, Thief River Falls.

"Plea of Cuba," Arthur Wold, Roseau.

Piano solo, Muriel Loken.

"Madame X," Ella Lasha, Red Lake Falls.

"Man Without a Country," Marie Martin, Roseau.

"A Few Bars in the Key of G," Ruth O'Brien, Greenbush.

"The Littlest Rebel," Grace Steenerson, Erskine.

"The Angelus," [illegible] Krohn, Thief River Falls.

"As the Moon Rose," Edith Holmquist, Lancaster.

"The Soul of the Violin," Blanche Rolsin, St. Hilaire.

Community singing led by Miss Johnson.

The decision of the judges, Miss McNair of Fosston, Supt. Norby and John Nystul of Goodridge, gave the "Plea for Cuba," and "Liberty or Death," the first and second places for the boys, respectively. First and second places for the girls were given to "A Few Bars in the Key of G," and "As the Moon Rose," respectively.

Can You Imagine?

Myrtle Oen with bobbed hair?
The girl's mirror without a smiling face gazing into it?
Ole Helle with black hair?
Eileen without Math?
Lee Melgaard minus an argument?
Willis Nason smiling at a girl?
Mr. Rupacz without his announcements?
A freshman with brains?
Lucille Curtis and Nellie Knutson "just loafing?"
Kip LaBree interested in a girl?
The cloak hall not crowded at noon?
Silence in the assembly?
Camille not talking?
Clarence Smith with a girl?
A perfect attendance on a spring day?

Placing Her.

If she goes with all the boys, she is a coquette.

If she prefers a steady she couldn't get anyone else.

If she prefers chemistry, she's queer. If she doesn't she's looking for snap course.

If she's a shark in physical training she loses her maidenly charm. If she isn't, well, girls can't do much anyhow.

If she doesn't wear a Senior Class ring, she's not engaged. If she does, she's running a bluff.

If she belongs to a "click" she's frivolous. If she doesn't she couldn't make a "hit."

If she asserts herself in class she's strong minded. If she doesn't she hasn't any brains.

If she doesn't talk much she's uninteresting. If she does she's tiresome.

Now what's she going to do?

To Spring.

How dearly do I love the spring!
It seems as if the world doth ring
With birds and flowers and trees galore,
I wish that there was spring much more
Instead of winter, when the winds do roar,
Spring is a wonderful, beautiful thing.

The day was bright, serene and fair,
The day my sister bobbed her hair;
And when she started home that night,
She raved and raved with all her might
At how she looked (an awful sight)
Without her long, black hair.

Supt. Simley Speaks.

At the regular Wednesday general assembly last week, Supt. Simley gave the student body a very interesting talk on literature suitable for committing to memory. He illustrated from personal experience how he had often found much company and much enjoyment out of repeating memory gems that he had previously made his possessions. To show that he found enjoyment in other literature as well as the English, he cited briefly from other languages such as Latin, Greek, French, German and Norse. He called particular attention to the very excellent literature that had been brought about by the World War. As illustrations of this literature he recited McCrae's, "In Flander's Fields," Lilard's "America's Answer" and Seeger's "I have a Rendezvous with Death."

The talk was enjoyed by all and if Mr. Simley will again give us a few of his spare minutes, the students will be delighted.

Class Tournament.

The class games, which started Monday, March 13th are probably the hardest-fought games which have been witnessed for several years, which is probably due to the strong rivalry between the classes for first place.

Each class has put out its best men and is backing them up with true class spirit. It is hard at present to say which team is the strongest, but the Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors seem to look upon the Seniors as their strongest opponents. The schedule is as follows:

Monday, March 13th—Freshmen vs. Sophomores.

Tuesday, March 14th—Juniors vs. Seniors.

Wednesday, March 15th—Freshmen vs. Juniors.

Thursday, March 16th—Sophomores vs. Seniors.

Friday, March 17th—Freshmen vs. Seniors.

Monday, March 20th—Sophomores vs. Juniors.

A small admittance fee of ten cents is charged which will go toward paying off the debt incurred by the Athletic association.

Low Marks.

When you get your report card and you are disappointed in any of your marks, what do you do? Do you get discouraged and not study any more, or are you determined to try to raise your mark? When some people get a low mark, they think at the time that they will study harder, but as the time goes on they forget the resolution they had made and go back to the same method of studying they used before.

It does not pay to get discouraged when you get a low mark. If you think you deserved to get a better mark than what was given you, you ought to go and see your teacher, as she will be glad to tell you why you got such a poor grade; she will be glad to show you other ways to study which would be easier and so make the subject more interesting. When you get a low mark you should be willing to study harder on that subject, to put more time on it so that you will be able to raise your mark the following month. You should also be willing to follow out your teacher's suggestions if she made any. If every one in the whole high school would do this, there would not be so many low grades.

The Benefit of Reading Good Books.

Some people seem to think that "good" books are necessarily the books they dislike. Now if they would please sample a few they would change their minds. I, for one, in looking over a shelf of fiction, especially, used to skip all that had thin pages and fine print, thinking, "Oh, that's just some dry old thing I'll probably have to read for English some day." Well, I got "Lorna Doone" for my book review on fiction and I can tell you, though I have not yet finished it, that it is the most interesting book I've read for a long time.

When I began, it was with sort of rebellious feeling and I criticized it severely, "too much in detail," I thought, and such a style! But I could not leave it alone. Later I found that each "detail" was an important part of the story. It is thrilling enough to suit anyone and yet has a sort of uplifting power.

Anyone can easily distinguish a book of this sort from the trashy novel, so often the main part of the young person's reading matter. The sort are not "uplifting" and they often lead to grave mistakes in the lives of young persons.

Of course fiction is not the only thing one should read. The works on vocation are a great help to one in choosing his life's work, etc. Books on travel are instructive and are really a part of one's education. One will also find them ever so interesting. I find the "Geographic" magazine very good reading matter. "Thrilling" too. In the last one a tiger story was interwoven in an article about "Hunting for the——" some tree whose seeds contain an oil which cures leprosy.

Now don't skip the "formidable" looking books, at least until you've tried a few, for I'm sure you'll find them very interesting.

Leigh Anderson Again Honored.

Again Leigh Anderson, a student in Central, has won honors for himself, his school, and his city, by winning first prize in the Minneapolis Journal Essay Contest on the subject "Our Mutual Friend." It will be remembered that Leigh won the distinction of winning the grand sweep stakes in the essay contest on "The Future of the Red River Valley," conducted by the Red River Valley Winter Shows. With this [illegible] he also won first prize for the [illegible] grade contest.

The following letters which [illegible] has received will be of great interest to his friends.

Crookston, Minn.
Feb. 12, 1922.

Mr. Leigh Anderson, Student Dist. 18, Thief River Falls, Minn.

Dear Friend: You have, of course, before this been advised that your essay on "The Future of the Red River Valley" won first prize in the Winter Shows essay contest, but it is our wish to express our congratulations to you and to tell you that it gave us great pleasure to be permitted to have it read at the annual meeting of the association, held at Crookston on Thursday of last week, at which were present Honorable M. Holm, Secretary of State; Honorable N. J. Holmberg, Commissioner of Agriculture; Senator Sam Rask of Blooming Prairie; representatives of the commercial organizations of St. Paul and Minneapolis; and men from all counties of the Development Association territory.

Could you have heard the applause that was given when the reading of the essay was finished, and heard a few of the words of commendation expressed, you would surely have felt repaid for the effort put forth in the preparation of the essay and, too, have acquired a stronger and lasting interest in "The real future of the Red River Valley." That your expressions of its possibilities may come true will be the hope of all and if this association may have a part in helping to effect the realization of even a small part of them it will feel that it has served good purpose.

Copies of the essay were requested by representatives of the twin city papers who were present.

Again we congratulate you and wish you every success in carrying out your part in promoting the future development of that great section in which we live.

Yours very truly,
Minnesota Red River Valley Development Association.

A Blind Man.

The old man standing on the street corner was a pitiful sight. In his hand he held his ragged hat in which he received the few pennies that pitying passersby dropped in. His eyes were concealed by dark glasses. It was a cold day and his scanty attire was hardly enough to keep him warm.

The money did not accumulate as fast as usual. It was just a week after Christmas and the people seemed to have spent all their spare money for gifts. All that afternoon the old man stood on the corner. He was just about to go home when a weary, patient eyed little woman dropped a coin into his hat. "You poor man," she said softly. "It must be dreadful to depend upon this for your living. I haven't much myself," she said ruefully "but I make enough with my work to keep my baby and myself from starving. You see my husband died three months ago. He was blind, too." Her voice ended in a sob.

"Blind!" exclaimed the beggar.

"Yes," she said controlling her emotion with an effort. "That's why I am always glad to help such as you."

"Thank you ma'am," said the beggar, "and if you would give me your name and address I would be very grateful." Surprised, the woman gave it to him.

After she had gone the man turned to go home. He soon reached the apartment where he had rented one room. He went into the room and carefully locked the door behind him. The large shabby room seemed more gloomy than usual. With a sigh the old man sat down. He took off his glasses revealing his bright clear seeing eyes. The glasses were of use during the day to help carry his pretense of being blind, but in the evening they were a nuisance.

The old man as was his usual custom took out his money and counted it. He was not satisfied however.

"Might have given me more," he muttered. Putting his hand in his pocket he felt to see whether there was any more. He pulled out the slip of paper containing the address which the woman had given him.

"Wonder what possessed me to get it," he grumbled. But he did not throw it away.

The next day in an attempt to cross the crowded street, where he thought he would get more money, the old man was run over by the passing traffic and seriously injured. He was taken to the city hospital.

A few days later the patient little woman who had given the beggar money received a letter from a lawyer. It read:

"Peter Malone, a miser, died yesterday at the hospital. He had about two hundred dollars which he bequeathed to you. Will you please call at my office?"

The Week's Sermon

(By Rev. E. H. Kreidt, Pastor St. John's Lutheran Church, Thief River Falls.)

JESUS: SAVIOR OR JUDGE.

(Matt. 26:63,64.)

Jesus, betrayed by the kiss of Judas, His disciple, was taken captive by the soldiers and servants of the priests and rulers, bound securely, and led to the palace of the High-priest Caiphas. Here the Sanhedrin, highest court of the Jewish church, had met to judge and condemn Jesus of Nazareth. The verdict of this court was a settled fact, even before the trial had started, for it was Caiphas, the judge of Jesus, who some time before had given the advice to the plotting and intriguing priests: "Ye know nothing at all, nor consider that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people." (John 11:49,50.) This one man that should die for the people was Jesus. Caiphas had determined upon His death.

To preserve a show of justice, false witnesses are brought forward against the Prisoner. But their testimony does not agree; the trial does not progress as it was planned. Caiphas, the cunning and crafty judge, again comes to the rescue. He will lead Jesus into a trap and convict Him from His own testimony. He says: "I adjure thee by the living God, that Thou tell us whether Thou be the Christ, the Son of God." Jesus is placed under oath and in the presence of Jehovah, the true God, who also will judge the truth of His answer. Jesus realizes the importance of this moment; the truth and the honor of God are at stake; He must answer truthfully, regardless of the consequences to Himself. And His answer comes in clear, certain terms: "Thou hast said, 'I am the Christ.'"

Note well that Caiphas had used the official title of the promised Savior: "Christ." This is the Greek equivalent to the Hebrew "Messiah." His question would read: "Are You the Savior, whom God by the prophets of old has promised to send into the world for the redemption of His people? Are you the fulfillment of these promises of God? Are you the Son of God? For such the promised Savior must be." The question was well put; it drove right to the heart of the case. And Jesus does not evade the issue; He admits the correctness of the question, and answers: "I am the Savior; I am the Son of God; I am the fulfillment of God's promises; I am sent of God to save the world; I am your Savior."

And then He adds: "Hereafter shall ye see the Son of man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming in the clouds of heaven." To the Bible-student those words have a clear and unmistakable meaning. "Son of man" is the regular name which Jesus applies to Himself. "Sitting on the right hand of power and coming in the clouds of heaven," refer to His return to Judgement, when the nations of the earth, the quick and the dead, shall be judged. (Read Matt. 25:31-46.) Thus Jesus there steps before His judges with His two-fold office, that of the Savior, and that of the Judge. He would have them remember this and take it into account when they deal with Him. Now He is the Christ, the Messiah, the Savior; but He will be the Judge; now He stands before them in lowliness, but He will stand before them in power and glory; now they are the judges and He is the prisoner, but the time will come when He will be the judge and they the prisoners. Therefore, they should be careful of their relationship to Him. They can have Him as Savior, or they will have Him as judge.

The same applies to us. Every mortal must determine his relationship to Christ, the Son of God. You must choose between these two things: Christ the Savior or Christ the Judge. As which will you have Him? Now is the time to make the choice. Today, during this present life, He comes to you in the blessed Gospel as the Savior. He comes to you in lowliness, it is true, as the "Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief," as "one despised and rejected, without form and comeliness, that we should desire Him," (Is. 53); but He comes with the invitation: "Come unto Me and I will give you rest;" with the announcement: "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life." Will you accept Him as such? Will you receive the gift of heaven, purchased by His suffering and death? Will you be cleansed of sin and its guilt with His blood? Yes? Then shalt thou live. No? You will not accept Him as the Christ? You will not trust in His vicarious atonement? You will not hope for heaven through Him alone? You will cast Him aside as worthless and undesirable? Then you must meet Him as your Judge. In the glory and power of His eternal Godhead will you stand before Him in your sins and imperfections? What can you expect from Him, the Righteous, the Holy and the Just? Nothing, but the verdict which the Sanhedrin all unjustly passed upon Him: "He is guilty of death!"

Mortal man, now is the time to decide your meeting with the Son of God. Now you can cling to Him as your savior and then you need not fear Him as judge. Or you can reject Him now, neglect and despise Him, but you will have to fear Him then, and tremble before Him there. Which shall it be?

"Look unto Him and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth!" Is. 45:22.

Minnesota Leads Country in 1000-Lb. Milch Cows

Minnesota leads all the states in the number of Holstein cows which are producing more than 1,000 lbs. of butter on yearly tests, according to W. E. Peterson of University Farm, superintendent of official testing in this state. Minnesota has 82 Holsteins in the 1,000 lb. class. Several Guernseys and Jerseys have a similar record of performance to their credit. Ohio with 79 Holsteins in this superior class is second to Minnesota. In 1915 Minnesota had but one lone 1,000 lb. cow and stood in the last place among the states. Mr. Peterson believes the development of testing and breeding has had a great deal to do in bringing about the marked improvement in production shown by official records.

HOG PRICES GO BELOW $10 LINE

Severe Drop Features Trade at Week's Opening—Pigs Also Lower—Few Fat Cattle.

(By U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and Minn. Dep't of Agriculture.)

Hog prices at South St. Paul have been running comparatively close to those prevailing at Chicago and often above prices at Missouri river markets, and packers were out to get values in line here at the week's opening. Their efforts along this line were successful, declines of 50 to 75c on the average being recorded. Bulk of sales $9.50 to $9.75, top $10.00, heavy packing sows $8.00 to $8.50. Pigs were also lower, bulk of good pigs cashing at $9.85.

Cattle trade opened unevenly steady to lower than last week's close. Fat cattle and other killing classes were relatively scarce and those sold at steady to weak prices. Load lots of shortfeds sold from $7.25 to $7.60. Most of the offerings were common to medium grade beef steers and sold from $6.25 to $7.00, with commonest kinds down to $6.00 or slightly less. Good fat young cows on the heifer order and heifers eligible to sell from $6.00 to $7.00 were extremely scarce today, very few sales being made at these prices, bulk of butcher cows and heifers selling from $4.00 to $5.75. Canners and cutters brought $2.50 to $3.50 for the most part, a few of the worst canners $2.25. Bologna bulls sold from $3.00 to $4.60, bulk $3.25 to $3.75. Best light veals held steady with bulk at $7.50, some on up to $8.00. Seconds and culls were steady to 50c lower at $4.00 to $5.00. With a liberal carry-over from last week, and a large percentage of today's receipts consisting of stockers and feeders the supply of these exceeded the demand and the market was dull, good and choice grades selling at steady to weak prices, common and medium grades weak to 25c lower. Commonest kinds sold as low as $4.50 bulk $5.00 to $6.25, most desirable offerings on the fat cattle order quotable up to $7.00 or $7.25.

Sheep and lambs opened steady. Best native lambs sold at $14.50, fairly good ewes $7.00 to $7.50. Choice Montana feeders reached $13.65.

ROAD COSTS DOWN STATE BIDS SHOW

Low Figures Break All Records. Commissioner Lets Contract and Seeks More Bids.

Minnesota is getting bigger value for its road funds now than ever before.

State highway officials so agreed this week after contracts were let at $756,000 on 13 projects estimate by engineers to cost $1,020,000. Charles M. Babcock state highway commissioner, after making the awards, expressed regret that trunk highway funds will not permit the state to take special advantage of existing low prices by greatly enlarging the 1922 program.

John M. Mullen, deputy commissioner and chief highway engineer, said that funds for actual trunk work this year will be reduced from the 1921 total by reimbursement bond interest charges and other deductions. Curtailments will be avoidable to some extent because of the lower prices, he said, and the department will bend every effort to extend betterments as far as possible.

Contracts just awarded cover nearly 75 miles of grading, three miles of paving and nine bridges. The small paving job was let at $1.94½ cents a yard, the lowest price ever quoted and compared with a recent county bid of $2.18 on a cheaper type. Grading was bid as low as 17 cents a cubic yard and other prices were in proportion, engineers said.

Two of the contracts let were for roads in the northwestern part of the state. One of these is between Warroad and Roosevelt, 11 miles grading and four bridges, cost $110,000, and the other between Ogema and Calloway, 12.1 miles of grading at 465,553.

First Women in Pennington County to Serve as Members of Grand Jury

Through the courtesy of the Minneapolis Journal, The Times this week reproduces a group photo showing the women members of the first grand jury on which their sex has been represented in Pennington county. Accompanying the picture the Journal contained the following writeup their work and the hardships many had to face in order to perform this duty of the good citizen:

"Pennington county may well feel proud of its women because seven of them served on the grand jury at the last term of the district court presided over by Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren. Nine women had been drawn but two were excused, the others braving the worst storm in a generation to serve. Mrs. William Vaughan of Highlanding drove 23 miles against the wind, leaving her baby to the care of the other members of the family, feeling she should share in the duties imposed by the enfranchisement of woman. She was formerly a school teacher in this section, as were several of the other women on the grand jury.

"Nine indictments were returned by the grand jury, papers being served on seven of those named while two are still at liberty. Two pleaded guilty to a charge of gambling, both men being fined while one also received a jail sentence; one pleaded guilty to selling liquor and was fined and sent to jail; two others had their cases continued to the June term of court (one being due to a disagreement of the jury) on the charge of selling liquor; two were acquitted.

American Legion Corner

Mayor Hodgson of St. Paul, Mayor Leach of Minneapolis, and the mayors of Duluth, Virginia, Winona, St. Cloud, and of every town and hamlet of Minnesota have signified their intention of proclaiming March 20th as American Legion Employment Day in their respective communities. Hanford MacNider, Legion National Commander, is asking President Harding to proclaim March 20th National Employment Day.

PROCLAMATION.

The unemployment situation should be a matter of deep concern to all public spirited citizens. Though some of the estimates of the number of persons out of work may be exaggerated, it is admitted that the number is greater than it has been in many years.

Thousands among the unemployed are men who served their country in the recent World War. Many of them have families and are in dire distress. The American Legion has tackled the job of finding work for them, and proposes that one day be set aside when the whole nation will give special thought to this problem.

Our country has unlimited resources, and the State of Minnesota can produce more than enough to supply all the people within its borders. The problem is to so organize our industrial life that every person may join in the work of developing these resources and have his just share in the production and distribution of the necessities and comforts of life.

Now, therefore, I, J. A. O. Preus, do hereby designate and set aside Monday, March 20th, as American Legion Employment Day and urge all our citizens to co-operate with the American Legion in its program for finding work for those who want it. If employers, public officials and public spirited citizens will give this problem concentrated attention for one day, more will be accomplished than if it is given casual attention from time to time.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed hereto this tenth day of March, 1922.

J. A. O. PREUS,
Governor of Minnesota.
Attest: MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State.

The Ballot.

(By Stafford King, Minnesota Legion Adjutant.)

DO YOU KNOW
That the American Legion stands
For Law and Order?
HOW?
By election of competent leaders.
Men and women who are efficient,
Who are patriotic,
Who have clean records of service,
Who believe in American institutions,
Whose ideals are unquestioned,
Whose characters are unimpeachable.
The Ballot Safeguards American Liberty.
It is the arm of peace,
The laurel wreath of commendation,
The cable-tow of condemnation.
IT IS YOURS.
Do not abuse it.
Do not misuse it.
THINK.
Who wants your vote?
What has he done?
What can he do?
Look back—look forward.
THINK—and in thinking
VOTE.

"CASHES IN" ON BUSINESS COURSE

His former teachers at Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D., were gratified to hear of the election of J. J. Goehring as cashier of the Minnesota State Bank of Amboy. About 230 students of this unusual school are now bank officers, 40 of them being women.

Dakota Business College attracts a better class of students, gives better training, is called upon for help by the better class of firms. No wonder these graduates progress.

STILL PAYS PENSIONS TO STATE'S HELPERS DURING INDIAN WARS

Minnesota is Now Paying Out Over $700,000 Every Year to 212 Residents Who Participated in Uprising of 1862.

Minnesota has never questioned its debt to the men and women who answered its call in time of trouble. Even now the Gopher State is paying a debt of gratitude to those who aided it in the Indian wars of 1862 and at the same time is completing the payment of nearly $30,000,000 to those who answered the call in connection with the late World War.

It may not be generally known, but Minnesota at the present time is paying a monthly pension to 212 residents of the state who participated in the Indian wars of 1862. The law granting this pension was passed in 1905. It provides for a pension of $12.00 a month and only those suffering disabilities as a result of participation are eligible. Because of death due to the infirmities of old age the number of participants has been greatly reduced, still each year registers eligibles. This year two survivors with back pay of $1,448.00 and $1,301.00 respectively, were added to the list. The high mark was in 1912 when nearly 450 survivors or their widows were aided.

Since the law went into effect the following annual Indian War pension payments have been made:

1905	$ 5,681.50
1906	40,706.80
1907	51,783.60
1908	56,433.60

WHEN EVERY MOVE HURTS

Lame every morning, achy and stiff all day, worse when it's damp or chilly? Suspect your kidneys and try the remedy your neighbors use. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. C. E. Cruzan, 610 Knight Ave., W., Thief River Falls, says. "My kidneys weren't acting properly and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I was also in misery with my back. At times it was so sore and stiff that when I stooped it was about all I could do to straighten again. I easily tired and it seemed my housework was a burden. I became somewhat discouraged because of this condition and not until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills did I begin to feel like myself again. Three boxes of Doan's restored me to good health and strengthened my kidneys."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cruzan had. Foster-Milburn Co. Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

THIEF RIVER STUDENT FIRST PRIZE WINNER IN JOURNAL CONTEST

Leigh Anderson's Essay on "Our Mutual Friend" Selected as Best Among More Than 200 Submitted From All Over State.

Leigh Anderson of Thief River Falls, 13-years-old son of County Auditor and Mrs. T. P. Anderson, and a student at the junior high school in this city, was awarded first prize in the Minneapolis Journal's contest for the best essay written on "Our Mutual Friend," Dickens' novel. He chose "John Harmon" as the most interesting character in the novel, giving the following reasons for his choice:

"John Harmon is, in my mind, the most interesting character in the book for various reasons. His personality is extremely pleasing to the reader and his determination to win Miss Wilfer by love, instead of buying her affection with the immense fortune left him, is surely an admirable quality. Allowing his friends to believe that he is drowned, and the fact that he was willing to endure numerous unpleasantries to accomplish this, make us see how truly worth-while his character really is. Not many young men of his standing would have accepted the humble secretarial position that Mr. Harmon did in order to become better acquainted with the young lady of his father's choice. The tongue lashings and severe reprimands served upon him, most especially those showered upon him while in the presence of Miss Bella, only strengthen his character and made her not only feel a deep sympathy but also a keen admiration for her benefactor's humble servant, which later developed into the real affection that was so desired by all of the good people in the plot.

"The fact remains that John Harmon did let himself drift into almost dire poverty to win the heart of the one that he loved, and there are not many that would have the stability and will-power to work out a problem like that now, and for this reason he is my favorite character."

Mayor Power of Hibbing Among Notables Defeated

Among the surprises of Tuesday's election was the defeat of Victor L. Power as mayor of Hibbing. His opponent, John H. Gannon, a young attorney, beat him by a decisive majority. Every member of the present village administration who was up for re-election, with the one exception of Thomas P. Brady, municipal judge, was snowed under. Power has been president of the largest and richest village in the country continually since 1913.

Young Man in Trouble.

James Iverson of Erie, was on Thursday brought before Judge N. W. Tarrant in municipal court on a complaint charging illegitimacy sworn out by a young woman residing in the same township. Defendant failed to put in an appearance but was represented by council. Judge Tarrant bound him over to the grand jury under $500 bail, which was furnished.

Canada a Disappointment; Returns Here to Remain

Eric Rudd, who left this neighborhood about a year ago after having sold his farm in Sanders township, returned Saturday night from Eagle Hill, Sask., near which place he moved with the intention of locating. He says that region cannot compare with the country around Thief River Falls and is convinced that anyone who leaves this region for the purpose of making a home in that part of Canada is making a mistake. Mr. Rudd states that Pennington county looks better to him that ever now that he has had an opportunity of inspecting what other communities have to offer and he has decided to make his future home here.

Make More Money;—Sell the Hupmobile in This Town

Within a brief period, the Hupmobile will be represented in this community by a live-wire dealer.

You may be the man.

Whether you are in the motor car business, or in some other business, you will be interested in our liberal, money-making dealer proposition.

Just as long as you are a sound business man and a hustler, you can't help make exceptional profits by supplying the large potential demand for Hupmobiles in this territory.

Our definite, specific plan assures you of many prospects and sales.

More Hupmobiles in 1922

Heretofore, the metropolitan centers have entirely absorbed all the Hupmobiles the factory could make.

But the widespread reputation of the Hupmobile as a really fine car at a low price—$1,250 f. o. b. factory—created an insistent demand in every city, town and countryside.

Greatly increased production now enables us, for the first time, to supply this demand.

You are invited to help us do this.

You will have the advantage of dealing with one of the largest motor car distributors in Michigan, with a very liberal policy. Our discount rate is much more liberal than that ordinarily offered.

This is a real opportunity. Grasp it. Write now, at once, without obligation for all details;—which will be gladly given, and freely.

Reasonable bank credit and moderate initial investment required.
